Tizna Wears Down Oak Tree Rivals

ARCADIA, Calif. (AP) — Tizna wore down the field Saturday to win the 6½ furlong $28,950 Autumn Days Handicap at Santa Anita by 1¼ lengths.

The race was the feature on the opening day of the Oak Tree meeting at the race track.

Tizna carried jockey Don Pierce at high weight of 125 pounds in the race for fillies and mares. Tizna broke seventh and was in fourth position, three lengths back, at the beginning of the stretch, but pulled through on the way to the wire. She paid $5.80, $3.60 and $2.40.

Mama Kali battled through several horses down the stretch to finish second. She paid $3.60 and $2.60.

The show horse was Modus Vivendi, who finished a head behind Mama Kali, and paid $2.60.

There were no scratches in the field of nine horses

Bruin Poloists Nip UCI Again

WESTWOOD—Playing their second straight match just as closely as the national rankings, UCLA edged UC Irvine 8-7 in a water polo match Saturday at the Bruins' pool.

The two teams are ranked 1-2 nationally and the last time it was the Bruins winning 19-9 in overtime.

Gary Figueroa scored four goals for UCI while Rick Sherburne got the eventual winning goal for UCLA in the final period.

UC Irvine's record is 4-2 while the Bruins remain undefeated.

Troy FG Nips Lancers, 9-6

Luke Johnson's 30-yard field goal with three seconds left in the game carried Troy High School to a 9-6 win over Sunny Hills in a Freeway League opener Saturday night at Buena Park High School.

Troy set the mood for the cliff-hanger finale with a touchdown on a five-yard pass from quarterback Doug Robertson to end Ron Moore with 21 seconds left in the first half.

The 6-4, 210-pound Moore outleaped Lancer defenders to the TD catch which tied the score 6-6. Johnson's PAT attempt was wide.

The Warriors jumped out to a 6-0 lead on a brace of field goals by Mike McCulloch which defied the laws of probability.

Both of McCullochs' boots, the first a 31-yarder in the opening quarter, and the second from 18 yards out in the second stanza, hit the cross bar and bounded over.

Sunny Hills lost the services of its first-string quarterback Tim Beret who fell down and injured on ankle rolling out during the Lancers' first series of plays in the opening stanza.

Sunny Hills	3	3	0	0	—6
Troy	0	6	0	3	—9

SH—McCulloch 31 field goal.
SH—McCulloch 18 field goal.
T—Moore 5 pass from Robertson. (Kick failed)
T—Johnson 30 field goal.

Jabbar Stars, Blazers Routed

SEATTLE (AP) — The Los Angeles Lakers, led by Kareem Abdul-Jabbar, overran the Portland Trail Blazers, 112-91 in a National Basketball Association exhibition contest. night.

A combination of the hot-shooting Jabbar and the cold-shooting, hesitant Portland team was the decisive element in the game. Jabbar tossed in 13 of his 32 points in the first quarter. Portland, in the same 12 minutes, managed a total of 19.

The accuracy of Jabbar's hook shots forced Portland to sag and protect the middle, making outside shooting easier for the rest of his teammates.

Lucius Allen had 18 from the Laker back court and collected nine assists in directing Los Angeles' attack.

LaRue Martin was Portland leading scorer with 21 points.

Los Angeles collected 25 rebounds to Portland's 19.

Miller Takes Kaiser Lead

NAPA, Calif. (AP) — Johnny Miller, slump-ridden and bitterly frustrated since his record-setting exploits of the early season, birdied his last two holes for a 68 that lifted him into a one-stroke lead Saturday in the third round of the $175,000 Kaiser International Open Golf Tournament.

Miller, the defending champion playing on his home course, put together a three-round total of 203, 13 under par on the 6,828-yard north course at the Silverado Country Club course.

"Just one of those real purty days," said little Rod Curl after a brilliant, eight-under par 64 had left him just one stroke off the pace and tied with Gene Littler at 204.

"This bad wrist (hes' had tendinitis in his left wrist) has just been killing me both physically and mentally all year. But maybe this is the turning point. If that skinny blond guy doesn't move out, I'll go and get him."

Littler, gunning for a fourth title of the year, had a 69 in the brilliant fall weather, mild, sunny and with just a hint of a breeze.

Surprising Marty Fleckman, who hasn't made expenses since scoring his lone victory eight long years ago, had a one-under-par 71 on the north course and was three strokes back at 210.

Lee Trevino, Tom Jenkins and Gibby Gilbert were at 207. Trevino matched par 72, Jenkins had 69 and Gilbert 68.

Jack Nicklaus shot a 69 that left him a distant five strokes back at 208.

"Actually, I'm playing good enough to do something," Nicklaus said, "but I've just got to make some putts."

Don January, the 45-year old veteran who led at the halfway mark, blew to a 75 and was well back at 209.

Miller set a flock of records with victories in three of his first four starts this season but has been blanked since then. Perhaps more importantly, he hasn't beaten Nicklaus all season.

But he's now bubbling with confidence.

"Usually, when I get in front, it's bye-bye baby," he said, "but it's just one shot this time and there's some pretty strong characters right behind me.

"But it is a one-shot lead and I don't think any of these guys like to spot me one shot.

"My putting is good. Almost every putt on the back nine either lipped out or went in. And I birdied the last two. That shows that my game seems to be pretty good under pressure.

Curl and Littler, both playing in front of Miller, were in the clubhouse with their 12 under par totals when Johnny made his move before the big, highly partisan gallery of his friends and neighbors.

"Nerve-wise, I'm in pretty good shape. I feel good."

Across The Board

WHO'S GOING WHERE—The battle for top handicap runners suddenly has become an international incident.

Oak Tree's announcement of a $300,000 classic to be staged Nov. 1 has caused much vocal concern to be expressed by officials at Laurel, where the famed Washington D.C. International will be run a week later (Nov. 8) and at Woodbine in Toronto, where the Canadian International Championship is slated a week earlier (Oct. 26).

Representatives from both Laurel and Woodbine have cried "foul," claiming Oak Tree Director of Racing Jimmy Kilroe landed a low blow. But as one wit retorted, "If money isn't as important as prestige, what are they worrying about?"

Well, for one thing, they are worrying about Wajima and Foolish Pleasure, the crack three-year-olds who at this time evidently will make neither the Washington D.C. International nor the Woodbine race.

Wajima, the $600,000 baby whose recent duels with Forego have thrilled national television audiences, is either coming to Oak Tree, running in the two-mile Jockey Club Gold Cup in New York or both, depending on how trainer Steve DiMauro feels when discussing the situation.

Meanwhile, Kentucky Derby champ Foolish Pleasure is coming West. At least that's the latest word from his camp. However, Oak Tree officials aren't getting too excited—yet. Leroy Jolley, who trains Foolish Pleasure, has changed his mind about where to race his colt on more than one occasion already this year.

And what of Forego? Well, since his connections always have been reluctant to run him anywhere other than in New York, it seems safe to Jockey Club Gold Cup. At least Jimmy Kilroe won't have to take the blame for that.

TIGHT AT THE TOP—In direct contrast to a year ago, when Fullerton's Jerry Longo jumped out of the blocks and quickly turned the Western Harness driver race into a rout, there really is a "race" among the reinsmen this season at Hollywood Park... Last fall, after 20 nights of competition, Longo had won 37 races, which was nearly twice as many as his closest pursuer.

At the same point this meeting, Longo has managed just 11 winners and that puts him in a tie for fifth place in the driver standings. Topping a very crowded roster is youthful Stan Bayless, Joe O'Brien's 29-year-old step-son who has been filling in very ably for his famous relative.

Bayless recently notched his second triple of the meet-

Oates' 3 TDs Lead Cerritos Over Cypress

NORWALK — Ken Oates scored three short touchdowns in the second half to pace Cerritos College to a 23-7 win over Cypress in a nonconference community college football game at Cerritos Saturday night.

Cerritos, down 7-3, took advantage of three straight Cypress turnovers to take a 23-7 edge at halftime.

Gary Hlavac recovered a Charger fumble on the Cypress 17 and it took the Falcons eight plays to score with Oates plowing through from the one. The convertion try was blocked.

After Frank Spehar intercepted a pass on the Cypress 41 the Falcons drove in on eight plays with Oates tallying from the two.

UC-Riverside Trips Broncs

SANTA CLARA, Calif. (AP) — Quarterback Dan Hayes threw two touchdown passes to Butch Johnson as University of California-Riverside defeated Santa Clara 25-24 in a nonconference football game Saturday.

Hayes, who completed 9 of 23 passes for 212 yards with two interceptions, threw 10 yards to Johnson in the second quarter and nine yards to Johnson in the third quarter. In the second quarterter, Jeff Jones scored on a one-yard run.

Santa Clara came back with two fourth quarter touchdowns on a 3-yard run by quarterback Kaipo Spencer and a 36-yard pass to James Biscoe from Spencer.

That brought the Broncos to within one point with less than fourth minutes to play. But Riverside stayed on the ground and used up the clock.

Wajima Syndicate Pays $7.2 Million

LEXINGTON, Ky. (AP) — The syndication of three-year old Wajima for a world record 7.2 million dollars was announced Saturday.

The colt, which sat out this year's Triple Crown action because of a minor injury, since has been mentioned as a possible Horse of the Year, although he lost to Forego last week when the two raced weight for-age and Wajima had to tote closer to Forego's handicap.

SHOE COLLECTS 10 GEES —While he'll be the first to admit he doesn't need the money, Bill Shoemaker nevertheless enjoyed one of the high points of his brilliant career earlier this week when he collected a check for $10,000 as the national champion for horse racing in the Seagrams Seven Crowns of Sports competition.

Seagrams put a computer to work and it evaluated performances by athletes in football, basketball, baseball, hockey, tennis, golf and horse racing and each winner received his 10-gee check at a gala dinner held at the Waldorf-Astoria in New York.

What was particularly gratifying to Shoemaker, was that he edged out Laffit Pincay and Sandy Hawley to win in this his 25th year of race riding. It was barely a year ago that the experts were saying the Shoe was over the hill, but all he's done this year is win the Belmont Stakes, turn back the nation's best riders in Hollypark's All-Star Jockey Race and he also has a sizeable lead in the national money-won derby.

NO LETDOWN AMONG HORSEPLAYERS — Southern California horseplayers, who began the year by establishing attendance and wagering records at Santa Anita, refuse to suffer any kind of letdown.

They visited Hollywood Park in record numbers and pushed enough money through the machines there to set all-time California marks. And the story was the same at Del Mar.

Now figures in from the Pomona meet, which closed last weekend, show the local patron has lost none of his zest for action. Attendance at the bull ring was up 5.6 per cent and the mutual play was 8.0 per cent better than in '74.

Western Harness, staging its annual fall session at Hollywood Park, is staying right in step, also. Through 18 nights of sulky competition, the attendance average of 13,634 and the wagering average of $1,331,303 are up 11.0 and 14.6 per cent, respectively, over a year ago.

Western Harness this week set a record for most consecutive million-dollar wagering programs. The old record was 19 and the Hollypark sulky meet breezed to 20-in-a-row with ease.

TELLY TO BE DINAH'S GUEST—Dinah Shore's rating should jump a few points later this month when her guest is Telly Savalas, star of the television show Kojak and co-owner of one of the country's top two-year-olds.

Salavas and motion picture producer Howard Koch race Telly's Pop, the Del Mar Futurity winner who is trained by Mel Stute. "Everyone knows about Kojak, what I want to talk about when I come on your show is my horse," Savalas told Dinah.

STUPID MOVE—It turns out that jockeys Eric Walsh, Ben Feliciano, Luigi Gino and Jesse Davidson, a former national champion, might not have been suspected in a Bowie Race Course "fix" last Valentine's Day had they been a bit brighter.

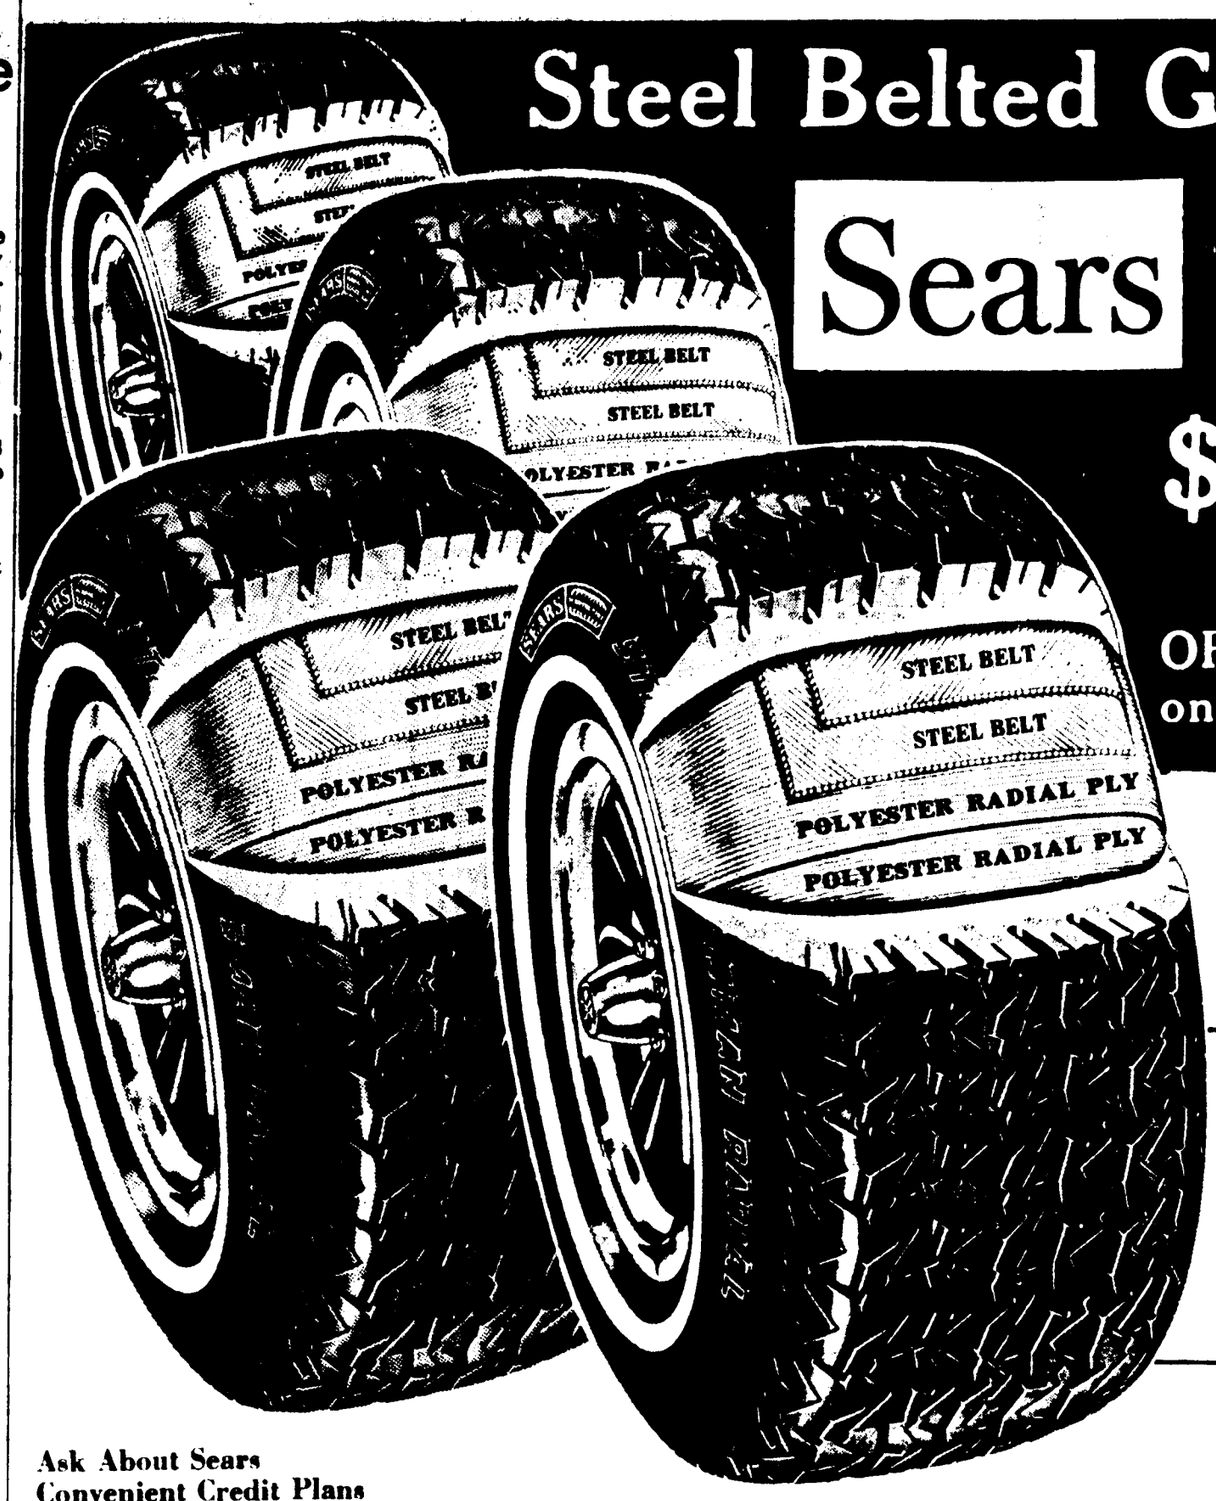

Two mistakes led to the investigation and ultimate trial, in which the four reinsmen were convicted. First, Ernest Davidson, Jesse's brother, bought all 38 tickets purchased by the foursome at the same window, causing an unusual wagering pattern that caught the eye of an American Tote supervisor, who informed track security. And in buying only 38 tickets, Davidson bought too few.

Had the four riders purchased 41 of the 38 Triple ducats, the payoff would have been $886.10—under the $900 limit that involves the IRS and no federal action would have been possible. The winning triple returned $837.80 but even that money didn't help the convicted foursome. Unable to cash the tickets without causing a stir when the investigation began, they burned the winning ducats, hoping to sidetrack federal officials.

Scheduled DMV License Rebate For Drivers Cut

SACRAMENTO (AP) — California drivers will lose a scheduled $50 million registration refund so the state can save $125 million in federal highway funds, the Brown administration said Thursday.

Donald Burns, Gov. Edmund Brown Jr.'s secretary of Business and Transportation, announced the plan to bail out the state's dwindling highway fund and avert some Department of Transportation layoffs.

The highway fund, drained by inflation and declining gasoline tax revenues, was in danger of falling below the level needed to capture the matching federal money.

Burns' plan cancels a 10 per cent rebate the Department of Motor Vehicles had scheduled next year to compensate motorists for confusion in the switch to year-round registration.

To start the year-round schedule, drivers will be registering next year for varying terms ranging from seven to 18 months.

The DMV had planned $50 million in refunds averaging $3.60 per car, using interest from the money paid by drivers with long registration terms.

Instead, $26 million will be shifted to the state highway fund to capture the federal money, and the other $24 million will go to local governments, state officials said.

State Department of Transportation spokesman Gene Berthelsen said the money will save some of the 3,300 jobs the department planned to eliminate by next July. He said it wasn't known how many layoffs would be averted.

Two alternate plans to capture the federal funds, by increasing state gasoline taxes or by shifting money from other state funds to the highway fund, died in legislative committees.

Tustin To Get Revenue Share Check Monday

TUSTIN — A check for $66,000 in revenue sharing funds for park land will be presented to the Tustin City Council at Monday night's meeting by Supervisor Ralph Clark.

The check will partially reimburse the city for the land, adjacent to Columbus Tustin Intermediate School, that has been purchased from the county and private individuals.

Also scheduled for Monday night are public hearings on the number and design of medians to be installed on Newport Avenue and on the environmental impact report released on the Peppertree subdivision.

Discussion on a proposed committee to identify sites for historic preservation also is planned.

The meeting begins at 7:30 p.m. at the city center, Centennial Way at Main Street.

County Bar Sets Weekly TV Sessions

The county bar association and the county legal aid society will present a series of five weekly programs beginning Channel 50, dealing with legal problems in the areas of family law, real estate law, consumer law and criminal law.

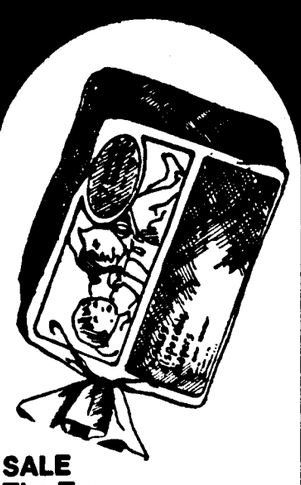

The programs beginning at 7:30 p.m., will be aired each Tuesday through Nov. 4, and will feature a panel of legal experts answering telephone questions posed by viewers.

The first program will deal with divorce, child and spouse support, and separation.

Panelists for the first program will be attorneys Richard Vogl, E. Robert Lemkin and Dorothy Sykes.

Subsequent programs will deal with landlord tenant law, the rights of the criminally a e e u s e d, consumer buying and selling and discrimination.

THE TROUBLE SHOOTER

SAD NEWS

Isabel Bensley, well known to readers of this column as the highly skilled antique appraiser who donated her services twice a year to folks attending the Ol' Trouble shooter's Antique Swap Sessions, died Wednesday at her Santa Ana home. She had been ill for several years, but uncomplainingly dedicated her time and her talents to make others happy.

Isabel and her bereaved husband George, equally skilled in the appraisal of antiques, have been one of the outstanding attractions at Trouble Shooter swap sessons since the days when the trading of antiques and collectibles took place on a small portion of The Register's parking lot. They volunteered their services, often spending as long as seven hours without a break in the hot sun, pouring over someone's family treasures while hundreds of other swap meet patrons stood waiting in line.

The Trouble Shooter's Antique Swap Sessions won't be quite the same without Isabel Bensley. She was a true lady, an expert in the field of antiques and a delight to know. She will be missed!

ARE YOU BASQUE?

Dear Trouble Shooter

The Orange County Historical Society has mailed more than 200 invitations to the Basque families of Orange County, notifying them of the special banquet to be held in honor of the Basque community.

In the event some may have been inadvertently exclused, will you please tell any Basques, or persons interested in the Basque culture, that they are cordially invited to attend the banquet to be held Oct. 9 at the Santa Ana Elks Club.

Tickets and further details are available from Mrs. Charles Pearson at 535-3388.

W.D.G.
Santa Ana

Always happy to help round up folks with similar interests and backgrounds for special get-togethers and hope all those of Basque origin have a good time at their banquet.

ENTERTAINMENT

Dear Trouble Shooter

The Fountaineer Rhythms Band, comprised mostly of women living in Fountain Valley, will be happy to entertain for any service club, civic organization or retirement home located in Fountain Valley, Huntington Beach, Costa Mesa or Garden Grove.

Included in our repertoire are "up" tunes, ballads and patriotic numbers, also a few "surprises." All we ask for our services is enough to cover transperation costs.

G.K.
Fountain Valley

Interested folks can call 968-3437 or 962-3068. Your offer is going to be of special interest to folks who provide entertainment in convalescent homes. Thank you for making it.

FORD'S RECORD

Dear Trouble Shooter

Has President Ford ever been in the military? If so, which branch? Where? When?

G.P.
Orange

During World War II, President Ford left his law practice and joined the Navy. He served four years as an aviation operations officer, two of them aboard the carrier Monterey in the South Pacific.

In 1946, after the war, he emerged as a lieutenant commander with nine battle starts, and resumed his law practice in Grand Rapids, Mich.

ROSE PARADE

Dear Trouble Shooter

The Santa Ana Soroptimist Club again this year will be selling [illegible] grandstand reserve[illegible] for the Rose Par[illegible] New Year's Day, 19[illegible].

Hot rolls and coffee [illegible] be served at 5 a.m. at [illegible] Soroptimist Club House, 316 S. Broadway, Santa Ana. Buses will leave the clubhouse promptly at 5:30 a.m.

The reserved seats this year have excellent viewing and are also fine for picture taking. They are at the start of the parade, enabling football fans to be home in time to watch the Rose Bowl game on television.

The whole "package" is $20 per person. This is a community service project to help our scholarship fund.

Reservations can be made by calling 543-2260 or 544-3509.

R.D.
Santa Ana

Thanks for giving folks some advance warning, ladies, so they can make their plans now. Hope you sell lots of seats and make enough money to carry on your worthwhile scholarship project another year.

HAIR DRYER

Dear Trouble Shooter

I have a very old floor model hair dryer one of your readers might like to have for a worthy cause. It is in good working condition.

J.S.
Westminster

If interested folks will drop the Ol' Trouble Shooter a note outlining their need for the hair dryer (the words "hair dryer" on the outer envelope, please!), he'll forward the letters to you and let you decide where you want it to go. Letters should include a phone number for you to call.

MUTTON COOKERY

Dear Trouble Shooter

I am going to Saudi Arabia the latter part of November and I have been looking for recipes for mutton. I can't find any, even in the library.

I have been told we will use a lot of mutton the two years we are there, so I need some help.

N.L.S.
El Toro

For some reason or other, folks in this country don't seem to take kindly to mutton. The Trouble Shooter's never been able to understand why. The meat has a distinctive, and from his standpoint, delicious flavor.

You'll find several pages of mutton cookery in Sandra Oddo's "Home Made," a book published by Atheneum Press. (Any bookstore will order a copy for you.) The recipes include one for "saddle of mutton," "boiled mutton," "mutton haricot," "mutton chops," "baked mutton cutlets," and directions "to ragoo" a leg of mutton.

Here's Ms. Oddo's recipe for "Irish Stew," the real Irish stew that's made with mutton:

"Cut up about two pounds of neck of mutton into small cutlets. Put in a proper-sized stewpan with some of the fat of the mutton; season with half a tablespoon of salt, a quarter of an ounce of pepper, with the same of sugar, six middle-sized onions, one quart of water; set them to boil, and simmer half an hour; then add six middling-sized potatoes, cut them in halves or in quarters, stir all together and let it stew gently for about one hour longer."

SPECIAL SPONGE

Dear Trouble Shooter

Where can I buy a "loofah?" It's a sponge of some sort that is supposed to do away with body cellulite. What is a "loofah" made from, anyway?

Are Oil Companies Unfair To Dealers?

Station Operators Say So, But Major Firms Deny It

By DAVE ROSE
Register Staff Writer

Service station dealers in Orange County and throughout Southern California are gearing up for a fight against the major oil companies they say are trying to run them out of business.

It's a fight not restricted to Southern California. Across the nation, dealers are making the same charges and preparing for similar battles.

The reason for the alleged takeovers is simple, dealers say. The major oil companies want to run the stations themselves with salaried personnel and reap the profits now going to their dealers.

The majors now have good reason to want to take all profits directly from the pump, dealers say. For the first time in the history of the service station business, gasoline is no longer a marginal profit maker or lead loss item. There's big money to be made and the companies want it.

Dealers report they are being "harassed and threatened" by the major oil firms to get out of the business.

Some schemes by the companies, they say, include forcing a dealer to lower his prices, raising his rent as much as 1,000 per cent a month, being forced to accept tire, battery and accessory (called TBA) inventories at impossible levels, and withdrawing credit card services.

But the most insidious of all, dealers claim, is the growing trend toward company-operated "cut-rate" stations placed purposely in an area where the same company has dealer-operated outlets that can't compete with the firm's cut-rate station.

These stations do nothing but pump gas—no TBA, lube jobs, brake or minor engine repairs. That, dealers claim, they could compete with. But they say the company operated cut-rate outlets sell gas to the public at up to 2 cents per gallon less than what the dealer for the same company must pay for his.

The companies vehemently deny the charges, stating that most of the alleged unfair practices cited by dealers are illegal both under state law lease agreements and the federal Emergency Petroleum Allocation Act.

A spokesman for Gulf, queried by The Register, told the reporter to check several station dealers for confirmation that there is no pressure by his firm to give up their leases.

Yet one dealer in west Orange County said: "They've got the squeeze on. I'm hanging on by a string."

He said the company has "taken me off the meter," which means he gets only a "stick measurement." It's not accurate, he says, and can mean he can get many gallons less off the truck than he pays for.

By metering the gasoline volume as it flows from the truck, the dealer knows to the tenth of a gallon, just how much he's getting and must pay for.

Without metering he gets what the company tells him he gets, he said.

But he's feeling the biggest pinch from one of Gulf's company-operated stations just a few blocks away. It operates under one of Gulf's two cut-rate name stations—"Economy"—and it is selling gasoline to the public for seven-tenths of a cent less than what he must pay for the gas himself, he said.

As a result, for the first time in five years, he wasn't able to sell all his monthly allotment in September.

Instead of selling all his allotted 35,000 to 40,000 gallons in September, he sold only 26,000 gallons and as a result is getting pressure from the company that he's not selling his allotment.

When he complained about the cut-rate station, he said a Gulf representative told him "it's a different kind of gas."

"Then I told him to charge me the same price the guy said, 'We can't do that.' "

He added, "I've talked to a lot of other Gulf dealers and they all said their gallonage is down." He [illegible] profits.

"It's the old [illegible] game. If you don't have the money, you don't get the gas," the dealer said.

"Right now, I've got enough money for a load of gas, but not for the sales tax too. You can stall a creditor for a month or so, but you can't stall on your sales tax."

So, he said he doesn't know if he'll be in business next month.

Gulf, according to Steven Shelton, executive director of the Southern California Service Station Association, is a prime mover in the trend toward taking over dealer-operated stations.

He claims Gulf has taken over nearly 50 per cent of its stations in Southern California in the last two years and converted them to either "Economy" or "Go-Lo" stations.

Gulf officials deny this, saying that of their 600 stations in the Southern California area, only 125-130 have been taken over by the firm. Shelton challenges that figure, stating that a survey by Gulf dealers indicates the current figure is closer to 240.

Gulf has made public the fact that by 1980, it will operate 15 per cent of its stations across the nation, but no more. They say that percentage has been reached in Southern California and that the company has no desire to take over more unless they are forced to through dealer failure.

It's that failure rate that has Shelton disturbed. Nationwide, the number of stations that have failed numbers 34,000 since the 1973 oil embargo. The percentage in Southern California is even greater, Shelton said, partly due to overbuilding in years past, but also because of dealer pressure from oil companies.

One reason, he said, is that oil companies no longer give price assistance to a dealer when they drop the pump price. He has to absorb it all. That and the growing number of company-operated cut-rate stations is causing failures right and left, he claimed.

"They (the companies) don't care. They let the dealer drop out and then take over his station."

That's not true of just Gulf, he said. The same can be said of Arco, Shell, Union and Exxon to name a few. Company officials deny those charges.

An Arco spokesman, disputing Shelton, says his firm has no intention of taking over its dealer operations. Of Arco's 15,000 stations nationwide, only 187 are company operated, and these mainly for reasons of experimental marketing—to try new ideas and types of operations to see if they will go over with the public, he said.

The Register
The REGISTER Sunday, October 5, 1975 E1

"We don't intend to expand this operation. We are, have been and will continue to be a dealer-operated company."

The only time a dealer loses his lease, he said, is when he fails to operate it at a profit, or breaks lease arrangements. And the latter is rare too, he added.

If a station proves to be uneconomical, he said, the company will go along with the dealer until his lease expires. Then it will, in most cases, shut it down.

A Gulf official said his firm is getting more and more into the cut-rate business as a matter of economic survival. For that reason, he said, Gulf might open a "Go-Lo' or "Economy" station near a dealer operated Gulf outlet.

"It's a very predatory market," he said. "If we don't move in with a low priced station, someone else will." He denied Gulf has forced any dealer out of business.

What Gulf fears most, he said, is the phenomenal growth of the big independent outlets such as Coin-Op, Lerner and Thrifty.

Under the federal price control law, extended by President Ford until Nov. 15, major companies must sell gasoline on an allotment basis at the same price to all independents it sold to prior to May 15, 1973 at the beginning of the oil crisis, despite the fact prices have gone up.

Under that arrangement, he said, independents can buy their gas cheaply and pose a direct economic threat.

In Phoenix, he said, nearly 50 per cent of the stations are operated by cut-rate independents. It could be that big in Southern California in a few years too, he said.

"We're selling to those companies at no profit and possibly at a loss," he explained. "The independent gets his gas 2-3 cents a gallon cheaper than our dealers."

He claimed that the "fully integrated" dealer who knows how to make money on TBA items, his rack and repairs can, and is, making it today.

"It's the guy who is pumping gas only, who is getting hurt," he said.

Exxon officials too, say this is true and one added that it isn't the major oil companies today who set the price trend. It's the independents. "They're growing at a phenomenal rate," one official said.

As for Exxon trying to muscle in on the retail outlets, "It simply isn't true," he said.

Dealers, however, aren't buying those arguments. Last week, 60 Gulf dealers in Southern California voted to take Gulf to court on charges and anti-trust violations, according to Shelton.

He complained, with some bitterness, that dealers have no choice. They are getting the run around, he said, from the Justice Department and the Federal Energy Administration which, he said, are not clamping down on obvious violations by the big oil companies.

The state, he said, is doing "a fair job, in fact a pretty good one," on taking legal action against alleged oil company violations in the areas of dealer leases and anti-trust.

But it is the dealer himself, he said, who must take up the fight for what he said is a battle for the survival of the local service station as we know it today.

Alcoholism: A Special Problem For Spanish-Speaking

By LYNN O'DELL
Register Staff Writer

SANTA ANA — Ben Munoz is a working man. He doesn't have a lot of spare time to donate to "social work."

But nearly every night of the week, Munoz commutes from his home in Cypress to an old house in Santa Ana where he works with a group of 10-30 Spanish-speaking alcoholics.

Munoz is not a social worker. He doesn't hold any "fancy degrees," but he has one special qualification.

He too is an alcoholic.

Munoz is one of a group of 20 "inactive" alcoholics who formed Alano Hispano, a kind of Alcoholics Anonymous for Spanish-speaking persons, nearly three years ago.

"It is something that has to be done. It is something I have to do," said Munoz simply.

Munoz was 39 when he realized he was an alcoholic. He was 41 before he finally accepted the fact.

"I'd lock myself in a room with a bottle. And that's all I wanted to do," he recalled.

In 1969, there was only one meeting place for alcoholics in the county. The rehabilitation programs were conducted in English and aimed at anglo alcoholics.

"The Spanish-speaking people would go to the meeting and then stand around in the street afterwards talking about their problems.

Most Mexican - American alcoholics don't speak English. If they do, they think it is easier to express themselves in Spanish, Munoz said.

The Spanish speaking people found it hard to identify with others at the meeting, he said.

Most Mexican - American alcoholics are in a lower income bracket and don't have a lot of knowledge about alcoholism as a disease," said Munoz. He believes the alcoholism rate is higher among Mexican-Americans because, he says, their culture more readily accepts the use of alcohol.

"Drinking is related to machismo. If you're a man, you drink. This makes it even harder for the Mexican-American alcoholic.

"His first thought — once he admits to himself that he is an alcoholic — is 'What am I going to do when my friends come over and they all drink?' " Munoz said.

Munoz discovered that his real friends kept coming around but the heavy drinkers seemed to back away from him.

Such personal experiences, along with information on alcoholism as a disease are related to those who attend the nightly sessions at Alano Hispano, 1301 S. Bristol St.

"You try to get people to relate to the way you were and where drinking got you. You can stop anytime you want. Some never do and they die as skid row bums," he said.

Alano Hispano programs are conducted along the lines of Alcoholics Anonymous ses-

Westminster Readies Founder's Day Fest

WESTMINSTER — "Thursday's the day it all comes together," Founder's Day Festival coordinators say, referring to the community's kickoff for what some supporters are calling "a gigantic, four-day, fun-filled Mardi Gras type of observance sure to delight young and old."

Location of the activity, complete with rides and food and game booths, in the seven-acre community service center at Westminster Avenue and Hoover Street.

Opening ceremonies of the annual event are scheduled for 11:30 a.m. Thursday in front of the Little Ben Clock, [illegible] Westminster Ave., when 11-year-old screen and TV actor Billy Simpson sings the national anthem accompanied by the Westminster High School band.

Master of ceremonies, Bill Armstrong, will introduce officials of England and Canada who have made a special trip to town to help with the celebration.

Following introductions, a message from President Ford will be read by Mayor Philip Anthony, who will then make his official Founder's Day proclamation to open the celebration.

Consul General Ronald Gilchrist of Westminster, Canada and his counterpart, Louis Sherbourne of Westminster, England, will raise their respective flags as Mayor Anthony hoists aloft the flag of Westminster, U.S.A.

Next, the Golden Bear Musket Loaders will fire rounds from their muskets and cannon while a Canadian Windsor

Anaheim Man Seeks Admissions Tax Vote

ANAHEIM—A local high school teacher will attempt to convince the city council Tuesday to resurrect the admissions tax and place it on the April ballot.

However, Mayor Bill Thom said he is not receptive to the idea, because the tax "is a closed issue right now."

"I just want to find out what the people think about it," said Bill Daly, a teacher at Anaheim High School and real estate agent. "Let the citizens be exposed to both sides and let them decide. That's what a democracy is all about."

An unsuccessful council candidate in 1970 and 1972, Daly said he is neither a strong proponent nor opponent of the five per cent tax. He simply believes that all major issues should be voted on by the people, and the council's decision to drop the tax was "a violation of justice for the people."

Daly said the council—not the public—should put the issue on the ballot, because a petition initiative "takes a lot of time and money."

But Thom does not want to put the tax on the April ballot.

Thom agreed with Daly that major multi-million dollar projects should be placed on the ballot, but he said that until there is a preponderance either for or against the tax, "I don't believe it is timely or warranted to go on the ballot."

The council originally approved the amusement tax on a 3-2 vote but withdrew support on Sept. 16 because Thom and Councilwoman Miriam Kaywood feared the issue would "rip the community apart."

San Juan Capo Ponders Park Restroom Dilemma

SAN JUAN CAPISTRANO — Should a park paid for by city, county and state taxpayers have restrooms and picnic facilities to attract visitors, or be only a green belt buffer zone to shield nearby residents from the sight and sound of passing trains?

That's the dilemma faced by city councilmen here as they plan the $150,000 development of mile-long El Camino Real Park.

Their wrong answer might cost $50,000 each in matching funds from Orange County and California.

The narrow strip of land that stretches along Camino Capistrano from Calle Chueca to La Zanja Street was known as Long Park until the council recently renamed it. Most of its length is only 50 feet wide.

Councilmen this past week were due to approve plans for the park and call for bids, but instead they sent the project "back to the drawing board."

Doug Nash first called for removal of the restrooms from the park plans until a study is done of the need and location of such facilities in the entire city.

"I would support that if you also removed the picnic facilities," said Yvon Heckscher.

Mayor James Weathers said that eliminating restrooms and picnic tables could jeopardize funding.

"The theme of the park is a regional park, a rest stop a bike trail park," siad John O'Sullivan, director of administrative services for the city. "That is what attracted the revenue-sharing funds.

Property owners across the street would like the park to be merely a neighborhood green area with proper trees and shrubs planted to screen the railroad tracks behind it. They particularly object to any tables or restrooms or a proposed amphitheatre opposite the entrances to their subdivisions.

Homeowners for several years have known the area would eventually be a park, said Mrs. Vinton Frost, president of the Casas Capistrano Association. "But at no time," she said, "did anyone inform us that it would be anything but a greenbelt oriented park.

"Now it has developed into a tourist rest stop park. It is surrounded by five or six homeowner associations. You have a long silver-shaped parcel of property on one of the oldest streets that this town has on which you could develop a beautiful entrance to this community."

Heckscher agreed with Mrs. Frost. "We shouldn't turn this into an area where there will be trash and litter and vandalism," he said. "We should make it a place attractive to people to use, but not for a lot of people to congregate."

"I think we ought to put it back on the drawing board," said Councilman Roy Byrnes.

The city staff was directed to study the plans further.

Irvine To Meet With Opponents In Housing Suit

IRVINE — Attorneys for the city and its opponents in a lawsuit concerning low cost housing will meet weekly to try to reach a settlement, City Manager William Woollett said Saturday.

Woollett, reporting to city councilmen on the first of the meetings, which was held Friday, said he and representatives of the city attorney's office met with attorneys for Irvine resident Wesley Marx and the Orange County Fair Housing Council.

Marx and the housing council have filed suits claiming the city has failed to show how it will provide housing for low and moderate income workers who will be employed in the Irvine Industrial Complex East, a 2,000-acre tract planned for industrial development south of El Toro Marine Air Station.

The suits claim the industrial complex will attract workers who won't be able to afford housing in Irvine.

Catholic Schools Slate Planning Meet

Four Catholic high schools in northern Orange County will hold an inter-school planning symposium at 7:30 p.m. Monday at Loyola-Marymount University, Orange.

All seventh, eighth and ninth grade students and their parents are invited to attend, said meeting coordinator Mary Ann Blakely.

The proposed project permits students to take classes at other campuses providing there is classroom space.

Participating high schools are Cornelia Connelly and Servite, Anaheim; Marywood, Orange, and Rosary in Fullerton.

Riley Says Defense Department May Veto Joint Use Of El Toro

By GARY KRINO
Register Staff Writer

TRABUCO CANYON—County officials indicated Saturday that the Defense Department will veto proposed joint military-commercial aircraft use at El Toro Marine Corps Air Station and that a major international airport at Rancho California in Riverside County may be the answer to Orange County's air traffic problems.

During a day-long meeting of south county civic groups and homeowners associations, county Supervisor Thomas Riley said in a prepared statement, "My own personal observations indicate that the Department of Defense would be very unlikely to approve a joint use proposal."

Riley said that he is "totally opposed" to the plan and that he has received a communication from the chief of staff of the Marine Corps stating opposition to joint use and that the Marine Corps is preparing written justification for its rejection.

"This anticipated negative response should end the annual speculation about the joint use of El Toro once and for all," Riley said.

On the subject of Rancho California, Bob Jones, executive assistant to Riley, said the Riverside County site appears able to house a major international airport and is the "possible solution" to Orange County's problems.

The current Orange County Airport is overcrowded, is the constant target of noise complaints generated by aircraft, and is surrounded by industry and major highways which impede further geographic expansion.

"We don't have a lot of facts right now on possible developments at Rancho California," Jones said. "We need to conduct a feasibility study."

He said, however, any major airport accepted at Rancho California is envisioned to have two runaways capable of handling 280,000 operations annually, a figure similar to current traffic figures at Los Angeles International Airport.

Also envisioned are terminals of 600,000-700,000 square feet of floor space. The airport, Jones said, could cover up to 3,000 acres, plus 10,000 acres for auxiliary buildings and 30,600 acres for uses compatible with the airport.

He added that a freeway is now being constructed to the area from north Orange County, but additional access would have to be provided from the south end of the county.

Currently, a committee of Orange, Riverside and San Diego County officials has been formed to further study the Rancho California alternative. The Rancho California site is located in a sparsely populated area 10 miles north of Fallbrook.

Trauma Problems Discussed By Panel

By JERRY RALYA
Register Staff Writer

SANTA ANA—Trauma—the fourth leading cause of death in America and the number one killer of persons from one to 40—was the subject for a panel of speakers here Saturday as Santa Ana-Tustin Community Hospital announced the opening of its new Trauma Center.

The center is the first of its kind south of San Francisco, according to hospital administrator Wayne Schroeder. It will utilize an around-the-clock emergency room staffed by full-time physicians, other ancillary and back-up services, plus a "trauma team" of 10 other doctors who can get to the hospital on 15-minutes' notice, he said.

"Trauma" is defined by medical dictionaries as "a wound or injury." The American Trauma Society calls it "accidental death and disability."

The National Academy of Sciences and National Research Council term it "an epidemic—the neglected disease of modern society, second only to the ravages of ancient plagues or world wars."

"One of the problems with trauma," said Dr. George Sheldon of San Francisco, "is that it's hard to convince anybody that it's going to happen to you."

"Yet in a year," he added, "One out of four people in the United States will have an injury that causes them to enter the health care system."

Dr. Sheldon heads the trauma service at San Francisco General Hospital. He introduced one of the hospital's prize patients, Wayne Lindblom, a construction worker crushed by a backhoe who survived after nine months in the hospital and 14 operations.

Lindblom, the subject of a Reader's Digest article in January 1974, said he "knew he was going to leave that hospital alive."

He added, "Thanks to the trauma team and the trauma center, I did walk out of there alive."

"Wayne is a fantastic endorsement for the whole trauma concept," said Dr. Donald Trunkey, also a surgeon at the San Francisco hospital.

Dr. Frederick Firestone of Newport Beach detailed development of the paramedic program in Orange County.

"Before 1971, things were in a pretty sad state of affairs," he said. "We had a non-service as far as emergency medical care was concerned."

He said there were "terrible incidents" of people being taken to hospitals where they had no emergency facilities or inadequate facilities.

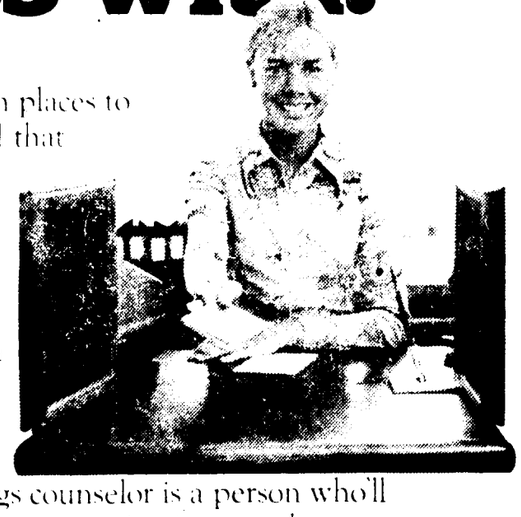

"Most people in Orange County have no primary physician until they have a crisis which requires medical attention, and then they go to an emergency room and still have no primary physician," he said.

The paramedic program and the location of more equipped and staffed emergency departments have improved the local situation, he said.

Dr. John West, head of the new trauma center at Santa Ana-Tustin Community Hospita, agreed. "There is no place in the country that can hold a candle to the paramedic program developed here in Orange County," he said.

"We now have the best possible pick-up and delivery system, but what is the next step?" he asked. The formation of the unit at the hospital, in the planning stage since 1972, is one answer to the problem, he said.

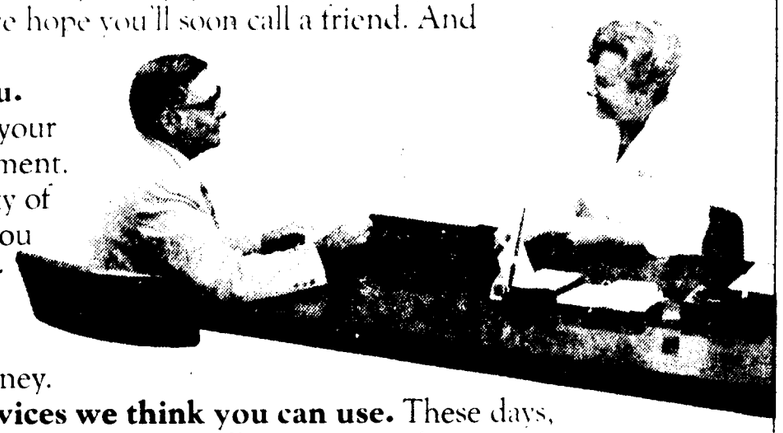

We're 88 years old, 45 offices statewide, over $750 million strong and nice people to do business with.

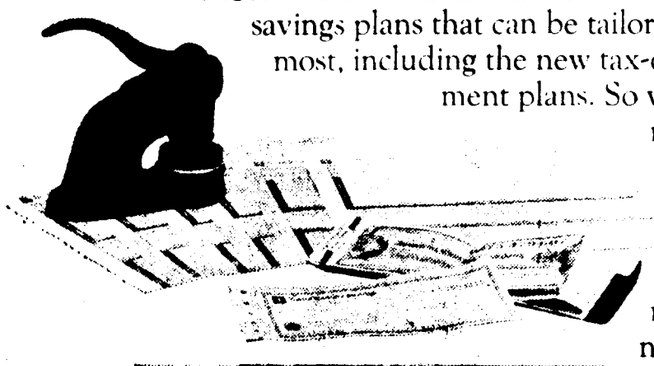

It's the last part that sets us apart. In a world filled with places to save, how can one claim to be different? Well, we feel that people save where they like to do business, where they feel the most comfortable. And we hope you'll like doing business with us. For several good reasons.

Our people are your kind of people. Since we first opened our doors in 1887, we've operated every office as if it was our only office. Although we now have 45 statewide.

Because your hometown office is staffed with your hometown people, we think you'll feel more comfortable. Your savings counselor is a person who'll go that extra little bit to make sure you enjoy coming in enough to come back again. A person we hope you'll soon call a friend. And to us, that's good business.

Secured savings and more interest to you. Naturally, we offer the highest interest available, with your savings insured by an agency of the Federal Government. More interest than a bank can offer. And a variety of savings plans that can be tailored to benefit you most, including the new tax-deferred retirement plans. So what you get is more interest for your money.

Extra services we think you can use. These days, every little extra service usually costs something extra. So, we'd like you to take advantage of some of our complimentary services, such as: free travelers checks, photocopying, notary service. And with a minimum balance, free money orders and checking accounts. And we offer some more extras, too, which all add up to saving you more when you're saving with us.

We'd like to invite you in. Please accept our invitation to stop in and say hello. Our coffee pot is always on. The cookies are often home baked. Our armchairs are comfortable and arranged in a living room setting for relaxing and talking. And we'd like to see you often. Because at Santa Barbara Savings, we enjoy our customers and we hope you enjoy our hometown way of doing things.

Wednesday Siren To Signal Start Of SA Home Fire Drill

SANTA ANA — During the night of Oct. 8, 1871, and most of the following day the city of Chicago virtually burned to the ground.

Mrs. O'Leary's cow has become the popular culprit in the great fire. As the story goes, the cow kicked a kerosene lamp over and fire spread from barn to barn and house to house.

When it was over, Chicago was in ruins. About 98,000 were homeless, 250 were dead.

To this day, no one really knows just what caused the fire. But the holocaust left its mark...it sparked the annual observance of National Fire Prevention Week.

Established in 1922, the observance will be held Oct. 5-11 this year.

On Wednesday, the anniversary of the great fire, every fire engine in Santa Ana will sound its siren at 8 p.m.

The noise, said fire chief Eugene Judd, will serve as a reminder to residents that Wednesday is Operation EDITH (Exit Drill In The Home) day.

The department urges families to plan an emergency exit and execute the plan at 8 p.m. Wednesday when the sirens blow.

At civic club meetings throughout the week, the department will distribute fire prevention place mats, fire hats and little plastic bags filled with ashes and inscribed: "This is all that remains of a fire."

We though this would kind of bring the point home with a shock," said Inspector Ken Mitchell.

To bring the point home even more graphically, the department will set up a "Careless Lawn Cemetery" on the grounds of Allstate Insurance, 1750 E. Fourth St.

The cemetery will sport a casket, wreath and tombstones with such epitaphs as "I played with matches" and "I smoked in bed."

The week's activities will end Saturday with the annual Kids Parade through the downtown.

More than 2,000 youngsters are expected to participate in the parade, which is scheduled to begin at 9:30 a.m. at the Santa Ana Bowl.

Using the fire prevention theme, the youngsters will decorate bikes, wagons, buggies, "brothers, sisters, cats, dogs or anything else that moves," said Mitchell.

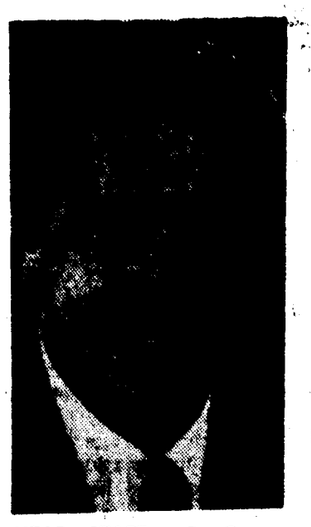

SC Council Moves To Put Brakes On Skateboarding

SAN CLEMENTE — Councilmen have taken steps to restrict skateboarding on public streets and on sidewalks in the commercial area.

A skateboard ordinance, which had been prepared by City Atty. Mackenzie Brown, was criticized as too restrictive by Councilman Charles Fox who said he would hate to see all skateboarding prohibited. The ordinance would give the council the discretion to ban skateboarding wherever there might be a hazard.

Instead, Fox proposed an ordinance outlawing skateboarding only on streets in the commercial downtown area and on sidewalks where shoppers could be hit. The area might be posted as out of bounds for skateboarders, he suggested. The council agreed to have such an ordinance drawn up for the meeting of Oct. 15.

Councilman Art Holmes also requested that the existing traffic ordinance be enforced to prevent "hazardous activity" of skateboarders.

HEADS STAFF — Dr. Gwyn Parry has been elected chief of staff at Hoag Hospital, Newport Beach, succeeding Dr. Robert Hinrichs. A specialist in family practice with offices in Newport Beach, Dr. Parry has been on Hoag's medical staff for 10 years. He is a graduate of UC Berkeley and the Stanford University School of Medicine.

Irvine May Face New Option For Preserving Open Space

IRVINE — The city could wind up considering a fourth general plan option in addition to the three already under consideration, city councilmen said Saturday during a discussion of plans for preserving open space.

The council is beginning the process of selecting one of the three options, each of which differs in the amount of population it would permit and the amount of land that would be preserved in open space.

The first option would provide for a population of 340,000 by ultimate development of the city in the year 2020, while the second option would provide a population of 460,000 and the third, 194,000.

The amount of open space and agricultural land left in the city would be 4,136 acres in the first option, 3,987 in the second and 5,504 in the third.

In addition, each option lists the amount of land that would be left in open space and agriculture in the city's "sphere of influence," which includes land outside the city.

The amounts of open space in the sphere of influence would be 11,589 acres under option one, 8,239 in option two and 26,734 in option three.

"I think we could throw option two out the window," said Councilwoman Gabrielle Pryor. She said she favors a "new option based on option one," with some aspects of option three added to it.

City Manager William Woollett said such a new option might require "redoing" the general plan.

"It boggles my mind," said Councilman Henry Quigley, "to say that we're going to start all over with the general plan and re-invent the wheel all over again."

A report from the city staff said the process of choosing a general plan option would take approximately until June and require 1,000 hours of staff time.

Quigley said the 1,000 hours would "translate to at least $10,000 and probably more like $20,000." He said the process could be done less expensively and should be speeded as much as possible.

Laguna Okays $6,000 Study Of Bus Depot

LAGUNA BEACH — The city council has appropriated $6,000 to study expansion of the bus terminal site at 375 Broadway.

The money will be used to appraise two lots behind the bus station for proposed expansion of bus lots and for preparation of plans.

Municipal services director Stan School told the council this past week that money for the expansion could come from $170,000 the city has been allocated in SB 325 funds which are earmarked for transit facilities. School added that it would cost $75,000 to acquire the two lots, $30,000 to construct a bridge across the flood channel that separates the current terminal from the lots and $30,000 for paving and landscaping in the entire bus terminal area.

He emphasized that the expansion does not include work on the terminal building, but such work should be considered in the future.

The current facilities are "completely inadequate in almost every way," Scholl said. The bus terminal serves numerous lines, and Scholl said that since the terminal was built in 1962, bus traffic there has increased more than tenfold.

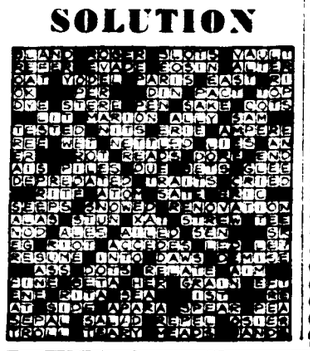

City Controller Resigns In GG

GARDEN GROVE—City controller William A. Holt has announced his resignation effective Nov. 14.

Holt, who has been controller two years, plans to go into the development business in Oklahoma City. He is a former assistant city administrator in Santa Fe Springs and previously worked in private industry in Oklahoma.

City Manager Richard Powers said recruitment for a successor to Holt will begin immediately.

Anaheim Shifts Golf Course Management

ANAHEIM — Management of the city's two golf courses has been turned over to stadium-convention center director Tom Liegler.

The city council took the action this past week in concurrence with recommendations from both the golf course advisory commission and auditor Arthur Young and Co.

Commission vice chairman Allan Hughes said the move does not mean the parks, recreation and arts department did a poor job running Anaheim Hills and Dad Miller Anaheim Municipal, but "there is a need for a reorganization of structure until the commission and the council can take a good look at several proposals for operation of the courses of a private entity."

Liegler said his department does have some ideas that should increase both play and profit at the two courses, but "I don't know if we can live within the very small budget."

However, Liegler said he will have no idea just how much money he needs until the council determines whether the primary function of the courses is to make money or simply serve as recreation centers.

In an attempt to make that determination, Liegler asked commission and council members to select priorities from a list of 10 typical golf course objectives he distributed and to mail the list to him.

Although Liegler said he probably will need a full-time golf course manager, he wants to hold off for awhile and instead, use the $30,000 salary to "buy a little soap and water and paint."

Golf course commission members said they hoped the new arrangement would cut red tape, so improvements can be made at the two courses immediately.

Referring to months of inaction on commission requests for fences, carpeting and audits of course concessionaires and pro shops, commission chairman Pat Patterson complained, "We can't get by certain levels of bureaucracy in this city."

"At the top of every bottle is a neck, and we're attempting to break that neck," replied Mayor Bill Thom, who blamed past delays on "internal administrative problems."

2 Nations OK Consultations

MOSCOW (AP) — The president of Portugal, which recently dumped a pro-Communist premier, has agreed to establish regular consultations with the Soviet leadership and to work to expand political and economic cooperation.

The two sides signed a joint declaration and communique at the end of a three-day Moscow visit by President Francisco da Costa Gomes, the first such trip by a Portuguese head of state.

Costa Gomes had talks with Communist party leader Leonid I. Brezhnev.

Newport Urged To Okay 5-Story Buildings Along Coast Highway

NEWPORT BEACH — Five-story buildings will be allowed along Coast Highway here under specifications of a proposal presented to the planning commission this past week.

The buildings will be in the Mariners Mile area, a one-mile section stretching from the Arches Bridge south along the coast to the Sea Scout Base by the Balboa Bay Club. A fire Jan. 11 which caused an estimated $2 million of damage in that area has prompted redevelopment plans by the city.

A previous plan mulled over by commissioners in July called for buildings to be raised up to 35 feet, which is three or four stories tall depending on the architecture of the structure. Community development staff members took that plan back to the drawing board after property owners in Mariners Mile told the commissioners in August that they cannot afford to run businesses there because of high taxes unless they are allowed to occupy taller structures.

Present restrictions limit the height of buildings along the coast to 26 feet, which is two or three stories tall depending on the architectural design.

Community development director Dick Hogan said that the height limit of buildings was raised to 50 feet with stipulations in the plan which will insure that residents on the bluffs above Mariners Mile will still be able to view the bay and ocean.

He said that owners along Mariners Mile will be allowed to build above the city's 26-foot limit only if the owners allow open spaces between lots.

Spaces between buildings, along with areas in front of and behind the structures, will be heavily landscaped with trees in order to enhance the beauty of the area, Hogan said.

He added that such buildings with open spaces between them will actually allow a better view of the bay and ocean than buildings which are 26 feet high with no space between them.

Bluff residents at the study session called the plan a high-rise development and said that it will decrease their property values by $10,000-$20,000 per lot.

Commissioner William J. Tiernan asked the staff why they had raised the building height limit over the 35-foot limit proposed in July when such changes are "staunchly opposed by residents on the bluffs."

Hogan responded that the change was made as a compromise between the desires expressed by Mariners Mile owners and area residents.

However, Tiernan disagreed with the development director, saying that the plan cut out any hopes of residents of viewing the bay and ocean from their homes.

The commission will continue discussion of the proposal at its 2 p.m. study session on Oct. 16 in the council chambers.

Animal Control Firm Dealt Court Setback

LOS ANGELES—A Superior Court judge here has issued an order prohibiting California Animal Control Inc., (CAC) from operating animal shelters in the state except under specific humane conditions.

But the order may prove unnecessary since the company has lost all its clients and did not even show up at the hearing on the case last week, according to Los Angeles Deputy Dist. Atty. John Stillman.

The preliminary injunction, which extends the conditions of a temporary restraining order issued Sept. 18, will be in effect until the case comes to trial.

CAC had served as dogcatcher for Huntington Beach and Seal Beach as well as four Los Angeles county cities before running into financial and legal problems which surfaced last month.

In rapid succession, CAC was charged in the Los Angeles court case with abuses at its Downey animal shelter, came up short of cash and failed to meet contract deposit requirements in Huntington Beach as well as missing a payroll payment to employes and was fired by the city.

Since Huntington Beach fired CAC Sept. 22, the company's other contracts have been terminated.

Riley To Address Newport Neighborhood Association

NEWPORT BEACH — Fifth district Supervisor Thomas F. Riley will be the featured speaker at the first general meeting of the newly-formed Mariners Community Association at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday at Mariners Elementary School.

Riley will address the group, which claims to represent 2,000 homes located near the school, on noise problems at Orange County Airport and the possibility of joint military-civilian use of military air bases.

Carol Blanchard, a member of the organization's board of directors, said the purpose of the new association is to improve communications, and sensitivity to community problems among members.

Neighborhoods covered by the organization, she said, are Westcliff, Baycrest, Dover Shores and Harbor Highlands.

Recently chosen to lead the group are Vincent Jorgenson, president; Jean Wegener, program chairman; Rhoda Stanley, Jackie Reedy and C. Paul Dubois, executive officers.

In addition to Mrs. Blanchard, directors include Cliff Jordan, Cynnie Bunnell, Sue Simpson, Jo Vandervort, Adelle Gallade, Stuart Williams and Alan Reedy, who also serves as the group's legal advisor.

Irate Farmers Tear Gassed At Canada Airport

STE. SCHOLASTIQUE, Canada (AP) — Police lobbed tear gas into a crowd of 300 protesting farmers Saturday minutes after Prime Minister Pierre Elliott Trudeau officially opened the world's largest airport, for which 88,000 acres of farmland was expropriated.

Trudeau said the $500 million airport 35 miles northwest of Montreal was "essential for Montreal, for Quebec and for the whole country." Farmers in the area have contended for years that they were not being paid enough for their land.

No one was injured as the demonstrators were forced from a vantage point behind a fence about 200 yards from the terminal building. They had driven up to the fence in trucks filled with hay.

Scheduled flights will begin using the airport Oct. 26. Air France and British Airways are expected to begin flying Concorde supersonic airliners into the airport next year.

The new Canadian facility, officially named Mirabel International Airport, replaces the Dallas-Ft. Worth Airport as the world's largest. The Guinness Book of World Records says the Texas airport covers 17,400 acres and Mirabel 18,500, though substantially more land is set aside for surrounding open land.

PHILIP BERRIGAN CARRIED OUT OF POLICE STATION
The Ex-Priest, 16 Others Face Mischief Charges

FOR DEFACING AIRCRAFT

Antiwar Activist Berrigan Arrested

EAST HARTFORD, Conn. (AP) — Philip Berrigan, who until a month ago had to report to a parole officer in connection with a prison term for destroying draft records, was arrested Saturday on charges of spraying red paint on military planes.

The antiwar activist and 16 other persons were arrested after the incident at an aircraft display commemorating Pratt & Whitney's 50th anniversary, officials said.

Hundreds of spectators watched as the demonstrators defaced at least four planes by spraying "death" in red on the outside and pouring what they claimed was human blood in the cockpits.

Police said Berrigan was charged with criminal mischief, and similar charges would be lodged against the others.

Berrigan, 49, was a Roman Catholic priest in the Society of St. Joseph when he joined a draft-destruction demonstration at Cantonsville, Md., in 1968. Since then, he has married and ceased to function officially as a priest.

Berrigan was sentenced to a six-year prison term for the Cantonsville demonstration and was required to report to a parole officer until last month as a condition for his release from prison in December 1972.

Berrigan's wife, Elizabeth McAlister, a former nun, said from their home in Baltimore that the demonstration had been planned for about two weeks.

"Pratt & Whitney makes engines for war and death. They are expensive and do not feed, clothe, house or inspire anyone. They are used to create fear and maintain a balance of terror," she said.

She said that people taking part in the demonstration were from Berrigan's Jonah House in Baltimore and nonviolent communities in Washington, D.C., and Hartford.

Police said officers assigned to crowd control duty witnessed the spraying, and summoned other officers to make the arrests.

A spokesman for Pratt & Whitney, a division of United Technology, said the planes, all powered by Pratt & Whitney engines, were Air Force F15 and F111 and Navy F14 and A6 jets.

The paint was quickly removed with solvent, the spokesman said, and the show, scheduled for Saturday and today, continued. Officials estimated that by 3 p.m. Saturday 155,000 persons came to see the display of 43 aircraft and several jet engines.

Land Owners, Conservationists Should Join Hands, Confab Told

By TRISH HUETHER
Register Staff Writer

NEWPORT BEACH — Owners of coastal lands interested mainly in deriving a profit from the properties and "conservationists" interested in preserving the beauty of those lands can work together, according to a speaker at the national marine and recreation conference which concluded here Saturday.

Patrick Noonan said that such a "utopia" of cooperation is possible "when the ecologist and the appraiser go out and look at land together to determine what the best value for it is."

Noonan is president of The Nature Conservancy, a private, non-profit organization which says it seeks to preserve the ecological balance of lands.

His statements came during the three-day conference held at the Marriott Hotel where 200 persons in marine research gathered. The conclave was sponsored by the National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration (NOAA) office of marine management in cooperation with the University of Southern California sea grant program.

Noonan said that businessmen are not trained to think in terms of conservation but only in terms of the dollar. Land is not a resource but a commodity to businessmen, he claimed.

But "conservationists" can insure that the ecological balance of coastlands developed by businessmen is maintained by appealing to "economic justification," he said.

"Economic justification is a key ingredient to saving wetlands," he said. Conservationists must not just talk about "birds and fish" when they appeal to land owners, but must talk "dollars and sense," convincing them that maintaining ecological balance of lands will pay off financially, he said.

Noonan said that the public attitude of supporting privately owned developments which maintain ecological balance has helped convince developers that following such a policy is financially sound.

He said that another approach for conservationists to use in approaching developers about preserving lands is suggesting that they donate real estate to conservation groups to be used for recreation purposes. "Tax laws are designed to encourage give away of real estate" for recreation purposes because such donations can be written off, he said.

During the same workshop, Marc Hershman of the sea grant legal program, Louisiana State University, considered ways in which a conservationist can increase the number of natural habitats and recreation areas developed through government funding.

Hershman said that conservationists can "piggyback" onto government programs not designed as natural habitats or recreation areas by convincing planners that these areas can be developed jointly.

For instance, he said that in programs developing ports, dikes or other coastal structures, conservationists can present plans in which natural habits and recreation areas can be developed next to the same area as the structures.

STUDY CHALLENGES MARINA POLLUTION

NEWPORT BEACH—Marinas do not necessarily pollute waters, an oceanography researcher said at the marine recreation conference here.

Candace Oviatt presented findings from a study in Narragansett Bay, R.I., which concluded that a marina supporting 300 small boats as not significantly polluted in comparison to another marsh in the bay.

Ms. Oviatt is a research associate and lecturer in oceanography at the University of Rhode Island.

She said that there was no evidence of boat toxicity in the marina and no evidence of sewage pollution from boats. Crafts are moored in the marina five months out of the year, she said.

Also, the number of fish in the marina and in the Mill Creek Saltmarsh used for comparison was about the same, she said. The amount of food matter for fish and other water animals and plants "was very similar, even though there was much less marsh area in the marina," she added.

Both areas attracted a mixture of inland and water birds, she said, except that the marina has more mallards "because the people feed them."

Mayor Takes Hardline In KC Firemen Strike

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP) — Mayor Charles B. Wheeler, slamming a fist on a table, said Saturday he won't resume talks with striking firemen until he gets police protection and an apology from union officials.

Wheeler said he wants police protection because "the firemen won a great battle in San Francisco by bombing the mayor's house. We don't want that to happen in Kansas City."

Meanwhile, amid charges of sabotage and arson, this city of 500,000 remained without adequate fire protection as more than 100 fire calls — including insignificant fires and false alarms — were reported. The sabotage charges prompted union officials to say they might call off the strike if vandalism continues.

Yank Woman Drops Appeal

BUENOS AIRES, Argentina (AP) — Officials say a 25-year-old California woman convicted of links to leftist Argentine terrorists has dropped an appeal of her sentence, apparently so she can be let out of jail and deported.

A U.S. Embassy official said Friday that if Olga Talamante, of Gilroy, had not revoked the appeal she might have had to stay another six months in jail waiting for a decision.

Miss Talamante, a Mexican born naturalized U.S. citizen, came to Argentina in 1973 as a student. She was arrested in November 1974 at Azul, 200 miles south of Buenos Aires, with 12 Argentines in a home where police said they found guns and literature belonging to the left-wing Montonero guerrilla organizaton.

Cancer Seminar Slated Monday

FOUNTAIN VALLEY—The diagnosis and treatment of cancer of the lymphatic glands will be discussed by a panel of physicians at the Fountain Valley Community Hospital auditorium at 7:30 p.m. Monday. The program is open to the public.

SA Handwriting Expert To Speak

SANTA ANA — A handwriting expert and a long-time Santa Ana resident will speak before the Toastmasters Club 100 Tuesday at the Santa Ana Library.

Grapho-analyst Jerry Browne will analyse the handwriting of one of the members and Barney Koster, long-time Santa Ana resident, will discuss his remembrances of Dr. Ralph Smedley, founder of Toastmasters International.

The public is invited to attend the 7 a.m. meeting.

Thousands March To Protest Kidnap

LIMERICK, Ireland (AP) — Responding to a call from their mayor, thousands of townspeople paraded silently through Limerick on Saturday in a demonstration of public disgust over the kidnaping of a Dutch industrialist who is threatened with death in less than 24 hours. The victim's wife appealed for his safe return.

Limerick, the third largest city in the Irish republic and dependent on foreign capital and good will for hundreds of jobs, seemed stunned by the threat of the kidnapers to kill 53-year-old Tiede Herrema at noon today — 7 a.m. EDT — unless three guerrillas of the Irish Republican Army are released from jail.

The three are Rose Dugdale, a socialite-turned-revolutionary, Kevin Mallon and James Hyland.

Police said they are seeking a man and a woman with IRA links in connection with the kidnaping. They named the two as Eddie Gallagher, 27, and Marion Coyle, 19, and said they "may be able to assist in inquiries." They did not elaborate.

Meanwhile, Mrs. Herrema, who returned from Holland after leaving their two sons there, broadcast a personal appeal for the safe return of her husband.

"I wish to earnestly appeal to the people."

SA Girls' Club Offers Pancakes

SANTA ANA — The Girls' Club of Santa Ana will host its annual pancake breakfast from 8 a.m. to noon Oct. 11, at the clubhouse, 1502 S. Greenville St.

Members of the Santa Ana Naval Reserve Center will join the girls to commemorate the 200th birthday of the Navy.

Tickets can be purchased at the door or by calling the clubhouse.

Thursday has been set aside as Senior Citizens Day; Friday will be Kiddies Day with the 5 p.m. Crazy Wig Contest a principal highlight; Saturday is parade day, with step-off time at 10 a.m. from Westminster Avenue and Cedarwood Street; Sunday is wind-up day with special events, activities and entertainment all day at the festival grounds.

The parade on Saturday will feature Grand Marshal Bob Urich, co-star of the S.W.A.T. Television series, as well as Miss Westminster (Joyce Brocker); Lady Godiva (Nancy Skerven of Fountain Valley); Joy Wilkerson, distaff race car driver, Bobby Perro, Baja race winner; marching bands, floats, horses, clowns, and dozens of other participants.

Alcoholism

sions. The only difference, Munoz said, is the environment—Spanish is spoken here.

The program is completely self-supporting. Volunteers such as Munoz pay a small, monthly membership fee. The group sells coffee and refreshments and holds fund-raising events.

"This program really is remarkable when you consider the number of programs that start up with a lot of funding and fail within the year," said Fullerton attorney Lloyd Freeberg, who has recommended the program to many of his clients.

Freeberg conducted a brief sampling of felony drunk driving cases in Superior Court. Although Mexican-Americans comprise only about 14 per cent of the population, 50 per cent of the arrested during the one-year sampling period had Spanish surnames.

Both Freeberg and Munoz agree that no firm statistics are available but both believe the alcoholism rate is higher among Mexican-Americans.

One reason, Munoz believes, is the lack of alcoholism "education" among the Spanish speaking.

"There is a lot of alcohol awareness information available through television and the schools for the white community. But nothing is aimed at the Spanish speaking," Munoz said.

His own program, he pointed out, would be more effective if more people knew it existed.

"We are working people. We have to hold down jobs to survive. We don't have the time to speak at schools and we don't have the money to advertise," Munoz said.

About 150 persons a week attend Alano Hispano meetings but "There are so many more out there who need to be reached," he said.

8 Die In Fire

BEDFORD, Ind. (AP) — Eight persons, including seven children, were killed Saturday when a fire destroyed the mobile home in which they slept, state police said.

The victims were a 43-year-old woman, her three young children, and four grandchildren who had been moved into the trailer after their family was evicted from its home.

Toll Free Phone To County Seat Sought By SC

SAN CLEMENTE—Seeking a toll free telephone connection between the south county and the county offices, the city council has moved to send a written request to Supervisor Tom Riley.

Councilman Pat Lane, who said "we're getting the shaft in the south county," complained that there was no toll-free telephone to the county seat for taxpayers in this area. "All residents of Orange County should have toll free access to county offices," he said.

When Councilman Charles Fox suggested a letter to the supervisor, Lane agreed. "This is an election year; maybe we'll get something done," he said. Mayor Tony DiGovanni said earlier requests to the county had been fruitless.

The council voted unanimously to write to the supervisor and "express our concern," with copies to the telephone company and the Public Utilities Commission.

UC Chancellor Arraigned On Traffic Counts

SANTA MONICA (AP) — Pepperdine University Chancellor M. Norvell Young has been arrainged on two counts of felony manslaughter and one of drunken driving stemming from a fiery traffic accident Sept. 18.

Municipal Judge Robert Thomas set a preliminary hearing for Oct. 30. The 59 year-old Young is free on $5,000 bail.

Young was charged after the highway patrol said his car crashed into the rear of another vehicle stopped for a traffic light on the Pacific Coast Highway. The second vehicle's gasoline tank ruptured and both autos burst into flame.

Fatally injured were Beulah Harrison, 55, of Claremont, and Christine Dalquist, 81, of Lincoln, Neb. Alice Fritchie, 50, of Claremont, was injured in the stopped car. Young, who was alone, also was injured.

Seniors Seek $25,000 For Shuttle Buses

SANTA ANA—A program to raise $25,000 in donations to help purchase shuttle buses for senior citizens has been launched by the county's Community Development Council (CDC).

A spokesman for the tax-supported council said a state grant of $100,000 to purchase 10 vans for transporting senior citizens to hot meal centers throughout the county has been earmarked for the CDC. But the group must provide a 20 per cent matching contribution—or $25,000—before it receives the state tax funds.

CDC is asking for a $1 donation from each senior citizen in Orange County and is calling its fund-raising campaign "Seniors Helping Seniors," the spokesman said.

Information about the program can be obtained by calling the CDC office at 1140 S. Bristol St.

Man Admits Slaying Mom, 3 Sisters

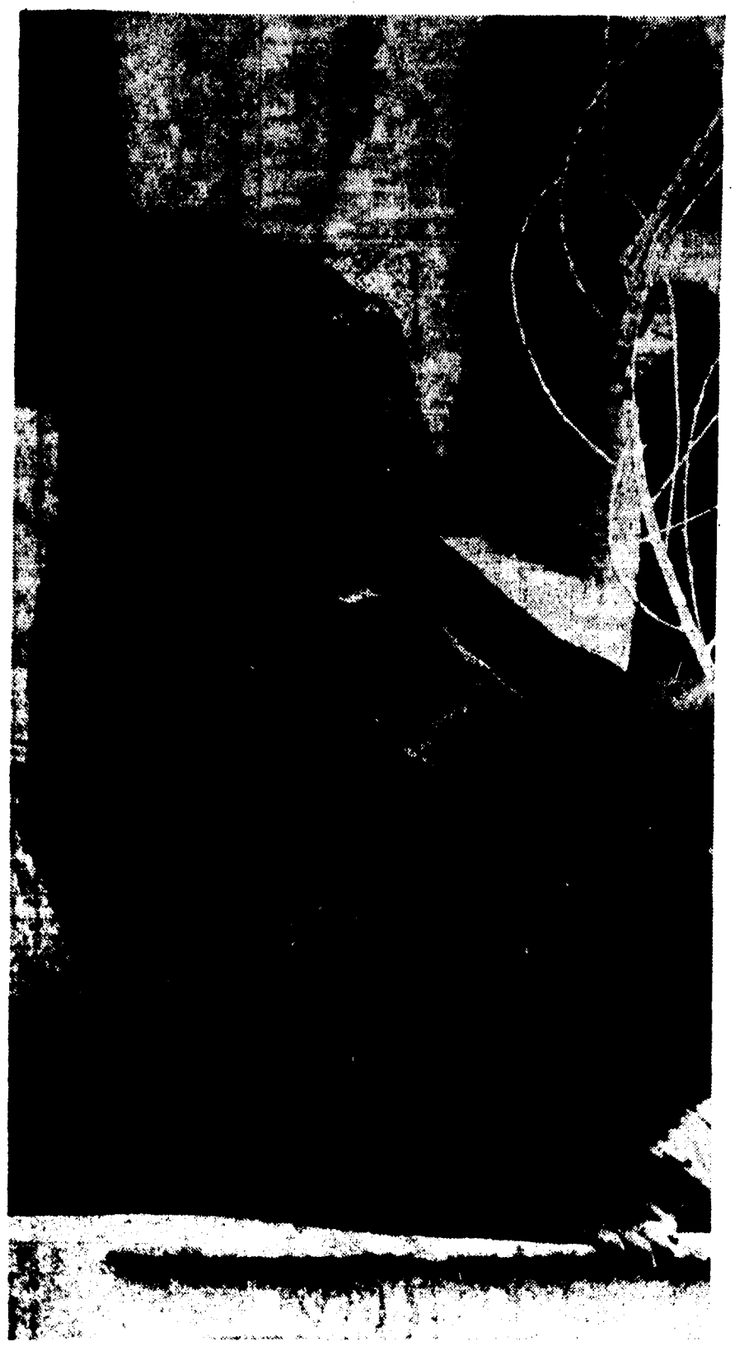

INTERLAKEN, N.Y. (AP) —A 21-year-old Ithaca man has been charged with slaying his mother and three sisters, whose bullet-riddled bodies were found inside their burning home here, the Seneca County Sheriff's Office said

"Help me. I've killed my mother and sisters and set the house on fire," Daniel Jones screamed after rousing a neighbor Friday night, deputies said.

Firemen discovered the bodies of his mother, Gertrude, 44, and three sisters, Theresa, 8, Sandra, 7, and Mary, 17, inside the house.

Jones, found sitting on a nearby rock watching the house burn, was charged with murder, officers said.

FAMILY ALBUM

This very special, singularly handsome family group is the pride and joy of the San Francisco Zoo. A baby is always a beauty to its Mom and Dad, of course—but the two infant gorillas in the pictures on this page represent a unique achievement, recognized in wider circles than the gorilla pound. Zoo officials say that San Francisco is the only zoo in the world at this moment with TWO baby gorillas.

The zoo people have been unusually successful in getting gorillas to produce offspring and in managing to raise them. Four gorilla young have been born in the zoo since 1970. Of the other two not shown here, one unfortunately died at the age of 2. The other, Koko, has gone triumphantly on to higher education and is now being trained in the linguistics labs at Stanford University.

The present tribe is led by Bwana, a 17-year-old, 500-pound male. Other members are Jackie, 19, mother of Koko and baby Mkubwa, photographed at 2 months old; Missy, 19, mother of 21-month-old Sunshine; and Pogo, 17, a loner.

Photographed by Rick Browne.

Camera draws ambiguous glare from Pogo.

Mkubwa takes a look at the world from vantage point of Mom's head.

Are you & your family looking for a companion & friend? PET SAVERS has up to date lists of pets that are available from private homes & the Humane Society. Those that are in the Humane Society desperately need homes & your family can receive a loving pet for a nominal fee charged by the Humane Society. Those that are in a private home are free. Many on our list are PUREBREDS such as, Alaskan Malmute, Amer. Askimo, Aus. Shepherd, Afghans, Bassets, Bedlington Terrier, Boxer, Collie, Chihuahua, Dalmatians, Doxies, Eng. Setter, Great Dane, Germ. Shepherds, Germ. Shorthaired Pointer, Irish Setter, Keeshond, Poodles, Samoyians, St. Bernards, Spitz, Weimaraners, Wirehaired Terrier, Cockapoo & Tabbit. Please don't overlook the many puppies, kittens & lovable mixed breeds also available. PET SAVERS also has free information on low cost spay, neutering & shots facilities. We place our animals with love, but contributions are accepted and appreciated. Call PET SAVERS, 645-4418, 839-6847, 821-7853, 828-8787, 832-6185, 637-7086, 832-1208, 533-4434.

ADULTS ONLY
Get out of the rat race, leave those cramped quarters behind. Come live with us among the seclusion of rolling hills. Get away from the hassle of constantly noisy neighbors & no room to walk, or just get away so you can breathe. Don't let yourself be hemmed in any longer. Move to a country atmosphere that lets you have room to breathe in all when you want to, or right in the middle of things. Do you like wild critters? A place where birds sing? Our 7300 sq. ft. clubhouse is air conditioned. On those hot summer days after a refreshing swim in our pool, have a party, we have a huge kitchen & great banquet facilities or have an intimate little outdoor get-together in the B-B-Q Area. Come in & discuss our year's free rent program.

11% To Buy Home Within Year - Survey

By DON MAPES
Associate Real Estate Editor

Residents of 11 per cent of 1,000 California households surveyed in mid-August said they planned to buy a home within the next 12 months—and the majority of that 11 per cent were located in Southern California.

This compares favorably with most national surveys that show 6 to 8 per cent plan to buy a home within the next year, according to George Fulton, marketing vice president of Walker & Lee, Inc., which conducted the California survey.

The demand for housing is strongest among those under 40, Fulton noted. Seventeen per cent of the respondents in the 18 to 29 age group said they plan to purchase a home with 6 per cent considering a new one and 11 per cent a used residence.

Building Roundup

In the 30 to 39 age group, about 2 per cent wanted a new home and 10 per cent a used one — a total of 12 per cent according to the report. Six per cent of this age group were undecided about a home purchase.

Of those surveyed nearly a third of the sample revealed an income of at lesat $20,000 and here was the greatest demand —16 per cent intending to buy within a year.

W&L also noted that a surprising 15 per cent of those with incomes of $7,000 to $10,000 also responded that they would like to buy a home within a year. This group would qualify for housing priced from $17,000 to $25,000 according to Walker & Lee.

"Since the average resale home is priced at approximately $40,000 and new homes typically are higher, these potential buyers may be in for a rude awakening when they explore the market," Fulton observed.

The report also stated that in Northern California 90 per cent of those questioned said they did not intend to buy a home within the next year but the percentage dropped to 82 per cent when the same query was made in the Southland.

Home Values Rise 13% Yearly

While double digit inflation has been busily gnawing hunks from John Q. Citizen's budget, Orange County homeowners have been faced with another double digit number; the annual appreciation of their property.

According to a recent survey by Martin Publications, of Tustin, 190 new home resales the average Orange County resale during 1975 was originally purchased for $46,557 four years, three months and 14 days before the latest resale.

That average Orange County home appreciated at a rate of $526.10 per month, or $6,313.20 per year. That is equivalent to 13.56 per cent appreciation annually.

By the time the average home was last sold, it had increased $27,510 in value, the report said. It last sold for 59 per cent more than the original price: $74,067.

The records of sale for the study were supplied by Title Insurance and Trust Company's Orange County headquarters in Santa Ana.

The title company was asked to furnish a random cross-section of new home resales from areas throughout the county. This raw data was then refined to produce a profile of the average home transaction in California's second most populous county.

As would be expected, the rate of appreciation varies throughout the county. This raw data was then refined to produce a profile of the average home transaction in California's second most populous county.

Orange County Report

As would be expected, the rate of appreciation varies throughout the county, with certain areas showing a faster pace of appreciation than others.

Irvine Villages

Fourteen new home resales from the Irvine Villages show an annual appreciation pace of 16.62 per cent. Original selling prices in this prestigious area of the county averaged $75,927.50.

The latest Irvine resale took place 1.77 years, or one year, nine months and 12 days after the original purchase. Aver age resale price was $98,332.20, indicating an average annual appreciation of $12,630.85, or 16.63 per cent of the original selling price, there report continued.

Mission Viejo

The annual appreciation rate at Mission Viejo, located in the south-central portion of the county, is 16 per cent. Based on 62 resales, the average original selling price at Mission Viejo was $34,381, while the average resale price was $57,405, over $23,000 more than the original cost.

Based on the sampling, the average Misison Viejo home accrued 67 per cent in appreciation for its original owner before being sold four years and two months after its initial purchase, according to the report.

Anaheim Hills

Although 1975 resales in the relatively new 4,200-acre planned community of Anaheim Hills are scarce, 19 resales clearly show an annual appreciation pace of almost 21 per cent.

The sampling shows the average Anaheim Hills home sold originally for $56,892 almost two years and four months prior to the latest resale. The average resale price was $84,307, or $27,415 greater than the initial cost and more than 48 per cent of the original price.

Based on the 19 resales supplied by Title Insurance, the monthly appreciation figure at Anaheim Hills averages out to $985, or $11,816 per year.

San Clemente

The average first buyer in San Clemente held onto his home for 5.58 years, more than a year longer than the overall county average. At the same time he experienced an annual appreciation rate of 15.91 per cent. This was equal to 89 per cent of the original purchase price over the term of original ownership.

The average home in San Clemente sold new for $35,830, and re-sold this year for $67,627, the study showed.

Intangible factors such as decorating and landscaping installed by the original owner can't be properly allowed for in a survey of this nature. But such investments undoubtedly served to increase the value of many of the homes included in the survey to some extent.

Results of a survey similar to the one just completed were published by The Times in December, 1973. That study, based on 142 resales, found Orange County homes appreciating at an annual rate of almost 17 per cent. In 1973 the average duration between first and latest sales was 34 months, or 2.84 years; a period 35 per cent shorter than the average revealed in the new study.

The average original selling price in 1973 was $33,317, more than 28 per cent lower than the mid-1975 norm. In the 20 months since the completion of the earlier study, the average resale price in Orange County has increased almost 34 per cent. In 1973, the average dollar difference between first and latest sale was $15,867; 42 per cent less than the average for 1975.

In an attempt to more accurately parallel the two reports, the survey team extracted all parcels with an average interval between sales of from 30 to 40 months from the new study. Fifteen tracts qualified, with a total of 40 resales. The average interval between sales was 38.2 months (three years, two months, eight days).

The average original price was $52,032, 36 per cent higher than the 1973 norm. The average monthly appreciation was $795.14, equivalent to an average annual increase in value of $9,542; 18.33 per cent of the original sales price.

Resales from 16 Orange County communities are included in the overall sampling, representing more than $8.8 million in original sales value. Total resale value amounted to slightly more than $14 million, the report concluded.

ONE OF THE MODELS BEING OFFERED AT THE NEW 36-HOME LAKE CANYON COMMUNITY IN ROWLAND HEIGHTS

Lake Canyon Holds Opening

Lake Canyon, a new community of 36 homes set among the links of the Pomona National Country Club in Rowland Heights, opens today, according to Richard T. Brown, president of Brown Development Corp. of Tustin.

The three-and four-bedroom homes feature hillside locations to optimize the view of the golf course and a vista that includes Mt. Baldy, San Jacinto and Mt. Wilson.

Four floorplans are offered at Lake Canyon in one and two-story styles. Sixteen elevations are available.

Lake Canyon Homes, designed by KAE, Inc. of Irvine are ready for immediate occupancy, and feature a variety of extras, including cathedral ceilings, fireplaces with log lighters, some wet bars, formal and informal dining areas, and master suites.

Homes range in size from 1,644 to 2,840 square feet of living area. All include oversize two-car garages.

Priced from $49,900 to $69,900, these Lake Canyon Homes were 50 per cent sold before the grand opening, according to Brown. Conventional financing is available.

A game room and front and rear decks highlight the five-bedroom, three-bath Plan 840, the largest residence offered at Lake Canyon.

The master suite has a private dressing area with double lavatories, a compartmentalized bath, a walk-in closet and separate wardrobe. The living room, dining room, family room with fireplace and adjacent outdoor deck area, kitchen and den are located on the upper entrance level.

Plan 644 invites entertaining with its living room that includes a vaulted ceiling and fireplace, and its country kitchen. The bedroom wing is secluded from the living areas in this four-bedroom, two bath home. The single-level residence features sliding glass walls in the master bedroom and kitchen/dining room.

Plan 857 offers a four-bedroom three-bath home. The two-story entry opens to a step-down living room and adjacent formal dining room. The garden-view kitchen is convenient to the dining room and to the informal family room with its open-hearth fireplace. Upstairs, secluded from the activity areas of the home, are two secondary bedrooms and a master suite complete with massive walk-in closet.

Both living room and dining room have walls of glass overlooking the rear yard and the Grand Opening On At Tennessean

The Tennessean's grand opening today in Santa Ana marks the first venture of Warmington Development, Inc., into the apartment-to-townhome conversion market.

"This conversion is the result of an extensive search for a project that met Warmington's high standards for quality construction, value and location," according to Jim Warmington, president of Warmington Development. "With a base price of $33,500, The Tennessean is one of Orange County's best buys, and its convenient location makes it an even better real estate investment."

Park-garden townhomes offer four floor plans featuring single or two story, one or two bedrooms and one and a half or two baths. Two plans have a den.

Appointments include air conditioning, fireplace, fenced patio, master suites with a walk-in closet or double wardrobe, and an electric kitchen with range, oven, dishwasher and disposal.

Formica countertops are featured throughout as well as a snack bar and pass-thru serving bar to the dining area. One plan has a spiral staircase.

Surrounded by a private park, The Tennessean has its own recreational area with a swimming pool, therapy whirlpool, sauna and equipped clubhouse with billiard tables.

Maintenance of grounds, facilities and exteriors provided by the Homeowners Association add to this environment.

Community services surround The Tennessean. Neighborhood shopping, restaurants and a medical center are within walking distance. Easy

BIA Sets 3-Day OC Home Tour

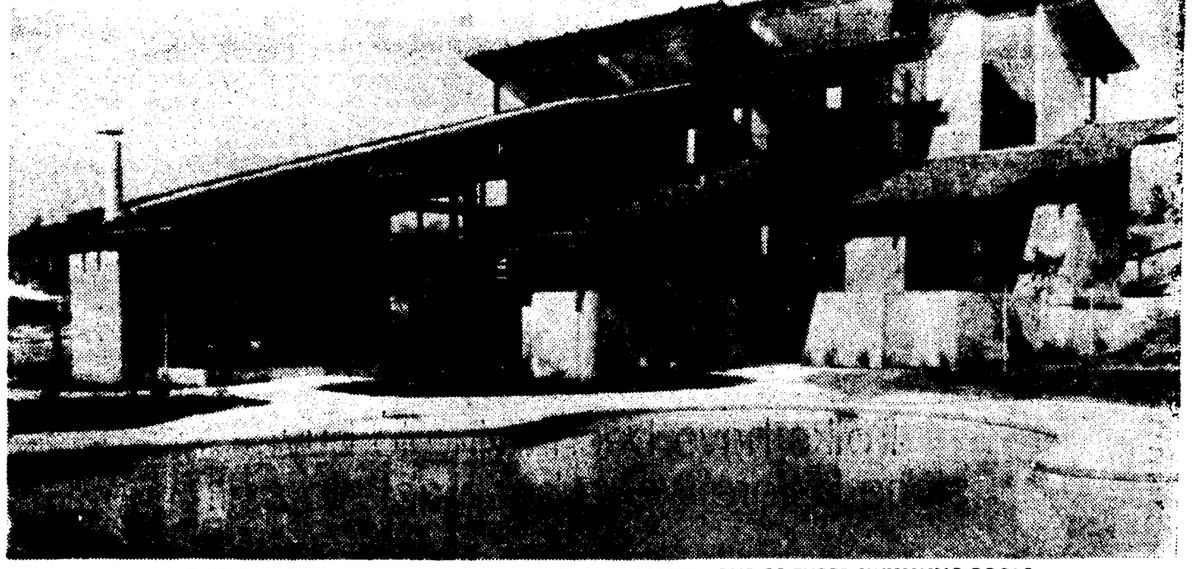

A group of leading land developers from several areas of the United States and Canada will be conducted on a three-day tour of major Orange County residential projects this week under the auspices of the local chapter of the Building Industry Association of California.

Entitled "The Best in the West" Homes Tour, the event is under the chairmanship of W.E. Mitchell, president of Market Profiles, Santa Ana-based national housing research and marketing consultants.

Starting in the northern section of the county Wednesday, the builders will visit Westbluff, Water Gardens, Windwood, Anaheim Hills for a luncheon program, Broadmoor, Oak Knoll and Anaheim Estates.

Thursday's itinerary begins with a presentation by the Irvine Company, followed by tours of Deerfield, Rancho San Joaquin, University Park,

THE NEW LAKE FOREST II CLUBHOUSE IS LOCATED BESIDE ONE OF THREE SWIMMING POOLS

Lake Forest II Opens Rec Club

Mildred Hudgins, member of the board of directors of the Lake Forest Sun & Sail Club, hoisted the flag recently at a celebration opening the new Sun & Sail Club in Lake Forest II. Assisting in the ribbon cutting ceremonies were Ken Wasmann, vice president of Occidental Land, Inc., and Ed Fogal, president of Lake Forest II, both of whom directed the planning and completion of the new club.

Developed by Occidental Land, Inc., The Sun & Sail Club rests on the shores of Lake Forest II's beautiful 36-acre fresh water lake. The $1 million clubhouse is a multi-level structure rising more than 45 feet with five separate roof levels jutting into the sky.

The 14,000 square foot clubhouse, built by Jay Ray Construction, Santa Ana, is a unique, contemporary blend of wood and glass.

Designed by Ib Christian Abel & Associates, Laguna Beach, The Sun & Sail Club is one of Orange County's most complete clubhouses catering to all ages and interests with its extensive athletic and social facilities.

To compliment the natural beauty of the wood and glass design, Douglas G. Campbell & Associates, Santa Ana, is a unique, contemporary blend of wood and glass.

On the main level a lounge with individual conversation corners presents members with a view of the lake and surrounding forested countryside. Receptions and parties can be easily arranged in this same area since it has a connecting kitchen and large wet bar. Another touch is the complete wet bar on the upper level which is surrounded by a card room, pool room and conference center.

The landscaping planted by Plaza Landscape, Orange, was designed by E.D.A.W. & Associates, Newport Beach.

For the athletically inclined, The Sun & Sail Club provides a wide variety of sports to help members stay in shape. Five tennis courts will be under the supervision of tennis pro Glen Clymore.

Two heated swimming pools and a children's wading pool are located between the clubhouse and lakeside beach. For the very active, The Sun & Sail Club has two sand volleyball courts and a basketball court. The club also rents sail boats and peddle boats for those wanting to explore the 36-acre lake or try a little fishing.

Vogel Named Marketing VP

Veteran Southern California marketing executive Peter Vogel has been appointed vice president in charge of sales and marketing for Desert Island in the Rancho Mirage/Palm Springs area, a development of the Winmar Company, Inc., of Seattle, Washington, a Safeco Insurance Company subsidiary.

Vogel is a specialist in resort area properties and had been a partner in the firm of Vogel and Babbitt Realtors, located in Newport Center, until his appointment with Winmar.

Before that, he was marketing director for Ben Deane & Co. and was responsible for the sale of more than 300 condominiums surrounding Big Canyon Country Club in Newport Beach. He also developed and supervised the

Showcase On The Lake Single-Family Homes Previewing At Lake Forest

Preview showings are now underway at Showcase on the Lake, the new community of single family homes located on New Lake in Lake Forest.

"Construction is now underway and although the models are not ready yet, now is the time to make your selection at pre-sale prices beginning at $49,990," stated William Krueger, president of Showcase Homes, the builder.

Showcase on the Lake offers 6 distinctive floorplans in one and two story designs with three or four bedrooms and up to three baths. Each home has a private patio, inside laundry area and two-car garage.

Appointments include carpeting and drapes, brick wood-burning fireplaces with log lighter, and wet bars. Master suites have private baths and walk-in closets or oversized wardrobes. Kitchens are complete with built-in eye-level double oven, dishwasher and disposal, custom hardwood cabinetry and luminous ceilings.

Homeowners at Showcase on the Lake have the use of a private clubhouse together with a long list of other recreation facilities including pools and night-lighted tennis courts and, of course, there's the lake offering fishing and sailing. All recreation facilities are included in the homeowners association dues.

To see the models and make your early selection, take the San Diego Freeway to the Canada offramp, then left on Canada to Toledo. Turn left on Toledo and drive one-half mile to the sales office. Representatives of Kurth & Associates, exclusive sales agent, are on the premises daily from 10 a.m. to dusk.

CAR President Hits Red-Lining In OC Speech

The president of the state's Realtors has called for a three-pronged attack on red-lining.

In a news conference at the Disneyland Hotel, where the 80,000 member California Association of Realtors held its annual convention last week, Richard C. Farrer of Hayward named insured loans, counselling, and equal services by cities as weapons.

Red-lining is the practice by lenders and some government agencies of denying mortgage loans in specific geographical areas without regard to the worth of the would-be borrowers on the property.

"The new Housing Finance Agency just created in California offers the state a big opportunity to attack this problem," Farrer contended. "It will make direct mortgage loans to finance low and mod-

24 Homes Sold During Alicia Park Preview

Following the recent announcement of Arnel Development Company's preview opening of Alicia Park Model Homes, a new residential community in Laguna Hills, 24 homes have been sold, announced Ken Semperote, project sales manager.

The new completed sales office of the two, three and four bedroom homes has complete floorplans for the homes on display. Prices will range from $44,900 to $52,900 depending on choice of lot and plan.

Situated across from Alicia Park and an elementary school, the new family homes are within driving range of major Orange County employers. A short drive encompasses the Newport Financial Center and the growing list of industries and commercial centers surrounding the Orange County Airport. The county civic center in Santa Ana is just beyond and freeway access is just 1/4 of a mile away from Alicia Park Homes which are located on Paseo de Valencia.

New shops and facilities of the Laguna Hills Mall are within two miles and new offices surrounding the Mall offer all professional services. Saddleback Community College and the University of California at Irvine are within easy commuting distance and schools of elementary, junior high and senior high levels are nearby.

The new family homes will be completed by the end of this year (November), according to Robert E. Osborne, vice president of Arnel Development. The homes will have views of the Saddleback Mountains and the rolling ranchlands of Laguna Hills.

Lots range from 6,000 square feet to 7,000 square feet and a variety of exterior elevations are available with the four floorplans.

"Flexible designs have been created so that homebuying families can satisfy their individual needs for additional use of rooms. With the 3 bedrom plan, buyers have an optional den or 3rd bedroom choice. With one of the 4 bedroom plans, there's a large separate family room. Single-family homes are attracting those who seek traditional privacy, individuality and value," Osborne continued.

Alicia Park Homes will contain a long list of features including oak parquet floors in entryways, vaulted and wood ceilings, wood-burning fireplaces, built-in appliances in the patio kitchens and private yard space. A full description of standard and optional features is available in the sale office.

To reach the new family community in Laguna Hills, exit the San Diego Freeway at Alicia Parkway and turn right to Paseo de Valencia. The visitor's center is open daily and sales representatives are on the premises.

Dana D'Oro Selling Last Few Homes

Final sales of the last few Dana D'Oro homes are under way this weekend at the American Housing Guild community, located just over a mile from ocean beaches and Dana Marina in Dana Point.

"This is the last opportunity for buyers to take advantage of the Grand Closing Feature Package," states Hank Smith, director of sales for AHG/Orange County.

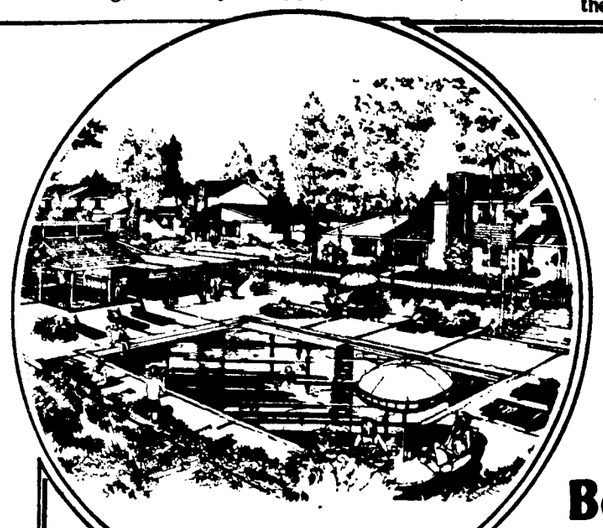

The closeout bonus includes drapes in most areas, rear yard fencing, front yard sprinklers and front and rear yard seeded lawns. The builder will also pay most of the closing costs on the remaining homes, Smith said.

Prices of the homes begin at $57,490 and all qualify for the government's 5 per cent tax credit. A choice of 3 to 5 bedrooms plans is available and the homes are ready for immediate occupancy.

Furnished model homes are open daily from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. during the closeout. Dana D'Oro is located on Acapulco Drive, west of Golden Lantern and just north of Pacific Coast Highway in Dana Point. For information, call (714) 831-2370.

Features Emphasized At Deerfield Park

Deerfield Park Homes, a private development of single family residences within The Irvine Company's award-winning community of Deerfield in the city of Irvine, contain a long list of price-included features creating extra built-in value and stimulating buyer response, according to Roy Humphreys, project manager for Century Community Developers, builder of the three and four bedroom homes.

Brick-faced, wood-burning fireplaces with a gas logligh-ter are the focal points for the formal living rooms or family rooms. Each plan has a separate formal dining area, most of the six floorplans have separate family rooms, and many plans have a separate breakfast nook.

Patio kitchens have luminous ceilings, furnished cabinetry, vinyl tile flooring and ceramic tile countertops surrounding the built-in appliances which include a range with vented hood, self-cleaning oven, dishwasher, disposal and trash compactor. Refrigerator areas are plumbed for an icemaker. Most plans have a pantry, some spanning the length of one wall.

Wall-to-wall carpeting is installed in all major areas and other features include convertible dens, vaulted ceilings, recessed front or side entries, raised formal dining "gallerias" and lounge/retreats in the master bedroom suite.

The one and two story homes have two or three baths. All baths have luminous ceilings, cultured marble pullman tops, and ceramic tile tubs with showers. Master baths are compartmented and feature oval Grecian tubs. A dressing area with a walk-in closet and a single wardrobe is off the master bath of one plan. Other master suites have single or double wardrobes.

Service areas for laundry appliances are separate, recessed work centers off the short hall leading to the attached double garage which is equipped with automatic door openers.

Deerfield Park Homes are priced from $58,495 to $73,995 and conventional financing is available.

To reach the new Deerfield Park Homes, exit the San Diego Freeway at Culver and drive south on Culver to the community of Deerfield in Irvine.

TOWNHOME AT VICTORIA VILLAGE IN RIVERSIDE

$1 Moves Veterans Into Victoria Village

For only $1 veterans can move into Victoria Village in Riverside with a low 8 per cent interest (8-1/4 per cent annual percentage rate) where townhomes are priced from $34,000 and ready for immediate occupancy now.

The new community from Victoria Village Development Co. is situated at Victoria and Monroe Streets in one of the Riverside/Arlington area's best residential neighborhoods, according to William McCabe of Wm. McCabe, Inc., sales agent.

Non-veterans can get financing at 8-1/2 per cent interest (8-3/4 per cent annual percentage rate). The townhomes qualify for the new 5 per cent Federal income tax credit with a minimum $1,700 return.

The development is nestled in a valley with views of surrounding mountains and offers family environment, McCabe said. The community features extensive, landscaped greenbelt areas with private tennis courts, swimming pool, wading pool, Jacuzzi and clubhouse for residents.

Convenience-planned kitchens are complete with built-in Caloric eye-level range and oven, dishwasher, disposer and ceramic tile counter tops. Heavy shag wall-to-wall carpeting is included throughout the homes.

The $6 million development offers the benefits of home ownership without the upkeep chores, McCabe noted, with maintenance of the exteriors of the townhomes, the grounds and recreation facilities provided through the homeowners association.

The picturesque country location of Victoria Village is close to schools, including the University of California, Riverside, shopping and complete community services.

Model homes are open daily from 12 noon to dusk and the development may be reached from the Orange County area by taking the Riverside Freeway to the Van Buren Boulevard exit in Riverside, then drive east (right) on Van Buren a short distance to Victoria Street. Go left on Victoria four blocks to Monroe Street and Victoria Village.

We'll see plenty of open space, woods, water, and play areas, too. We might go by any one of several schools to pick up the kids (although it's walking distance home).

Our neighborhood recreation center.
There's tennis here, and swimming, too. Our kids take lessons here...swimming lessons and instruction in water safety. Elsewhere in Lake Forest, there's the saddle club; miles of trails criss-cross the community. But let's continue toward New Lake; our own preserve for boating and fishing.

Your lakeshore village single-family home.
And here we are. Home. Style, grace, and architectural elegance. These are exceptional single-family homes. Each stands alone (no common walls here), each a superlative example of home building's newest ideas. These homes are breathtaking...beautiful in all ways, and cannot be envisioned without a personal visit. So, come on to Lakeshore Village...it's that lakeshore village home you always wanted. Corsican Villas Continues Award-Winning Design

The award winning and landscaping and architectural design of two earlier sections has been incorporated and refined in the design of the nearly completed third phase of the New Corsican Villas, located on Palm Street between Lambert Road and Central Avenue and west of the Orange Freeway (Route 57) in Brea.

The first and second phases recently received the City of Brea's Beautification Award for the project's design efforts to "help create a more beautiful environment." These design features have been further upgraded in the latest New Corsican Villas phase.

The design award requires that new buildings be architecturally compatible with the local environment. The new one and two story townhomes, priced from $38,450 to $43,950, combine carefully maintained greenery with modern building design to retain the rustic, rural atmosphere of the Brea area.

The award winning lawn and planting specifications will be broadened in the third phase's expanded greenbelt area. A wide variety of shrubbery, perennial flowers, and trees, including the traditional olive, add expansiveness to the villas, while enhancing the project's walkways and stonework at the same time.

The Spanish stucco exteriors and wood-shingled roofs of the two, three, and four bedroom townhomes emphasize New Corsican Villas' rustic motif and its relationship to the Brea countryside. This effect is carried over in the cabana and swimming pool areas where wood siding and trim helps present a rough-hued appearance.

The Brea beautification requirements specify that all service areas be screened from public view and that such screening fit the overall design of the project. Each homeowner has a two-car enclosed garage adjacent to his private patio.

Guest parking, plus a special enclosed parking area for recreational vehicles, are situated in locations to architecturally blend with the townhomes' rustic appearance.

New Corsican Villas' architecture and landscaping designs may be viewed from 10 a.m. to dusk daily. Additional information may be attained by calling (714) 529-9967.

Ken Sempsrote To Head Sales At Alicia Park

Ken Sempsrote has been appointed to head sales for Alicia Park Homes, a new residential community of family homes in Laguna Hills. The announcement was made by Robert E. Osborne, vice president of Arnel Development Company, builder of the $4 million parkside neighborhood of 80 homes.

Active in real estate sales in Los Angeles and Orange Counties for more than 12 years, Sempsrote will be project sales manager.

"Alicia Park Homes are priced from $44,900 to $52,900, substantially below comparable homes in this area. The unusual rural setting and the outstanding quality of construction offers new homebuyers solid value in a fast-approaching market," Sempsrote stated.

"Features of the 2, 3 and 4 bedroom homes are those usually found only in much more expensive custom homes and the parkside location is ideal for good family living. We anticipate a heavy demand for these well-designed homes because of the built-in value."

Access to the San Diego Freeway is just 1/4 of a mile away from Paseo de Valencia. The new shopping facilities of Laguna Hills Mall are less than 2 miles away and schools of all levels are nearby. An elementary school and a park are located across from the homes. Irvine Industrial Park and Orange County Airport are approximately 10-15 minutes away.

A sales information trailer, open daily from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m., is located at the site of the new homes. Ken Sempsrote and his staff are available to assist prospective homebuyers with site selection and floor plans.

To reach the new Arnel-built residential development in Laguna Hills, exit the San Diego Freeway at Alicia Parkway and turn right at Paseo de Valencia.

Homebuilders Search For New Techniques

SANTA BARBARA — "The housing industry is progressively pushing for new building techniques, products and systems that will make home ownership available to a larger segment of American families."

Eric Wittenberg, a vice president of the National Association of Home Builders, made this observation while participating in a televised discussion on the need for more housing. The program, "Real Estate Report", was aired here on KEYT, Channel 3, recently.

The development of solar energy sources to heat and cool homes will reduce operating costs appreciably in future homes, Wittenberg told Jim Woodard, producer-host of the informational program series. "A number of varying types of building materials are now being researched and tested that will reduce construction costs in the future.

"Some lower-cost products are already being used on a large scale. Plastic pipes in plumbing systems is an example."

Wittenberg, president of The Wittenberg Corporation of Los Angeles — one of the country's major construction and development firms — also discussed the "basic house" as a form of lower-cost new homes in the future. "No frills or fancy luxuries — just a small but comfortable home with a relative low price tag," he said.

The acceptance of smaller lots and new financing techniques will also help more families achieve the cherished goal of home ownership in future years, Wittenberg said during the candid on-camera discussion.

Wittenberg, who represents NAHB's Area 14 (California and Hawaii) was accompanied by Carl Kraemer, assistant planning director for Santa Barbara County, on the TV program.

Both guests agreed that there is a housing shortage in California. Wittenberg declared that recent State housing goals established a need for 250,000 units a year and pointed out that less than half that number will be built this year. While acknowledging the housing need "across the board", particularly for low and moderate income families, Kraemer added that the rate at which communities choose to grow will have a lot to do with actual housing supplies in the future.

The "Real Estate Report" program series has been generating a larger viewing audience in Santa Barbara and Ventura counties than was expected when started in early summer, according to Woodard. "I guess more people are actively interested in real estate related information than we anticipated," he said.

Woodard, who resides in Santa Barbara, also writes a nationally distributed newspaper column on real estate.

THE REGISTER'S QUESTION BOX

Q. Will you please tell me how to clean frosted glass windows? When putty or glazing compound is smeared on frosted glass and its removal does not respond to conventional cleaners, how can it be removed safely and easily? — Rod McD

A. Do not attempt to remove any materials by scraping the glass with a metal tool.

Such a procedure will result in marring the surface and depositing metal particles in it. The recommended way for cleaning such windows is to rub the soiled portion with a cotton cloth dampened with diluted muriatic acid (one part acid to one part water). But be very careful in applying this solution as muriatic acid is dangerous. Wear rubber gloves and be careful not to damage the window trim with the acid. Cake soap rubbed on the trim acts as something of a protection against the acid. Putty and paint should be removed with a paint-varnish remover.

Q. Our walls are wallboard with a textured finish instead of plaster. Now we are thinking about papering the dining room walls and some walls in the bedrooms. Must this textured finish be sanded off? How do we prepare the walls for paper? If we need or desire a change later, can this paper be removed from the wallboard? — Ted C.M.

A. By using a textured paper, it will be quite easy to paper your walls. With textured paper, the texture of the basic wall underneath will not be plainly visible.

However, the textured finish on the wallboard could be smoothed by using an electric sander, which can be rented from a tool rental shop. Of course, there is a lot of difference in the texture of walls. Here is another suggestion: there is a lining paper now on the market which could be used to help smooth the wall surface. It has the added advantage that the finish wallpaper may be pulled off the lining paper at any time you wish to change the wall covering.

Dana Terrace Homes Located Near Yacht Harbor

Features and ocean area location are gaining an enthusiastic buyer response at Dana Terrace, a new townhome development less than a mile from Dana Point Yacht Harbor in Dana Point, according to the developer.

Modern "sea-architecture" by Robert M. Thomas and Associates, AIA, of Newport Beach, creates a contemporary woody effect in shingled exteriors for three innovative, multi-level floor plans.

Among the features of the new residences are formal tiled entry foyers, large living and dining rooms on the contemporary, open-styled lower levels. There are vaulted ceilings, wood-burning fireplaces, wet bars and view windows.

Kitchens are built-in with electric appliances and there are inside or garage laundry areas. All of the homes have private wood deck patio and Schlage deadbolt entry door locks.

A fireplace is featured in master suite of one plan and a Grecian oval tub in the private master bath of another of the homes.

Preview prices range from $49,750 to $55,500 at Dana Terrace. All of the dramatic townhomes offer two bedrooms and 2½ baths. First occupancy is scheduled for mid-October at the new development.

The private townhome community is protected by electronically-controlled Genie security gates and features a swimming pool and jacuzzi amid three open acres of landscaped grounds.

The greenbelt areas, facilities and exteriors of the home are maintained through the homeowners association.

A number of coastal area homeseekers have visited the new community, resulting in excellent pre-sales, according to the sales agent, Norma Montgomery of Montgomery Real Estate.

Decorator furnished model homes are open daily at Dana Terrace, located at Del Obispo and Stonehill in Dana Point. The homes may be reached by taking the San Diego Freeway to the Ortega Highway exit in San Juan Capistrano.

Drive west (right) one block to Del Obispo, then turn left on Del Obispo and drive approximately three miles to Stonehill and Dana Terrace.

For additional sales information or an appointment to see the new townhomes, call (714) 496-1268 or 493-5704.

LIVING ROOM VIEW OF 'BUDGET DECORATED' OCEAN HILLS MODEL

OCEAN HILLS TOWNHOME 'BUDGET DECORATED'

An experimental project sponsored by La Quinta Styleline Development Company at its Ocean Hills, San Clemente townhome development has resulted in two completely furnished and decorated models at a price of under $5,000 each.

The concept, according to Warren Sturtevant, is aimed at demonstrating the countless budget approaches open to homebuyers coping with today's inflated economy.

The typical cost of a decorator-furnished model for a new home sales complex ranges from $15,000 to $45,000. The building firm, through special arrangement with Croddy Mortgage Investment Trust of Santa Ana, last July employed two local area residents to illustrate the cost reductions possible by eliminating the use of a professional decorating service.

Mrs. Anne Schauwecker of San Juan Capistrano and Mrs. Patti Inman of Irvine were selected for the task. Working from a strict $10,000 budget, they accomplished the mission in one month's time, approximately $1,000 under the allotted figure.

$4,058 was the total cost for furnishing a 2-bedroom, 1-1/2 bath model including carpeting and draperies. A larger, 3-bedroom, 2-1/2 bath model was completed for $4,876 including carpeting and draperies.

As a general guideline, the Schauwecker-Inman team was asked to confine all purchases to local sources available to the average homebuyer.

In planning their decorating approach at Ocean Hills, the two women began by deciding on a basic color scheme for each of the two models.

Green was chosen for the Plan 2 model, highlighted by varying shades of yellow and orange, while blue was used as the primary color in Plan 3, accented by red and white.

Colors decided, the two women launched their attack, haunting antique shops, garage sales and hardware stores. Item by item, they hunted down furniture clearances, classified ad bargains and warehouse sales, buying off the floor to eliminate delivery charges and meet their appointed deadline.

Carpeting and drapes were the first major purchases, followed by living room sofas and chairs. Schauwecker handled the purchasing of overall furnishings, while Inman followed up by accessorizing and color-coordinating the rooms.

To attain color harmony, sheets, bedspreads and wallpaper were keyed to drapes and carpeting. In some cases, furniture was painted to complement color schemes.

Wallpaper and specialty decor items added further color continuity. A paper hanger was located through the Pennysaver who did a highly professional job at substantially reduced costs and utilized leftover paper scraps to create eye-catching accents in smaller areas.

Old was mixed with new in both furnishings and accessories throughout each model. Contrasts of wood and chrome were blended with numerous varieties of fabrics and textures to create a personalized effect.

Lake Forest II

Located on the lower level of the clubhouse is a large mirrored exercise room with the latest in weight room equipment. Twice weekly in the evening a special "Slim & Trim" class will be directed by Joan Miller for members wanting to improve their shape. Both men's and women's locker rooms are spacious and located opposite the exercise room.

Teenagers have a separate, private clubhouse also on the lake opposite the main clubhouse. Here teenagers will have their own programs and tournaments arranged by a full-time staff member.

On the upper level of the main clubhouse "Operation 3 to 5" will be organized to give parents more free time for work or play.

Each morning Day Care sessions will be coordinated by Kathy Miller in the Arts & Crafts Center. The design of this area allows for three separate rooms to be partitioned off so that children can pursue individual activities.

In addition, sinks and lockers have been included giving them the possibility to learn a broader spectrum of crafts conveniently, while outside the clubhouse there is a special playground for small children.

The Sun & Sail Club is a non-profit organization supported by its members and Occidental Land, Inc. With its current membership exceeding 2,000 persons, The Sun & Sail Club will continue to grow as more developments open in Lake Forest II.

Owners of homes in Villas del Lago, Lakeshore Village, Lakeside Park, North Shores, Park Place, Ranchwood II and Meadow Homes are currently members of The Sun & Sail Club.

Now celebrating their grand openings are The Oaks and Woodwalk and soon to open is Showcase Homes. Since all of these are in Lake Forest II, new owners can look forward to also enjoying the club.

Currently he is in charge of the seven full-time staff members who will be organizing the club's year-round activities.

The Sun & Sail Club is located on the corner of Canada Road and Toleda Way in Lake Forest II.

Park Terrace Reports 20 Sales In Month

Park Terrace Village, a $3 million townhome condominium development of Amfac Properties, Inc., has passed the $2.5 million mark in sales, according to Rob MacLeod, Amfac's director of marketing.

"We've sold 77 of the 83 townhomes here," beamed MacLeod, "and 20 of them were sold in September for a volume of $750,000. In a depressed housing market, selling this fast testifies to the quality and conveniences of the community," he added.

"Recreation is the theme at Park Terrace Village, and the setting and the facilities are there for home buyers to enjoy," MacLeod said.

Built around a distinctively designed recreation center and clubhouse, a 16-foot-high fireplace directly in the center of the clubhouse provides a rustic touch and cheers residents in any weather.

Also provided are attractive lounge, billiard, game and party-kitchen areas.

A heated swimming pool, almost Olympic in size, a competition-type paddle tennis court, spa and an abundance of landscaping makes the court as attractive as the interiors, according to MacLeod.

Park Terrace Village offers the buyer two floor plans in two elevations. Exteriors are stucco with dramatic cedar shake trims. Air conditioning is provided in all homes at no extra cost.

Interiors display many built-in design features, including raised balcony dining areas providing views of sunken living rooms with gas log fireplaces, and 11-foot-high beam ceilings.

One plan has a 14.5 by 19.5-foot master bedroom suite with wall-to-wall wardrobe closets and a second bedroom with dressing room, pullman vanity and walk-in closet. The latter could serve as a study or den.

All homes have separate formal entries with vinyl floor covering and private, fenced patios off living rooms. Access is provided through sliding glass doors.

Townhomes have a single full common wall to assure every owner of only one "close" neighbor.

Built-ins in kitchens include continuous cleaning ovens and dishwashers. Master suites boast baths with cultured marble pullmans and full-length mirrors. Tubs and showers are enclosed.

Park Terrace Village is close to many Orange County shopping centers, cultural centers, and entertainment attractions, Disneyland, Knott's Berry Farm and Anaheim Stadium are nearby.

Decorated and furnished models, open from 10 a.m. to 5:30 p.m. daily, may be seen by taking the Santa Ana Freeway to the Chapman east exit, driving east one block to Flower, then right for three more blocks to Park Terrace Village.

Sales At Captain's Hill Near Half-Way Mark

Construction and sales are setting a fast pace at Holstein Industries' Captain's Hill community in San Juan Capistrano where pre-sales are approaching the half way mark, the developer reports.

Located on a hill above San Juan Capistrano valley, the unusual, Mediterreanean styled cluster homes enjoy views to the valley and out to Dana Point Marina, three miles away, according to Holstein project head, Dan DeMille.

Priced from $55,000, the Spanish influenced, attached homes include a choice of two, three and four bedroom homes with private entries, a wide use of file, open ceilings, fireplaces, built in kitchens, mirror doors, walled garden areas and patios.

Located on curved private streets above Del Obispo Street, the Captain's Hill development offers pool, rolling green areas, and guard gate. The community is one of the last hillside developments being offered in the beach city, DeMille said.

The cluster homes are offering a range of financing with FHA, VA and conventional terms available. Early homes will be completed by late winter.

To visit the site, visitors should take the San Diego Freeway to the Ortega off-ramp in San Juan Capistrano. Go left at the Del Obispo signal and follow Del Obispo to the site. From the Coast Highway the development is just three miles from the Marina on Del Obispo.

Question Box

Q. Several years ago, our family room floor, which is concrete, was covered with a vinyl asbestos tile, and the adhesive has been seeping up between the tiles, both in areas which are repeatedly walked across and those which bear little foot traffic.

We thought after a few months that this problem would disappear, but it seems to persist. Can you give us any suggesetions for a remedy? — Alice Mary N.

A. It is probably that too much adhesive was applied when the floor was laid. Eventually, the problem should correct itself, but it may take some time, several years in fact. In the meantime, the seeping adhesive can be wiped off the surface with a cloth dampened with naphtha. There is also a possibility the wrong adhesive was used. Special adhesives are recommended where a resilient floor is to be installed over a concrete floor, especially if the latter is on ground level or below grade. This information may come in handy in the event you install a new covering of resilient flooring.

Model Home Sale

The Best For Last!

We really did. If you've been looking for a new home, you know that the models are among the choicest of the choice. Best locations, draperies, special wall coverings, extra carpeting and the like. Well, that's what we're selling.

We've been one of the most popular of the townhome condominiums in all of Orange County and we have no more room to build. So the models are going. At great prices, too, along with a few remaining production homes. All are move-in ready and still one of the best new home values anywhere.

For a start, no one lives above or below you. And you still have a choice of one or two story floor plans. You'll have a private balcony or patio, complete built-in kitchen and enclosed parking. There is a recreation center with pool and cabana all ready and waiting for you. And to insure maximum privacy and peaceful views, there are plenty of greenbelts between units.

So hurry on over to Yorktowne Villas today and get the cream of the crop. Once they're gone, there will be no more.

CAR Speech

erate income housing.

"We think a substantial portion of these funds should be used for insured loans, the state insuring the top 40 per cent of loans made by private lenders in mortgage deficient areas, those now red-lined. This will encourage lending there because it lessens the risk."

Farrer said the C.A.R. will be working to amend the law to this end at the next legislative session. The agency has been authorized $300 million in revenue bonds, expected to be issued later this year, $250 million in federal participation bonds already being appropriated by Congress, and $500 million in general obligation bonds to be submitted for voter approval in November 1976.

"But we don't think just providing funds will be enough," the Realtor president said. "Families going into red-lined areas need to know how to fix a leaky water faucet, the necessity of saving for a new roof when it's needed, how to keep up a house and manage their finances so they can.

"That means counselling," he said. "We think counselling should be a condition for any loan made in low and moderate income areas. This will help those borrowers be good neighbors and help avoid the blight that is too much a part of some of our cities."

"In Los Angeles, Mayor Tom Bradley has invited us to have a representative on a task force on red-lining he is forming. We have recommended one of our black Realtor members and a lender, Bennie Slayton of San Fernando.

Farrer said the association is asking its 174 boards of Realtors throughout the state to suggest similar approaches in their own cities where redlining is a problem.

The C.A.R. convention began Wednesday and continued through Saturday noon. Some 6,000 Realtors, Realtor-Associates, their spouses and guests, attending.

Linda Vista Terrace In Closeout

In the final closeout of Linda Vista Terrace in Orange, homeseekers may now buy direct from the lender at an interest rate as low as 7-1/2 per cent (7-3/4 per cent annual percentage rate) on some homes, according to Bob Farrow, builder and president of Farrow Development Corp.

Immediate occupancy is available and all of homes qualify for the 5 per cent tax credit of up to $2,000, Farrow said.

The single family homes remaining are two story plans with four bedrooms and three baths, priced from $65,950. "When these are gone there will not be any more available in this price range in this choice location," the builder noted.

Model homes are open daily from 10 a.m. at 1091 Linda Vista St. in Orange, with sales under the direction of Farrow Realtors, with offices in Orange and San Diego Counties.

The $3 million development may be reached by taking the Newport Freeway to the Katella exit and driving east one and one-half miles on Katella (which becomes Villa Park Road) to Linda Vista Street. Drive south on Linda Vista Street five blocks to Linda Vista Terrace indicating that as many as 18 per cent of the Southlanders—including the undecided ones—may move before August of next year.

Savings inflow into savings and loan associations dropped sharply in August, according to the Federal Home Loan Bank Board.

Net new savings receipts of federally insured S&Ls totaled $1.3 billion in August, a $1.6 billion drop from the previous month. The FHLBB said about one-third of the drop was attributed to seasonal influences and blamed the rest on recent increases in market increase rates.

It is known that borrowing by the U.S. Treasury has begun to hit the S&Ls hard this year, as it did in 1974, when higher government interest drew billions away from the nation's savings and loans as well as other lending institutions.

However, the nation's S&Ls lending activity managed to continue strong during August when mortgage loans closed by insured associations totaled $5.6 billion, 4 per cent more than a month earlier and 60 per cent more than the sharply curtailed lending volume of August 1974.

The FHLBB noted that a portion of the month-to-month raise in lending reflected typical seasonal influences, but even after allowance for this, lending volume in August was the largest in more than two years.

And this from the Real Estate News Observer:

Sometimes it takes a little psychology! Did you ever ask a hardware store owner what he had for sale?

He won't answer by saying he has a hammer or a saw! He'll tell you he has a lot of products for sale. The buyer can't think of any item so he'll wander off, and the hardware store owner will lose the sale.

The same concept is true for real estate. If someone asks you what you have for sale and you answer "real estate ", you lose.

Think of one item your office has for sale, and that's what you have for sale.

Now, if you're asked, "What do you have for sale?" you can reply with a specific parcel of real estate.

For Example:

"I have a 10-acre parcel of land on XYZ Road which is offered on favorable terms."

Try this idea out and see what develops!

The Tennessean sales office is open daily from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. staffed by Warmington Development's own sales force.

The new townhome development is easy to reach by traveling north or south on the Newport Freeway to the 17th Street exit. Turn west on 17th Street to Tustin Avenue, then south on Tustin Avenue for two blocks to the beautiful park entrance and The Tennessean at 1404 North Tustin Ave., Santa Ana.

Ramona Village Second Phase Holds Preview

Preview showing of the second phase of Ramona Village, Griffin Development Co.'s new townhome community in Chino is slated for this weekend, it was announced by Paul Griffin, Jr., president of the four-generation family-owned construction company.

"And if the sales record for our first phase of Ramona Village are any indication, we can expect an early sell-out of these new townhome designs," he stated.

Significant cost reductions are achieved at Ramona Village with the construction concept of the duplex home. The homes are set in pairs, architecturally designed to give each structure the appearance of a large single-family residence.

The soundproof, fireproof common wall is nearly a foot thick, Griffin notes.

The one and two-story, two and three-bedroom homes include continuous cleaning ovens and other kitchen appliances: ceramic tile, baths, cultured marble pullman tops.

Nylon shag carpets, cedar shake roofs and stucco and slumpstone front courtyard are other inducements noted.

Some floor plans display master bedroom suites extending the full depth of the home, sitting rooms and family and living room areas open to the second story level.

The rear yard of each home is fenced and assures total privacy, while the front yards are maintained by Ramona Village's homeowners' association. A greenbelt or park area is also maintained by the association as is the community swimming pool. Professional care of such facilities is provided for in a minimal monthly maintenance fee.

Priced from $32,450, Ramona Village offers a flexible array of financing arrangements including VA, FHA and conventional financing. An interest rate of 8% (8 1/2% APR) currently prevails.

BUDGET DECORATED

Visitors are welcome to visit the two experimental models, now open at the Ocean Hills third Phase Sales complex located in the complex two blocks north of the San Diego Freeway at the Estrella offramp. Two additional models, one of which serves as the sales office, are unfurnished with carpeting and draperies only.

Ocean Hills is a $8,000,000 townhome development in the coastal hills of San Clemente. Unobstructed, panoramic ocean views are featured by nearly every home.

Priced from $48,100 to $63,600, the homes are available in six floor plans ranging from 2 to 3 bedrooms and 1 1/2 to 2 baths.

All homes feature covered front entries, spacious outdoor patios or sun decks, oversize two-car garages, in-home laundry areas and fully built-in kitchens.

Recreation facilities include a private clubhouse, two heated swimming pools and a nine-hole pitch and putt golf course. Beaches and marinas, parks, golf courses, shopping and civic centers are all within the immediate vicinity. Models are open daily from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. Telephone at sales office: (714) 493-2500.

Each Lake Canyon kitchen, designed to please the homemaker that entertains often, includes a Tappan range with continuous cleaning gas oven, dishwasher, disposal, family-size pantry, water line for ice maker, luminous ceiling and hardwood cabinets.

Additional features are double-door entries with hardware, wall-to-wall carpeting, dependable forced air heating, heavy insulation, and handcrafted wrought-iron railings.

Exterior amenities include pool-size lots, wide walkways, shake roofs, and weatherstripping. Laundry hook-ups are included in the garage or indoor laundry area.

Lake Canyon is located directly across from the clubhouse of the Pomona National Country Club, at the corner of Colima Road and Lake Canyon Drive. To reach the community from Orange County, take the Orange (57) Freeway to the Pomona Freeway and drive west.

Exit at Brea Canyon Road, the first offramp, and turn left. Turn right onto Colima and proceed to the entrance of Lake Canyon.

Woman Realtor Places Second In State Contest

Mrs. Vita Garrett, a La Mirada Realtor, has placed second in a statewide real estate exchange contest conducted by the Industrial, Commercial and Exchange Division of the 80,000-member California Association of Realtors.

Announcement was made by Mrs. Evelyn R. Walsh of Hawthorne, chairman of the annual awards committee, during the 71st annual C.A.R. convention at the Disneyland Hotel in Anaheim.

Mrs. Garrett placed second in the "Best Exchange Under $500,000."

Her exchange involved a small investor who was shown how to acquire three times what he had hoped to purchase (three 4-unit buildings, rather than one)

Additionally, the investor had the property which he acquired, cash out his brother and three sisters' share to fulfill the wish of his deceased father.

Also, the exchange afforded him maximum leverage and a greater basis for tax shelter.

The client now has the ability to some day afford a college education for his two sons, a long-range goal started for him by the exchangor.

IMMEDIATE OCCUPANCY IS OFFERED AT GARDEN PARK TOWNHOMES

FINAL TOWNHOME PHASE OPENS AT GARDEN PARK

Garden Park, the new townhome community in Garden Grove, has opened a final unit for sale, offering immediate occupancy.

The 41 townhomes are accented by a variety of recreational facilities and extensive landscaping. Garden Park has been developed by S&S Construction, a major subsidiary of Shapell Industries.

Designed with growing families in mind, Garden Park offers two to four bedroom townhomes priced from $35,950. Five decorator furnished models are now open to the public.

Design and maintenance-free recreational oriented life style have been the key features appealing to buyers at Garden Park.

"Townhome living has proven to be one of the most popular forms of housing, and we think Garden Park exemplifies the appeal of a more casual and convenient life style," stated Mark Bader, vice president and general manager of S & S Construction.

"All exterior maintenance is handled by professional crews, giving our residents more leisure time to enjoy the recreational facilities available to them," Bader added.

Features include wall to wall carpeting, enclosed private garden patios, wood or masonry trim exterior, cedar shake roofing, custom wood cabinetry, designed and handcrafted exclusively by Shapell's cabinet shop, and complete ceiling and sidewall insulation.

Additional amenities include vinyl tile entries, gas range and oven, dishwasher, cultured marble pullman tops, steel sinks and tubs, and decorator light fixtures.

The one and two story plans are designed around expansive green belt areas and the community recreation center. Homeowners automatically become members of the center and have full use of the swimming pool, jacuzzi whirlpool, and clubhouse, which includes a fireside lounge, complete kitchen, and bar.

Homebuyers may also take advantage of the services provided by Shapell's Decorating Studios, which offer a line of home furnishings and accessories and free professional decorating counsel.

Garden Park is located at 12876 Newhope Street, close to major shopping and educational centers in the area, as well as employment centers.

From Santa Ana, Garden Park may be reached by taking the Garden Grove Freeway west to the Newhope Street exit, proceeding north to the model complex. From Los Angeles, take the Garden Grove Freeway east from the San Diego Freeway to Newhope Street north.

S & S Construction and its parent firm, Shapell, have developed more than 22,000 homes throughout California in the past 20 years.

One of the nation's largest home builders, the company has been the recipient of numerous awards from civic and state governments, trade organizations, and homeowner associations. S & S has been named five times in the United States Congressional Record for "Superior quality construction."

Shapell Industries has shares listed on the New York and Pacific Stock Exchanges.

Canyon Oaks Issues Last Call To Buyers

Canyon Oaks, a single-family project of American National Housing Corporation, announces "last call!" for those who wish to own one of their attractive three and four bedroom homes. The Santa Ana Canyon community will soon be completely sold out.

"Even as we near our final sales, we can still offer a good selection of plans, lots & exterior styling," observes Jim Lenon, vice president sales and marketing for American National Housing.

"Even though ninety per cent of our homes have already been spoken for, all plans are still available and the selection of our larger, most popular homes is especially good — we planned on their popularity and made larger numbers available right from the start. And good planning has kept production up with sales so that our buyers' homes are ready when they are".

Features available at Canyon Oaks include formal living rooms with cathedral ceilings, woodburning fireplaces and charming family rooms with large sliding glass doors leading to fully fenced rear yards of pool-size dimensions.

Kitchens offer custom-finished hardwood cabinetry, eye-level self-cleaning ovens, ceramic tile countertops, luminous ceilings and under-the-counter dishwasher and disposal.

Bathrooms include ceramic tile in showers as well as over the tubs, and hardwood pullmans with cultured marble tops.

Interiors are highlighted by handsome vinyl floor coverings in kitchen, baths and family room, and one hundred per cent nylon shag carpeting throughout the remainder of the home.

Exterior designs display rich styling executed in the traditional California textures of natural stucco with extensive wood detailing.

Prices at Canyon Oaks begin at $46,995.

To see the models, take the Riverside Freeway to the Imperial exit. Turn south to Santa Ana Canyon Road, left 1/4 mile and left again to Canyon Oaks.

New Builder Moving Into Southern Cal

L.B. Nelson, president of the L.B. Nelson Corporation, Menlo Park, California, announced his firm's entry into the Southern California housing market.

The Southern California operations will be headquartered in San Diego. Before taking the Nelson position, Degen was president of American Housing Guild of San Diego for four years and earlier had been President of Trans Robles Corporation.

"We're in escrow on one prime location in the San Diego area at the present time, and we're looking at two other locations in Southern California, one in Orange County," Degen announced. "We are also actively seeking new land throughout Southern California to expand Nelson's operations in this area," Degen continued.

The L.B. Nelson Corporation has built approximately 10,000 housing units in Northern California in the past 15 years.

Grand Opening Under Way At The Meadows Homes In Chino

Today marks the grand opening of the fifth phase of single-family homes at The Meadow, American National Housing Corporation's popular project in Chino.

"The Meadow is only 15 minutes from Orange County, but that short distance can save homebuyers thousands of dollars," comments Jim Lenon, vice president, sales and marketing for American National Housing.

"Location and The Meadow's great design features work together to create a kind of value that's tough to beat — the popularity of our previous four phases will attest to that. And with the opening of our newest phase, decisive buyers can again have first choice of lot, plan and exterior styling."

Standard features to be found at The Meadow include vaulted ceilings, formal living and dining areas, family rooms, wood burning fireplaces with keyed gas valves for log lighters and one hundred percent nylon shag carpeting throughout.

Kitchens boast luminous ceilings, ceramic tile countertops, furniture finish hardwood cabinetry, pantries, breakfast bars and Gaffers and Sattler appliances including eye-level range and oven.

Fully insulated walls and ceilings are built to Southern California Gas Company's "Concern" standards for energy conservation.

Each home is situated on a generously sized lot with room enough to accomodate a pool as well as garden. Front yards are landscaped and equipped with sprinklers. Rear yards are fenced.

Homes at The Meadow are available in plans offering 3 and 4 bedrooms, priced from $37,495.

Master bedrooms are designed as suites, with private dressing area and baths. The master bath, like all the baths, features ceramic tile in the shower and tub areas, and cultured marble pullman tops.

To reach The Meadow, take the Riverside Freeway to the Corona Freeway, off at Euclid Avenue, left on Riverside Drive and left again on Mountain Avenue. The model complex is open from 10 a.m. until dusk.

14-Story Blue Cross HQ Rising

Turner Construction Company has begun construction on Blue Cross of Southern California's new 14-story headquarters office. The non-profit health care pre-payment and hospital service plan is relocating its Los Angeles offices to Warner Center in Woodland Hills.

The headquarters complex will consist of a 14-story office tower, with 335,000 square feet, accompanied by three low-rise service buildings with 115,000 square feet, for a total of 450,000 feet of office space.

The building complex will house up to 2500 Blue Cross headquarters employes, with parking provided for 1600 cars.

Project is being constructed under a "fast track" schedule whereby the early phases of construction — site work, utilities and foundations — begin immediately, while final design is being developed for the balance of the project.

MASTER SUITE TYPICAL OF THOSE FOUND AT 'THE LANDING'

MASTER SUITES NOTED AT KENDALL'S 'LANDING'

A master suite should be a welcome retreat where one can escape from the stress of the day and unwind, according to Shirley Collins, director of marketing for Kendall Development Company, Inc. of Newport Beach.

"That's what we feel we've captured in the master suites at The Landing, Kendall's new luxury community in Huntington Beach," she said.

Appointments, such as antique brass hardware and room-size walk-in closets, featuring metal poles, laminate surfaced shelves, and specialty storage areas, are evident in each of the four plans offered at The Landing. Three of the suites are entered through double doors.

Strips Hold Slats

The screens are built of spaced, vertical 2x2-inch fir on top and bottom rails of 2x4s, with 2x2-inch nailing strips doubling up on the 2x4s.

A 2x4 decorative top rail is set on the posts about a foot above the screen rails. The posts and rails are stained dark to accent the natural tones of the 2x2 screening.

Spacing between the vertical 2x2s provides privacy but allows good air circulation so heat doesn't build up in the outdoor living area.

Master baths contribute to the scheme of the suite with step-up Roman tubs, built-in planter areas, skylights, and double pullmans. Two plans feature both tubs and separate shower areas.

The adjacent dressing area, feature Dupont Corian countertops, generous storage with stain-finished cabinets, and full-width mirrors.

The Landing features four plans, ranging in size from 1,701 to 2,633 square feet. Homebuyers may choose three or four bedroom models, with two or three bathrooms. Prices start at $71,990.

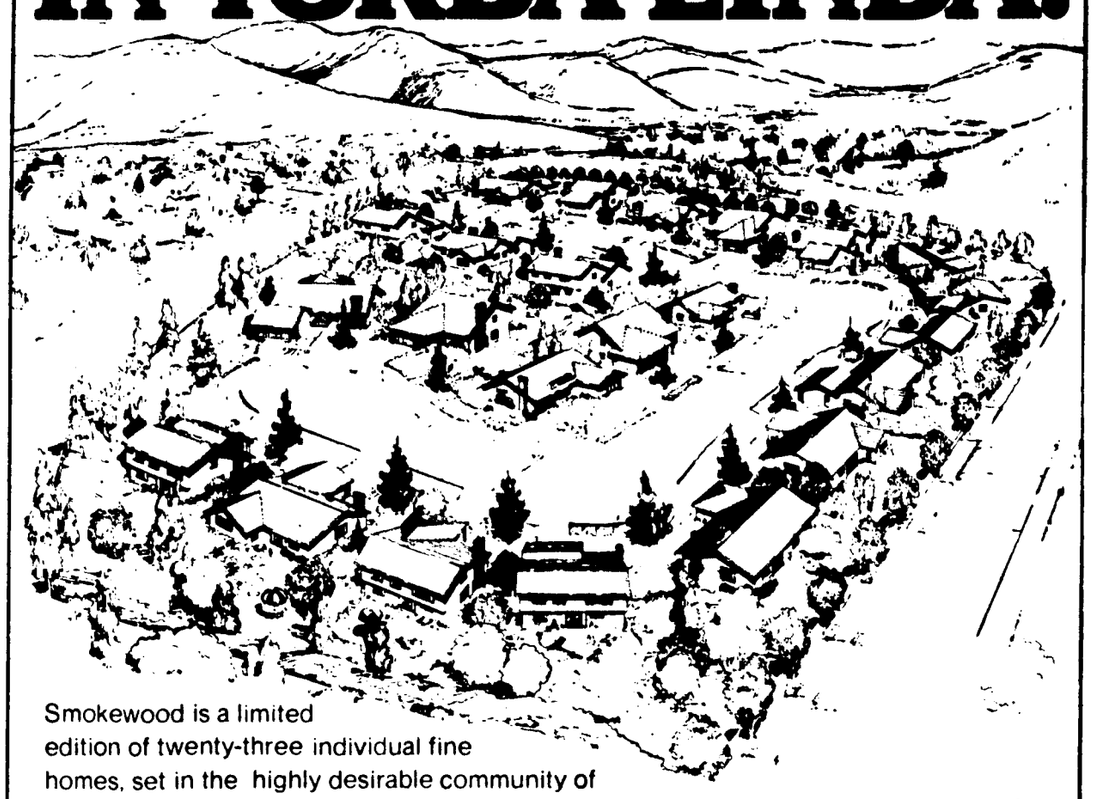

Centrally located near the San Diego Freeway, The Landing is close to the Westminster Mall, Huntington Center and South Coast Plaza, as well as commercial centers in Los Angeles and Orange Counties.

Models are open daily from 10 a.m. until 6 p.m. and evenings by appointment.

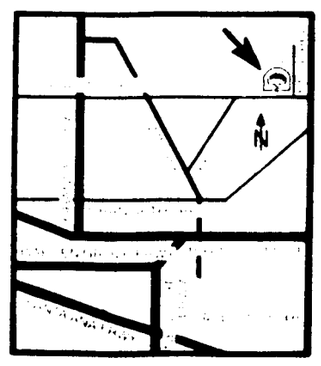

To reach the community, take the San Diego Freeway to either the Springdale or Beach Boulevard exit. Follow the signs to The Landing at the corner of Springdale Street and Talbert Avenue.

12 MONTHS BEFORE THE PAYMENTS!

In the tradition of Richard Henry Dana's immortal "2 Years Before the Mast," Dana Light Condominiums announces an unprecedented offer. When Dana landed in beautiful Dana Point in 1835, he wrote that it was the most perfect place to live in the world. And now when you buy a new home at Dana Light, you can live in that "most perfect place" for up to one year without a principal or interest payment! That's right When you make a normal 10% down payment on a new Dana Light ocean-view condominium, Dana Light will make your entire monthly principal and interest payments for up to one year! All you pay are the taxes and homeowners' fees for that period.

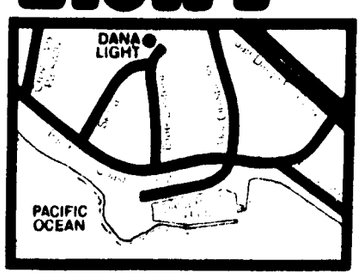

As the sea is part of Dana Point's past, Dana Light is a contemporary home for the future. Spectacular six-mile ocean views. Lighted tennis courts. A beautiful heated pool with jacuzzi and saunas for men and women. And all located within a private security guard-gated community. Many features you would expect to pay extra for are included in the base price, like self-cleaning ovens, drapes, trash compactor, enclosed garage with electric opener, and even a built-in washer and dryer!

This offer is for a limited time only,* so don't miss your chance to own an ocean view home in "the most perfect place in the world"

Buyers Camp Out For Orangewood Homes

Buyers camped overnight outside the sales office of Orangewood Homes, the new single-family home development located along the base of the Orange Hills in the city of Orange, following the announcement of the opening of sales of Phase Two of the $3.5 million residential project.

Thirty-eight families began lining up Friday evening and spent the night in order to have the first choice of lot location and floorplans.

Priced from $49,500 to $68,950, with conventional financing at eight per cent interest, homes in Phase Two will be the final units offered in the area.

"Many people were disappointed when sales closed on Phase One, and they were determined to reserve their Orangewood Home before Phase Two closes, so they came prepared to spend the night," Sandstrum explained.

"The family homes in the desirable foothill area of Orange, the widely-respected Orange Unified School District, and the quality construction of the homes are among the major factors influencing their decision."

"Five different floorplans in one and two story designs with fifteen distinctive exterior stylings stress the traditional values of individuality and privacy which have proven so popular with our buyers. Single-family, detached homes are still the priority for parents concerned with raising their children in a quality living environment," he added.

Three and four bedroom homes have two or two and one-half baths. Entry halls feature ceramic tile flooring, wall-to-wall carpeting of 100% nylon is installed in the living room, dining room, halls and master bedroom suite, and vinyl asbestos tile is standard in the kitchen, baths, family room, secondary bedrooms and laundry service areas.

The two-story Parkview model features a sweeping, curved staircase from the entry hall to the master bedroom suite, two bedrooms and bonus room on the second story.

The master bedroom suite has a compartmented bath, twin basins beside a built-in vanity and a walk-in closet with hanging space on three sides. The bonus room is separated from the bedrooms by a central hallway and a full bath.

On the first floor of the Parkview, the entry hall provides access to the step-down living room, the secluded den, and to a service hall leading to the powder room, and to the family room at the rear.

A wet bar is located off the service hall with a counter facing the family room. A woodburning fireplace in the end wall of the family room is visible from the open kitchen. The formal dining room is located beside the kitchen off the living room.

A separate laundry service room and three car garage complete the Parkview model. Three car garages are standard throughout Orangewood and concrete driveways, walkways and underground utilities are included.

A full-line of built-in kitchen appliances includes an electric cook-top, separate range, warming oven, microwave oven, continuous-cleaning oven with smoked glass window, dishwasher, disposer in the double-well sink and plumbing for an icemaker refrigerator. Hand-finished oak cabinetry, ceramic tile countertops and luminous paneled ceilings are standard features.

Full energy-saving insulation of all walls and ceilings is installed, front landscaping is complete and a front yard sprinkler system is included. Back yards are fully fenced. Orangewood Homes have wood shake roofs and exteriors of Spanish lace-textured stucco with brick, stone or wood trim.

To see the Parkview and the five other floorplans at Orangewood, exit the Newport Freeway at Chapman Avenue and drive east to Esplanade. Turn south on Esplanade to the sales complex which is open daily.

GRAND OPENING BEGINS AT THE GALERIE HOMES

A grand opening on at The Galerie in Anaheim Hills introduces Phase Four, the new "2200 Series" of American Housing Guild's award-winning homes.

The new group of 39 homes offers views of the Anahiem Hills Golf Course and valley beyond from the highest point in the Anahiem Hills community, according to Bill Etherton, project sales manager for Hank Smith Realty, exclusive sales agent.

Six floor plans are offered in Phase Four at prices ranging from $53,490 to $72,490. All the residences are now under construction with first occupancy scheduled for late December.

Homes in The Galerie "2200 Series" offer up to 2,260 square feet of living area in one and two story designs with three or four bedrooms, 2 and 2-1/2 baths.

Appointments are found throughout the homes. There are vaulted-ceiling living rooms, fireplaces, formal dining rooms and luxurious owner's bedroom suites with private bath/dressing area and large closets.

Crystal chandeliers and imported hardware are among features being introduced in the new series and there are new Hotpoint kitchens with deluxe appliances, pantry, luminous ceiling, ceramic tiling and patio pass-through counter.

The homes are available in a wide choice of exteriors with shake roofs, private courtyards, atriums, balconies in some plans and enclosed double garages with automatic door openers.

The Galerie's abundantly landscaped grounds include a private resort spa for residents featuring a swimming pool, jacuzzi, sauna and central lounge with kitchen for social activities. The grounds, facilities and exteriors of the homes are maintained through the homeowners association, giving owners more leisure time.

The country surroundings of the Anaheim Hills community include the golf club, a tennis club, equestrian center and hiking and riding trails that wind throughout the neighborhood.

Situated in the rolling hills of the old Nohl Ranch, the community is secluded yet within minutes of major freeways for fast access to shopping and employment centers.

Furnished model homes are open from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. daily at The Galerie, displaying the variety of styled homes by architects Red Moltz & Associates.

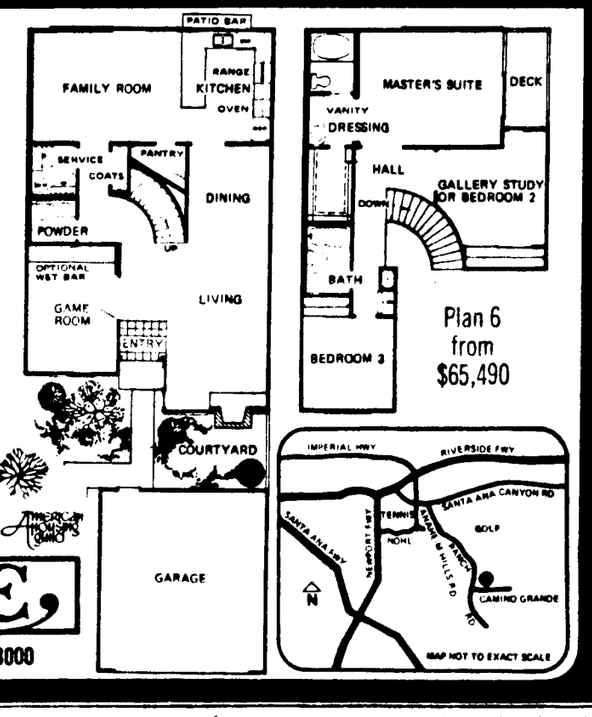

The development may be reached by taking the Riverside Freeway to the Imperial offramp, then south one block to Santa Ana Canyon Road and left to Anaheim Hills Road. Turn right on Anaheim Hills Road to Nohl Ranch Road and left, past the golf course, to the sales office for the new American Housing Guild development which has recorded more than $6 million in sales since the opening.

The WILLIAM LYON Company LYON

Lincoln Square Down To Last Five Homes

Homes at Lincoln Square are in final sales, reports Alex Graham, sales agent, with five remaining to be sold.

Graham adds that families from Orange County are finding the Riverside area a good place to buy a home that would cost a great deal more if it were built in areas where land costs have spiraled.

Lincoln Square offers a choice of three and four bedroom plans priced as low as $23,500, complete with carpeting, draperies, front yard landscaping and rear yard fencing.

Sprinkler systems are also included.

Shopping facilities are just around the corner. Nearby freeway offers travel to surrounding areas and places the community about thirty minutes from Orange County.

To view the models drive out Riverside Freeway to Madison Street exit, south on Madison approximately half mile to Lincoln Avenue, east on Lincoln past Sonora Place to Lincoln Square.

Lakeshore Village Opens At Lake Forest

Covington Brothers is offering a new lakeside development of two and four bedroom single-family detached homes in Lake Forest. The new community is known as Lakeshore Village.

The homes are priced from $58,900 and now offer buyers the additional value of Extrequity.

The air conditioned homes, are open for easy traffic flow. Formal living rooms, separate dining rooms and family rooms, and country kitchens form an entertainment unit for family activities and guests.

Bedrooms are secluded. Among the design features are wood-burning fire-places, courtyard patios and private sun decks. Wall-to-wall carpeting is installed in all major areas with vinyl tile for all secondary area floor surfaces.

Built-in kitchen appliances include a range, oven, dishwasher and disposer. Natural finished wood cabinetry and luminous ceilings are standard with additional pantry storage provided.

Each Lakeshore Village home is insulated and double attached garages with direct access include laundry space equipped with appliance hook-ups for gas and electricity.

Situated on New Lake in Lake Forest, the new homes are located with easy access to schools, parklands and recreation. Lakeshore Village homeowners have access to boating and fishing at New Lake and the Beach and Tennis Club is nearby and a neighborhood center is within walking distance for swimming and tennis instruction, social activities and exercise.

Horse fanciers will discover miles of bridle trails throughout the ranchlands. A saddle club serves Lake Forest for stabling facilities, training, riding lessons, competitions and social activities.

Lake Forest is master-planned with designated areas for shops and commercial centers placed for the convenience of residents. No industry is located within the city limits.

The new Lakeshore Village homes blend into the neighborhoods for which the area is noted. The nearby San Diego Freeway brings employment centers, regional shopping malls and ocean recreation within range.

To see the new single-family, detached homes offered by Covington Brothers, exit the San Diego Freeway at La Canada and drive east to 21802 Michigan Lane. A sales office and visitor's center is maintained within the model complex of the family home development in Lake Forest.

Business Center Now 50% Leased

With the signing of six new leases totaling 21,444 square feet, the initial phase of the $6 million Sequoia Commerce Center in Torrance is now more than 50% leased, it was announced.

Located at 190th Street and Van Ness Avenue, the project is being built in two phases, according to Dennis Osborne, director of industrial marketing for Santa Ana-based Sequoia Pacific, the developer.

Rapid Sales Reported At Cameron Park

Pre-opening sales are averaging three homes per week at Cameron Park, according to Beard Development Company, builder of the new Buena Park townhome community.

Preview showings have just begun at the recreation-oriented development of 166 residences, located next to Smith-Murphy Park on Cameron Drive, just off Beach Boulevard near the exclusive Bellehurst area.

Cameron Park offers a choice of five townhome plans priced from $36,900 with conventional financing. One and two story designs feature two, three or four bedrooms with 1-1/2 and two baths.

Exteriors of the townhome buildings are extensively detailed with wood and shingle siding and wood shake roofs. All of the homes have private patios and double garages with storage.

Among the appointments of the Cameron Park homes are dramatic stairways with wrought-iron railings, cathedral ceilings and fireplaces in some plans.

Kitchens are planned for easy care and include built-in range, oven, automatic dishwasher, luminous ceiling and ceramic tile counter tops.

The homes have gas forced air heating prepared for air conditioning, complete exterior wall insulation, smoke detector system, copper plumbing and pre-wiring for TV and telephone.

Cameron Park has less than nine townhomes per acre, surrounded by landscaped greenbelts, the builder noted.

Within the grounds are a swimming pool and clubhouse for the exclusive use of residents, maintained by the homeowners association along with the exteriors of the townhomes.

Smith-Murphy Park's six acres of rolling lawns, play and picnic areas offer residents more leisure time enjoyment within steps of homes and within blocks of the development is the private 27-hole golf course of Los Coyotes Country Club.

Cameron Park's convenient, close-in location is near schools at all grade levels, including outstanding Sunny Hills High School in Fullerton which serves residents of the new development.

Also nearby are shopping and community services. Easy access to major freeways provides fast commuting to major metropolitan and employment centers.

The Cameron Park sales office is open daily from 10 a.m. at 5400 Cameron Drive and the development may be reached taking the Santa Ana Freeway to Beach Boulevard in Buena Park.

Drive north on Beach Boulevard to Cameron Drive, just beyond Malvern Avenue, and turn right (east) the new Beard Development Company community of townhomes.

5th Phase Being Sold At Park Vista Homes

Homes are now being offered in the fifth unit at Park Vista in the New Arlington section of Riverside, reports Donald M. Bird, sales agent for the Jay Andrews project.

Buyers may choose from three and four bedroom plans with two baths, family rooms and patio-oriented kitchens.

The home package includes carpeting in living rooms, hallways and master bedrooms, brick fireplaces with log-lighters, tiled entries and kitchen appliances.

Master bedrooms feature wardrobe closets, dressing areas and private baths with deluxe marble-topped pullmans.

Quality of construction, insulation materials, efficiency of space heating equipment has merited the Gas Company Concern award for the builder.

Homes are ducted for air conditioning, meeting rigid standards set by the Gas Company in the interest of energy conservation.

Centered in the community is a park/playground for children, with walk-to access from every home. Children can also walk to school with no worry of busy streets.

The new Tyler Mall is nearby for family shopping. Freeways are accessible for those who commute to business in surrounding areas. Prices range from $30,050 to $32,550.

To see the furnished models take Riverside Freeway to Tyler Mall turnoff, north across Arlington and past Norte Vista High School. Sales office is at 6805 Astoria Drive.

DMJM Acquires Computer Firm.

The Logicomp Corporation computer service company at 3250 Wilshire Blvd. in Los Angeles has been acquired as a wholly owned subisidiary of Daniel, Mann, Johnson, & Mendenhall (DMJM), international architects, engineers and planners, it was announced by Leonard A. Ehrig, Logicomp President and DMJM officer.

Since its founding five years ago, Logicomp, working in conjunction with DMJM, has developed one of the most advanced business reporting and control systems in the U.S. consulting field.

The company has a library of over 250 proprietary programs for business, engineering and scientific work, which are used by oil and mining companies, manufacturing concerns, architects and engineers and other service organizations.

Under its new management, Logicomp will be able to utilize the resources of DMJM to continue the development of special purpose engineering and technical systems and expand its marketing and operational programs.

Shady Hollow Offers 7-1/2% Interest Rate

Shady Hollow townhomes in Santa Ana are now available with a new interest rate of 7-1/2 per cent (7-3/4 per cent annual percentage rate) according to the builder, Warmington Development, Inc.

Phase Two was recently introduced at Shady Hollow and sales have been averaging three homes per week since the opening of the last unit of 67 townhome residences.

First move-ins are scheduled for November at the family community situated in north Santa Ana, near parks and a variety of recreation, including Santiago Public Golf Course.

Prices of the new Shady Hollow townhomes begin at $43,350 and a choice of four floor plans is offered. The one and two story homes have two or three bedrooms and 2 or 2-1/2 baths.

Interiors have open-beam ceilings and accents of warm woods and there are private patios, entry courtyards and attractive exteriors accented with brick, wood and shake roofs.

Shady Hollow kitchens feature built-in gas range, microwave oven, eye-level continuous-cleaning oven, dishwasher, disposal, trash compactor, luminous ceiling, ceramic tiling and cabinets of natural wood.

Wall-to-wall carpeting of nylon shag, cultured marble pullmans in baths and automatic garage door openers are more price-included features of the homes.

Park-like, landscaped grounds surround the new Shady Hollow townhomes and include a swimming pool, jacuzzi, sauna and recreation center for residents. All are professionally maintained, along with the exteriors of the homes, by the homeowners association.

Shady Hollow is served by schools at all grade levels of the Orange Unified School District. Shopping and community services are in the immediate vicinity and four major freeways nearby bring employment and metropolitan centers within commuting distance.

Model homes are open daily from 10 a.m. at the Shady Hollow sales information center, 2532 N. Tustin Avenue at Fairhaven in Santa Ana.

The homes may be reached by taking the Newport Freeway to 17th Street, then drive west to Tustin Avenue and right (north) on Tustin to Fairhaven. From the Garden Grove Freeway, take the Tustin Avenue exit and drive south to Fairhaven and Shady Hollow.

Polygraph Test Hassle Continues

Accuracy Of Lie Detectors Still Challenged; Courts Seldom Accept Results As Evidence

The Register

Register Staff Writer

When the Ancient Chinese investigated a crime, they gathered all the suspects together and put dried rice in their mouths.

The subject whose rice remained dry after a short period was deemed guilty, the theory being the guilty party couldn't summon the saliva to wet it.

Crude and ineffective, true, but probably was the first attempt to develop a lie-detector system.

The practice has come a long way since then. And many say it still has a long way to go.

The perfect lie detector, or polygraph machine, has not been invented, most authorities agree.

But some say today's machine, which gauges three physiological responses during questioning, can accurately tell a lie from a truth 99 per cent of the time.

Other self-proclaimed experts claim the polygraph works at only 70 per cent effectiveness, and they are even dubious about that figure.

And therein lies the reason very few polygraph test results are admitted as legal evidence in a court of law today.

Despite 80 years of modern technological advancements, the polygraph still has not achieved total acceptance in the judicial community.

Recently, in an Orange County murder case, a Superior Court staged what probably was the longest and most detailed hearing in history on the potential admissibility of polygraph test results.

Murder defendant Michael Lynne Thompson, 24, took two lie-detector tests in an attempt to prove his innocence. It was the conclusion of the two polygraphers Thompson hired to administer the tests that he was not involved in the two slayings for which he was being tried.

Superior Court Judge James K. Turner, however, refused to admit the polygraph test results as evidence.

Thompson subsequently was convicted of two counts of first degree murder and several lesser charges, and recently was sentenced to life in prison.

But he plans to appeal his conviction and sentence. . .and the results of that appeal could change forever U.S. trial procedure by allowing lie-detector evidence to be used in courts.

"As far as we're concerned, the scientific community hasn't accepted the polygraph fully," said Deputy Dist. Atty. Robert Chatterton, the man who prosecuted Thompson. "It may be reliable in some areas, but not in a court of law."

Chatterton said the recordings made by a polygraph machine are supposed to be keyed by impulsive physiological responses prompted by a lie. But, he said, that is not always the case.

Sometimes, Chatterton said, a subject may have a greater response to something else, an outside influence or some other emotion. Polygraph machines pick up reactions when a person feels pain, rage, fear, anger or concern, Chatterton said.

People have beaten the polygraph, he said, by biting their lip to induce pain when a certain question is asked.

"We opposed the introduction of Thompson's polygraph test because we didn't think it was valid," Chatterton said.

It wasn't the first time the same motion had been denied in a court of law.

A federal court denied a similar motion in 1923 (Frye vs. United States) and the wording in that ruling has been used ever since to deny polygraph test results in court.

The judge then ruled that the lie detector machine had "not yet gained. . .standing and scientific recognition."

"Eventually, perhaps within the next five or ten years, polygraph tests will be accepted as opinion evidence in criminal trials," claims Santa Ana polygrapher Ted Ponticelli, a recognized authority in his field.

A graduate of the Defense Department's polygraph school, Ponticelli said there is increasing pressure on the judicial system to accept the polygraph.

As more and more technological advancements are made in the lie detection field, more and more specialists join the ranks of the believers.

In 1923, a distinguished professor opined that if science ever developed a test for the evaluation of a witness, the law would "run to meet it."

So far, it hasn't happened.

Michael Lynne Thompson was arrested in 1974 after police uncovered the badly-decomposed remains of two men buried in shallow graves behind his Tustin home. Thompson, who was accused of taking part in the slaying of the men in 1973, has maintained his innocence ever since.

After Thompson took — and, according to two polygraphers, passed — his two lie-detector tests, his attorney, Gary Gunderman of Santa Ana, attempted to introduce the test results as evidence in court. Judge Turner ordered a hearing on that motion.

Seven weeks later, after hearing testimony from several top polygraphers from as far away as Utah and Pennsylvania, Turner denied Gunderman's motion.

"I examined Thompson in January for conspiracy and for direct implication in the murders," Ponticelli said. "As far as I'm concerned, he did not practice deception.

"I am sure he did not do what they said he did," Ponticelli added. "I doubt it very much."

"But a Superior Court jury of six men and six women felt differently. After weighing highly damaging evidence, the jury — without the polygraph test results — found Thompson guilty.

"Early in the game I had Ted Ponticelli run a polygraph examination on Michael," said Gunderman. "The results were very strong non-deceptive.

"We took the results to Deputy Dist. Atty. Chatterton, and we told him to examine the results and offered to let him have his own polygrapher run Michael and ask any questions he wanted.

"That offer was refused flatly," Gunderman said.

To understand why he opposed the introduction of the Thompson polygraph results, Chatterton said, one has to understand how the machine works.

He explained that a subject is usually asked a set of 10 questions, some irrelevant, some relevant, and some called "control" questions.

An irrelevant question, Chatterton said, might be: "How old are you?" The purpose behind this type of question, he said, is to establish a normal response for the other questions.

Relevant questions are directed precisely at what the examiner is trying to find out, Chatterton said. For example: "Did you kill John Doe?" Any person on trial for John Doe's death will have a certain physiological response to that question, no matter if he is guilty or not, Chatterton said, because it generally poses a threat to his well being.

"Control" questions, he said, are vague in nature and are also designed to arouse some physiological response in the person being tested.

Such an example might be, "Have you ever wanted to kill someone?" Chatterton said.

The principle behind the polygraph, he added, is that an innocent man will fear the control question more than the relevant question, and the response will be greater at that time.

But the guilty man, the prosecutor said, will know that the relevant question is the one he has to fear, and therefore the response will be much greater on that question.

In the Thompson case, Chatterton said, Ponticelli phrased the questions inappropriately, and Thompson could rationalize honest answers, which would give him a better test score.

For example, Chatterton said one relevant question put to Thompson was "Did you participate in the planning of the killing of these two?"

"Our evidence showed that Thompson helped plan only one killing, and the other guy just came along," Chatterton said.

"Thompson could rationalize that he did not plan both killings, therefore, he could answer no, and feel he had answered honestly."

Ponticelli, however, disagrees strongly with Chatterton's contentions.

"First of all," Ponticelli said, "polygraphy is a science. Qualified polygraphers know what they are doing and don't ask inappropriate questions."

He said there are three physiological responses tested by the machine; breathing; blood pressure-pulse rate, and galvanic skin response.

The pneumograph, he said, which measures the breathing rate, is designed to mechanically record, in ink, on a chart, the subject's inhalation-exhalation cycles of respiratory rate and volume.

A lie would normally produce a change in the normal pattern, he said.

A cardiosphygmograph records the examinee's blood pressure and pulse rate, he said. This also will change when a normal person lies, Ponticelli said.

And a galvanograph records the galvanic skin response. He said in this test the subject is exposed to a minor amount of electricity. When the subject lies, he impulsively emits certain resistance to the electricity, which is transmitted by his perspiration and picked up by the galvanograph.

The results of these three test recordings are printed on a single sheet of paper, Ponticelli said, making it easy to trace similarities in the three responses.

"Mike Thompson was a classic case," Ponticelli said. "He had an acceptable response to all stimuli and established an acceptable pattern."

After judging all three recordings, he didn't have the slightest doubt that the test was accurate, and that Thompson was innocent.

Each single parameter, judged by itself, pointed towards Thompson's vindication," he added.

And, he said, he could test almost any normal person, and determine a truth from a falsity.

There are some people, he added, who cannot be tested satisfactorily, including those with split personalities, those who have paranoiac delusions, people who are mentally deranged and drunks.

Ponticelli said that as an expert in the field, he could "beat" the test if it were to be administered by someone with less experience.

Unqualified polygraphers are one of the biggest problems facing his profession today, he claimed.

"I'm one of the biggest pushers for quality in polygraphers," Ponticelli said. "I estimate that of all the thousands of credentialled polygraphers, only about 10 or 15 per cent are qualified to give an accurate examination."

Chatterton said he wholeheartedly agrees with Ponticelli's estimates and uses the figures when arguing against admitting the polygraph test.

Several prior court opinions, Chatterton said, have listed the polygrapher's lack of qualifications as one of the reasons for disallowing the admission of the polygraph test.

But Ponticelli is one of those polygraphers with impeccable credentials.

He was the examining polygrapher in what is thought to be the only criminal case where the results of the test were given to the jury.

Los Angeles Municipal Court Judge Ronald M. George earlier this year allowed Ponticelli's polygraph testimony to be admitted in a case involving an assault on a police officer.

George said he allowed the polygraph testimony because he felt Ponticelli and the particular test were sufficiently reliable for the jury to consider.

But George instructed the jury to determine the merits of the polygraph test.

Whether a jury can cope with that awesome responsibility is another reason why prosecutors sometimes argue strongly against admitting any polygraph results.

A recent poll indicated that most people believe the polygraph to be infallible, when it is not.

Chatterton charges that even strong instructions from the judge telling a jury to consider the polygraph testimony as just a part of the total evidence would not alleviate the problem.

Even Thompson's attorney, Gunderman, realizes this problem. "Lawyers think jurys will put too much reliance on that evidence to the exclusion of other conventional methods of determining truth and deception," Gunderman said.

But, he points out, a recent high court allowed the admission of voice prints in trials. That system, he said, closely parallels polygraphy.

The only difference, Gunderman said, is that voice prints are more of a prosecution tool, while polygraphy is a defense tool.

"The feeling I have is that judges are more inclined to accept scientific evidence that would aid in prosecution and conviction rather than the other way around," Gunderman said.

In recent years polygraph results have been seen with much more regularity on minor criminal non-jury cases.

Deputy Public Defender Lew Geiser said he uses the lie detector more frequently than other attorneys, but, he admits, he treads softly.

"I have to be convinced of my clients innocence before letting him take the test," Geiser said.

He said he approaches the prosecuting attorney and says: "Look, my guy says he's innocent. Let's put him on the box and see." If the prosecutor agrees, he gives the defendant a lie-detector test.

The results are sometimes damaging, Geiser said. "On a stipulation box (a polygraph machine), if the guy passes the test, usually the charges are dropped.

"But if he fails, it's introduced as evidence," he said. "It's not a decision to take lightly."

Actions by the late Los Angeles County Dist. Atty. Joseph Busch demonstrate the ambivalent attitude many prosecutors and judges have toward polygraphy.

Busch once called polygraphy "20th century witchcraft."

But a short time later he publicly offered to take a lie-detector test when accused of certain election violations.

Former California Lt. Gov. Edward Reinecke offered to take a lie detector test during the 1974 ITT scandal. He said he had "great confidence" the test would clear him.

Later, however, he said the test results were inconclusive, adding, "I don't think there is a question of passing or flunking, you are either reactive or not reactive."

And Philadelphia Mayor Frank Rizzo once declared, "I have great confidence in the polygraph. If it says a man lied. He lied."

Rizzo took such a test, and registered deceptive on several answers.

It appears that the only thing certain about polygraphy is that a lot of people are uncertain about it.

While there have been many advances since 1897 when the first modern polygraph tests were made, and certainly since the Chinese dry-rice routine, the law has not "run to meet it."

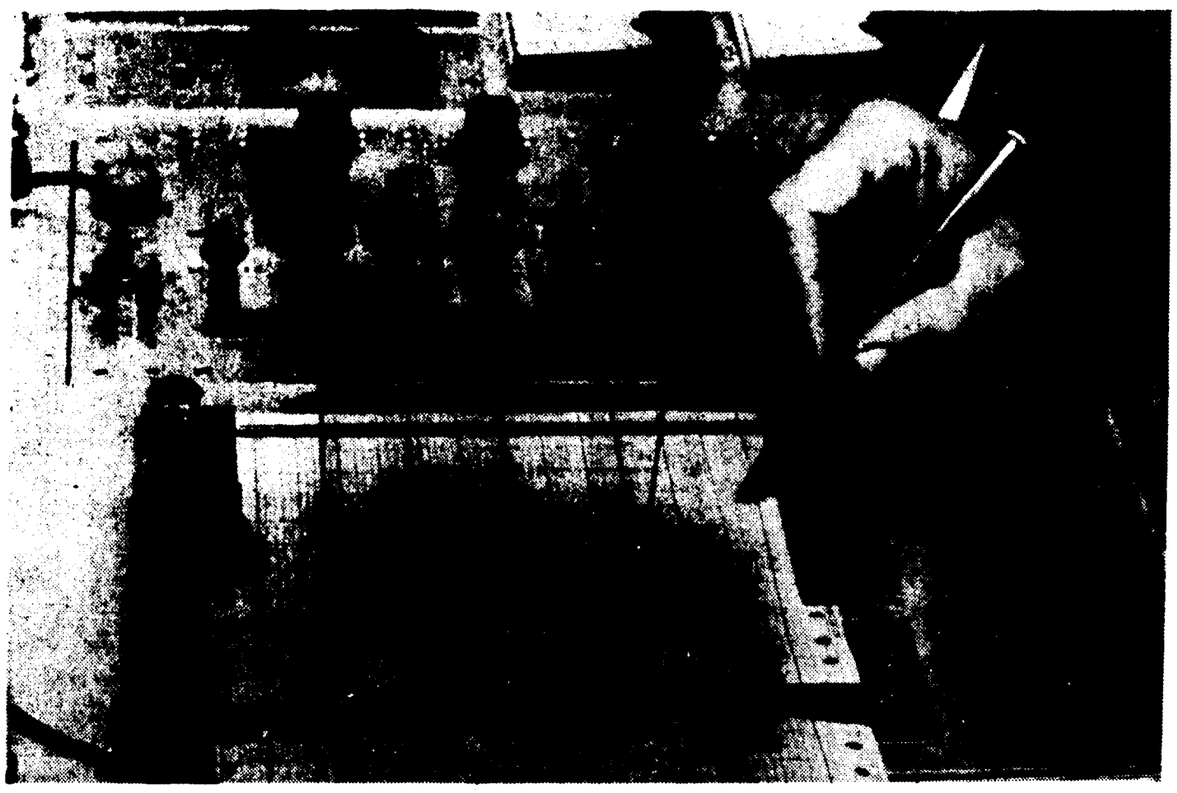

At least, not yet.

Michael Thompson hopes to change all that.

Wild Desert Plant Contains Useful Oil

By JAMES CARY
Copley News Service

WASHINGTON — A plant growing wild on desert lands in Southern California is laden with a remarkable and unique oil that could foster a new $100 million industry on impoverished Indian reservations.

This has been revealed by the National Academy of Science (NAS) in a report on a three-year investigation into the lowly desert bush known as jojoba (pronounced ho ho ba).

The study, carried out by NAS' National Research Council at the request of the Office of Economic Opportunity, disclosed that oil extracted from the jojoba is almost identical in chemical structure to sperm oil taken from the endangered and disappearing sperm whale.

Its most promising use is as a high pressure lubricant in car transmissions and in hydrogenated form as a replacement for imported and highly expensive carnauba wax.

But it also has many other uses as a lubricant, in paper coatings, in polishes, in electrical insulation, carbon paper, textiles, leather, precision casting and pharmaceuticals including shampoos and hair oil.

Some of these products already are being manufactured in Mexico. Apache Indians in Arizona are also making candles, that are sold commercially, from jojoba wax.

The plant is native to Southern California, Southern Arizona, all of Baja California and parts of Mexico proper as far south as Guaymas. These are all areas embraced by what is known as the Sonora Desert.

In California it grows in what are called "island populations" — that is in clustered colonies of plants — in scattered areas east and south of Los Angeles.

Near San Diego it grows more lushly in islands to the northeast, the east, and south on into Mexico.

The National Research Council's committee on jojoba utilization conducted the study and disclosed these other findings:

The jojoba varies widely in size. Although usually bushy, it may grow 10 feet high. The female plant bears the seeds, each containing about 50 per cent by weight of a colorless, edorless oily liquid.

This liquid, commonly referred to as jojoba oil, is completely unique in the plant world, and in virtually all characteristics almost identical with sperm whale oil, which in turn is totally unique in the animal world.

Sperm whale oil is now virtually impossible to obtain in this country. Imports have been banned since 1972. What supplies exist are largely in national stockpiles.

Automobile manufacturers have reported only partly successful results in using substitutes in transmissions.

Because sperm oil consumption in the United States averaged about 50 million to 55 million pounds annually when it was available, it has been estimated that jojoba oil, at a presumable now outdated price of 40 cents per pound, could yield a gross of at least $20 million to $24 million in sales every year.

This is only a minimum figure of economic impact, however. Dr. Milton Harris, chairman of the committee on jojoba utilization, estimates that eventually an investment of up to $100 million may be required to bring the plant under intensive cultivation.

The committee recommends that the government subsidize this development, creating 2,000 acres of plantation land in segments of 400 acres annually over a five year period, when it should become self supporting.

It takes each plant 5 years to mature and begin bearing seeds.

Plantation cultivation is already under way on an experimental basis on a 35-acre tract on the Barona Indian Reservation in Southern California, on a five-acre tract at UC Riverside, and on 10 acres at Ben Gurion University in the Negev Desert in Israel.

The hope and plan in the United States is that cultivation here will benefit 17 Indian reservations in California and Arizona, where unemployment sometimes runs as high as 90 percent. About 13,000 Indians in California and 37,000 in Arizona would be affected.

The California tribes that would benefit include the Luseno, Kumeyaay and Cupeno. In Arizona the Apache, Papago, Gila River, Yavapai, Camp Verde and Salt River Indians would be involved.

The Indians already have participated in experimental work on the jojoba. In the summer of 1972 they gathered more than 87,000 pounds of jojoba seed. This stockpile as used for testing of jojoba oil by the University of Arizona, UC Riverside, and more than 75 corporations and research institutes.

The results all indicate the jojoba can become a highly valuable industrial raw material that could eventually fill all the uses once reserved for sperm whale oil, and probably can be substituted with equivalent results for carnauba wax, and other waxes.

It is highly stable and not subject to bacteriological deterioration.

Another use being investigated but still highly experimental is conversion of the body of the plant, after the oil is removed, into an animal meal. It contains 26 to 32 percent protein.

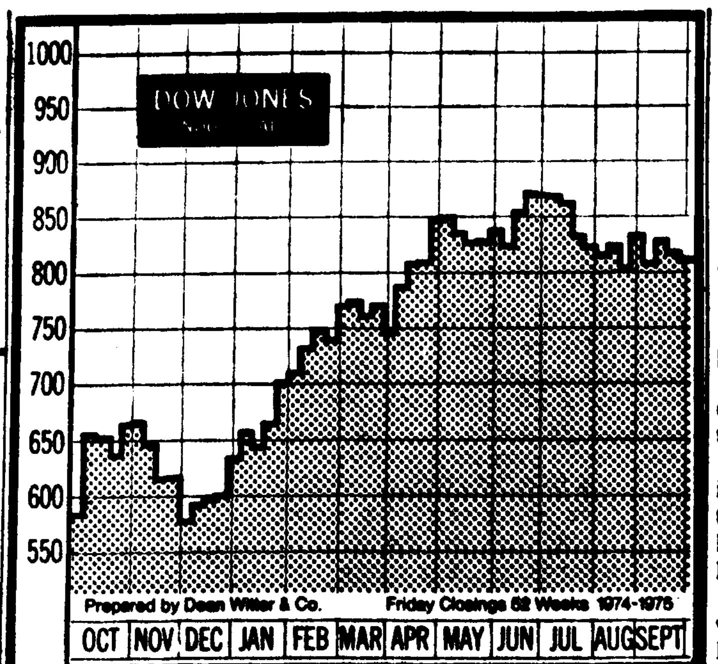

A toxic material removed to reach this stage may also have properties that will be useful as an appetite supressent.

Mart Stages Comeback

By CHET CURRIER
AP Business Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market got off to a dreary start this past week, but then staged a strong comeback amid hopes that the Federal Reserve would relax its credit policies.

The net result was a modest decline in continued sluggish trading.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials, down 34 points in the week's first three sessions, had cut its loss to only 5.39 by Friday's close.

Comparably minor declines were posted by Standard & Poor's 500-stock index, off .24 at 85.95, and the New York Stock Exchange composite index, down .21 at 45.49.

Losers outnumbered gainers 1,109 to 605 among the 1,999 issues traded on the Big Board.

The market began the week mired in gloom over prospects for interest rates, inflation and the hazards expected to face the economy recovery as a result of the federal budget deficit.

The mood was set Monday morning, when Treasury Secretary William E. Simon warned that the gap between government spending and revenues in the fiscal year that egan July 1 could widen to as much as $90 billion.

The resulting demands on the credit markets, the reasoning went on Wall Street, were likely to exert further upward pressure on interest rates.

And with money difficult and expensive to borrow, prospects for a solid recovery from the recession were likely to dim.

By Wednesday's close, the Dow had reached its lowest level since early April at 784.16.

The market picture began to brighten on Thursday, however, when New York State's comptroller, Arthur Levitt, agreed to commit $250 million in pension funds to debt securities designed to provide New York City with enough cash to see it through mid-December.

After Thursday's close, weekly Federal Reserve statistics showed a continued lag in the nation's money supply.

Though a decline in the amount of cash and checking account despoits in the economy could hardly be seen as a harbinger of an impending boom, it nevertheless got a warm reception on Wall Street because of its implications for Federal Reserve policy.

If the money supply was shrinking, the Fed could theoretically loosen its reins on credit while still pursuing its anti-inflation efforts.

And on Friday, the Fed indeed made moves in the money markets which immediately touched off a sharp decline in interest rates on both short term debt instruments and bonds.

The market's volatility during the week was clearly demonstrated by the Dow, which posted successive readings of minus-13, minus-11, minus-9, plus-10 and plus-18.

Analysts described the market as "thin" or "illiquid" — lacking the broad and active participation that it enjoyed early in the year.

Big Board volume averaged 13.56 million shares during the week, in contrast to the many 20 million and 30 million-share days of the first few months of 1975.

Occidental Petroleum, the week's most active issue, lost 1½ to 16½. The company reported on a dispute with Libya over oil agreements.

American Telephone & Telegraph, which made a landmark 12 million-share offering at $46 during the week, closed at 46, down ⅛.

International Minerals & Chemicals fell 6¼ to 40⅜ in active trading.

EVERYBODY'S BUSINESS

'Tinkering' May Cause Fall

Government "tinkering in the market place" and "bedrock ignorance of the American system" were cited as causes for the imminent demise of that system if business doesn't reverse the trend.

Speaking Friday to members of the Western Gas Processors and Oil Refiners Association, Fred L. Hartley, chairman and president of Union Oil Co. of California, called upon businessmen to join hands before capitalism becomes an archaic term.

Hartley told the group meeting in Long Beach that after having been placed on "the list of 75 for execution, it's damn great to be here," adding, however, that "since price controls and more regulations were placed on the oil industry in 1971, my productivity is at its lowest level."

He said, it appears most effort these days is put into "recycling problems." All of August was spent on debating oil and gas price deregulation and we are right back where we started."

The oil and gas industry will be the political football in the 1976 election campaign, Hartley said.

Citing the association's 50-year history, Hartley pointed out that in 1925, California led the states with its annual crude oil production of 230 million barrels—one-third the nation's production. "In 1974 we produced 222 billion barrels, only one-tenth of our domestic production," he said.

"Where that declining curve will end is unknown today, primarily because of the government's tinkering in the market place," he said.

Hartley said a customer recently told of finding a 1916 gas sales slip listing it at 19 cents per gallon.

He asked Union's economists to compute that price including the rate of inflation to the present market place and they came up with 95 cents per gallon. "That, added to 15 cents for taxes, would make gas sell for $1.10 today," Hartley said.

"See what a bargain we are giving the public," he said. And our men of science and engineering are responsible for the fact that gas isn't $1.10 today."

Citing the depreciation in value of both the pound and dollar, Hartley said when he was a "kid" a pound used to be worth $5. "That would be 100 ice cream cones. Today $1 will buy four, that's a lot of change," Hartley said.

"I can't imagine building a refinery today to compete with those in existence," he said.

Though the oil industry has "flourished and grown and is the single greatest force effecting our lives, it is under constant siege by those who call for more control," Hartley said.

He said there are those who wish to strangle and dismember the industry "turning it into a Frankenstein monster fo the U.S."

"The lines of siege are widening each day and extending into all of American business," he said.

Enumerating various polls of public and student opinion of capitalism, Hartley said he does not agree with the opinion that "frustration" is behind so much adverse feeling on the subject. "It is bedrock ignorance of our system," he said.

The average person knows more about the NFL and new fall TV shows than he does about the system that has given him so many benefits, Hartley charged.

And shock troops sit in the halls of Congress and we all helped put them there where many strangle the economy, he said.

"Politicians follow those polls and use the results as a mandate for their anti-business position, he said.

One reason there is misunderstanding by those who benefit so much is that people don't know how business runs or what it does for society.

"Size is equated with power, but we can be a giant on the economic scene and still be a midget in political influence, Hartley said.

Schools, the media and business itself are all responsible for this prevailing ignorance, he said.

Schools teach capitalism from the muckraking views of the '30s he said, equating capitalism with robber barons.

And the messages from behind the Iron and Bamboo Curtains citing "running dogs of capitalism" haven't helped.

"Capitalism is a dirty word in our lopsided education system, Hartley said.

ANAHEIM FETE WILL SALUTE ENTERPRISERS

ANAHEIM—Free enterprise is a person, not a thing.

The point will be made Monday at 7:30 p.m. in Anaheim High School Auditorium, 811 W. Lincoln Ave.

The occasion is billed as the First Annual Salute To Free Enterprise.

The event is sponsored by Orange County Citizens Committee for Free Enterprise, with a boost from the Anaheim Chamber of Commerce and the Americanism Educational League, Buena Park.

With a fanfare of band music, color guard and entertainment, the "person" of Free Enterprise will be presented.

The "person" is actually 12 individuals who have distinguished themselves in the profit system. The twelve including the youngest (a newspaper boy) and the eldest (a voice teacher) will be presented awards.

Willadean Vance, who heads the sponsoring group, said the 12 honorees come from a wide variety of backgrounds, are engaged in different occupations, have recorded varying degrees of success, yet have one characteristic in common—the desire to earn their own living in their own way.

Outlook Parley To Hunt For Trend Clues

Answers to crucial problems in a hopefully recovering economy will be examined by 14 experts on Oct. 16 when Orange County Chamber of Commerce presents its most important business affair of the year, the Economic Outlook Conference.

The 13th annual conference, to be held in Anaheim Convention Center, is expected to draw 750 attendees, mostly from Orange and Los Angeles counties, according to Richard Hart, chairman.

"Bottoming out, leveling off, and upward spiral are terms being used by optimistic experts to describe the current economy," Hart said, but equally loud are those who lament the high rates of unemployment and overwhelming inflation."

Headline speaker is Thomas A. Murphy, chairman of the board of General Motors which, this year, attained worldwide sales in excess of $31 billion.

Reservations for the all-day conference may be made by sending a check for $25 to Orange County Chamber of Commerce, 401 Bank of American Tower, The City, One City Boulevard West, Orange, Calif. 92668.

Bond-Rating Key: Will It Pay Off?

By LEE MITGANG
AP Business Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — With cities and states finding it tougher than ever to borrow money for building schools, sewers and other capital needs, raters of municipal bonds and notes wield considerable power over what that borrowing will cost in the marketplace.

The impact of the two major bond rating agencies in the marketplace was well illustrated last spring when one of them, Standard & Poor's Corp., suspended New York City's bond rating. The move brought loud protests from Mayor Abraham D. Beame's administrative and contributed to the subsequent decline in investor confidence in the city.

On Thursday, New York City's fiscal crisis deepened when Moody's Investors Service, the other principal rating agency, downgraded the rating of New York State's general obligation bonds from AA to A-1. Moody's said it acted because the city's problems "have so eroded the state's position."

What does that triple-A, single-A, double-B rating system really mean, and how do bond raters arrive at their judgments?

Pat McCrorry, a municipal bond analyst for Standard & Poor's, says city and state bonds really fall under two headings: investment grade issues ranging from triple-B issues, on up to gilt-edged triple-A, and speculative bonds ranging from double-B down to D. A D rating means the bond is in default, or nonpayment.

The vast majority of the thousands of bond issues rated by Standard & Poor's and Moody's fall in the investment grade category.

A triple-A rating is a judgment that payment of a bond when it falls due is a virtual certainty. A double-A rating is only slightly less certain.

McCrorry says a single-A bond is safe but there may be some weakness in either the locality's economic status, its management, the over-all debt picture, or the balance of how much the city takes in versus how much it spends.

A bond assigned a triple-B shows that the bond rater judges more than one of those four areas as weak, or else sees one of those areas as very weak. But the bond still is judged investment grade.

Below that are double-B bonds which have some good qualities but not enough to outweigh weaknesses, single B bonds which stand a clear risk of default and D bonds which have actually defaulted.

Prices Subside On Fixed-Income Paper

SAN FRANCISCO—(BW)—Prices of fixed-income securities continued to decline through midweek, said Crocker Bank Friday in its Weekly Money Market Review.

Market participants took heed of Treasury Secretary William Simon's warning to the House Budget Committee that the federal deficit could reach as high as $90 billion this fiscal year, Crocker said.

The prospect of such a sizeable deficit carries clear implications for interest rates which could trend upwards as a result of the government's increased borrowing requirements.

Early-week losses in Treasury coupon securities prices were relatively small in the short and intermediate maturities, but steeper declines were registered in longer issues.

The weekly bill auction produced returns of 6.55 per cent on the three-month maturity and 6.98 per cent on the six-month issue, representing increases of 2 and 19 basis points, respectively, said Crocker.

Treasury bills benefited later in the week from a large buy order from a foreign official institution with yields declining by as much as 15 basis points.

Prices of most debt instruments began firming late Thursday afternoon in response to the favorable Federal Reserve statistics which showed a $1.9 billion decline in the narrowly defined money supply and a modest drop in commercial loans.

In the agency sector, the federal land banks successfully marketed at par a two-part financing composed of $650 million of 42-month bonds as 8.55's and $434.9 million bonds scheduled to mature Oct. 21, 1985, with an 8.8 per cent coupon, Crocker said.

The municipal bond market was thrown into a state of chaos early in the week after a decision by the New York State Court of Appeals declaring the mandated investment of state pension funds into Mortgage Assistance Corp. securities unconstitutional.

The court's decision was widely considered to have potentially serious implications on the state's ongoing effort to prevent New York City from defaulting.

Grant Demise Tops News

By LEE MITGANG
AP Busiess Writer

NEW YORK (AP)—W. T. Grant Co. lost a three-year struggle against sagging business, soaring interest rates and overambitious expansion plans this past week, becoming the biggest retailing bankruptcy case in U.S. history.

It filed for court protection from its creditors under Chapter 11 of the federal bankruptcy laws here on Thursday, reporting in court papers that it would not be able to meet its payments on time on its debts, which total $1.03 billion. Its assets only total $1.016 billion.

Grant management stated it faces another $10.7 million in losses in the next 30 days—on top of some $288 million in losses in the past 18 months—but said it had enough cash to continue in business until Jan. 30.

Little else was certain by week's end however, about the future for Grant's 62,000 employes in 40 states, or how great the losses might eventually reach for Grant's stockholders, 27 bank creditors and Grant's hundreds of merchandise suppliers.

But Grant said its creditor banks, which together have extended $640 million in loans to the troubled retailer, have agreed in principle to continue to support Grant during the court-supervised reorganization.

Analysts still were left to wonder how vulnerable Grant's failure left its creditor banks and other national retailers.

Meanwhile New York City, in its own struggle to avoid a default on its bonds and notes, received some good news and some bad last week.

Week's Business In Review

New York State Comptroller Arthur Levitt, after months of resistance, agreed to use state pension money to buy $250 million in state-sponsored bonds, a move that could rescue the fragile New York City bailout plan designed to see the city through December.

But both the city and the state are paying a high price in terms of investor confidence. Moody's Investors Service, one of two leading bond rating agencies, lowered the state's bond rating one notch from double-A to A-1. It also lowered the city's bonds two notches from single-A to Ba, below what is usually considered "investment grade."

From Washington came a fresh batch of inconclusive economic readings. Unemployment in September dropped to 8.3 per cent from 8.4 per cent, but the jobless rate rose for adult males and heads of households. The recession peak was 8.9 per cent in the second quarter.

September wholesale prices rose at a 7.2 per cent annual rate, a bit under August's 9.6 per cent rate.

Finally American Telephone & Telegraph Co.'s record offering last week of 12 million new common shares, aimed at raising $552 million in fresh capital, was ruled a complete sellout by the offering's underwriters.

The new share sale was the result of AT&T's desire not to increase its outstanding debt, and because of the relative failure of its warrants offering earlier this year.

Redlining Bill Gains Step Ahead

WASHINGTON (AP) — Banks and savings and loans would be required to disclose where they put their mortgage money under a bill approved by a House subcommittee.

The bill, by Rep. Fernand J. St. Germain, chairman of the Banking subcommittee, is expected to receive full committee approval next week. It is similar to one which has passed the Senate.

Congress hopes to put pressure on federally insured financial institutions to be more responsive to requests for money from inner-city residents to buy or fix up homes.

Community protesters have claimed that they have been turned down for mortgage money from the very banks and savings and loans they patronize — and that the bulk of the money is loaned to suburbanites.

They reported that entire areas were "red-lined" or eliminated from consideration for home-buying or repair funds, guaranteeing a further deterioration in the neighborhoods.

There is no law which requires a bank or savings and loan to be responsive to the financial needs of its depositors or its neighbors, and neither the Proxmire nor St. Germain bills would attempt to set such a standard. They rely on public disclosure.

Tigers Request Anchorage Route

LOS ANGELES (BW)—The Flying Tiger Line, world's largest all-cargo carrier, asked the Civil Aeronautics Board for an immediate hearing on its application to serve Anchorage.

Flying Tigers' Boeing 747 and stretched DC-8 jet freighters are currently permitted only to refuel at Anchorage on their way from the United States to Japan and other Asian countries.

The airline said it had conducted a survey of air freight users and found that present service to Anchorage is "inadequate."

Flying Tigers told the CAB it presently has a great deal of unused capacity between the lower 48 states and Alaska. In the first seven months of 1975 the airline said it operated an average of nine freighter flights a week northbound through Anchorage with a total unused capacity of more than 13 million pounds.

Because of the unique nature of Alaska's requirements, the air freight market suffers from a severe imbalance, the all-cargo carrier stated. In 1974, 83 per cent of air freight moving between the contiguous states and Alaska was northbound.

New Corporate Banks Rules Set

WASHINGTON (AP)—Two federal bank regulatory agencies have changed their regulations to permit corporations and other profit-making organizations to maintain savings accounts at federally insured banks

The Federal Reserve Board and the Federal Deposit Insurance Corp. said the limit on the size of the accounts, which can be opened after Nov. 10, is $150,000.

The Federal Reserve said the ceiling was set to make accounts attractive to small businesses which do not have the access to the money markets to invest temporarily idle funds.

Although corporations have been able to maintain savings accounts at thrift institutions and state-regulated banks, the accounts have been banned at Federal Reserve Member Banks and have not been entitled to the federal bank deposit insurance.

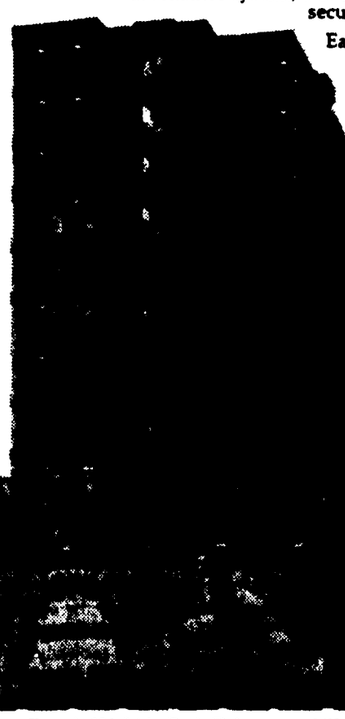

The same $40,000 ceiling on federal insurance which applies to individual accounts will also apply to the corporate accounts.

The $150,000 limitation represents a compromise between conflicting proposals originally offered by the two agencies in June. The insurance agency had proposed setting no limit on the size of the accounts. The Fed had proposed setting the limit at $100,000.

Unhealthy England II

The British National Health Service, as we have written before, is in a state of abysmal decline. The London press says so. British doctors who are emigrating to the United States and to South Africa say so; British doctors who remain in the United Kingdom say so. Even the Labor Government, which wants to abolish the remaining vestiges of private medicine, admits the deterioration. Objective conditions, medical and financial, are available for anyone to see.

Why then are we challenged in our assertions that the NHS is a mess, as correspondent Ernest Moore writes in today's Clearinghouse (please see his letter, "British Socialism")? Well, Mr. Moore had a first-hand experience — he had, or his ankles had, occasion to partake of the system — and he was happy with the treatment. We do not know how to respond to Mr. Moore's claims besides noting: 1) his is a subjective opinion; 2) there is evidence of some "showcase" islands of good care, particularly available to foreigners; 3) Mr. Moore's was, by his own admission, a minor ailment, gladly to be treated with dispatch by bureaucratic workers.

The better part of all honest assessment of the NHS condemns it. Recently the American Congress of County Medical Societies, Inc., decided to sponsor an extensive study trip to England for a group of congressmen and doctors. The symposium's participants included six U.S. congressmen, nine American doctors, two American journalists, eleven British doctors, five British government officials, and one British journalist. Their collective finding: crisis.

Consider the case of the woman from Wales, as reported by Sir Alan Marre, the new NHS Ombudsman. The quotation is from Private Practice magazine: ". . . after a long wait she was called into the hospital for open-heart surgery on January 20, 1973. On January 30th, one day before she was to be operated on, the surgery was cancelled and she was discharged because of crowding on the surgical schedule. Four and a half months later, she was readmitted, but was again discharged four days later. She was to enter the hospital again on June 27th, but on June 26th she was notified by telephone that her operation had been cancelled. She died two days later."

That, according to the Ombudsman himself, is typical of major surgery cases within the NHS. And doctor morale is sinking immeasurably. "We didn't find one doctor who wasn't bitter towards the NHS as salaries fall farther and farther behind inflation, and standards of patient care fall just as quickly," the team reported. "As more and more doctors leave in disgust, the NHS will provide even shoddier care."

"General practitioners," the team continues, "who are not allowed to even see their patients while they are in the hospital, get no set salaries and no secret pay awards. Instead they are paid 1.65 pounds ($3.46) per patient per year, plus some additional money for office expenses. The average GP nets about 5,000 pounds ($10,500) a year. To earn this, he must have over 3,000 patients on his list, to whom he contracts to give unlimited service. 'It is quite easy to manage 3,000 patients,' says Dr. Anthony Partridge, 'acting as a sort of clearinghouse, but it is quite impossible to doctor them, to listen to them and to reassure them, as we were taught to do as students. . .The doctor is paid on quantity, not quality.

" 'A proper first examination should take about forty-five minutes, but in the NHS four minutes is the more usual pattern, and unlucky patients do not get even that, but are given a prescription following a telephone conversation with the receptionist. . .' "

Even with their medical system in such critical shape, it is still easy to find financially-oppressed British citizens willing to defend it, even mistakenly laud it as being "free." Rep. Robert Bauman, R-Md., asked an attractive young Englishwoman, "but for some facial scars," what she thought of the NHS. "It's a good system. We get all our medical care free, you know. No worry about expense." "No complaints at all?" the congressman pressed. "It is rather slow. I had to wait eight years for an appointment with a dermatologist about my face. When I saw him, he said I'd have to wait a year for treatment. But it is free."

We rest our case.

Fish And Slips

Two editorials in one day about England? Really, there are things, plenty of them, to write about in our own country; but what we're about to say is terribly important for the U.S. of A. too. The United Kingdom's economic problems have shown an historical propensity to precede our own; accordingly, it is a good idea to take a look at official programs there. "I am very conscious," writes Dr. Max Gammon, a physician trying to establish the only private teaching hospital since the institution of socialized medicine, "of the fact that we are the last fire-break before the North American continent and world-wide confluence of socialist tyranny. We are approaching our loneliest and most terrible hour."

The National Health Service is not the only economic disaster in Great Britain, as we document in the above editorial. The failures seem to manifest themselves across the board in the English economy, wherever the government bureaucracy — and it is gargantuan these days — attempts to control things. Consider schooling, the collectivization thereof.

Addressing a Washington conference sponsored by the Heritage Foundation, Dr. Rhodes Boyson, formerly headmaster of a boys' secondary school in a working-class section of Lancaster and now a Member of Parliament, detailed the downfall of literacy in his country. In 1931, said Dr. Boyson, the British government presumed that all seven-year-olds could read fluently. "Between 1931 and 1966, the fall had come; 47 per cent were not fluent readers. In Wales, between 1960 and 1972, the percentage of 14-year-old illiterates doubled. In 1966, half the youngsters transferring from lower to upper grades could not read fluently. Ten per cent of Britain's seven-year-olds could not read and 37 per cent needed remedial help in 1969, according to the government's National Children's Bureau. Illiteracy is increasing about seven per cent a year."

Dr. Boyson attributes the decline to — naturally enough — government policy. A number of years ago the Labor government raised the compulsory schooling age to 16. Combined with a higher school-leaving age, the incompetent, egalitarianly-ideologized school system generated massive resistance among pupils. Correspondingly the criminal rate among teenagers has jumped markedly.

We know the problem. In this case, British events do not precede American; they are troubling both peoples concurrently. Illiteracy among American high school graduates, even among college graduates, has skyrocketed. In both countries the incidence is ascribable fundamentally to one element alone: coercion.

Youngsters are compelled to attend dullish classrooms; thereby they are encouraged to remain in adolescence as long as possible. When they are legally free to leave they do so with a vengeance, some of them acting out fantasies very like the sadistic playfulness as depicted in Anthony Burgess' futuristic horror story, "A Clockwork Orange."

Taxpayers are compelled to pay for the sub-par institutions — which are forever more sub-par because the schools and everybody connected with the schools have not to depend on competition for their financial sustenance. They can afford to be lax, as indeed they are according to Dr. Boyson: "Standards are low in teachers' colleges and the lowest caliber of all professions is in teaching. They have new schools and more equipment than ever.

"There is a decline in the sense of purpose, in ordered authority and reasonable structure. Teachers are not there to teach, but to brainwash. There are near-Trotskyites in the schools teaching the means of overthrowing liberal society."

The collapse of the British school system, endemic as it is, is a microcosm of the whole of the country's economy: the government relies more and more on coercion, the oppression of its taxpayers, and snatches up whatever remaining free choices the people have. Meanwhile, the Labor Party has adopted a five-year plan of "salvation," authored primarily by the Marxist Energy Minister Tony Benn, of radical socialist measures — exactly the kind of ideological nincompoopery that sent the United Kingdom into its straits in the first place.

Did Tony Benn renounce his inherited peerage because of a preferential penchant for the manufacture of coffin nails? To think: the United States has its own Tony Benns.

WHITE COLLAR CRIME

Dr. Russell Kirk, the conservative scholar and defender of private enterprise, has written eloquently of the necessity of "reasserting moral principles in the complex economic negotiations of our time." It is indeed a necessity in an era in which many people have lost sight of their moral legacy.

The application of moral principles in the business dealings of life must come, first of all, in the everyday transactions of shop, office and factory. The moral imperative to practice honesty must be felt by every echelon of business — from the wealthiest executive to the lowest paid manual worker.

Tragically, the moral imperative of honesty has deteriorated under the fierce pressures of modern life. Believers in the importance of a free economy have been shocked and dismayed by disclosure that the executives of a few companies have given bribes in order to do business abroad. In so doing, they have hurt the image of business generally and provided the foes of legitimate, law-abiding business with a stick by which they can strike at free enterprise.

Of course, the companies that offered bribes were only following a pattern laid out by the federal government. The government regularly dangles money under the noses of colleges, for instance, stating that the sums will be withheld if certain actions aren't taken. Isn't this bribery? It would be hard to defend the proposition that there is a moral diffference between these private and federal actions.

Nevertheless, it is essential that everyone in business be more concerned about dishonesty in all its forms.

Edward J. Walsh of the U.S. Industrial Council recently analyzed the extent and impact of dishonesty. He cited "the housewife who slips small items of merchandise into her handbag, the neighborhood grocer who provides free lunches to the local police officer in return for occasional favors, and the waitress who charges bills paid in cash to stolen credit cards. And all in the complacent notion that their isolated little dishonest acts aren't hurting anyone."

Mr. Walsh noted that there are numerous safeguards that can be utilized by business against internal crime: "separation of responsibilities, frequent audits, thorough investigations of the work histories of prospective employes, more stringent inventory procedures, are only a few." He observed that while some firms will prosecute even the smallest offenses," the arguments against applying legal sanctions are powerful from a profit and loss standpoint: adverse publicity, time-consuming litigation, and finally, the fatalistic reasoning that prosecution simply isn't worth the effort."

Mr. Walsh commented that "the traditional standards of moral conduct which civilized society always assumed would protect it from the ravages of intelligent men consumed by greed, seemed to have paled somewhat — if they still matter at all." He cited these indicators:

1. The annual cost of embezzlement and pilferage reportedly exceeds by several billion dollars the losses sustained throughout the nation from burglary and robbery;

2. An insurance company reported that at least 30 per cent of all business failures each year are the result of employe dishonesty;

3. Fraud was a major contributing factor in the forced closing of about 100 banks during a 20-year period;

4. Dishonesty by corporate executives and employes has increased the retail costs of one company up to 15 per cent, causing shareholders to suffer a paper loss of $300 million within just a few days.

Our society and our economic system cannot afford further moral fragmentation. Business leaders must take the initiative in emphasizing that there isn't any gray area between right and wrong. As Mr. Walsh has said, we must not allow "the tidal wave of situation ethics" to overwhelm our business life. The preservation of a free economic system and a free society requires a buttressing of the traditions of decency, self-discipline and personal integrity.

Naivete About Red China

By ALLAN C. BROWNFELD

WASHINGTON — The fact that the Communist Chinese regime in Peking is one of the world's most brutal tyrannies with regard to its own citizens, and one of the world's most aggressive states with regard to its external policies, seems to have escaped most Americans.

While it may be understandable that movie stars such as Shirley MacLaine might, as a result of a brief visit to Peking, be convinced that the facts are otherwise, it is less believable that members of the U.S. Senate are equally gullible. Yet, their own statements about Communist China put them in the same position as Shirley MacLaine — that of naive apologists.

In a report submitted to the Senate Foreign Relations' Committee, for example, Senate Majority Leader Mike Mansfield, D-Mont., is euphoric in his praise for the Communist Chinese. Hugh Scott, R-Pa., the minority leader, gave the Chinese Communists marks almost as high as those bestowed by Senator Mansfield.

Senator Mansfield declared that, "From Shanghai to Siam, from Peking to Kunming, the evidence of the system's durability is overwhelming." He wrote, "Pride in common accomplishment and faith in a common future are everywhere. China today is more unified than ever before." He stated, "Chinese society, today, is based on the Communist theories of Mao Tse-tung, which, to the Western ear, can sound not only like Marxism but also common sense. . ."

Everything seems to be going well in Communist China. Senator Mansfield reports that, "The basic needs of the Chinese people for food, clothing and shelter are being met. Food and clothing are plentiful and low-priced. The people appear healthy and well fed. . .There is no unemployment or inflation. Officials report that there are no social problems of drug addiction, alcoholism, prostitution or juvenile delinquency. The streets are safe. . .Everyone appears to be busy at productive and purposeful work. . .There is discernible community spirit from one end of China to another. The spirit is perhaps a key to China's effective management. . .It is the antithesis of 'dog eat dog.'"

Concerning China's foreign policy, Senator Mansfield is equally enthusiastic. "There are no signs," he writes, "that China is bent on the oppression or denomination of other nations."

The Facts

To read the Mansfield Report one would believe that Communist China represents Utopia. The facts, however, tell a far different story. Not only is it not Utopia, but it is, quite to the contrary, perhaps the least free nation on earth.

Senator Mansfield's impressions certainly differ from those of other American visitors to the Chinese Mainland. Creed C. Black, editor of The Philadelphia Inquirer, who spent 24 days in China, described it as "a nation of wind-up dolls." He reported that, "The people on the Chinese Mainland get a steady mental diet of Mao thought from the cradle to the grave. They live in a closed society which shuts off outside information and ideas. And, above all, they serve a totalitarian state where. . .the way to get along is to go along."

While Senator Mansfield and others praise the allegedly "egalitarian" society of Communist China, others who have examined it more carefully disagree. John Burns of the Toronto Globe and Mail reports from Peking that, "Curtained limousines, sumptuous banquets, exclusive recreational facilities, access to special trains and aircraft, salaries five to ten times those of average workers — such are the prequisites of authority in China. . .The most obvious is the wage system for non-agricultural workers. There are eight monthly grades ranging from $14 for apprentices to $285 for senior officials. . .On trains, where the majority of passengers crowd into hard-seat cars, cadres have first call — after foreigners — on the few softseat sanctuaries where a person can, doze, play cards, or chat in comfort."

The notion that Communist China is "peaceful" in its international affairs is as fanciful as the idea that it is "egalitarian" at home. At the present time, there are approximately 30,000 guerrillas consisting of Chinese and Laotian Communists in Thailand. Under Peking's control, the Thai "People's Liberation Army" is engaged in an effort to overthrow the government of Thailand. In the Philippines, President Ferdinand Marcos recently told a visiting U.S. congressman that government troops had captured a number of documents which show that the Peking-trained "new people's army" had a close connection with Moslem rebels and that the goal of both was to overthrow the Philippine government. In Malaysia, the Chinese Communists have stepped up their support for Malaysian Communist rebels. On April 29, Peking sent a message to greet the 45th anniversary of the Malaysian Communist Party declaring that, "The Chinese and Malaysian Communists have always supported each other. . ."

African Subversion

Chinese Communist subversion is taking place not only in Asia, but throughout the world. In Africa, for example, the Chinese have been discovered in their efforts. In January, 1965, the government of Burundi broke off diplomatic relations with Peking and expelled the Chinese ambassador and his staff. The following month, President Hamani Diori of Niger stated that the West African Council had proof that the opposition movement in Niger was being financed, organized and directed by Peking. That month, the Ivory Coast, Dahomey, and Upper Volta joined in warning that the Chinese Communists were, as President Felix Houphouet-Boigny of the Ivory Coast put it, "teaching Africans to kill those whose eyes are open to the Chinese danger in Africa." When the regime of Kwame Nkrumah was toppled in Ghana in 1966 further revelations of Chinese Communist subversion came to light. On Feb. 28, Ghanian authorities disclosed the discovery of a Chinese operated "saboteur's academy" for training Africans to foment rebellion and carry out terrorist operations. The Chinese Communists have also been active in training Palestinian terrorists. The list goes on and on.

Beyond the fact that Communist China is a totalitarian society at home and is engaged in massive subversive activities abroad, Senator Mansfield and other defenders of that regime have overlooked the mass murder which has been engaged in by the current Chinese leadership.

In the study, "The Human Cost of Communism," published by the U.S. Senate Internal Security Subcommittee, Prof. Richard Walker estimates that the Communists solved the "unemployment" problem referred to by Senator Mansfield by liquidating 15 million to 20 million opponents of the regime and slaughtering another million through the "land reform" program. Slave labor, says Walker, "has been part of the Chinese Communist political system from the outset, through the formal 77 regulations — worked out with the aid of Soviet 'experts' sent by Stalin. . .No estimates of the number of Chinese in forced labor camps for reform through labor services is less than 10 million." A. Doak Barnett, another China scholar, has said that the figure is "probably in the millions."

How unusual that members of the U.S. Senate would overlook such realities and heap paeans of praise upon the Communist Chinese. Senator Mansfield's analysis unfortunately, bears no relationship to the truth. One can only wonder why he produced such a report.

THE SOCIAL BENEFIT OF GUN OWNERSHIP

When two gunmen — one a former police chief of a small town in Texas, and the other a former deputy of the Dallas County Sheriff's Department — decided to hold up the Mills State National Bank in Caddo, Mills, Texas, they overlooked the fact that citizens in that area keep guns handy.

The two, Tommy Lee Deal and George Patton Marshall, were spotted going into the bank by the town mayor, who rushed into a local barber shop where the owner keeps a .30/06 rifle near at hand. The mayor and the barbershop owner, Larry Bost, waited for the gunmen to appear. When the rifleman saw that the gunmen had a hostage, he shot the front tire of the get-away car. The gunmen drove off with a flat tire, and Caddo Mills citizens set off in hot pursuit. In the meantime the hostage had been dumped out of the car.

The armed citizens soon caught the gunmen. One thing that helped was that some of the people had arms, and others had citizen band radios in their cars and pickup trucks. It was only after the citizens apprehended the bank robbers that the town sheriff came onto the scene. This is not to cast any stones at the sheriff, but things happened so fast that there was no time to call him.

A later newscast stated that a third law enforcement officer, this one a member of the State Patrol, was also involved in the holdup — this one as the planner of the robbery.

Are there any lessons to be learned from this episode?

I think there are:

(1) The involvement of police officers in the hold-up — two ex-policemen and one active patrolman — shows that a free citizenry is not safe to rely entirely on hired gun-carriers to protect them. What happens if the would-be protectors turn bad themselves and the people are disarmed? The law-abiding citizen's last bastion of defense against any law breaker is the privately-owned and privately-controlled gun he keeps at home, at his business, or on his person. This is why the founding fathers of our country put a guarantee of gun ownership into our national Constitution.

(2) The quick and courageous action of Caddo Mills residents is a prime example of the long-standing principle of posse comitatus, or vigilante committee in action. The right of self-defense rests with people directly. Hired protectors — the local police officer, sheriff's deputy, or soldier — are simply means that the people in organized societies have taken to provide themselves with protection on a deputized basis. Both the right and the responsibility of providing protection to the family and the community, in the event of breakdown or of unforeseen emergency, rests with the citizens directly. To fulfill this responsibility, citizens must be privately armed.

(3) The Caddo Mills incident shows that citizen band radios — another item that the controllers and regulators would like to take out of the hands of private citizens, or at least severely restrict their use of — can also be used as a defensive weapon in maintaining law and order.

Here, then are two useful tools — guns and citizen band radios — that have been under constant attack. The socialists and communists, and a whole horde of ignorant citizens who don't understand the dire necessity of a free people to keep defensive weapons readily at hand, have been attacking the right of citizens to own and keep guns. The same groups have also been active in restricting people's right to use citizen band radios. To the extent that encroachments are made on the free use of guns and citizen band radios, the American citizen's ability to defend his community and his home will be weakened.

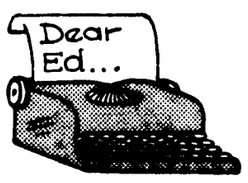

The Caddo Mills incident should do much to show, in a very practical way, the social benefit of gun ownership.

Ideas On Liberty

I'll Respect Your Life
(The Freeman)

Among peaceful persons who have individually recognized the morality and wisdom of volunteering unilaterally not to kill, not to steal, not to injure another deliberately, there would be no need for government if everyone were capable of living according to his good intentions. Yet, within a society primarily comprised of property-respecting, peaceful persons, individuals make mistakes; and there is a place for an organized agency of force with sufficient power to suppress or discourage any errant threat to life or property. One may solemnly pledge not to break the peace himself and yet consistently advocate a government police force strong enough to overcome and subdue him if in a moment of rashness he should forget or violate his pledge. Self-control is a most difficult thing; a properly limited government is a form of organized self-control and may be helpful in that limited role. But when government exceeds that very limited purpose and begins placing barriers between willing buyers and sellers, it then becomes the positive evil we know as socialism and all of its variations. When anyone tries to make a deal to respect your life if you'll respect his, tell him to forget it—but respect his life anyway, because it is the right thing to do.

Snipe Signs

Reference is made to the offer of the Mission Viejo Company to maintain a crew at their expense to remove small weekend "snipe signs" and to the endorsement of their offer by the Mission Viejo Municipal Advisory Council subject to approval by the Board of Supervisors.

I am indeed grateful that an authority has finally publicly acknowledged the existence of this "visual blight." Mission Viejo has spoken. Who is to speak for the "unprotected" areas of Saddleback Valley, particularly El Toro and Laguna Hills? I solicit Supervisor Riley's support.

In making the offer, Van Stevens, Director of Planning, made several interesting comments according to the News-Post for Sept. 24, as follows:

He described "snipe signs" as those small handouts tacked up to advertise elections, garage sales, picnics and real estate directions. He stated that they commonly appear Saturday morning and vanish Sunday night.

He said, "They are patently illegal, defying local ordinances on signs and litter."

He said, "While it is officially the county's duty to remove the small signs, there are millions of laws and we can't ask that they all be enforced."

While I am thankful for the position of the Mission Viejo Company and the Municipal Advisory Council, I express certain reservations to the proposal, even though the many apparent legal obstacles are overcome, as follows:

1. The ordinances are clear on the subject. Violations occur either because enforcement is weak or the "why can't I attitude" because the other guy gets away with it. Also, the subject matter restrains most of us. Who wants to deprive a salesman of a sale of a house or a homeowner of the sale of excess personal effects?

2. It is not the county's duty to remove the signs per se. It is the County's duty to enforce the ordinance. Ordinarly, ordinances that are bad cannot be enforced and are usually repealed. Ordinances that are good are usually capable of simple and effective enforcement. Here we apparently have an exception to the rule: the ordinance is good — I have heard no arguments against — but enforcement is extremely difficult.

3. There is no evidence that the County cannot enforce the ordinances. Rather, all evidence indicates that the sheriff has been left with the entire problem on weekends. I understand that the County only works on "emergency problems" on the weekend; apparently, snipe signs, etc., are not considered as a problem serious enough to warrant an emergency.

4. Unless a sign is a safety hazard, I believe that the owner must remove it. It is a waste of taxpayers' dollars, or anybody's dollars for that matter, to be removing illegal signs by the carload each weekend. The issue is one of preventing litter and illegal acts, rather than cleaning up somebody's mess or careless act.

Accordingly, I recommend the following:

A survey be conducted of Saddleback Valley each weekend by appropriate County employees as an "emergency matter." I recommend a spot check on Saturday and one on Sunday. Utilization of County employees living in Saddleback Valley should be considered: four people could survey the problem areas within an hour or so.

In addition to signs, the survey include questionable operations conducted mostly on weekends, particularly on El Toro Road, such as "cooperative used car lots," sales of fruits and vegetables, etc.

Each violator be notified in writing of the violation and directed to cease and desist.

The County call a meeting at the earliest practicable date of all interested parties, Chamber of Commerce, Realty Boards, Real Estate Firms, etc., to discuss alternative sign posting areas. I understand that Los Angeles is conducting such a program pursuant to the direction of the Board of Supervisors.

A Committee be selected at such meeting to evaluate the recommendations, consult with Los Angeles County, etc., and submit proposals to the Board of Supervisors for alternative sign posting areas.

Extensive publicity.

Marine Base

Again the issue of joint civilian-military use of El Toro Marine Base has arisen; we wish to state our vehement opposition to this proposal. All it would create would be to shift the noise from one area of the county to another. Noise from military jet traffic and training at El Toro is already at a highly objectionable level; we do not need any further deterioration in our local environment!

Therefore, the following has been passed by the Lake Forest Community Association on this date:

RESOLVED: that the Lake Forest Community Association hereby opposes any joint military-civilian use of El Toro Marine Base.

RESOLVED FURTHER: that the Orange County Board of Supervisors be urged to continue the use of the present facilities or find an alternate area not already burdened by excessive airplane noise.

We feel that the Saddleback Valley is the garden area of Southern California and an expansion of the airport will be detrimental to all homeowners.

British Socialism

I have just returned from a six-month visit to England, and I am faced with your statement about the medical system. My reaction is to say that you have no knowledge of the subject. I assume your ignorance is in line with the usual conservative prejudiced mind.

My experience actually covers partaking of the British system so I can give a first-hand, true report.

The second day after my flight to England I became concerned about the condition of my ankles (I am 78), so my friends suggested I go see their doctor. I was told no appointment was necessary, just find the times of surgery, go and sit and await your turn.

When I entered the surgery, there were women with four babies there. I reported to the girl my reason for being there and she gave me a numbered ticket. The babies were soon taken care of and I went in to see a doctor, about 40, and told him about my ankles, even suggesting a complete check-up. After examining me, he said for me to get dressed, go to the public clinic for a blood test and come back in seven days. I had the test and returned in seven days to learn the verdict. I was 100 per cent, the doctor said, just avoid sitting too much. I asked the fee, saying I didn't want the service for nothing, and he said I could have it free if I would sign the form. But I gave him five pounds, and he seemed overwhelmed, but I thought it very reasonable.

I asked about the British medical system, wanting to know if he was as badly paid as we heard in the U.S. He said, "I can only speak for myself. Some of our people have migrated to the States, lured by talk of a higher standard of living, but so have our engineers, plumbers, and electricians, providing the USA with cheap trained labor at no cost to the States, but at a cost-to those of us who prefer to stay at home. I will say that any doctor here who does not make a decent return is a lazy sod. The work is there and the pay is there. We have not to pay a debt collector."

To my question whether he was overburdened with paper work, he said, "Well, we keep our girls busy and we are finding machines to help them, and they can earn good money. If we didn't keep records of our patients, we'd get it in the neck from the same fault-finders as now."

And as for those who might take advantage of the system, he said, "Well, you must remember that everyone is entitled to free medical attention, and so we accept the job of looking at everyone who comes in with a complaint, and we soon find the 'swingers.'" Why did I come in? "Of course," he said, "your way was easy, you reckoned you could command my services because you had money to pay me. What is important is that money is no longer necessary. And we often find the first stages of something more serious. That, I would say, to the American doctor is the main function of medicine."

1976 Revolt

While decrying business "profits," Congress has "voice voted" itself "profitable" huge raises, plus 50 per cent increases for unnecessary world-wide trips including wives and staff.

Congressional spendocrats have erected a bureaucratic colossus, a Federal Frankenstein that's bankrupting America. Buying themselves votes, taxing Peter to pay Paul, they've created an autocratic welfare state forcing the hard working half of the population to support (excluding the truly needy) the idle, the lazy other half.

Business and industry fuel the economy, supply the jobs, but the magnificent free-enterprise system that's made America the miracle and envy of the world is suffocating under paper mountains of insane strictures dreamed up by Congress and millions of arrogant, busybody bureaucrats who couldn't run the coroner newstand.

Congress and the President whose talents are $100 billion deficits and inflationary, taxpayer-subsidized grain shipments to enemy, Soviet Russia must get their greedy hands out of U.S. taxpayers' pockets. Balanced Federal budgets must be mandatory.

In 1776, a revolt against taxation launched America. In 1976, a tax revolt is necessary to save her!

Downtown Anaheim

I read the Downtown Redevelopment Committee's news item: "Come have a say on redevelopment." Then I realized if I did attend the Tuesday night (Sept. 23) meeting, I would be one of a captured audience. I would be asked to look and listen to speakers, slides, toy models, and fill out a questionnaire. I knew time would not allow the audience to "have a say"; besides, Tuesday's temperature was 102° — punishment enough for one day. I decided not to go.

But I do have some good ideas I would like to share, based on 27 years residence in Anaheim and a friendly relationship with the downtown merchants. The ideas come from some hard professional experience in advertising design for the city of Pomona and commercial firms.

The typical, easy answer is always research studies, plans, models, financing, and invitations to giant corporations for new streamlined complexes of smart expensive architecture. I don't endorse this procedure. I find it uninspiring and uncreative.

Unhappily Pomona found that this system provided short term good, but that the patient needed repeated shots in the arm to keep business alive. Anaheim's "decay" as the committee calls it, which happens in all nature, including the nature of man, is at a much deeper level and conversely, more simple to diagnose. A doctor would say that the patient has "to will to get well."

A little bio-feedback, a new espirit de corps, is needed. One can look at what happened on 24th Street in San Francisco when a new breed of enthusiastic young retailers moved in with imagination and courage! It is not a problem of old buildings — the nostalgia of "Main Street" is felt by every visitor to Disneyland — not money, it is housekeeping!

I don't mean sweeping floors and washing windows, though that would help. I'm thinking of (1) a pre-planned set of keyed colors that would allow the merchant fredom of choice but would guarantee a beautiful color harmony downtown; (2) a formula for a family resemblance (all national parks) in the proportions, sizes, letter forms, placement of signs; (3) a new set of merchandising principles that would give unity and confidence of merchant and customer alike; (4) a series of full-page public service messages, cooperatively supported that no shopping center on the fringes of town could honestly publish. (I have a full file folder to draw from.)

Satellites

Mr. Willett's letter ("Space Frontier," Sept. 28) prompts me to thank The Register for its continuing interest in this subject.

Typical of technical-minded individuals, or individuals who are unwaryingly influenced by technological developments, Mr. Willett attempts to meld robot tasks with human sensitivity.

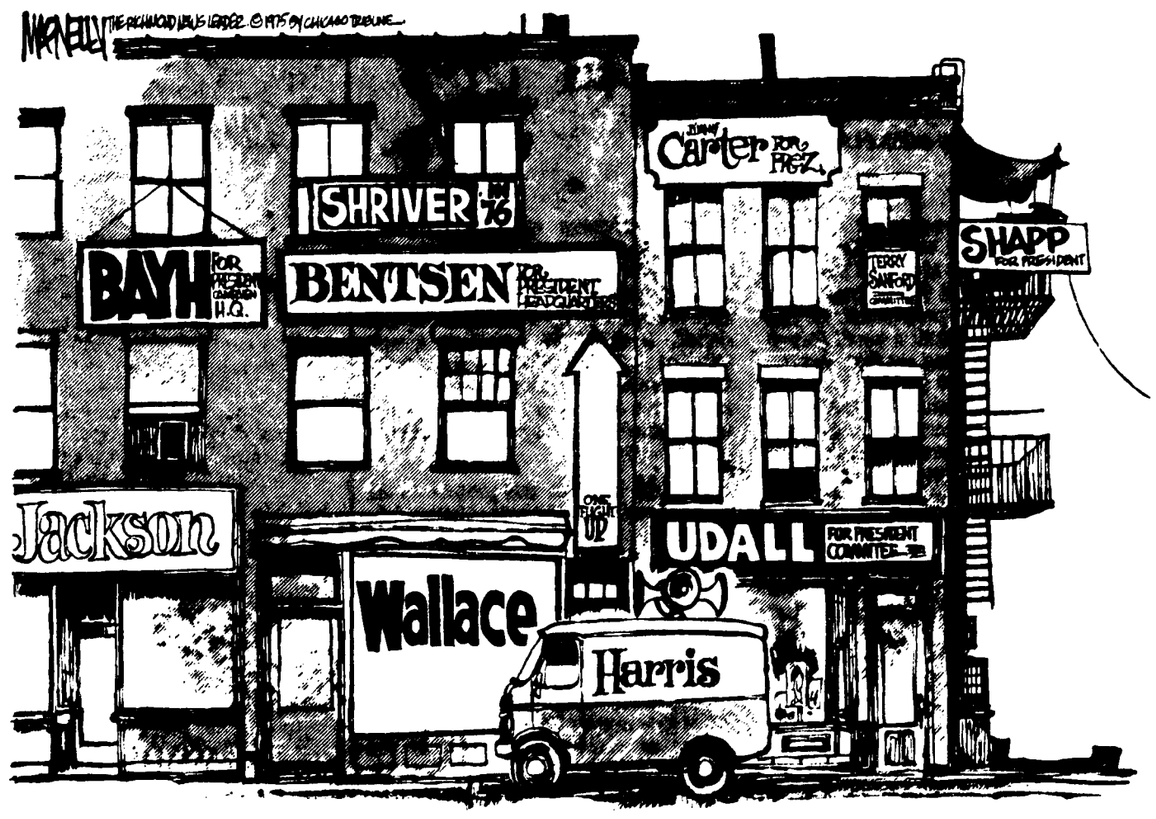

Satellites, in their role as shiny balloons, reflect both educational information of substance as well as pure garbage. They contribute nothing to the real problems of educational technique; they serve on the front-line of educational depersonalization; and, their basis for existence is much too costly for their poor results.

Skylab's robot functions have come the closest to helping us. But through no fault of its own, Skylab could only obediently report on our earthbound problems, contributing nothing to their solutions. It served to inventory our water resources — but that data is probably obsolete by this time; it looked for natural resources hidden from men's eyes — and now we know that we are going to run out of fossil fuels, copper, zinc, bauxite, etc. — or did we already know that? It determined ocean-flow patterns indicating the presence of fish — which completely ignores the future of fish farming, in which we shall know where the fish are without the help of Skylab. It detected crop and forest plight and told us when crops were ready for harvesting — yet, the millions spent for this interesting information could have been spent to further much needed entomological research to help control billions of dollars worth of annual forest and crop destruction by injurious insects.

These basic functions of satellite junk in space are so completely inept one cannot help but wonder why we ever started such a program. But that is just the point, we began our space exploration for a very good reason, which was to extend man's knowledge. But to continue to justify space exploration as a first priority needs review.

Why do we continue to assume that the globe one day will be overrun with human beings, when it is obvious that before that day comes close, we shall have established population controls? As usual, our space exploiters offer nothing to solve either this problem or the many others on earth, but instead promise to develop isolated, space retreats for us just in case we do not solve our problems. Further high priority on space exploration as a means for solving our problems is a significant cop-out.

Vandalism 'Value'

The headlines in one of our local papers recently advertised the growing rate of vandalism in a certain school district. Is this really surprising, considering that many of the teachers in that district were trained in Values Clarification Techniques? We presume, of course, that these teachers no longer use the strategies they learned in these programs.

However, we must not forget that many of the students they taught had their values put through the meat-grinder before the program was stopped. We would like to draw your readers' attention to a certain statement in the book "Values in Teaching" by Louis E. Raths, Merrill Harmin and Sidney B. Simon. Quote: "It is not impossible to conceive of one going through the seven values criteria and deciding that he values intolerance or thievery. What is to be done? Our position is that we respect his right to decide upon that value."

Logically, then, any teacher of values respects the right of the vandal to choose vandalism as one of his values. It will be interesting to observe whether there is an increase in juvenile crime in other areas, where the students learn to determine their own values, and to eliminate the destructive right answer syndrome.

Day Of Hypocrite

This is the day of the hypocrite. Nowhere is hypocrisy better displayed than by the members of Congress when they get the opportunity to display their arrogance before the boob tube. We saw it for months during Watergate, these paragons of virtue, these self-righteous rip-off artists pontificating on the frailities of the victims before them. Now that they have exhausted every phase of that blown-up deal, they have started on the FBI and the CIA.

Frankly, I have never heard of some of these clowns before. They are not communists, but often by their ceaseless harping they can force our intelligence and security officers to divulge information that the Russians have been trying for years to obtain.

Their main theme song is "That the public has a right to know." Their solicitude for the public is most touching — except that when their own misdeeds are considered there is a giant coverup. Who knows, for example, just which of these men voted to increase his own pay in one of the sneakiest manners in recent years. They even passed a ruling that their travel expenses are sacrosanct. We, the dumb stupid taxpayers, are not permitted to know anything about their junkets or even the night clubs they visited in Paris, Berlin etc.

Time and again their profligate moves have been exposed, often legislation involving billions. The public is horrified, but what happens? Absolutely nothing — no firing, no talks of impeachment, nothing.

I think it is fantastic that the free enterprise system and the business community can afford the wasteful, nonproductive people we have running the government. But they were voted in by us, weren't they? Anyway, who really cares? After all a movie like "Jaws" is far more fun than trying to find out where this country is headed.

Second Amendment

Now I have no argument with Mr. Conine (L.A. Times article, Sept. 26) when he advocates the use of the 50,000 volt zapper as a weapon of self-defense for those who choose to make use of it, but his article went far afield of just recommending this; he followed this by advocating the outlawing of the private possession of handguns. In addition to this his article was full of inaccuracies. He stated that public opinion polls show that most Americans would support tough gun controls. This is not the case. What he should have stated is that public opinion polls indicate most Americans would support tougher penalties for persons convicted of crimes committed with a handgun.

He also stated that his anti-gun group will not be able to accomplish anything unless the political props are knocked out from under the gun lobby. Why is it that some mythical gun lobby must constantly be given credit for the protection of the Second Amendment to the Constitution? Aren't the liberal left wingers aware of the fact that there are many millions of us law-abiding Americans who are not influenced by any lobby? It has been my observation that those of us who are the so-called pro-gun group are not really a group at all, we are individualistic people who are not easily influenced by either lobbies or Madison Avenue.

By outlawing handguns the federal government would not be infringing on the Second Amendment? I must take issue with this point also. Infringe means just exactly what it says and since the Constitution and its amendments were written by simple, honest men and not by Harvard attorneys, I feel certain they meant it as a very positive statement.

I have spent a great deal of time in other countries on both sides of the iron curtain and have witnessed the atrocities committed against an unarmed and weakened populace by a strong central government, so I therefore object to Mr. Conine's remark that a "handgun won't be much help if the Commies ever land on Will Rogers Beach." I might also add that it is not the Commies who would come from afar to land on Will Rogers Beach that millions of us Americans are worried about, but the ones who are already here, along with their fellow travelers.

Mr. Conine would certainly resent a continuous and concerted effort to do away with the First Amendment, which gives him the privilege to air his inaccuracies millions of readers, yet he seems wont to feel that the Second Amendment is not as important. I feel that if the Second Amendment falls, the rest will surely follow. Is that why the liberals are working so hard to undermine it?

FDA Warnings

They are at it again! The FDA people telling us of the dangers in certain medications, etc. Why don't they check thoroughly first?

They are not alone. The Congressmen in Washington, our state officials make laws that can't be enforced, then amend or repeal them. Our ambassadors make quick judgments that are not always wise, I'm glad we don't know them all. Certainly the Food and Drug Act is not alone.

For everyone, hindsight is so much better than foresight. Could we try a little harder before it's too late?

P.O. Operation

The Postal Service wants to operate as a private enterprise when it comes to setting rates and as a utility when it comes to competition. Yet it expects the U.S. Treasury to pick up its losses.

In addition to a 30 per cent rate increase in first-class mail, the Post Office wants a taxpayer subsidy of $1.8 billion a year. Postal officials contend it must operate as other businesses if it is to get out of the red. But what business would grant its employes a $1 billion pay raise at a time it is losing $8 million a day?

Waste Treatment

Re: $27,000 public participation flop.

The County Sanitation District of Orange County (CSDOC) is planning a $275 million waste treatment plant in Fountain Valley. The project is designed to meet federal requirements for secondary treatment prior to ocean discharge. The Sanitation District is also proposing additional capacity (184 million gallons per day (MGD) existing; 225 MGD, proposed) which could, based on present per capita flows, provide sewage capacity for a population growth of 500,000 during a 10-year time frame.

The Environmental Coalition supports construction of facilities which upgrade the quality of treatment of wastewater. The marine environment can be improved while providing construction jobs to a sagging economy. However, such a project should be consistent with other environmental and social goals. The facility should be energy efficient and sized to allow a reasonable growth and development but not induce unwarranted growth. In addition, the Environmental Coalition would like to see the following criteria included in the project: consideration of source pretreatment of industrial wastes, inclusion of consumer incentives for conservation (e.g., graduated fee schedules), reclamation and reuse.

It is unfortunate that in spending $27,000 of public monies to inform the public through a series of workshops that the Sanitation District failed. We appreciate the concept of public agencies seeking public input early in the decisonmaking process; however, there appeared to be a lack of willingness by sanitation officials to discuss or answer questions on specifics concerning the project and its potential impacts. The simplistic presentation by the sanitation official lacked basic information about the proposed project and the decision making process. A detailed fact sheet would have helped those citizens attempting to focus their concerns. Capable group discussion leaders were provided by the Orange County League of Women Voters for the public workshops.

'Lungs Of City'

For two years my husband and I lived in London, England. One of the delightful aspects of the city was being able, in a matter of minutes, to get away from the concrete and asphalt, the traffic, the crowds and find an oasis. From the beautifully landscaped Kensington Gardens to the wild open space of Hampstead, there are hundreds and hundreds of acres of what our English friends call, "the lungs of the city." What a wonderful phrase and as necessary to cities as to humans. I hope the people of Fullerton will not lose the almost two thousand acres of Coyote Hills to developers. Let us look to the future and seize this opportunity, it will not come again. As Rev. Francis C. Anderson Jr. says so beautifully in his poem:

"The earth is an excessively exquisite lover, giving everything for which we yearn and asking absolutely nothing in return. . .We take her as we please. Rapaciously, possessively we seize her love, assured we'll never be denied. . .It was so true until one day she, unloved and overloving, died."

AN EDITOR'S OUTLOOK

Our Runaway Hopes

By JENKIN LLOYD JONES

Certainly an eye-popping political phenomenon of the waning months of 1975 is the spectacle of Nelson Rockefeller galloping around the midland boondocks decrying big government. He has gone so far as to admit a small degree of mea culpa, pointing out that even he has learned that our political promises and our Judeo-Christian imperative to give can outrun our actual resources.

So we have the interesting spectacle of the chief of our government, Gerald Ford, and his second-in-command both running against the size, power and expense of our public institutions.

Whether Nelson Rockefeller, who pumped up the size, power and expense of government in New York state, has suffered a true conversion, or whether he is seeking to make himself more palatable to Republican delegates in '76, depends on one's capacity for cynicism.

But there is no doubt that disenchantment with government as the cure for all our ills is growing through all segments of our population. When HEW succeeded in losing $400 million in bogus claims even liberals were aghast, and there is great lamentation about the growing mountain of paper work demanded of the productive by the regulators.

Still, we are ambivalent. There is, for example, what might be called the chamber-of-commerce-dichotomy, a furious opposition to government spending in the abstract, but an equally furious grabbing for it when it is offered. The theory is that if Cherry Valley doesn't take it, Apple River will.

We are hooked on rising expectations. We all demand more purchasing power, more security, earlier retirement and easier jobs. Elected officials have found it profitable to pander to these demands by promising that government will help deliver them.

In a recent issue of NATO Review, Samuel Brittan of the Financial Times of London wrote:

"The excessive demands made from the political process are likely to put a burden on democratic procedures which they are not designed to bear; thus a situation is created whereby the limits to the role of political decisions is gradually removed.

"Although politicans know quite well that there are limits to what they can do in a given contest, to acknowledge them would be costly in terms of votes, so evasive action becomes preferable to decision-making.

"The usefulness of inflationary finance as a short-term method of postponing political choice between incompatible objectives is a demonstration of this preference. By running a budget deficit, financed by excessive money creation and rationalized by some fashionable economic theory, a government is able for a time to increase expenditures without curtailing others or raising taxes overtly."

"Buying time" in this manner in an effort to surmount the next election also, eventually, buys disaster for all the people. Britain has now reached that moment of truth when foreign creditors will no longer finance the payment deficit and the Labor government must choose between high unemployment or high inflation.

Overblown expectations not only involve government but they put groups of people at war with the rest of the people. "Thirty-and-out," the auto workers' dream by which a man who joined the assembly line at 18 will retire at full pay at 48, will affect the price of the car the butcher or baker buys.

Featherbedding is reduced productivity at no reduction in cost and thus goes on price tags. Artificial labor scarcity, created by union monopoly, produces a demand situation unrelated to supply and hence a price penalty. Illegal public employe strikes set up non-negotiable demands unless taxpayers are willing to be deprived of essential public services.

Over all these things there rules an inexorable economic law which may be temporarily ignored but never avoided. That is that artificially high prices, whether created by business monopoly and restraint of trade, or government profligacy, or wages that outrun the real value of the work will erode the purchasing power of the currency and eventually reduce the national standard of living.

To close one of these doors by antitrust laws to prevent cozy cartels and price-rigging and to leave the other two open simply means that disaster comes in another way.

There is nothing wrong with our form of government, but there is a lot wrong with politicians who, knowing better, pursue ruinous policies for short-term personal advantages. It was Louis XIV who said, "Apres moi le deluge" — "After me let it flood," and the flood certainly came.

METRO NEWS

Corrupting Hometowners

By JO HINDMAN

A court case, first of its kind, came to a close this month with a citizen convicted by a jury on a charge of obstructing government administration. The sentence, delayed, draws either a prison sentence of one year, or a $1000 fine.

Testimony at the trial depicted the shambles that occur when federal assistance pollutes a local scene. Those involved included the defendant, a housewife whom the state charged with criminal offense. Also a sheriff, and a chairman of a county commission together with sundry local figures and a gaggle of ex-employes of three-county regional Central Oregon Law Enforcement Assistance Planning Agency (COLEPA) that covers Crook, Jefferson and Deschutes counties (Ore.). COLEPA is a type of hybrid LEAA-adjunct dictated by federal law (42 USC 3723-34) and implanted within state and local governments. LEAA means Law Enforcement Assistance Administration.

The action (State of Oregon v. Harbison) initiated by Deschutes County district attorney revealed an issue covering a five-year span that peaked in a squabble over COLEPA's set of books and records punctuated by testimony-reported personality clashes, broken locks, rifled desks.

An underlying weakness in the situation was that too many persons were holding dual jobs and titles with no one exercising top authority. For instance, a sheriff was puzzled when the defense attorney probing a certain event, asked, "Did you make that remark as a sheriff, or in your position as the chairman of COLEPA?" The sheriff seemed unable to unscramble his wits for a reply.

The housewife was COLEPA's coordinator, also bookkeeper, paid for one job, unpaid for the other. Fired by the COLEPA board, she removed the records to her home, pending an audit. A search warrant ferreted them out and into the hands of a state auditor. He reported no funds missing.

Earlier audit instructions to correct incipient laxness had gone ignored by the governing board. Fruitless questioning by the defense attorney failed to reveal a firm chain of local command.

Adding to the general disorientation, members of the jury when first polled knew COLEPA only as an infrequently appearing name in the local newspapers.

The federal LEAA supports COLEPA through state channels. In fact the most repeated word in testimony was "grants" (money). Financial irresponsibility reached new heights when private funds were mixed with LEAA-state grants. Loans from the housewife-defendant and her husband covered many of the paychecks she signed when funds were slow in coming.

Turbulent from the start, COLEPA's program appears to be a flop.

Three planning projects survive from the many that were started. Under oath the state auditor opines that COLEPA's budget ran somewhere between $60- or $70,000 each year.

OLEC (Oregon Law Enforcement Council) approved funds. Application forms require detailed information. The data, computer-processed of course, could later pinpoint COLEPA's noncompliance deficiencies in meeting federal LEAA standards and goals. The feds pour money into a community, get the locals hooked on easy spending. The reckoning comes later.

The infighting among the would-be crime fighters shows what happens when local jurisdictions play around with easy-come easy-go tax dollars they themselves haven't raised.

The same type of mixup can be reenacted anywhere in the United States because the same regional setup exists uniformly throughout the nation. Federal regional governance should have been on trial, not the housewife.

INSIDE LABOR

Ballot Crop Failure

By VICTOR RIESEL

WASHINGTON — A few hours before that female nihilist took a shot at Jerry Ford, Vice President Nelson Rockefeller was over in George Meany's executive suite wooing — by proxy — the union movement. Monday afternoon Nelson explained the new $100 billion energy plan to George who greeted both the visitor and the briefing with warm good humor.

This may ease President Ford's labor pains a bit, but the administration's wooing of powerful AFL-CIO chiefs has whipped up a stormy farmers rebellion which may not "un-blizzard" (as one farm leader said) until after election day. This may well cost candidate Ford several million vital votes and Midwest states he must capture to avert being landslided out of office.

Influential farm leaders aren't only angered by the moratorium on grain sales to the Soviets and Poland. What infuriates the wheat and feed grain belts is the fashion in which Mr. Ford and his advisers have ignored rural America's spokesmen.

They believe they've been deliberately snubbed by Ford's advisers for the 1000-to-1 chance of winning some political labor support.

For example, the farm leaders point to the "denigrating manner" in which feed grain sales to Poland were cut.

This was "orchestrated entirely" by the State Department. The action wasn't coordinated with any other department — certainly not with Agriculture or Commerce. This is how it developed:

On Sept. 10, the Polish state grain purchasing officials were told in Warsaw they would get priority on the buying of several million tons of American grain. Nine days later Polish diplomats here were summoned to the State Department by Dr. Kissinger's "counselor" Helmut Sonnenfeldt. He told them that Poland as well as Russia were now barred from buying American grain for a month.

Wrong Steer

This action was cleared only by the Oval Office — which believed the tough anti-Polish Communist line would please labor's influential maritime trade unions. Mr. Ford couldn't have been more badly advised. The waterfront union leaders were shocked. Poland has been buying American grain heavily. So the farmers, one of whose organizations was about to send a mission to Europe's East bloc to push sales, weren't hurting too much. So their heat on the union leaders had eased.

But then came Sonnenfeldt's ukase. That did it. Especially since Secretary of Agriculture Earl Butz wasn't informed until just a few minutes before he was scheduled to meet here with Poland's minister of agriculture Sept. 22 (about the same time Rockefeller was in Meany's office explaining the energy program).

Butz was caught flatfooted and slack-jawed. He told the Polish official that the grain moratorium "did not come from the Department of Agriculture."

This was just one of a series of "insults" to the farmers and their spokesman in Washington, one of them charged. And added: They wouldn't do this to Meany or (Secretary of Labor) Dunlop if it was a vital national or international labor issue. You bet they'd brief them first. By cutting out Butz they've cut out our spokesman.

This fueled the feud between the White House and the farmers which began with the announcement of the Soviet grain purchase moratorium in the cabinet room Sept. 9. The "six-point" (actually seven since one is secret), three-page agreement was developed by Labor Secretary Dunlop. He was there with the president's top economic adviser Bill Seidman and the union leaders.

But there was no Earl Butz input. Nor was he anywhere in the news photos, farm people say. Thus the sale of grain, so vital to the agricultural community, became almost entirely a union matter.

Moscow Mission

And, there was the presidential dispatch of a commission to Moscow to work out long-term grain deals. This was led by Charles (Chuck) Robinson, Undersecretary of State for economic affairs. The Agriculture Department's sole representation on this committee was a low-echelon technician. No Butz, who has been under fire from Sen. Scoop Jackson. This senator has been using words in bad taste especially one rhyming with Butz.

Now the flak is intense against President Ford himself. The charge is that he has turned the grain affair over to Secretary of State Kissinger as well as the labor leaders. The intricate pressure play against the grain-short Soviets by cutting off the Poles, it is charged, has ignored the domestic front. And grain prices have fallen while farmers' passions have risen.

The latter's leaders are charging Mr. Ford with having "double-crossed" and denigrated them.

This could cost Mr. Ford quite heavily politically. Oval Office insiders appear to believe the farmers have no other place to go next presidential election day.

Well, they do — especially if the Democrats nominate Sen. Hubert Humphrey. The Minnesotan is popular in the grain states. And on this front he would be supported by Senator McGovern, always a strong "wheat man." Since Mr. Ford will find it difficult to carry the "New Yorks" of the nation, it would be politically fatal to him if he lost the farmers.

There's grain for thought in all this — especially with the campaign in its early heats.

Today In History

By The Associated Press

Today is Sunday, Oct. 5, the 278th day of 1975. There are 87 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:

On this date in 1954, Italy and Yugoslavia formally settled their dispute over Trieste.

On this date:

In 1582, Christopher Columbus discovered Costa Rica.

In 1880, the 21st American president, Chester Arthur, was born in Fairfield, Vt.

In 1881, artist Pablo Picasso was born in Malaga, Spain.

In 1918, as World War I neared the end, the Allies announced that the German Hindenburg Line had been broken.

In 1931, Clyde Pangborn and Hugh Herndon completed the first non-stop flight across the Pacific, arriving in the state of Washington 41 hours after takeoff from Japan.

In 1958, dynamite explosions almost destroyed the integrated high school in Clinton, Tenn.

Ten years ago: It was reported that Washington had given permission for American forces in Vietnam to use tear gas in military operations when it would save lives.

Five years ago: President Richard Nixon returned home from a European trip and said the United States was playing a major role in maintaining world peace.

LAND AND LAW

Property & Personal Rights

By BERNARD SIEGAN

Professor of Law, University of San Diego Law School

Scratch the surface of a property right and you will find deeply imbedded a right that also protects the sanctity of the individual. This is the view of Prof. Norman Karlin of Southwestern Law School in Los Angeles. He explains his position in a current issue of Environmental Law, a publication of Northwestern Law School of Portland, Oregon.

Professor Karlin illustrates with two famous legal opinions that are not generally considered as involving property rights. In the case-books used as texts in the law schools, these opinions are usually set forth as examples of how the courts have invoked civil rights to overrule racially discriminating legislation. Karlin notes that in excerpting from or summarizing these opinions, the authors of the case-books have omitted the very important language they contain relating to property rights. He believes that in each instance the judges would have struck down the legislation in question because it denied people property or economic rights.

The case of Yick Wo. vs. Hopkins, decided by the U.S. Supreme Court in 1886, is considered by many constitutional experts as the source of our modern doctrine of equal protection of the laws under which courts invalidate racially directed legislation. It has long been termed a "race" case. "In fact", writes Karlin, "Yick Wo was one of our earliest zoning cases."

At issue was an ordinance of the city of San Francisco which made it unlawful for any person to establish or maintain a laundry in a wooden building without having first obtained the consent of the city's Board of Supervisors. In practice, when a Caucasian applied for a permit, it was granted. When a Chinese applied, the permit was denied. The commentators have stated that the ordinance was found to be invalid because it denied to the Chinese the equal protection of the laws.

Karlin believes that the court's equal protection argument was more in the nature of a secondary consideration. The law was found unconstitutional not only because it was discriminatorily applied to Chinese, but primarily because the court said such an ordinance "intended to confer ... not a discretion to be exercised upon a consideration of the circumstances of each case, but a naked and arbitrary power to give or withhold consent, not only as to places, but as to persons."

The court subsequently stated: "The very idea that one man may be compelled to hold his life, or the means of living, or any material right essential to the enjoyment of life, at the mere will of another, seems to be intolerable in any country where freedom prevails, as being the essence of slavery itself."

Using that standard, courts might be kept in session for a decade just removing the countless regulatory laws which impede or deny the opportunity of people to earn a living in the manner they prefer. Under zoning, for instance, city councils have wide-ranging authority to determine where and what people can build. They also thereby greatly influence or determine where people will be able to live, work, operate a business and shop.

Another classic case discussed in the Karlin article is Buchanan v. Warley, decided in 1917. It concerned a Louisville, Ky. ordinance which provided that no member of one race could purchase property in a block where the majority of home owners were of another race. The plaintiff, who had was white, had entered into a contract with defendant, who was black, to sell the latter a lot on a block in which the majority of home owners were white.

The defendant sought to cancel the contract on the grounds that because of his race he would not be permitted to build a home on the lot. The plaintiff however, sued, claiming he was seeking to enforce a property right guaranteed him under the U.S. Constitution. He argued that the ordinance imposed restrictions on the sale and use of his property contrary to the provisions of the Constitution.

The court ruled in favor of the plaintiff and declared: "The Fourteenth Amendment protects life, liberty and property from invasion by the States without due process of law. Property is more than the mere thing which a person owns. It is elementary that it includes the right to acquire, use and dispose of it. The Constitution protects these essential attributes of property. Property consists of the free use, enjoyment, and disposal of a person's acquisitions without control or diminution save by the law of the land."

Karlin points out that in both cases the judges said the right to use one's property was near-absolute and could only be qualified to a very limited extent, and then only for the purpose of encouraging its use and sale. The courts no longer evidence this respect for property rights. The two cases cited show how much greater personal freedom would be if they did.

South Africa's Aims

By RALPH KAPLAN

South Africa's objective in relation to the Dark Continent has been — for some time — the normalization of her relations with the rest of Africa. Her foreign policy, prior to the colonial independence era, had produced good diplomatic ties. These were almost completely destroyed in the "uhuru" era of which the existing hostility of the more communist-influenced African nations are unhappy evidences.

Despite the extreme hostility evinced by so many of the new African governments, South Africa maintains excellent relations with her more immediate neighbors: Swaziland, Botswana and Lestho with whom a form of customs union exists in addition to South Africa's cooperating in joint industrial and hydro-electrical projects.

Many of the black African countries have maintained some form of trade relationship with South Africa, although publicly they are among the harshest critics of white supremacy. While they render screaming lipservice to Third World slogans, condemning the "imperialists" of the western world in general and South Africa in particular, their citizens are far from boycotting South Africa's superior merchandise which can be purchased off the open shelves in black African markets.

Information from travelers crossing Africa from the north to conclude their journey in South Africa, as well as reports from U.S. reporters who attended the recent Mohammad Ali folly in Zaire, have testified how openly and gladly South African products were offered and sold. Of course, none of this means that the conflict between Black Africa and South Africa is forgotten in a deluge of South African-produced goodies, but it does mean that there is much more room to manuever and negotiate than extremists on either side are willing to admit.

It is important to realize that South Africa's existence is not negotiable, nor is there the slightest chance that the western world will pull a Rhodesian hat-trick on the government in Pretoria.

Consider that South Africa produces 71 per cent of the free world's gold which, in terms of economic clout, is every bit as impressive a defensive or offensive weapon as is the Arab world's black gold: oil. Added to this must be an additional significant role in that South Africa's geographical position provides an unrestricted sea route to and from the East. Some 4,000 ships pass through its waters every year and many use its ports, which are the only ones equipped to handle Bunker fuel oil for thousands of sea miles on both the East and West coasts of Africa. It is this route that carries fuel for the industries of Europe and America.

Then there is the strategic monitoring of Soviet and other communist-bloc ships, carried out through South African installations, in the Indian and South Atlantic Oceans.

South Africa has one-third of the world's uranium reserves as well as the world's largest platinum reserves. The list of facilities — railroad, telecommunication networks, etc. — is endless and endlessly impressive.

The loss of South Africa would tip the scale of western strength in one traumatic dive to a point of rendering Africa and Asia helpless to the neo-imperialistic aspirations of communist dictatorship, assisted by their powerless satellites in these two continents.

The western world would never regain its countenance of civilized leadership.

South Africa is a free nation and by its geo-political exposure to the new and emerging nations, still groping for national identity and pressured from all sides by self-serving communist interests, her preparedness and strength are undisputed prime factors in all considerations as to how tomorrow's world will shape up.

Non-Sewer Feels Like Old Remnant

Do you know how you can tell you're getting older?

When everyone around you gets younger. Getting old is discovering your priest smells like bubble gum, your lawyer is fighting acne, and your son's math teacher is wearing a training bra.

It's when an eight-year-old kid (who doesn't even own a sweatband) aces you in tennis. When a 16-year-old offers to parallel park your car for you when you fall apart in traffic. When a four-year-old takes the cap off a child-proof aspirin bottle for you.

It happened again last weekend when I was wandering through a department store and inadvertently found myself in the yard goods department.

It looked like Woodstock.

Young girls who couldn't have been in their teens were flipping through pattern books like they lived there. Slumping tiredly on a stool, I couldn't help but overhear their conversation.

"If it has no pattern repeat, you could get by with the 44-inch stuff and a quarter of a yard less. I made it last week in one evening." (I couldn't thread my needle in one evening.)

"There's a remnant over there I know Linda could get an entire pants suit out of."

"I'm not starting on anything until I finish the coat."

"If you can't get your size, get the next one and we'll alter the pattern."

Then a salesperson approached me. She wore braces and couldn't have been more than 12. "Could I help you with something?"

"Well, the truth is..."

"You need something easy? Here's a pattern with only five pieces."

"That many?" I asked. "Actually, I was looking for something rather simple."

"Look, if you have any problems with gussets or facings or handling the new fabrics, just bring it in and I'll help you with it." (Gussets? I thought you made gravy out of 'em at Thanksgiving.)

"That's terribly sweet of you," I said. "For starters, I'll have three yards of this crepe, a yard and a half of silk, and some corduroy for bedspreads."

I watched this child with pure respect as she added a row of fractions and came up with a total.

Call it pride. I didn't have the heart to tell her I don't sew.

Leaguers Bound For San Diego

More than 300 members from Orange County National Assistance League chapters will attend the 27th Annual Convention Monday through Thursday, Oct.13-16, in Hotel del Coronado, Coronado.

The 57 chapters of the organization (more than 1000 members) will be hosted by chapters from Anaheim, Fullerton, Garden Grove, Huntington Beach, Laguna Beach, Newport Beach, Orange, Santa Ana, Tustin and San Diego County.

Mrs. Wayne Belden of Tustin, convention chairman, will be assisted by Mrs. Paul Rogers, conference chairman from Newport Beach and Mrs. Michael Van Reed, hostess convention committee chairman from San Diego County.

Orange County resident, Bernardo M. Yorba, will be guest speaker. He is a fifth generation Californian whose knowledge of the Portola Expedition stems from his great-great grandfather, Jose Antonio Yorba, a Spanish soldier during the expedition in 1769.

Pati Tambellini, resident director of Costa Mesa Civic Playhouse, will provide entertainment along with Margaret Boyer and Gene Benedict in a scene from "I Can't Hear You When Water's Running."

This year's convention theme called "Chain of Missions," was chosen by NAL officials because the San Diego area is the site of the first mission established by Father Junipero Serra in 1769. Each chapter's "mission," they say, is "philanthropic service to the community."

Seminars and workshops are designed for learning and exchanging ideas in the areas including fund-raising, public relations, finance, auxiliaries and assisteens.

There will be a tour of the old section of San Diego, including a visit to Villa Montezuma, a restored historical monument. The villa is a league project, and members provide the restoration and refurbishing of the 1887 kitchen in this Victorian home.

Wild Horses Couldn't Drag Her Away From Andy

The Devines Remain Close After 42 Married Years

Andy Devine hates horses.

For those of you who have seen any of the more than 300 westerns he has appeared in as the husky, gravel-voiced sidekick with a ready wit, this may seem hard to believe.

Take it from one who knows — the woman behind the man.

"He's made so many westerns that riding a horse means work to him," says Dorothy Devine. "He says they get higher and wider each year."

Nicknamed "Doagie" by a teasing Andy, Mrs. Devine is a vivacious redhead with a lively interest in what's going on around her. She lives unpretentiously with her famous husband and a black labrador retriever in a small house in Newport Beach.

"JINGLES"

Her husband, known to many as "Jingles" from his comic days on the "Wild Bill Hickok" TV show, is being toasted and roasted for his five decades in show business at his gala 70th birthday party sponsored by the Orange County Press Club Tuesday evening. Letters have been pouring in from old friends in the movie industry, and Mrs. Devine has been enthusiastically going through the scrapbooks and clippings she has saved during their 42 years together.

"It's been so darn much fun for Andy and me to go over these things — it's like going back."

It seems to Dorothy Devine that she's always been involved in motion pictures. When she was 5, her family moved from a "little cattle ranch in Colorado" to Hollywood.

"My father was a good horseman, and broke his own horses. He was raised next to Will Rogers in Oklahoma. All the cowboys were showing up doing westerns then and my father decided to invest in movies. So in 1920, my parents, six children and 30 horses arrived in California to break into show business."

After the film her father had put money into soon folded, he started renting his horses to western productions. Soon he was renting to the big-budget shows and his family started getting into the act.

EASY RIDER

"When they needed somebody to ride," says Mrs. Devine, "they would just get one of us six kids. My twin brother and I both doubled for Jackie Coogan, the child star. I could get away with it because I had a little Buster Brown haircut. I also worked as an extra, and two of my brothers became makeup men. We were all in show business to make a living.

At 18, after years of riding and small parts, she was cast as the role of ingenue in Will Rogers' 1933 production of "Doctor Bull," and Rogers introduced her to the slim, handsome actor with a gruff voice that was soon to become her husband.

"We met in June and were married in October. I was so comfortable with Andy. We were so compatible. He had been brought up like I had — he really hadn't gotten out of the West or away from outdoor life. We had so many laughs and so much fun."

After they were married, she promptly quit the movie business, settled down to the life of a housewife and has been happy ever since. She says she has never felt she had to "give up" anything for her marriage.

"I had no ambition for a Hollywood career. All I ever wanted was a home, babies and all that stuff."

Although Andy has had to travel throughout his career, his wife says that has not kept them from being together or stopped him from being a father to their two sons.

"I made a point of being with him. I'd go along on a lot of locations. We're a very compatible famliy. We've always been close. Andy's been a wonderful husband and father. When our boys were in high school, they got interested in swimming. Andy was there and he shared in what they were doing. He took a stopwatch and sat in the stands."

The boys were never pushed into following in their father's bootsteps, says their mother. They appeared in one movie with their father called "Canyon Passage" in which they played his sons, but they didn't show much interest in that life.

"We wanted our sons to have an absolutely normal type of background. We lived on a little five-acre ranch in Van Nuys and the boys were in 4-H and Cub Scouts. When they got interested in swimming, it was what they wanted to do. Both were all-American and both almost made Olympic squads and we didn't try to influence them." Today, son Tad, 40, is in property management in Newport Beach and Denny, 37, is a property developer in Sherman Oaks.

TRAVEL BUG

Although Andy is making few movies now, he is active on the stage and on the dinner theater circuit. Now that their kids are on their own, his wife can accompany him around the country and she finds the traveling fascinating.

"We love traveling. We usually stay six weeks in one area. It's a wonderful way of life."

When they're not on the road, the couple lead an active, but private life at their Newport Beach home where they have lived for 18 years. Mrs. Devine does her own cooking and gardening and shares her husband's enthusiasm for hunting quail and ducks.

"Andy hates crowds and loves people," she says. "We try to live quietly

Palsy Victim Plugs In, Starts Walking

By CHARLES S. WARD
Copley News Service

CHICAGO — "I feel close to God. But I don't force Him on other people."

That faith — and a sense of humor — have guided Kathy McAlvany, 28, of nearby Aurora, Ill., through years of affliction and a six-hour brain operation.

"I talk to Him. He listens," she said in an interview.

Kathy is one of 700,000 persons who suffer from spastic cerebral palsy. She had a pacemaker implanted in her brain to help her walk.

"You will never know how good it is to be able to stand flat on your feet and not go flying all over the place," she said.

Kathy was paralyzed in the lower part of her body, especially her legs. "My body was full of rubber bands pulling this way and that way. My body could not do what my brain told it to do."

In cold weather, Kathy said, "it used to take me five to 10 minutes just to put on my shoes."

ONE BORN AN HOUR

A cerebral palsy victim is born every 53 minutes in the United States. Causes are varied. Among them are premature birth, blood factors or a head injury.

Kathy was born prematurely in a San Diego hospital on July 31, 1947.

Her father had been killed in an auto accident before she was born. Her mother died at age 41, in 1958, when Kathy was 11.

They had moved when Kathy was 9 from California to Skokie, Ill., where Kathy attended schools. She later lived with an aunt, who is also now dead, in the Aurora area.

Kathy knew she was intelligent. "CPs usually are," she said. "They merely lack the motor functions of the brain. A lot of talent is being wasted. They have fine minds but their bodies hold them back."

Determined not to be held back, Kathy looked for answers to her affliction.

GLIMMER OF HOPE

Kathy read a magazine article in 1973 about the pacemaker — a device implanted in the brain which would control the motor functions. It was experimental surgery.

A physical therapist she knew inquired about a neurosurgeon for her. A month later she was asked to report to the hospital for an evaluation. This was in July, 1974.

After two weeks of tests doctors determined she was a good candidate for the operation. In August, 1974, she was placed on the October schedule. That operation date was canceled because neurosurgeons were developing a new tehcnique in brain surgery. It was rescheduled for March, 1975.

She went to the hospital last March 17 and waited until March 21.

She underwent a six-hour operation performed by Dr. Joseph Waltz in St.

Pacemaker Changed Her Life

Barnabas Hospital in the Bronx, N.Y. He used techniques and pacemaker equipment developed by Dr. Irving S. Cooper about two and one-half years ago.

DELICATE OPERATION

The pacemaker was implanted in her cerebellum, a horseshoe-shaped part of the brain in back of the skull that controls the muscles and reflex actions.

Neurosurgeons drilled two small holes through her skull and pulled back a protecting leather-like flap. Four platinum electrodes were implanted in the brain. Wires were run beneath her skin and neck, where a plug was inserted.

Two radio receivers were placed near the collarbone. They have antennae which lead to a power source she carries by a shoulder strap.

Radio signals travel the small gap from the outside antennae taped to her skin to the receivers beneath the skin plugged into the electrodes.

The power travels from the pack through antennae to the radio receiver and into the electrodes — 10 volts for each side of the brain.

When the operation was over she became the 241st person in the country to have a pacemaker.

"I left my crutches in New York," Kathy said.

Physicians say the pacemaker in time may create new paths to the neurons in the brain. Neurons are like hundreds of tiny carburetors, all firing away. The pacemaker fires more of them and more evenly.

She was hospitalized six weeks.

During the day Kathy carries the power pack everywhere as she works at Chicago Title and Trust Co. She drives a car to work from her home on Aurora's southeast side.

At night her unit runs from the house current. The power pack recharges while it is plugged into the outlet. If the power fails, an alarm goes off.

But Kathy still has a 20-hour supply of electricity: four hours in the pack and eight hours in each battery. If she was completely without power for short periods of time, "it would not threaten my life — but it would be psychologically threatening."

She lives alone with her two dogs, a 100-pound German shepherd and a bloodhound. "They're good protection. And they are something alive to come home to after work," she said.

(CNS Photo)

NEW PACE OF LIFE — Kathy McAlvany, 27, can walk downstairs now unassisted. Before a pacemaker was implanted in her brain, Kathy was hopelessly crippled, a victim of spastic cerebral palsy.

La Palma To Be Daisy City

Daisies will be shooting up all over La Palma soon if the city's Bicentennial Committee's "City Beautiful Week" project goes as planned.

The committee, along with Girl Scout Cadette Troop 1405, will sponsor "Daisy Saturday," from 9 a.m. to noon Oct. 11. It climaxes a week-long attempt by residents and merchants to brighten La Palma's appearance with bright flowers.

The committee hopes that with families, businesses and civic and service groups acting together, daisies of the African variety will soon be sprouting along arterial streets and in tree wells.

Keeping the plants watered will be the city's job.

First applicants will get the choice locations. Scouts will be available to handle planting chores for businesses that request them.

Interested groups should have shovels and other equipment with them when they arrive at city hall Saturday morning to pick up their plants.

SPARKLING GIFT

Diamonds remain a girl's best friend, and, this season, a boy's best friend, too. Men are increasingly wearing rings, bracelets and necklaces and a little diamond goes a long way to cement a friendship.

Work Ethic Turns Kids On

"Dear Dr. Shedd: Can you help us? My wife and I are hung up on a problem with our college son. He's nineteen. Up until this year he's had a job to earn part of his school expenses. This summer he wants to take it easy, enjoy his friends, do nothing, lay around. His mother thinks this is all right. But I disagree. He could go back to the newspaper where he worked last summer. And I think he'd be better off working.

"What do you think?"

Glad you asked. As any reader of this column knows, I am a bear on kids helping to educate themselves whenever they can. We've been over this ground before. And we'll be over it again. I'm a strong believer in work for several reasons:

For one thing our sons and daughters gain tremendous self-respect from carrying part of their costs. On the drug scene I find so many users with low self-regard. When the gang says, "Let's turn on," they're saying it because they're turned off. So we do a good thing when we get them high on themselves.

Is this an accident? Most of the top notch young people I see have been raised in the work ethic. Chores when they were small. Little jobs outside the home as soon as they could get them. Learning to work for other people. All these rate A-plus.

Yet that isn't the only reason I think this dad is right. One of my jobs as a parent is to prepare my children to deal with life the way it is. For most of us that means some kind of employment. A three-month vacation isn't very realistic.

What about travel? O.K., maybe for one summer. But simply to lay around, no way! So, hang in there dad. He may not like you for it now. But good fathering isn't all a popularity contest. Some of it is getting our children ready for tomorrow.

Dr. Shedd, himself a father of five, gives helpful, frank insights on how to deal honestly with a subject that is best discussed in the home. For this 32-page booklet, send $1.00 and a postage-paid envelope to: Sex Education, P.O. Box 2218, Mission, Kansas 66201.)

Exercising At Work Makes Time Fly

By JENNIFER ANDERSON

Working women relax! Take a refreshing, 10-minute exercise break, and when you return to the job, it will go easier and quicker. Here are some do-anywhere exercises that will loosen up tight shoulders, tense neck muscles and weary vertabrae.

Dear Jennifer:

I type all day at work, and when I get home, my hobby is sewing. Often, I find that my neck and shoulders ache from tension. How can I strengthen my upper back so that this weariness won't set in?

Edith T., Chicago, Ill.

Dear Edith:

The back, shoulders and neck are often the first places to register tension after long periods of concentration. Try the following exercises:

Sit in a straight-back chair, with buttocks tightened, and do the "shrug." Lift your shoulders, trying to touch your ears, and rotate them in a circle until you feel a loosening effect. Describe larger and smoother circles until you feel your muscles relax.

Sitting with your back straight and holding your body erect, drop your chin to your chest. Feel a pull in the back of your neck. (These exercises work even better if you can sit tailor-fashion on the floor, squarely on your buttocks.)

Inhale deeply through the nose, expanding the stomach, then the rib cage with air. Exhale as your roll your head over your right shoulder. Stop at the center with your head all the way back; inhale deeply. Roll your head over your left shoulder; exhale to original position.

Repeat this in the reverse direction. The breathing is very important in this relaxation exercise. Nervous tension causes shallow breathing that accentuates the feeling of fatigue.

After completing this exercise, tip your head all the way back, keeping your spine straight (feel a good pull under the chin), and gently rock your head from left to right. Inhale and exhale deeply through the nose. Don't push beyond a comfortable range of any of these rotations. As tension dissolves, the rotations will become naturally smooth and fluid.

If this exercise is done properly, tension flows away and you can feel it immediately. The effect lasts for hours.

For a quick massage to relieve tension when you arrive home, sprinkle baby powder on top of your shoulders. Let one arm and shoulder go limp. Kneading and squeezing with the other hand, work across the top of the shoulder to the spine. Repeat on the other side.

To relieve tension in the middle back, stand and press your thumbs firmly into either side of your spine. Work your way up the middle of your back as high as you can reach.

For aching legs, try this: Sprinkle baby powder on your legs (it reduces friction and allows your fingers to smooth over your skin). Lie on a bed and prop your legs up on the wall or headboard. Bending the knee of one leg so that you can reach your foot, begin to massage with both hands, working downward from the toes to ankle to mid-calf, knee and thigh. Knead and squeeze as you go. Do the other leg. Take as much time as you need to feel relaxed and refreshed.

Newcomers Charter Bus Trip

Fullerton Welcome Wagon Newcomers Club plans to make a chartered bus trip to the Los Angeles garment district on Wednesday, Oct. 15. New community residents are invited.

The club's bingo luncheon begins at noon Wednesday, Oct. 29, in Mercury Savings and Loan, 1001 Imperial Highway, La Habra. The event will feature prizes.

Both the tour and luncheon require reservations with Mrs. David Mason of Brea. Information on other group activities is available from Mrs. Alan Lewis, Fullerton.

FACE WATCH

Pretty make-up loses its appeal if you wreck the effect by grimaces and other facial ticks. You'll look prettier if you remember to relax facial muscles and smile or keep a pleasant expression. This also cuts down on future wrinkles.

PLACENTIA YORBA LINDA

Placentia-Yorba Linda Welcome Wagon Club will hold its membership coffee at 10:30 a.m. Wednesday, Oct. 8, in the Placentia home of Mrs. Sharon Kossuth.

The club will stage its annual fashion show at 10 a.m. Thursday, Oct. 16, in Fullerton Elks Lodge, 1451 Brea Blvd.

Jackie De Koning may be called for luncheon reservations.

Our Children

Specialized Fields Take Priority

By Dr. WILLARD ABRAHAM
Copley News Service

Q. My college-age daughter had been preparing to teach in the elementary school, but she recently changed her goal. Her present aim is to teach handicapped children, and I don't know how wise that is. Do you have any information or advice on this subject?

A. Job opportunities in elementary education are going down in many parts of the country. The lowering birthrate and limited funds are among the reasons.

However, there are more positions than ever in the field of special education for persons who want to work with handicapped children of different types.

Many states have mandated that school districts must offer these programs, so the need for certified teachers is increasing. It is, of course, difficult to tell how long this demand will exist.

Your daughter may have switched because of the better chance to get a job. Hopefully, she had a second reason: the desire to teach these children who are sometimes difficult to teach.

Q. Parents have to go through the most unpleasant stages of childhood!

For example, there's our 4-year-old boy who is completely toilet trained — away from home. But at home it's another story. It's really quite a mess.

I try to encourage him to sit there in the bathroom until he does something, lecture him and punish him, but nothing seems to work.

Please help me out.

A. Rewards and punishment have been effective in situations like this, but they have to be of the type that are important to your youngster. A dessert he likes, a small piece of candy or a new toy (small cars, for example, so you can provide a whole series of rewards) may be pleasurable enough to encourage him to "change his ways."

One kind of punishment might be to remain messy for a short while (if you can stand it!). Most children like being clean.

Your pediatrician or family doctor may have some suggestions that are especially suitable for your boy because they please or bother him. Why not ask him or her?

CUTTING UP

Keep your hair at its pretty peak by having it trimmed every two months. This removes dry brittle ends, leaving the hair looking glossy and healthy.

ANNIVERSARY PLATE

Every five years Bing and Grondahl produces a limited number of a special Anniversary Plates and each Anniversary Plate is reproduced from an earlier Bing and Grondahl Christmas Plate. This year, the Anniversary issue features the heart warming horse motif from Christmas 1941...a valuable collector's treasure...and one of the most sought after Anniversary Plates ever issued.

Norwegian Immigration

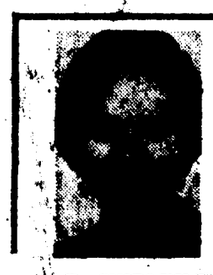

SESQUICENTENNIAL
1825-1975

This beautiful plate was created by Norway's famous Porsgrund Porcelain to celebrate the 150th Anniversary of the voyage of the sloop "Restauration" which sailed from Norway July 4, 1825 and landed in New York October 9, 1825 with 46 Norweigan passengers who came to settle in the United States. Pictured around the rim, in three shades of blue on brilliant white porcelain, are scenes of the lives of Norwegian-Americans...the arrival of the "sloopers"...the pioneer days of the Norwegian immigrants...and the American their descendants know today. The proud history depicted on this rare treasure plate is cause to celebrate! Historical folder is included with each Anniversary plate.

Interior Design

To Adapt Overly Bright Drapes Use Ivory Or Off-White Linings

By SHIRLEY FAIR

Dear Shirley Fair:

I have see-through draperies in my living-room and master bedroom. We are set way back from the road. The drapes in the living room are green, and the drapes in our bedroom are yellow and orange. My sister said it spoils the outside of the house to have three bright colors showing and that I should have lined the ones in the bedroom or both rooms.

The outside of the house is a earthtone green. I think a lining would defeat the purpose of having a see-through fabric. The reason I have these fabrics is that I wanted to keep them pulled, and we like the looks of the light filtering through. What do you think about this? I read your column all the time and so does my sister.

Edna

Dear Edna:

Your sister has a point. If the outside of your house is a green, the living room draperies should look fine. I would suggest a separate ivory color lining or off-white that could be pulled when you were having company or wanted the house to look especially nice from the outside. If I am decorating a home, I believe that the windows facing the front of the house should be considered from the outside as well as the inside.

Dear Shirley Fair:

We have just bought a new home, and I need help decorating the family room. I would like to pick up the colors in an oval hooked rug I'm using in front of the fireplace. The floral pattern is done in oranges, rusts, yellows, and greens. So far, I have green carpeting and a burnt orange sofa. I'm doing the rest of the house in Country French and would like this room to blend.

The kitchen forms an L with the family room. The windows start in the middle of the kitchen, continue across the family room with a sliding glass door, and end with corner windows 58 inches wide. We have a fairly good view, and don't want wall to wall drapes.

We will be eating in the family room, so we will need a table and chairs. We would also like another upholstered chair or two. I have refinished and reupholstered furniture before, so redoing a couple of older chairs would be no problem. What would you suggest? I would also like to use an old camel-backed trunk, but it needs refinishing. What are your ideas?

A Long Time Reader

Dear "A Long Time Reader":

I can't help you a great deal on your furniture arrangement because you didn't give me your scale nor the size and style of sofa. However, if you need two more chairs, I suggest you pick the yellow from your rug and cover the two chairs in a tightly woven yellow nylon. Make the cording on these two chairs of the orange fabric used on sofa. Your table and chairs should be Country French in styling and a medium brown wood, as should be all your other wood pieces. Cover these chairs in a green that blends with carpet. A large dried flower arrangement, bringing in all the mentioned colors would be lovely as a centerpiece.

Your windows are a real problem because you need color, texture or some type of interest for your walls and if you don't want draperies, you will have to wallpaper or use very colorful shades or other window trim.

If you want painted walls, you might consider woven wood shades with valances. Your windows are close and different sizes, but when the valances are up, they should form a straight line across the top and hang the same distance from the top. This would give you the needed color.

Another treatment is to select a stripe in all the colors of your area rug and use a French pleated valance across the top of every window and door, with a floor-length single panel on each side and a tie back.

Railroad 'Baron' Operates 120 Miniature Locomotives

By JOHN BRONSON
Associated Press Writer

PITCAIRN, Pa. — George Dzikiy is a model railroad baron.

With more than 120 locomotives to haul nearly 1,000 freight and passenger cars, his basement rail empire is one of Pennsylvania's largest in miniature and probably outranks some real American railroads, too.

Housed in a specially constructed 60-by-30 foot building in this Pittsburgh suburb, Dzikiy's trains operate on about one-half mile of track. He laid it all out himself after cutting thousands of wood ties and "spiking" the rails by hand.

His passenber station, modeled after Cincinnati's Union Station, has 14 platforms. The freight yard on the other side of the room has 17 tracks parallel to each other.

The 50-year-old steel fabricator is justifiably proud of the size of his railroad, but he says the true fascination of the hobby lies in its precise miniaturization.

Dzikiy's models are in Ogauge, which means 1/4 inch in scale measurements equals about one foot on the prototype.

Despite their relatively tiny size, all of the cars on Dzikiy's pike show rivets and grab-irons where they should be; the numbering on cars and engines corresponds to the real thing and many of the cars have been "weathered" to look as if they've been out in the elements for years.

"That's the art of model railroading and that's what too many hobbyist are getting away from," he said. "The basic principle to all this is to be a copycat of the real railroads."

A self-admitted purist, Dzikiy rarely buys manufactured trains or kits to build cars and locomotives.

"I build them all from scratch and I build 'em steady," he says. "There's no end to them. And the more complicated they are, the more I seem to like them."

Trains are central to Dzikiy's life. The model railroad completely fills the basement, and while hundreds of cars and engines are on the tracks, hundreds more clutter shelves, benches and even several closets in his house, which he shares with his brother and two sisters.

"Some people get relaxation from sitting in a bar or watching television, but not me. I can just sit for hours looking at my books or working on a model," Dzikiy says.

He began building and collecting model trains in 1947 and constructed his railroad in 1967. Over the years, he's become rather well-known in modeling circles and his custom built pieces are vigorously sought by collectors who Dzikiy says "will heed no price if a model meets their eye."

While he can't put a price tag on how much he's spent since 1947, he estimates his equipment, because of its originality and craftsmanship, would go for about $75,000.

"But I don't sell them," he adds with a grin. "I just make 'em."

Surprise Party Marks Smith Anniversary

The 35th wedding anniversary of Lou and Virginia Smith of Fountain Valley was celebrated at a surprise anniversary party held in their home.

Hosting the event were their children, Randy and Debbie Smith, along with son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Ron Martin, also of Fountain Valley.

Table Talk

The couple were married Sept. 21, 1940, at Moultrie, Ga., and are parents of four children. Their son and daughter-in-law, Lou and Judy Smith, reside in Syracuse, N.Y. The senior Smiths are grandparents of four.

CELEBRITIES VISIT

Entertainment celebrities and club officials visited the Balboa Bay Club First Cabin in Newport Beach during a tennis tournament break. Hosts and guests included:

Mr. and Mrs. Chad Everett; Dick Stevens, president of the Balboa Bay Club; Liz Evans; Mr. and Mrs. W.D. Ray, chairman of the board of International Bay Clubs Inc.; and Mr. and Mrs. George McCall, owner of BBC.

They were a part of a celebrity team for the Pacific Southwest Seniors Tennis Tournament and luncheon meeting held at the Newport Beach Tennis Club.

Also relaxing at the BBC were Mr. and Mrs. David Hartman, Mr. and Mrs. Jonathan Winters, Mr. and Mrs. Mel Irwin and Mike Davies with World Championship Tennis from Dallas.

HORSESHOE DANCE

Orange County residents traveled to Los Angeles for the Eighth Forum International Horse Show to benefit the City of Hope on Tuesday, Oct. 7, through Sunday, Oct. 12. A round of social events have been planned to celebrate the event, sponsored by the Diamond Horseshoe.

The traditional Diamond Horseshoe white-tie ball in the Beverly Wilshire Hotel and black-tie buffet dinner in the Forum Club opened events Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. M. Keith Gaede of Laguna Beach hosted a pre-ball cocktail party for Diamond Horseshoe members and their guests in the La Petite Trianon Room of the Beverly Wilshire.

Horse show exhibitors and riders will be honored by California Equestrians Inc. at a cocktail party Monday, Oct. 6, from 6 to 7:30 p.m. in the Hyatt Hotel.

Opening night, Tuesday, Oct. 7, Diamond Horseshoe members and guests will dine in the Forum Club. Opening ceremonies begin at 7:30 p.m. Mrs. Roland Lindhurst is hosting her traditional after-the-show breakfast dance for Horseshoe members, exhibitors and riders at the Hyatt Hotel.

PIZZA PARTIES

Mrs. Josephine De Carlo of Santa Ana will be 94 Monday, Oct. 6. Her son Tony will host two pizza parties in her honor at Shakey's Pizza Parlor party room, Edinger and Fairview, Santa Ana.

A group from United Cerebral Palsy of Orange County will gather there at 11:30 a.m., and a group from Fairview Hospital will meet at 2:30 p.m.

Mrs. De Carlo and her son have lived in Santa Ana for the past five years and have been active in volunteer work in Orange County.

BLUE RIBBONS

Jan Schlund of Anaheim, captured blue ribbons for Best Tasting and for Best Appearance in the Junior Division lemon pie competition of the Los Angeles County Fair.

50 YEARS

Mr. and Mrs. Robert H. Birkhead of Santa Ana celebrated their 50th wedding anniversary Sept. 26 with an open house in their home.

They were married in Santa Ana. Birkhead is an Orange County native, and his wife is the former Freda E. Newberg of Howard City, Mich.

The couple retired together from Southern California Edison in 1963 and were the first couple to do so in the company's history.

They have a daughter, Mrs. Richard D. Brezina of Dearborn, Mich., and a granddaughter, Sherry Lynn Brezina. A son, Robert William, is deceased.

PROBLEM HAIR

Fine hair needs special care. Use body waves and setting lotion to help hold a set.

ART AUCTION — Hedy Stern, chairman of the Saturday, Oct. 11, art auction planned by the Sisterhood of Temple Beth Sholom, Santa Ana, shows one of the paintings that will be offered for sale at the event. Open to the public, the auction will be in the temple social hall under the auspices of Lori's Art Gallery, Woodland Hills. Wine and hors d'oeuvres will be served at a preview show at 7:30 p.m. prior to the 8:30 sale. Additional information about the event may be obtained by calling the temple.

Devines' Life Style Is Casual

and privately. People have always been nice about our privacy."

Although they have both been involved in show business, "most of our friends aren't in motion pictures," says Mrs. Devine. "Andy is a ham radio fan, so he's made a lot of friends there."

Despite her disinterest in a personal acting career, Mrs. Devine still follows the course of the movie industry.

"As much as I've been exposed to it through the years, I'm still in awe of motion pictures. The people we've known have been wonderful and exciting."

The tone of the Devines' life today is the same as it has always been, casual and family-oriented. Only now there are three grandchildren to lavish attention on.

"They're absolutely fabulous," says the proud grandmother. "Whenever my daughter-in-law calls, the first think I say is 'Where and what time can I take them.' And when they see their grandfather pull up in the drive in his van, they start jumping up and down. They know where all the good ice cream places are."

Contrary to what fans would like to believe, movie stars aren't invincible. Andy is diabetic and developed a mild form of leukemia a few years ago for which he requires periodic treatment. He has so much energy that sometimes, his wife has to put her foot down and say, "Now, let's get you checked out first." And they have had their arguments, but they don't linger.

"Being both Irish, we've had our Irish times. But we get it out in the open and get it over with. The only serious things to us are death and taxes. And we don't like to talk about either one.

"We've had such a super, full life. Until now, we've been too busy going forward to look backward."

Junior Aides To Meet Oct. 11 At Hospital

Orange County Hospital Volunteer Council, Junior Division, will meet for brunch Saturday, Oct. 11, at 10 a.m. in Saddleback Community Hospital, 24451 Via Estrada, Laguna Hills.

John W.B. Cheng, M.D., member of the hospital staff, will speak on "Highlights of Ophthalmic Surgery." Colette Tessier, president of the Saddleback Hospital Lime Aides, and other board members of the junior volunteer inservice group, will serve as hosts.

Let's Reminisce

Grandma's Door, No Longer a Plaything

By HELEN M. PAGEL
Copley News Service

When people started building houses with grade doors and utility rooms and game rooms they eliminated one of childhood's most cherished play spots — the outside cellar door.

In this day and age, outside cellar doors are practically extinct, but 60 years ago most houses had them.

As the name implies, they were built outside the house and slanted so that you lifted up the door which was hinged on one side, and disclosed a flight of rickety stone steps which led to the cellar. There must have been a time when the steps were new and smooth and even, but nobody seems ever to have seen them when they were in that condition.

Always, they were uneven and crumbly so that you had to watch carefully and cling to the cobweb-covered walls as you descended or you were quite likely to be precipitated unceremoniously onto the dirt floor of the damp cellar. (Cement floors? There weren't any. Electric lights? Who had them?)

But there was a romance and fascination in those dark, musty old cellars with their woodpiles and coal bins, vegetable barrels and fruit cupboards, which could never be found in the well-lighted, spotless basement of a modern home. With a little imagination they could become dungeons or castles or dragons' dens, and how thrilling it was to go creeping through the dim light which filtered in through the dusty little windows and rescue the beautiful princess who had been locked in the coal bin or tied to an upright beam.

Sometimes, if the outside door hadn't been securely fastened to the hook which held it open, it dropped shut with a bang while rescue operations were under way. Somehow, there was something eerie and rather scary about that loud bang and the sudden darkness. The heroic rescuers scampered for the inside cellar stairs and ran up into the sunny, well-lighted kitchen, leaving the helpless princess to her fate.

But by far the most important thing which a cellar door was good for was to slide down. Home playground equipment was mostly nonexistent, but who needed it? There was a wide, more or less smooth cellar door built at just the right angle to make a beautiful slide, and if you acquired a few slivers in vulnerable spots while engaging in this sport, it was well worth it. Besides, children wore enough clothing in those days so that the risk was minimal.

You could slide down one at a time, turn about (there was always somebody who managed to get in extra turns), or you could line up one behind the other and make a "train" and go whooping down in a long line. It made a shorter slide that way, but it was more exciting because everybody landed in a tangled heap at the bottom and it took some doing to get untangled.

Sometimes you really did pay dearly for your fun. For instance, if mamma was going to take you visiting she might dress you up in a white embroidery dress, white muslin bloomers with lace ruffles (you wore black sateen ones for everyday) and long white stockings.

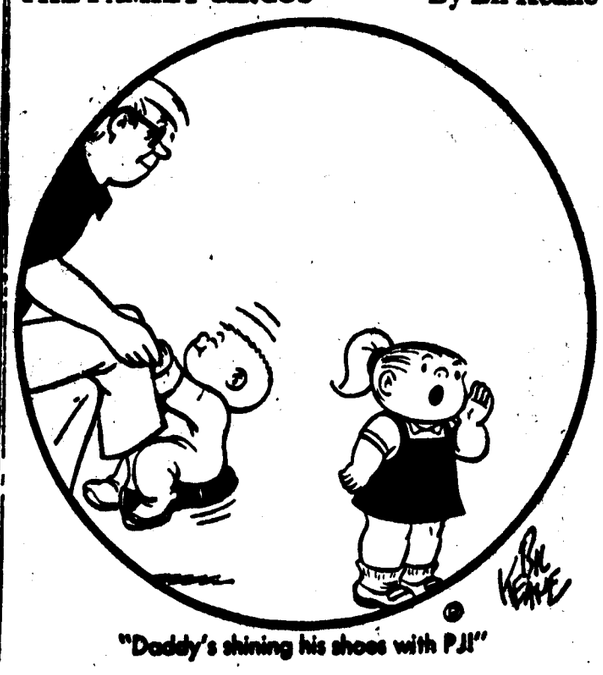

"Now do something quiet and try to keep clean until I get dressed," she would tell you.

And if your idea of doing something quiet was to slide down the cellar door and then climb back up on your hands and knees — well, when mamma saw your once-white dress and bloomers and stockings, no words can do justice to the scene which followed.

SEWERS LODE

Home sewers who faithfully keep small swatches of leftover materials will reap fashion benefits this fall. Patches of mix-and-match patterns and colors will dress jeans and jackets of new school designs. For one-upmanship, sew those patches on last year's clothes and be right in style.

WEDDINGS

Boyce-Gehrkens

Greg Gehrkens and Vickie Ann Boyce exchanged nuptial vows in Our Lady Of Guadalupe Church, La Habra, on Saturday, Oct. 4. A reception followed in Alta Vista Country Club, Placentia.

The daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Boyce of Anaheim wore a white gown decorated with sequins and pearls. Her three-tiered veil was attached to a matching headpiece, and she carried white roses, ivy and baby's breath.

Parents of the bridegroom are Mr. and Mrs. Louis Gehrkens of La Habra.

Honor attendants were Kathy Boyce and Keith Allen. Erika Schwarz, Bonny Barler, Jolene Ratekin and Mary Gehrkens were bridesmaids. Ushers were Dave Oliver and Ken, Ron and Gary Gehrkens. Flower girl and ring bearer were Donna and Kenny Boyce.

The new Mr. and Mrs. Gehrkens traveled to Carmel and San Luis Obispo for a honeymoon. They will live in Santa Ana.

McNatt-Medina

To become the bride of William Ronald Medina, son of Mr. and Mrs. DiLiello of Camarillo, Alice McNatt wore a floor-length Qiana gown with an empire waist and a turban with attaching veil. She carried white roses and ferns.

The Saturday, Oct. 4, ceremony was performed in Sts. Simon and Jude Church in Huntington Beach, and a reception followed in Lake Park Clubhouse in that city.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert F. McNatt of Tustin.

Wedding attendants were Sherry Saul, matron of honor; Steven Norris, best man; Susan McConnell, maid of honor; Moke Cecil, Norm Cullum, Gary Kirschke and Fabian DiLiello, ushers; Pamela Johnson, Janette Elam and Debroah Diehls, bridesmaids; and Julie McNatt and Kendra Saul, flower girls.

The newlyweds traveled to Lake Tahoe for their honeymoon and will live in Huntington Beach.

Martin-Molletti

Honeymooning in Connecticut are Norman Keith Molletti, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Molletti of Anaheim, and his bride, the former Janice Irene Martin.

The Saturday, Oct. 4, ceremony in Golden Circle Chapel, Santa Ana, was solemnized by the Rev. Jean Stewart.

Parents of the bride are Mr. and Mrs. Robert F. Martin of Orange.

The bride wore a gown of silk organza and chantilly lace with a chapel-length train, and an illusion veil.

David Hughes served as best man, and Deborah George was maid of honor. Debbie Molletti, Diane Hockenberry and Sabrina and Donna Mathes were bridesmaids. Ushers were Greg Scott, Rick Martin, Rudy Villalobos and Bill Brown. Jennifer Harris was flower girl, and John Punla was ring bearer.

A reception followed in the chapel fellowship hall. The couple's first home will be in Anaheim.

Batchelder-Bonnot

Alana K. Batchelder and Michael Thomas Bonnot exchanged nuptial vows on Saturday, Oct. 4, in United Methodist Church, Garden Grove, with the Rev. Dr. Miles Acker officiating.

The bride wore a dacron organza gown with venise lace trim and attached brush train. Her headpiece was made of matching lace.

Parents of the bridegroom are Mr. and Mrs. Roy E. Bonnot of Tustin. Mr. and Mrs. Alvin Batchelder of Garden Grove, parents of the bride, hosted the reception.

Paula Padgitt, sister of the bride, was matron of honor, and Bob Silva was best man.

Other attendants were Bob Wage, Roy Bonnot Jr. and John Bonnot, ushers; Linda Cope, Diane Gamber and Manerva Cordova, bridesmaids; Julie Bonnot, flower girl; and Ryan Padgitt, ring bearer. Dean Schultz also participated.

For their honeymoon the newlyweds will travel up the West Coast from Mexico to Northern California. They will live in Santa Ana.

Chessmore-Anderson

First Presbyterian Church of Orange was the setting of the Friday, Oct. 3, wedding of Richard E. Anderson Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Anderson of Orange, and Jolie Anne Chessmore, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Murrie D. Chessmore Jr. of Anaheim.

Cheryl Lynn Chessmore, the bride's sister, was maid of honor, and Rodney Anderson, the bridegroom's brother, was best man. Ushers were Mike Rush, Ala Hanna, Yogi Lisener and Tom Grainger. Heidi Blazer, Cindy Simmons and Kim Anderson were bridesmaids. Jennifer Steige was flower girl, and Bryan Hanna was ring bearer. The Rev. Dr. Jay Bush was officiant.

The bride wore an old-English gown with a fitted waist and long ruffled train. Her sheer waist-length veil was held by a crown of blue and white baby's breath, and her bouquet was composed of roses, carnations and baby's breath.

After a reception in the church, the newlyweds left for a honeymoon in Tahoe and Las Vegas, Nev.

Lota-Albright

On Saturday, Oct. 4, Elizabeth Lota and Daniel L. Albright exchanged nupital vows before the Rev. Seamus Glenn in St. Bonaventure Catholic Church, Huntington Beach.

The daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James V. Lota of Westminster wore a four-tiered veil and a gown with a lace bodice, dropped waistline and ruffled sleeves. She carried tangerine baby roses with baby's breath.

Parents of the bridegroom are Mr. and Mrs. Clifton Albright of Rialto.

Maggie Lota was maid of honor, and Douglas Phegley was best man. Other attendants were Ted Albright, Kevin Platte and Marv Klein, ushers; Pam DeLuca, Terry Colgan and Marian Ryan, bridesmaids; Andrea Bienert, flower girl; and Timmy Albright, ring bearer.

Wedding guests met in the Le Baron Hotel, Buena Park, for a reception.

The newlyweds, after a honeymoon in Carmel, will live in Garden Grove.

McLaughlin-Buzzi

St. Norbert Catholic Church in Orange was the setting of the Saturday, Oct. 4, wedding of Caprice Marie McLaughlin and Lt. John Buzzi (USMC), son of Mr. and Mrs. Nicolo Buzzi of Howard Beach, N.Y. The Rev. Sinon Falvey was officiant

The daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond McLaughlin of Tustin wore a candlelight organza and lace gown featuring a cathedral train. Her picture hat, decorated with matching lace and a French illusion bow, held a tiered elbow-length veil. She carried a cascade of white roses and gladioluses.

Following a reception in Santa Ana Elks Club, the new Mr. and Mrs. Buzzi traveled to Miami, Fla., for a honeymoon cruise to Nassau. They will be honored at a delayed reception in Great Neck, N.Y., Saturday, Oct. 18.

Sister of the bride, Mrs. Kevin Melrose, served as matron of honor, and Adrianno Buzzi, brother ofthe bridegroom, was best man. Mrs. John Gay, Miss Shannon McLaughlin and Miss Camille McLaughlin, also sisters of the bride, were bridesmaids. Seating the guests were Scott McLaughlin, Lt. Thomas Devaney and Lt. John Whipple.

Monica McLaughlin was flower girl, and Craig McLaughlin was ring bearer.

Brummer-MacDonald

William K. MacDonald Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. William MacDonald of Costa Mesa, and Dorothy Brummer, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joe Brummer of Garden Grove, said their marriage vows on Saturday, Oct. 4. The Rev. John A. Lindvall conducted the ceremony in Plymouth Congregational Church, Newport Beach.

The bride wore a white satin and organza gown with a train trimmed with daisy patterned lace. Her lace and seed pearl headpiece was attached to an elbow-length veil also trimmed with the daisy lace.

Diane Grant and Charles Waite were honor attendants. Bridesmaids were Jovena Bicksler and Donna Brummer, sisters of the bride; and Susan Lindquist, sister of the bridegroom. Scott MacDonald, brother of the bridegroom, ushered along with Erick Dietch and Tom Norr.

A niece and nephew of the bride, Tina and Steven Bicksler, were flower girl and ring bearer. George Brummer, brother of the bride, also participated.

A reception in Halecrest Club, Costa Mesa, followed the wedding. The new Mr. and Mrs. MacDonald are honeymooning in Carmel and Monterey, and plan to live in Santa Ana.

Rules For Reporting Engagement, Wedding

Wedding bells to ring soon? If so please read our rules for publication so we may help you with two important events in your life: your engagement and wedding.

Forms to assist you are available by sending a stamped self-addressed envelope with request for engagement and-or wedding forms to The Register Wedding Department, P.O. Box 11626, Santa Ana, 92711 or by coming to the office at 625 N. Grand Ave., Santa Ana. All information must be printed or typed and include a telephone number where you may be reached during the day.

ENGAGEMENTS

Engagements announced six weeks or less before the wedding will not be used. Stories will be published (without pictures) when space is available.

WEDDINGS

Wedding stories and pictures should be in the Wedding Department ONE WEEK preceding the wedding date or earlier.

Pictures should be sharp, black and white glossies of the bride only. A formal pose in wedding gown is not required.

Weddings received after the deadline will be cut short and used in the Wedding Belles Column WITHOUT pictures.

Turn A Jug Into An Aquarium Lamp

By Alice Morrell
Copley News Service

Our family has had a number of aquariums, but the ones I enjoyed the most were a pair of lamps made from demijohns that were home for our guppies. These attractive miniature aquariums are bound to attract interest as well as provide conversation pieces.

To make one, you will use any large glass container from a one-gallon jug to a 10-gallon water cooler bottle, colored stone for the bottom, small plants (depending on size), fish, preferably guppies or small goldfish and a small catfish (to keep the aquarium clean), also a lamp fitting for bottles, found at hardware stores.

In order for air to get into the bottle, I suggest a laboratory bottle stopper be used instead of a regular cork.

This type of cork has more than one hole, so that one hole will be used for the threaded pipe that holds the lamp socket and one hole will allow some air into the glass container. These corks or stoppers are readily obtainable from medical suppliers found in the Yellow Pages or your local drugstore may sell you one.

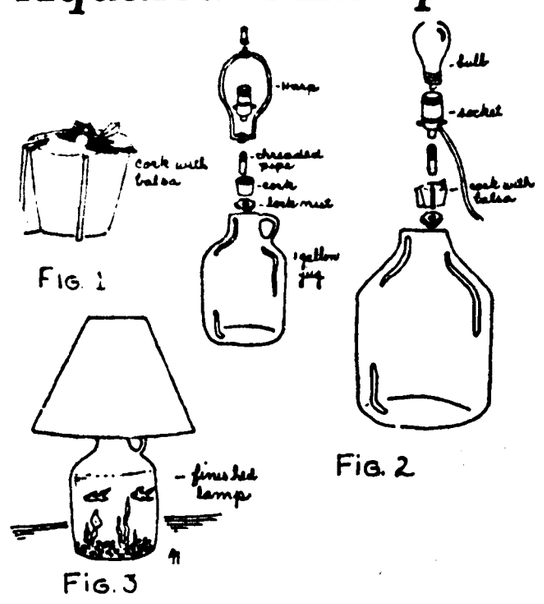

If you cannot find a laboratory stopper, buy a cork smaller than the bottle opening, make three slits on the side, put a bit of glue in the slits and insert strips of balsa wood. Then slide the cork stopper in the bottle and there will be air holes; also use these for feeding (Fig. 1). Place fish food in a straw and slide down into these holes.

Wash and prepare the gravel, add water and place your plant. To place the plant in the bottle, straighten a coat hanger, bend a loop on one end, place the plant in the loop and put it in the bottle.

Allow the water to sit for a day or two before adding the fish.

Now place the stopper in the top and add the light fixture (Fig. 2). Depending on the type of lamp socket you buy, use either a clamp-on shade or one that fits a harp-type fitting (Fig. 3).

These lamps are expecially interesting in the family room, but the children may want one in their rooms, too.

One-gallon jugs, completed, make interesting and different bazaar items and I guarantee you will not have enough to sell.

Experiment and have fun.

Flu Shots Scheduled for Seniors

Free flu shots will be available to persons 60 and over this month and through November at 28 county locations.

This year's vaccine is not like that of other years and produces almost no side effects, claim officials of the sponsoring county health department.

Persons with chronic illnesses, especially, should receive the vaccine, they say. The illnesses include heart disease, asthma, emphysema, TB, cystic fibrosis, renal disease, and diabetes mellitus.

Name, address and birthdate will be required at registration.

Locations where shots are being given are available by calling the county health department in Santa Ana.

Sisterhood Plans Musical Luncheon

Sisterhood of Temple Beth Sholom, Santa Ana, will present its new board to the membership at a luncheon at 11:30 a.m. Wednesday, Oct. 8, in the Social Hall of the Temple.

There will be an original musical program of parodies written by Suzanne Goodman with Edith Resnick as accompanist. Babysitting is available.

Lions And Tigers Sip Sodas At Home

By MICHAEL MITCHELL
Associated Press Writer

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP) — Leo and Sarah don't always play nicely together. Sabu refuses to eat when Roy goes away on vacation.

But that's just normal homelife for Siegfried Fischbacher and Roy Horn, a pair of German magicians who really take their work home with them.

Leo is a 659-pound lion. Sarah is a Siberian tiger. Then there's Sabu, the black panther; Sasha, the African leopard; and Radscha, a Bengal tiger.

After a long night's work, during which the magicians might make Leo disappear and Sasha reappear from inside a small box, Fischbacher and Horn and their five charges like to lounge around the pool, sip sodas in the garden or just about anything else any normal family would do.

There's not a whip or stick or harsh word in the house. "Affection training" is what Fischbacher and Horn say has allowed them to live and play with the five large animals.

Still it's not all fun and games and Fischbacher and Horn definitely do not recommend a tiger for a house pet.

"We are against people having large animals as pets," Fischbacher said, "because when they're young they're cute, but then they get older, people pull out their teeth and claws and the animals die from shock."

"The animals are a 24-hour job having them in the house," said Horn. "They must be cared for constantly. One of us has to be with them at all times."

When Roy took a week's vacation recently, he said Sabu refused to eat.

On stage at a local resort hotel, the magicians say they are always on guard against a sudden unexpected move by the cats.

"You have to let them know just how far they can go," said Siegfried, 36, "If I go too far, then they do, and I can get hurt."

One night during their act, Fischbacher said he got Sabu too excited and received a sliced nose. More recently he was clawed on the head, but not seriously.

"There's really never been any big incident, they are perfectly well trained," said Siegfried. "But there is no such thing as complete security. There's always a chance one day, at a moment when you least expect it, they could turn on you."

To keep the big cats calm, Fischbacher says he tries to "look into the animal's head," to think as the animals might during their act.

Fischbacher and Horn met 14 years ago when each was working for a German shipping line.

Fischbacher was a magician, pulling rabbits out of hats and the like, and Horn was an animal fancier with an idea.

"I thought to myself that if he could make a rabbit disappear, why not a cheetah," said Horn.

They began the act with a cheetah and gradually worked the other animals into their routine.

'Freedom Of Arts' Contest Slated By CFWC Juniors

The ninth annual fine arts festival of the Orange District, Junior Membership, California Federation of Women's Clubs, will be held Thursday, Oct. 23, from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. at the La Habra Women's Clubhouse, 200 W. Greenwood.

Members of the 22 junior clubs comprising Orange District will enter work in four categories: paintings (oil, watercolor, acrylic, mixed media, pen and ink); crafts (fired ceramics, unfired hydrocal, papier mache, papier toile, collage, draping, decoupage, holiday table arrangements, wall hangings); stitchery (knitting, rugs, crochet, needlepoint, petitpoint, felt, embroidery, crewel); and creative writings. First, second, and third place awards will be given in each of the categories.

Members of the La Habra Art Association will be judges for the event. Homemade crafts and artwork will be available for sale after the judging. Prizes will be awarded at noon sandwich luncheon hostessed by the La Habra Junior Women's Club.

Proceeds from admission and booth rental fees will be donated to the Orange District California Junior Art Contest winner in the form of an art scholarship. Each of the 22 district junior clubs will select a high school senior from their local community to enter in the district art contest in January. The district winner will then compete against other winners in the eighteen districts throughout California.

VFW Auxiliary

Members of the Ladies Auxiliary to the Veterans of Foreign Wars, Space Age Post 3567, will meet at 8 p.m. Monday, Oct. 13, at the Community Center, 10200 Slater St., Fountain Valley.

The auxiliary and post will maintain two game booths at the Halloween Festival Friday through Sunday, Oct. 24-26, at Fountain Valley High School.

Laubach Classes Offered

South Coast Literacy Council is offering two new classes to train volunteer tutors in the Laubach method of teaching English as a second language. One class will be held on Tuesdays from 7-10 p.m. beginning Oct. 7 in San Juan Elementary School, 31634 El Camino Real, San Juan Capistrano.

The second class is scheduled from 9 a.m. to noon on Thursdays beginning Oct. 9 in Laguna Niguel Community Center, 31000 Crown Valley Parkway, Laguna Niguel.

Upon completion of the 36-hour course, tutors will receive a literacy tutoring certificate enabling them to teach adults who wish to learn English or to improve their English language skills at one or more of eight teaching centers located from Mission Viejo to San Clemente.

Mrs. Onalee Carter, director of tutor training, said that teaching experience or knowledge of a foreign language is not necessary and that men and women of all ages may attend. Interested volunteers may contact Mrs. Carter of Laguna Beach.

Oct. 6 Meets Set By Two PEO Groups

Chapter GJ of PEO will meet at noon Monday, Oct. 6, in the home of Mrs. W. D. Stauffer, Santa Ana. The program is "Blithe Spirits: Recounting the Days of Summer." Plans for the meeting were made at the chapter's summer brunch.

Chapter JJ

Mrs. William B. Reed will hostess the noon Monday, Oct. 6, luncheon of Chapter JJ in her home in Santa Ana. A "Friendship" program will be presented by Mrs. John N. Stanley.

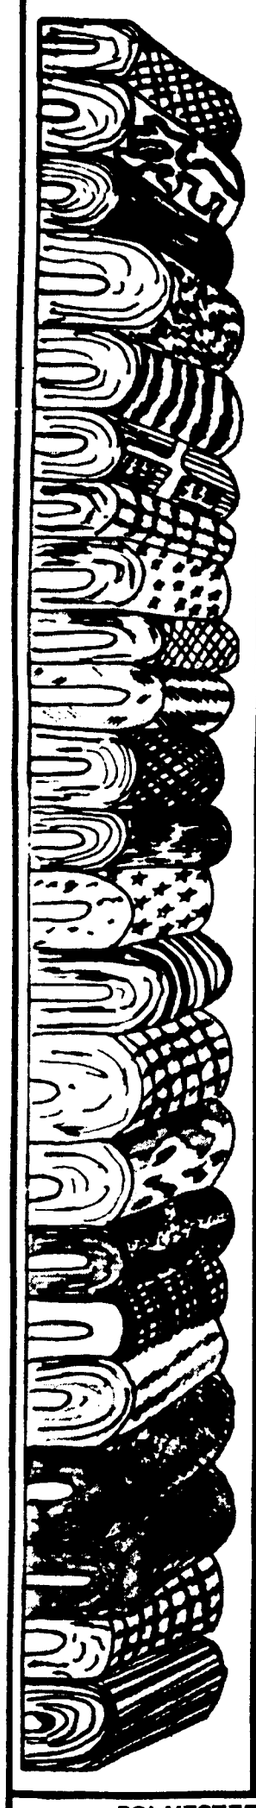

Moose Lodge Members To Dine, Dance

New officers of Orange Empire District Moose Lodge will be feted at an installation dinner dance at 6 p.m. Saturday, Oct. 11, in Huntington Beach Lodge. Dance music will be provided by Dean and Doreen.

Women of the Moose of Huntington Beach will feature 'Christmas in October' at the 8 p.m. Tuesday, Oct. 14, enrollment meeting in the lodge. Grace Steinberger and Jean Wampler are chairmen of the project to raise funds for children at Mooseheart and senior citizens at Moosehaven.

Members will sponsor a Halloween party for their children at 2 p.m. Sunday, Oct. 26, in the lodge.

Celebrity Series Tickets On Sale

HELEN THOMAS

Tickets are still available for the 1976 season of Town Hall Celebrity Series sponsored by the Assistance League of Laguna Beach which begins with Helen Thomas Jan. 26 and concludes with Erma Bombeck May 17.

Lectures are held Mondays at 10:30 a.m. and 2:30 p.m. in the Niguel Theatre, Monarch Bay Plaza, South Laguna.

Other speakers will be June Weir, vice president and fashion editor of Women's Wear Daily; Joshua Logan, award winning director, producer and playwright, and Alexander Scourby, actor and narrator.

Proceeds from Town Hall are returned to the community through Assistance League-sponsored projects including an emergency welfare fund, expanded senior citizens program, the William Haines Memorial Scholarship, a rehabilitation program for emotionally troubled persons and Homemaker Service which aids families in time of necessity or emergency.

Tickets are available for the complete series only, and will be mailed in January. The Assistance League of Laguna Beach may be called for further information.

'Insurance' Protects Against Invaders

By MARION WELLS
Copley News Service

Who would consider removing the locks from their doors during a crime wave in their neighborhood? Yet, we often do things which tend to weaken our body's strategic defenses against such potentially harmful invaders as foreign particles, germs and toxins we come in contact with daily.

It's an old but true saying that a house divided against itself cannot stand. If you're interested in some inexpensive "health insurance" which starts paying off before you get sick, here's how you can help your body protect itself.

1. Safeguard the health of your liver. One of this organ's functions is aiding in detoxification. It's been noted that too much alcohol, toxic medicines or dietary fat can tire or damage the liver so that it functions less efficiently

Recent research with animals has suggested that excessive drinking may lead to alcoholic liver disease over a period of time even when the diet is adequate. It has been reported that "in large U.S. cities, cirrhosis (of the liver) is the fourth leading cause of death between ages 25 and 45."

2. Protect the mucous membranes in your respiratory passages from needless irritation. Mucus traps germs and foreign particles.

Cigarette smoke, other noxious chemicals and dry, overheated air can cause the delicate mucous membranes to become irritated and inflamed, thus reducing their functional efficiency.

If necessary, look into available air purification or humidity control devices for your home or office. Persistent mouth breathing in children should be promptly reported to your physician. Other considerations aside, the mouth is not equipped to filter out invading particles as the nose is.

3. Your skin helps fight off certain germs, but to do this job most effectively, your skin surface must stay slightly acid. Too much scrubbing with the wrong kind of soap may at least temporarily make your skin surface more alkaline, increasing its vulnerability to infection.

Milder, more neutral soaps are generally less likely to cause problems.

4. Make your diet an asset, not a liability. Medical authorities recognize that we may either promote health or help dig our grave with our teeth. Remember, better nutrition needn't be expensive. Choose wisely from the four basic food groups each day.

5. Finally, appropriate, regularly scheduled physical activity may help to promote relaxation, various essential body functions and the health and efficiency of the heart and circulatory system, muscles, spine and nervous system. It's important to check with your physician before beginning any program of unaccustomed physical activity.

Help your body keep you well and you may spend less time and money getting well!

More People Pump Their Own Gas

By BETTY YARMON
Women's News Service

NEW YORK — Are you patronizing the self-service filling stations in your area? If so, you should be saving from 2 to 4 cents — sometimes even more — on each gallon of gasoline.

As the inevitable result of the quadrupling in the price of oil that followed the embargo imposed by the Arabs and other oil producers almost two years ago, American motorists have looked about for ways to cut down on the cost of running their cars.

One such way, which seems destined to become more and more commonplace on the American landscape, is the self-service filling station. As of the moment, estimates have it that self-service is now found in 10 per cent of all filling stations in the nation, with the percentage constantly rising.

A petroleum industry source recently stated there were 15,000 self-service stations in the country as of two years ago, and predicted the number would grow to 65,000 by the end of this decade, by which time they will account for 42 per cent of all gasoline sales in the United States.

The big growth has been in the Midwest and the South, while 20 to 30 per cent of all stations in Southern California are now believed to be of the do-it-yourself type.

Growth has been slower than the national average in the Northeastern states, probably in large part because of bans on the do-it-yourself sale of gas in New Jersey, New York City and Philadelphia, and in other communities in the New England states and in Pennsylvania. But even in the Northeast, self-service stations have more than doubled in four years.

The bans have been in response to criticism. Some critics say the self-service station is not as safe as the old-fashioned station since there is no way to stop customers from smoking while they pump gas — if they see fit to tempt fate this way. Others note that the motorist is not trained to spot needed repairs and defects, something supposed to be done by the trained attendant.

Those who favor the self-service station point out that drivers find they save time as well as money. Some estimates have it that self-service stations do anything from twice to five times the volume done by the conventional service station.

Naturally this appeals to the station operators. They save overhead. Also, the self-service station eases the personnel problems of the operators, who have long complained that they had difficulty attracting young blood to the gas-station attendant job.

Not all self-service stations are alike. Some are completely unattended, even to the point of having a machine attached to the pump that can take dollar bills in payment for the gas. Other stations offer both do-it-yourself and attended varieties, with the customer offered the choice, paying a few cents less per gallon when he opts to do it himself.

How all this will unravel is unclear. Just as happened when the supermarket came on to the scene previously dominated by the small grocery, trends are going in various directions.

We may find the two types of stations — one self-service, the other attended — in the same area, possibly on opposite corners.

We may find some areas where only self-service stations will dispense gas, but the motorist will find specialty shops to minister to those of his needs that he cannot handle for himself.

And we may find some areas where the same station will offer both self-service and attended service, and the motorist can decide if he wants to do it himself — and save money by so doing.

'Housecleaning' Theme For Series

"Streamlined Methods For Housecleaning" is the third part of a four-part lecture series entitled "Work Smarter Not Harder," which will be given in Phillips Hall at Santa Ana College Wednesday, Oct. 8, from 7:30-9:30 p.m.

Co-sponsored by the Community Services Office and Continuing Education of the Rancho Santiago Community College District, the program is free and open to the public.

The lecture will discuss housecleaning goals, how to simplify housecleaning methods, house care products and special problems such as caring for floors or furniture.

Conducting the lecture is Mrs. Dorothy Wenck, a home advisor for the University of California Agricultural Extension Service.

The following week, an extensive lecture in the preparation of foods by use of microwave cooking will be presented by Hillary Guild, a home economist and kitchen consultant for many industrial companies.

TRAVEL SIZE

Few women like to carry full-size bottles of shampoo and hair conditioner with them for short trips or overnight stays. Solving this packing problem are mini-size bottles of hair care line that includes lemon, balsam, herb and wild strawberry shampoos, rainwater rinse, hair conditioner and body conditioner. Take along what you need.

Matchbox Furniture On Parade

By BUROKER and HUNTSINGER
Copley News Service

Nearly a dozen pages of "The World Book Encyclopedia" deal with the subject of dolls, and any public library has numerous volumes on this centuries-old play object.

Doll clothes and, of course, dollhouses and the furniture in them are equally fascinating subjects which you may wish to explore. Information about their history and unusual features is available and inviting.

Making miniature furniture can also be fun. Materials needed to create pieces, as shown in the accompanying illustration, are surprisingly few as well as inexpensive.

Small-size matchboxes can be bought at supermarkets in packages which contain 20 boxes. This is just the exact number for the four furniture items pictured.

The first step, naturally, is to empty the containers and see that all matches are put away in a safe place. Then, start making the sofa. The first thing to do is cut a strip of cardboard twice the width of one of the little boxes and three times its length. Paste this to the bottoms of three which have been glued together.

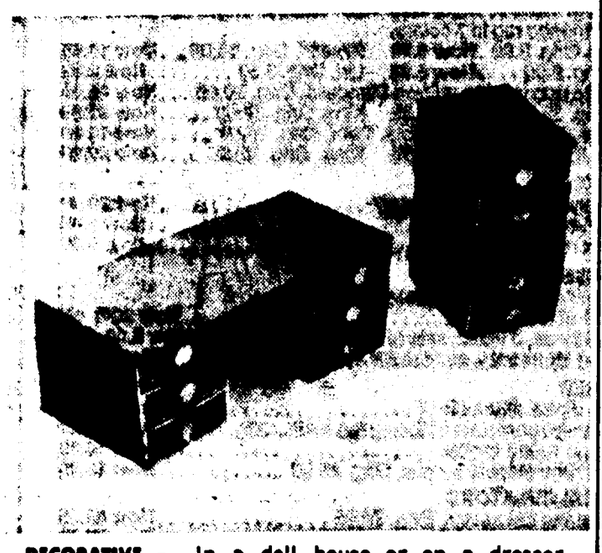

Now, fold the upper portion of the cardboard so it will form the "upholstered back." A colored or decorated piece of paper will resemble fabric, as well a similar strip pasted to the three box tops. Two more boxes, each glued on the longside to the bottom, make the "overstuffed sofa arms."

In the same way, three more boxes with a cardboard back and seat soon become a comfy-looking living room chair.

The miniature desk and chest of drawers use the remaining containers. Attach No. 3 round-head paper fasteners, or even thumbtacks, to the sliding part of the boxes before assembling them. Handy knobs or drawer pulls have now been added.

Three matchboxes stacked on either side, then glued together and topped with cardboard make a handsome desk. The remaining five containers, once stacked and glued, become a storage chest which can actually be useful for storing various small knickknacks such as tiny doll clothes.

Whether used in an actual dollhouse or used decoratively on a shelf that displays other souvenir miniatures, one can expect to receive sincere compliments, even if they are accompanied by puns about your "matchless furniture."

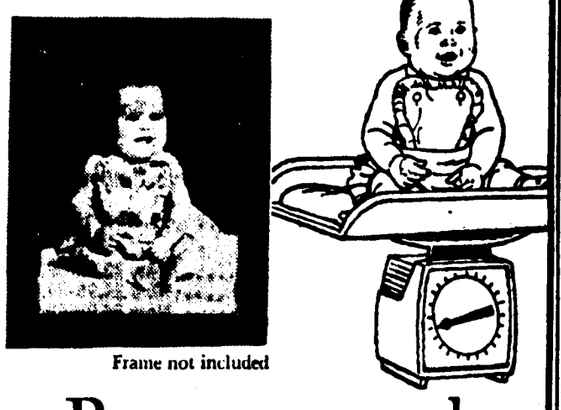

DECORATIVE — In a doll house or on a dresser, matchbox furniture is most decorative.

NEW PRESIDENT — Mrs. Kae A. Ewing will preside at the Junior League of Newport Harbor's buffet breakfast Monday, Oct. 6, at 9:30 a.m. which launches the year's events for the group. Marilyn Van Derbur, television personality and former Miss America, will be guest speaker for the event to be held in the Newporter Inn, Newport Beach. Other officers of the League are Mmes. Harry Dalton, administrative vice president; Rondell B. Hansen, community vice president; Thomas Goris, recording secretary; John Haskell, treasurer; and Bradford Miller, corresponding secretary.

OC Woman Negotiates For Pros

Marilyn O'Brien of Corona del Mar negotiates contracts and commercial endorsements for professional sportsmen such as O.J. Simpson, Mario Andretti and A.J. Foyt in addition to seeking sponsors for them.

She will discuss her occupation for members of the San Clemente-Capistrano Bay Branch of the American Association of University Women at 7:30 p.m., Thursday, Oct. 9, in the San Clemente Community Clubhouse.

The 34-year-old president of Sports Headliners Inc. also supervises her clients' estate planning and aids them in developing additional careers. She says that she knows of no other women negotiating athletic contracts. Six years ago she was teaching English and journalism to junior high students in Carson while taking graduate courses in business and public relations at UCLA and Loyola, she said. Then she went to work for Sports Headliners, starting as an office coordinator.

Progressive Luncheon Scheduled

Church Women United of the Harbor Area will hold a progressive luncheon Friday, Oct. 10, in three Corona del Mar homes.

The luncheon will begin at 11:30 a.m. in the home of Mrs. James Johnson, 2707 Island View Drive. Next stop will be the home of Mrs. A. Hale Dinsmoor, 3501 Sausalito Drive, followed by the last course in the home of Mrs. Heinz Bollin, 3408 Sausalito Drive.

Women of all churches in the harbor area may attend. Reservations may be made by calling Mrs. Robert S. Wiese of Corona del Mar. Child care will be available.

Proceeds from the luncheon will benefit FISH, senior citizen luncheons, scholarships, mission endeavors and Vietnamese refugees.

Social Worker To Address Nurses Group

A clinical social worker with the Orange County Mental Health Department will speak to Orange County Association of Industrial Nurses during its regular meeting at 6:30 p.m. Wednesday, Oct. 8, in the Jolly Knight Restaurant, Garden Grove.

Barbara Henry Currie has titled her talk "Assertion Training — How to Get What You Want."

Dorothy Hunt of Fullerton, program chairman, is taking reservations.

Meet Knucklehead, the canine clown!

The Bow Wow Of Show Biz!

Is it a tiny elephant? No! It's Knucklehead in her elephant costume. In the background is her partner, Lou Jacobs of Ringling Bros. and Barnum & Bailey Circus.

Knucklehead in ...

And out of costume.

Lou Jacobs, one of the world's greatest clowns, has a dog.

Her name is Knucklehead. She's a real show biz dog.

It's very funny to see a 17-pound canine clown all dressed in a tiny elephant costume, following her big master around the ring.

Knucklehead is 8 years old. Lou found her at a dog pound in Tampa, Florida seven years ago.

She does as many as three performances a day and loves it, especially when she changes into her many costumes. During show-time, when she is not in the ring, she sticks very close to the locker she shares with Lou in Clown Alley.

On her days off, she enjoys playing with the children of other performers.

Knucklehead travels on the train along with many other circus stars. She sleeps in a doghouse that's built under Lou's bed.

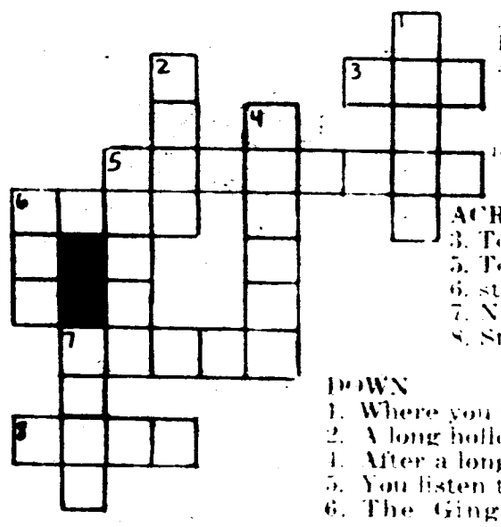

Any circus barker would like to have a real trooper like her in his show! She can really wow the audience.

Knucklehead is a mother. See Lou Jacobs with five of her pups!

Guess!

Guess why jumping beans jump?

A special type of moth lays an egg inside the flower of a plant that grows in Mexico. When the pod hardens around the egg, a tiny insect in the caterpillar stage is trapped inside.

The insect will stay in its pod for several months. Then it will bore a hole in the side of the shell and fly out as an adult moth.

The bean jumps when the insect throws itself up and down inside the shell.

After the insect eats all the food inside the pod, it has finished eating for the rest of its lifetime.

A Good Clown Act

The fake slap is a favorite clown trick. While the clown on the left claps his mittens together making a loud SMACK, his partner taps him on the cheek. It looks and sounds like a loud slap.

What makes a good clown act? The Mini Page asked Bill Ballentine, Director of the Ringling Brothers' Clown College in Florida.

"Good clown act is made up of all or one of these six elements:

1. Stupidity—a clown tries to give the impression that he is less bright than the audience
2. Trickery — a clown tries to trick the audience.
3. The funny fall
4. The fake slap
5. The surprise ending
6. The mimic—a clown tries to copy something or somebody.

Above: A clown shows us a little horse.

Right: The surprise ending! The horse is another clown!

An example of stupidity — while two clowns look for the ball, the third holds it.

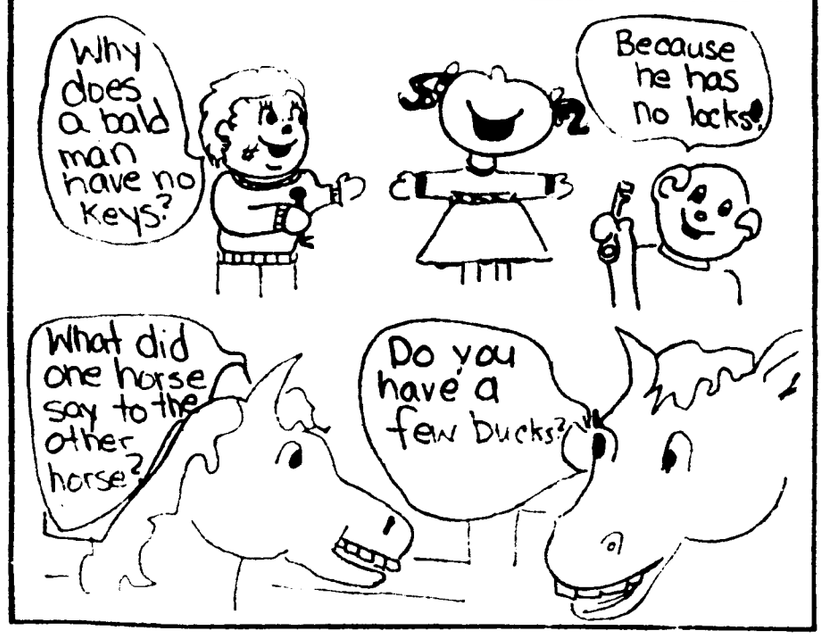

Super Sport: Merlin Olsen

Merlin Olsen is a friendly fellow. But not many running backs like to meet him. On the football field, Merlin is a tough guy. In each of his 13 professional seasons, the Los Angeles Rams star has been selected to play in the Pro Bowl. Merlin is six-feet, five inches tall and weighs 270 pounds. In 1974, he received Philadelphia's Maxwell Club Bert Bell award as pro football's outstanding player.

Merlin grew up in Logan, Utah and attended Utah State. He was an intelligent student, making Phi Beta Kappa. Last year, Merlin spent the off-season making a movie. But his best act is still on the football field.

School Lunch Week (Oct. 12-18)

October 15 is Universal Menu Day. School children all over the country will be served the same thing. This will call attention to good nutrition and hot school lunches.

National School lunch week is sponsored by the American School Food Service Association.

NATIONAL SCHOOL LUNCH WEEK OCT. 12-18, 1975

Take a Bite of History

One day each month, during the rest of 1975 and into 1976, school children all over the country will be served a Bicentennial Lunch.

By sponsoring this program, the people that serve school lunches hope to teach history and good nutrition while serving tasty school lunches.

For example, in November, kids will be eating Plymouth turkey with Massasoit dressing, Miles Standish potatoes followed by Mayflower milk. It's really the same food, with the names taken from history!

The Colonial Times

Meet George Cornwallis (1738-1805)

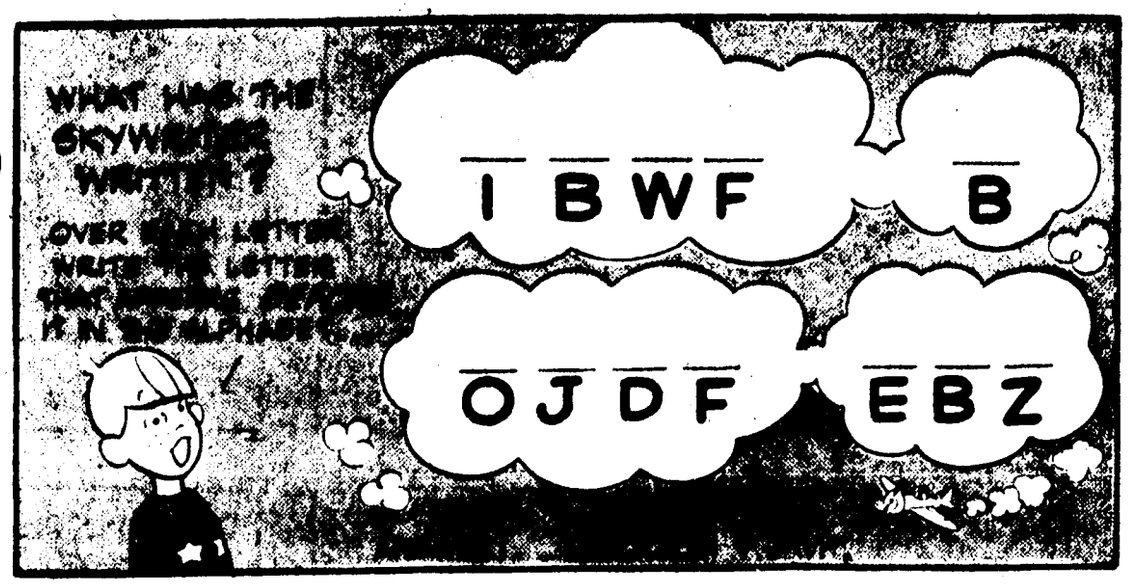

Charles Cornwallis was the British General who surrendered to the French and American troops at Yorktown, Virginia on October 19, 1781.

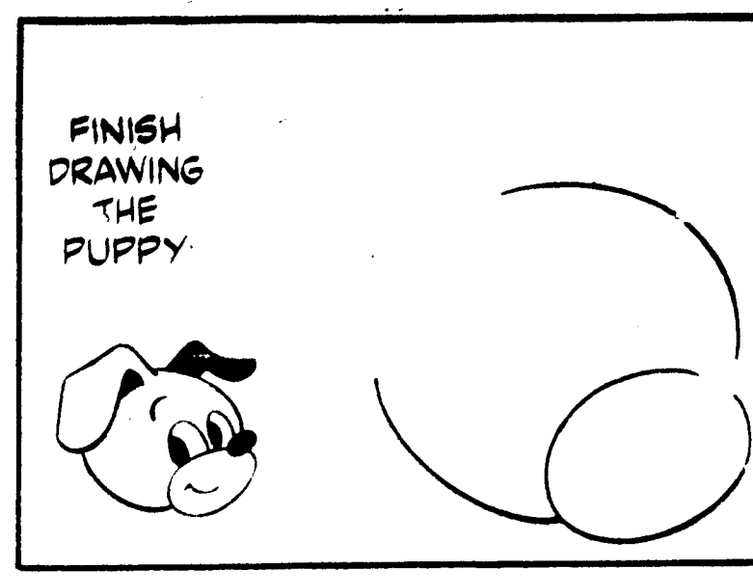

He commanded the British troops in the Southern Colonies. Against the advice of his superiors, he moved his troops into Virginia.

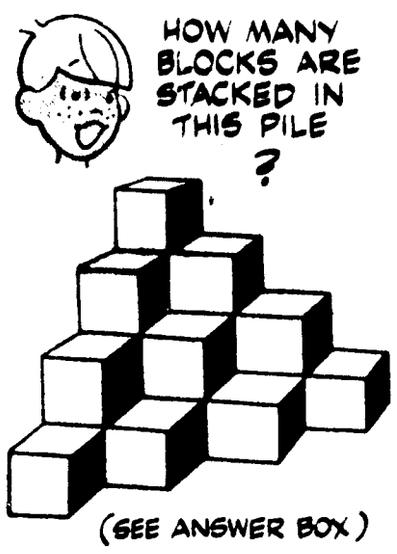

Cornwallis later served as governor general of India. From 1789 to 1801 he was the commander in chief of British troops in Ireland.

MARGIE NAGLE OF BURLEY, ID, ASKS:
"WHAT DO BIRDS SING ABOUT?"

WHEN BIRDS SING THEY ARE NOT SINGING TO US. PEOPLE WHO KNOW BIRDS TELL US THAT BIRDS SING TO ONE ANOTHER. THE MALE BIRD DOES MOST OF THE SINGING. HE SINGS SWEETLY WHEN HE WANTS TO ATTRACT THE ATTENTION OF A FEMALE BIRD. SOMETIMES, A BIRD SINGS MERELY FOR THE JOY OF MAKING MUSIC. MORE OFTEN, THE BIRD PROBABLY SINGS A WARNING TO KEEP STRANGE BIRDS AWAY FROM ITS NEST.

How to eat Knudsen Yogurt without a spoon.

Everyone knows that getting the fruit and energy snack from cup to mouth requires a very basic form of transportation. A spoon.

But sometimes it's almost impossible to get your basic active kid to sit still long enough to use your basic spoon.

Which brings us to Knudsen Frozen Yogurt Pushups. The new fruit and energy snack you can pass on to your kids as they dash by.

Knudsen Yogurt Pushups have a great deal in common with ice cream. In looks. In taste. (They're even in the ice cream case at your supermarket.) Yet Knudsen Yogurt Pushups still manage to maintain their own individual fruit flavor. And you have a choice of flavors, too. Raspberry. Strawberry. Orange. Or Pineapple.

There's nothing to stop you from grabbing a Knudsen Yogurt Pushup on your way by the freezer. They're 98% fat-free.

Next time anyone in the family can use a quick and delicious fruit and energy snack, get out the Knudsen Yogurt.

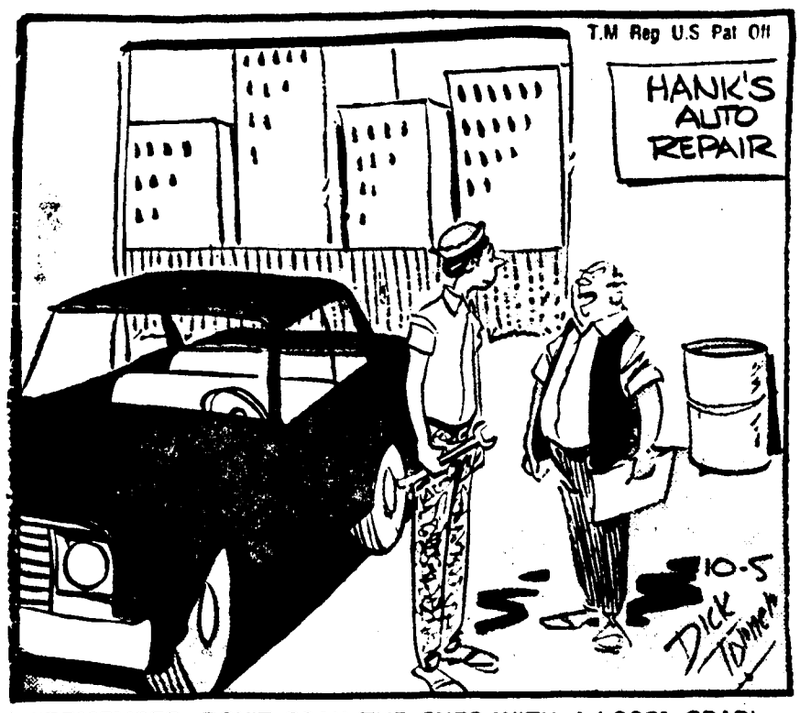

The spoonless version.

Knudsen Frozen Yogurt Pushups

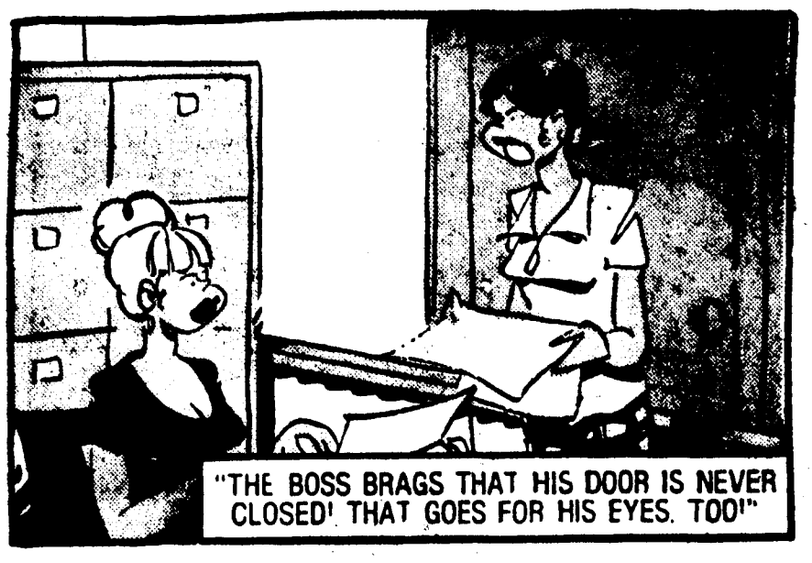

Raspberry. Strawberry. Orange. Or Pineapple.

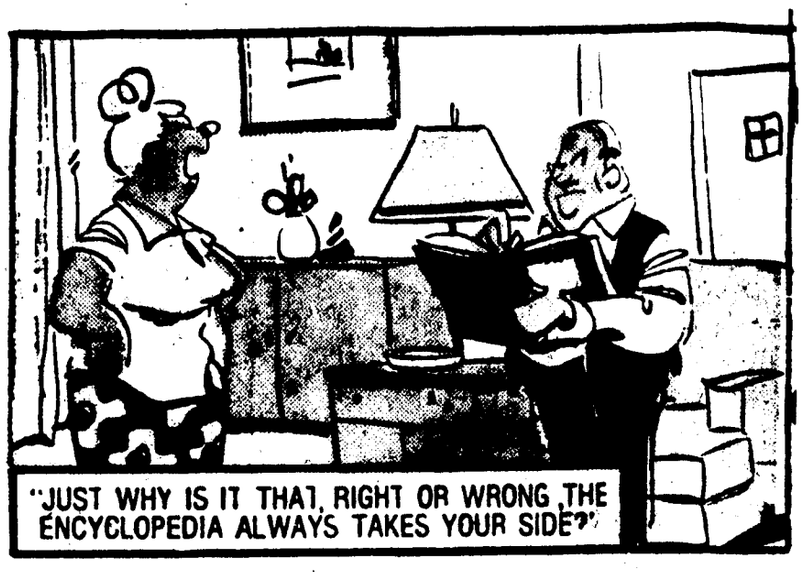

CARNIVAL

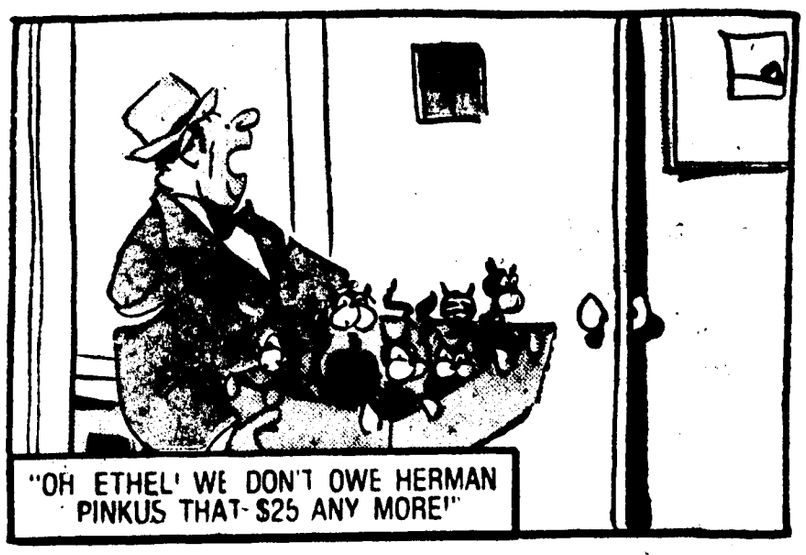

"REMEMBER, DON'T SOAK THE ONES WITH A LOOSE SPARK PLUG WIRE! THEY'RE LIABLE TO BE INVESTIGATORS!"

"THE BOSS BRAGS THAT HIS DOOR IS NEVER CLOSED! THAT GOES FOR HIS EYES, TOO!"

"JUST WHY IS IT THAT, RIGHT OR WRONG, THE ENCYCLOPEDIA ALWAYS TAKES YOUR SIDE?"

"OH ETHEL! WE DON'T OWE HERMAN PINKUS THAT $25 ANY MORE!"

"IT'S SOME STRANGE LADY, MOM! SHE CALLED ME 'SWEETIE'!"

Andy Warhol Talks About Life, Love, Other Things

By JURATE KAZICKAS

NEW YORK — Andy Warhol munched delicately on some coffee beans that had been floating in his glass of clear liqueur while a gang of friends consumed mounds of assorted pastas.

The setting was of course, Elaine's, where celebrities go to look at each other.

Suddenly, Warhol's alert eyes glistened as Liza Minnelli walked into the room. She bussed him on the cheek and strode away.

"Maybe Lorna Luft will be here soon," Warhol said hopefully. "We just interviewed her."

"Was she interesting?" Warhol was asked.

"She goes out with Burt Reynolds."

"Is he interesting?"

"He's Burt Reynolds."

Andy Warhol, artist, film maker and newly published author loves celebrities. Bianca Jagger has been escorting him to frequent dinners while Warhol finished up a portrait of her husband, rock star Mick.

Warhol and Paulette Goddard were inseparable for months. Lee Radziwill, Truman Capote, Berry and Tony Perkins slide up to his side at those parties they all attend.

Warhol is a celebrity himself from the days he discombobulated the art scene in the early '60s with his paintings of Campbell tomato soup cans, scouring pad boxes and dollar bills.

From Pop Art he moved to underground films of intense monotony. One six-hour film showed a man sleeping. Another featured four hours of a man nibbling on a mushroom. The Empire State building was the subject of an 8-hour study.

These days Andy is above ground with featured films of more manageable length such as "Dracula" and "Frankenstein." He is also working on a movie entitled "Bad" about "a normal family in Brooklyn" and is writing a comedy about senility.

Every month, Warhol puts out his magazine "Interview" with gossipy tidbits and transcribed taped interviews with the glamorous and bizarre.

When asked whom he would like to interview most of all, Warhol replied qiuckly: "Walt Disney. But he's dead."

After a 3-1/2-minute pause, he sighed: "Oh, anybody who's interesting. I like Diane Vreeland because she has so many funny stories."

Warhol still paints but mostly portraits for which he charges $25,000. Some of his (commissioned by a magazine). Greek subjects includes President Gerald Ford, shipping tycoon Philip Niarchos, dancer Rudolf Nureyev and designer Halton. In October, Warhol goes to Italy for a showing of his series on black transvestites.

But first there is the promotional tour for his new book, "The Philosophy of Andy Warhol (from (A to B & Back Again)" with his incisive obeservations about everything from pimples to Picasso.

Chapters on Beauty, Death and Success have such provocative subtitles as Romance Is Hard, But Sex Is Harder; The Psychiatrist Never Called Back; Why I Try To Look So Bad, and What I Do On Saturday When My Philosophy Runs Out (which is to go and buy Jockey shorts at Macy's).

"Oh, the book is a comedy. It's meant to be funny," Warhol explained, leaning on the table in his second-hand navy jacket, Brooks Brothers striped shirt and tie. His face was its usual shade of pastry dough white and his gray-blond hair was in wind-blown disarray revealing dark roots at the back of the neck.

Warhol describes in his book his decision to go gray in his early 20s. He says he figured everyone would be impressed by how young he always looked (he is now 47), and he would be able to lapse into eccentric or senile behavior when he felt like it.

Warhol reports of his eminently sensible and charitable New York City diet which involves ordering those things on the menu one doesn't like. Then, one asks for a doggy bag and leaves the food on the streets for those people who live out of shopping bags in lonely New York doorways.

Warhol wrote about his incredible friends such as Taxi who never took a bath and hoarded brassiers, and B, a compulsive vaccuumer who put the hose to everything she owned from the inside of a radio to the Polaroid pictures of her naked self.

Warhol's friends are crazy about him.

"He is terrific. A visionary and a very charming man," said Sylvia Miles, the star of Warhol's movie "Heat."

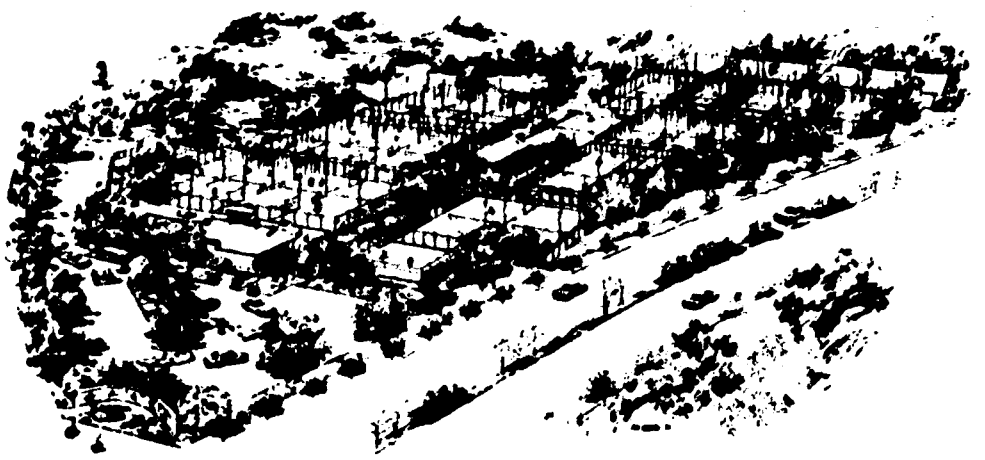

"He's sweet, warm and kind. Brilliant and talented," said Ethel Scull, top pop art collector of the '60s whose portrait Warhol made from 36 silkscreened passport photos. "The book is completely him. He is an artifact of his own time."

Kenneth Lane, the jewelry designer, whose home was the setting of some of Andy's Warhol's films said: "He is a Jacque Cocteau character. A Renaissance man."

Friends agree that the shock of being gunned down in 1968 by an enraged actress-writer profoundly frightened Warhol.

New Courts Will Put OC In Big Tennis League

By ART PARRA
Register Tennis Writer

Orange County will put the final touches on becoming the "big-time" tennis capital of the west in the near future. Clay-court tennis, Forest Hills style, will soon become a reality.

A new facility is being erected in the City of Irvine on a nine-acre site to be located near the Culver exit of the San Diego freeway. According to Ruth Eddington, one of the top tennis publicists in the area, the net center will be called the Irvine Rancho San Joaquin Racquet Club.

Three clay courts along with 24 additional concrete courts have been penciled in for the club. Twelve of the total will be nightlighted. Another innovation will be directed toward those with paddle-action in mind. They are for those choosing to play platform "screen" tennis (one of the fastest-growing sports in the east) or paddle tennis on four lighted courts.

The layout for the new club has taken everything into consideration and primary concern has been toward providing adequate seating for accommodation of Davis Cup, World Team Tennis or any other form of professional events.

The motif will follow the California-Spanish theme throughout a huge clubhouse which will include a lounge, professional shop, and other luxuries expected in a major recreational center.

On the perimeter of the tennis complex, IRC's University of Racquet Sports will offer an instructional program developed by tennis professionals Bill Frantz and Dick Leach. The pair began this new innovation at their own club, the Big Bear Tennis Ranch. The IRCU campus provides two teaching courts, practice walls, teaching lanes with ball machines and a classroom where video-taped stroke-analysis is part of the curriculum.

From all indications, Frantz and Leach have visited the campus of Vic Braden's Tennis College at Cote de Caza. Details are exactly the same as found at Braden's sophisticated center of learning.

Manager of the new complex will be King Lambert. He will bring a lifetime of experience in racquet sports including squash, paddle tennis and the unique Basque sport of Pelota/Trinquet to the new club. Lambert has been nationally-ranked in tennis and squash and is currently ranked No. 1 in the Southern California Seniors 45 Division.

Membership structure in the new club will vary. A limited number of transferable charter family memberships for a one-time $700 and $40 monthly dues are available. Annual memberships for family, couples, singles and juniors along with social and corporate use are available.

The newly-formed Orange County Tennis Assn. (OCTA) is through rallying around and ready for action, according to Ruth Eddington. The group is wound up and ready for its first services to county tennis enthusiasts exclusively. It will be a free junior clinic (16 and under) and it's first annual Orange County (only) Thanksgiving Tournament.

Spearheaded by Dick Barron, head of the Orange District Tennis Umpires Assn. of Irvine, OCTA represents every facet and locale of Registerland tennis in effort to promote, improve and coordinate tennis activities in the area.

As their first official action, a volunteer tennis council elected as board of directors: Dick Barron, president;

McGUFFEY'S READERS TAUGHT BILLIONS

McGuffey Readers: America's Most Often Read School Books

Two of the greatest success stories in publishing history are the famous "Old Blue Back" (Webster's Elementary Spelling Book) written by Noah Webster himself in 1783 and the equally famous set of McGuffey Readers, published in 1836. These two names are now considered one set, and while the actual sales since publication are lost in antiquity, nevertheless, it is estimated that more than a billion young Americans learned to read and spell with them; and Van Nostrand Reinhold still sells from 7,500 to 10,000 copies a year.

"Old Blue Back" is almost as old as our country, older in service than any other textbook and the only textbook that ever became a standard article of commerce. Like salt or sugar, it was kept in general stores and sold to customers along with the calicoes and the ginghams. It was written as a declaration of the freedom of the American language as against the British, to include American definitions and American usage. In 1847 alone it sold 24,000,000 copies, and it is still in use today in schools in seven different states.

The McGuffey Readers, now a Primer and six Eclectic Readers, started as Volumes 1 and 2 in 1836. They were written by an Ohio teacher and preacher named William Homes McGuffey for the purpose of teaching far more than reading, i.e., ". . .true patriotism, integrity, honesty, industry, temperance, courage, politeness, and all other moral and intellectual virtues."

Passing through six publishers, many editors, and in the case of one of the readers, 291 reprints, they dominated the elementary textbook markets through the turn of the century — and have never gone out of print.

An entire printing plant was built in Cincinnati just to publish this series, and as late as 1972 when the plant was sold, the last pages to roll from the presses were McGuffey Readers (but not the last McGuffey Readers).

We know that in 1844, Volume 1 sold for 12 1/2 c, Volumes 2 and 4 for 25c each totalling more than the 50c a laboring man made in a day), and yet they sold at a rate second only to the Bible. Today those three volumes cost $10.25 (an hour or two of a man's time?).

So powerful was the influence of the McGuffey Readers that they too are still in use today in several states. There is a McGuffey Reader club which meets annually at Brushy Run in West Virginia, and its members who come back home each year from all over the country for the festivities have only one thing in common, the McGuffey Readers. There is a McGuffey Museum at Miami University, Oxford, Ohio and a McGuffey School, both near the McGuffey Elm trees (a National Historical Landmark), under which William McGuffey sat to write his first two volumes. Henry Ford had reprinted the 1857 version of the six readers and distributed sets of the reprints to McGuffey lovers throughout the United States.

In 1969, Van Nostrand Reinhold Company reproduced, from the original old plates, the 1879 edition and they are available today at a special price of $25. A copy of Webster's "Old Blue Back" is included at no extra charge.

It would appear that the virtues, moralities, and sometime rebelliousness that inspired these publications are still part of America's thinking just as the books are part of the nation's cultural heritage.

One hundred ninety-two years, never out of print, and now a growing resurgence of interest and demand—perhaps not for the one-room school house, the pot-belly stove, or for the famous birch rod, but possibly for American character.

Harriet Van Horne's "Generation Rap" in the New York Post, May 26 1969, said in part:

". . .It was a sorry day for American education when McGuffey was superseded by show-and-tell exercises, visual aids and texts no more challenging than a highway billboard."

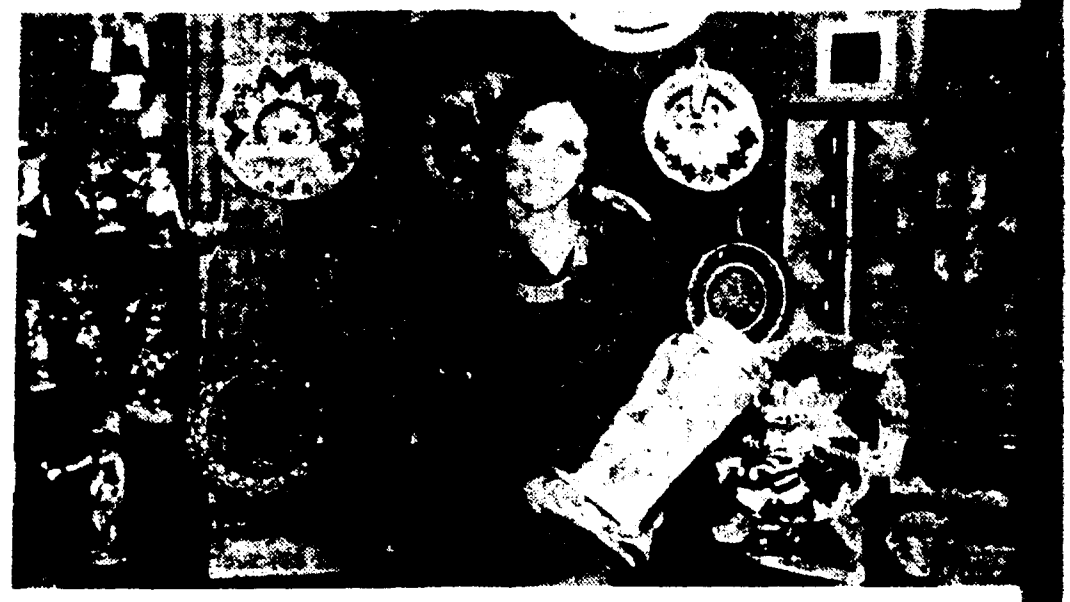

Indian, Western Show Will Feature Genuine American Indian Arts, Crafts

If you had asked a Navajo Indian in the old days who was his best friend, he might well have said, "my wearing blanket." Of course, he would have been joking, but for real. "Wearing blankets" were as necessary to a Navajo as food. Both sexes used shoulder blankets like the white man's overcoat, to ward off the cold of winter; they were fashioned into men's shirts, saddle blankets, girths and women's dresses. Never used as a rug, they were also placed on the ground to sit upon. At night, blankets, along with sheepskins, formed a bed, and the door to the hogan was often covered with a hanging blanket. In addition, blanket designs had, in many cases, special religious and even social significance.

Interest in Navajo blankets has sharply risen of late among collecters and traders, and a number of rare examples of these beautiful products will be seen at the American Indian & Western Relic Show due Oct. 10-11-12 at Great Western Exhibit Center (2130 S. Eastern Ave., City of Commerce).

The Navajos stopped weaving blankets in 1900, thus their great value today (although they still weave rugs). A contributing factor was the appearance of the machine-made Pendleton blanket. Each Navajo blanket design is original and one-of-a-kind, representing the woman who made it and the person who wears it in a vital way through the expression and control of the design.

According to most historians, circa 1000A.D., Navajos migrated from northwestern Canada and by the middle of the 16th Century had settled in central Colorado and Northern New Mexico. The Pueblos were already there and when the Spanish Conquistadores, a century later, brought in sheep, the Pueblos started weaving wool garments, teaching their skill to the Navajo.

TYPICAL BOOTH — A display from forthcoming Indian show features various Indian crafts; Zuni, Pima, Papago, Santa Clara Indians and Navajo Rugs.

Japanese Artist Shiko Munakata Dies

TOKYO — Shiko Munakata, internationally known woodblock artist whose rustic works featured Buddhist images and historic Japanese scenes, died recently of ancer at his Tokyo home. He was 72.

The winner of numerous international prizes, Munakata was a small, near sighted man who hunched over his creations working with feveriah speed. Fellow Japanese artists called him the "daredevil" for challenging the traditional art establishment, but he succeeded at home as well as abroad.

Munakata's awards included grand prizes at the International Woodblock Exhibition at Lugano, Switzerland, in 1951, the International Art Exhibition at Sao Paulo, Brazil, in 1955, and the International Art Biennale at Venice, Italy, in 1956.

He also won numerous prizes in Japan and was given the Medal of Honor with blue ribbon in 1963 and the Order of Culture in 1970. The Order of Culture is the highest government award for an artist in Japan.

Born in Aomori, northern Japan, the son of a blacksmith, Munakata first tried law and served briefly as a district court clerk. He gave that up for painting, inspired by Dutch artist Vincent Van Gogh. Munakata moved to Tokyo and in 1926 one of his oils was accepted by the prestigious Imperial Academy for its annual exhibition.

He became disenchanted with oils in the 1930s, however, and switched to woodblocks, creating large and small prints.

"No one can tell if another artist of Munakata's talent and stature will come along in later generations," said artist Shoji Hamada, a close friend of Munakata. "I think not."

Hamada, 89, described Munakata as "always chirping about." He added that although he was 17 years older than Munakata, there came a time when senior colleagues were no longer teaching Munakata but learning from him.

"He created a new Japanese art," said Hamada, himself designated a "national living treasure" for bringing folkcraft pottery to a respected art form. "Munakata's art is beyond imitation and if others should try, they can't hope to succeed."

Munakata's works, executed in a rough-hewn, uninhibited manner, are exhibited throughout the world, many with visionary human figures derived from Buddhist legend.

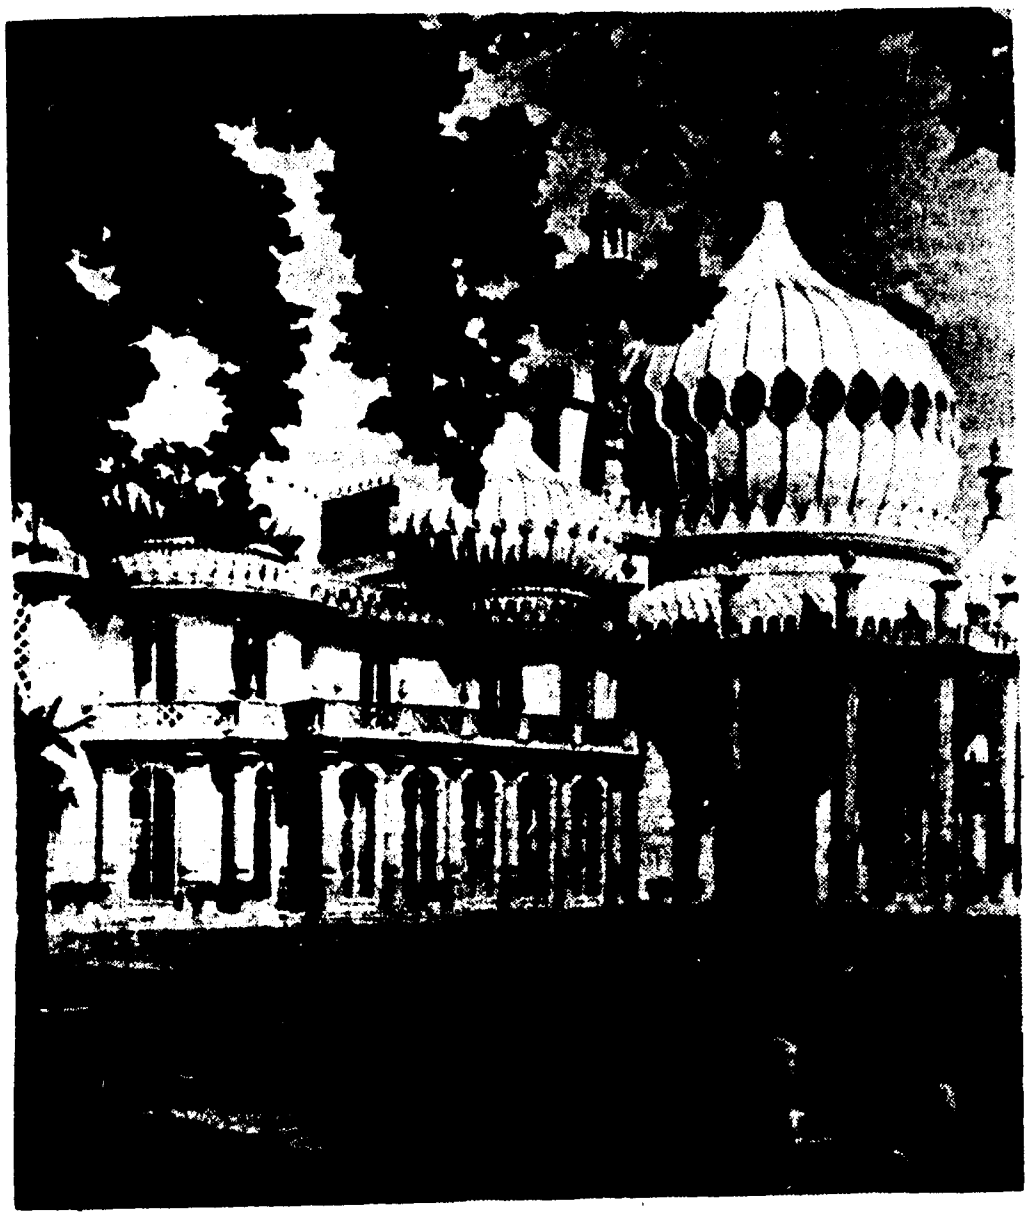

An eassayist with a down to earth sense of humor, Munakata never discarded his Aomori country dialect.

PRINCELY FOLLY — Britain's Prince Regent was nothing if not an imaginative man. He wanted an oriental palace and architect John Nash obliged. The result is something a little unlike anything else on earth. Even the furniture and rockery were made to suit. These days, the Pavilion, in Brighton, Sussex, is open to the public and takes part in the local festival every spring.

Southland Tourist Picture Record-Setting, But. . .

Tourists poured $1.07 billion "new" dollars into the Southern California economy during the first six months of 1975, reports the Southern California Visitors Council, setting an all-time spending record.

But the outlook for the Southland's third largest industry isn't entirely rosy, cautions William P. Brotherton, managing director of the Visitors Council.

"We had fewer tourists during those six months than we had during the same period of 1974," Brotherton says, "and the increased spending stems largely from the inflationary spiral which has affected all sectors of the nation's economy."

During the first six months of 1975, 3,891,500 out-of-state visitors arrived in the 13-county Southern California region, compared with 3,872,800 for the first six months of '74. The $1.07 billion spent in 1975 contrasts with 1974 expenditures of $1.03 billion, Brotherton disclosed.

In percentage terms, tourist numbers declined 1.8 percent while spending increased some 4.2 percent.

Nationally, however, more Americans than ever hit the road during the first two quarters of '75. According to the United States Travel Data Center, domestic travel increased by 15 percent during the first two quarters of '75.

"More people were travelling, but fewer came to Southern California," Brotherton observes, "and we find this cause for genuine concern."

The Visitors Council official attributes much of the change in travel patterns to the increasing international attention being focused on the original 13 colonial states. "There's no question but that Southern California tourism may be seriously affected by the American Revolution Bicentennial activities planned for the East Coast," Brotherton says.

Though gasoline shortages and energy crisis fears dampened motorist enthusiasm during the early months of 1974, no such spectres dampened the automobile-borne visitor during the first six months of 1975.

Pirate Picture Lures Actress

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Louisa Horton makes a return to acting after a 15-year absence with a role in Universal's pirate epic, "The Blarney Cock."

Miss Horton, who appeared in "All My Sons" and "Walk East on Beacon," joins Robert Shaw, James Earl Jones, Peter Boyle, Genevieve Bujold and Beau Bridges in the cast. "The Blarney Cock" is the new title for "Swashbuckler."

Britain Cultural, Other Ties Deeply Rooted

By ANN TERRILL

It was from Southampton, in August of 1620, that the good ship Mayflower and her companion, Speedwell, sailed from England bound for the New World.

They had picked up passengers from various English ports before leaving British waters and still had to put in to Plymouth.

It wasn't long before Speedwell began to leak badly, and the ships returned to England, where Mayflower took on those passengers on Speedwell who still wished to go to America. And so the history-making band of Pilgrims set sail. From the time the ships initially embarked until they cleared English waters for America, the ships touched five different ports.

But in the Halls of Parliament only one is taken note of. The marble corridors are lined with murals depicting important historic events. One of these shows Pilgrims leaving Southampton in a long boat with the ship in the background. For Southampton was then, as now, an important port for England, as for the British Isles as a whole.

It is fascinating to trace the roots of the United States in Great Britain. And Southampton is a good place to start.

Some 75 miles from London, an hour and a half by train (the quickest way to go) Southampton has a monument to the two million American servicemen who went through this pleasant, small city on their way to battle in World War II.

It is useful to have a good road map, and a guide to the English pubs and inns. Egon Ronay's is one of the best. A thick volume published by the British Tourist Authority, it gives information on costs, sights, history, events, theater, shopping and so forth. It also tells about the famous English taverns and inns to be found along the way. AA Budget & Guide, which lists more than 3700 farmhouse holidays, guesthouses, inns and inexpensive restaurants is another good one to have. You can go into the city and stay at Claridge's, which, by the way, has had problems lately, or put up at any of the other expensive hotels there. And rates are ridiculously high, especially in high tourist season. So if you want to economize, this is the way to go.

You'll find, for example, by consulting Egon Ronay that a number of interesting places are within a few miles of Southampton by road. They suggest three to five day tours of what is known as the South East. This includes Brighton, where Edward, Prince of Wales made his mark; Chichester, family seat of the late explorer, who is buried there; Arundel, of Ann of Arundel fame; Portsmouth, which is just around the headlands from Southampton; the Isle of Wight; Lymington, Beaulieu with its ruined abbey and ghostly visitants (also a great family estate open to visitors), Winchester with its historic past and quaint buildings, cathedral and Petersfield.

Canterbury, the cathedral city, still retains much of its evidence of 2000 years of history. The famous cathedral dates mostly from the 12th century and there is much stained glass. Half the town's medieval walls survive and some of these were built on Roman foundations. Christopher Marlowe was born here in 1564 and the town's theater is named for him.

At Dover, the ferry boats and steamers leave for the short trip to the continent, to Boulogne, Dunkerque, Calais, and Ostend. Hamburg and Amsterdam service is also available by boat from England, in overnight crossings.

Not far away, but not officially in the South East is Salisbury, another cathedral town. The church with its slightly twisted spire, is considered to be one of the most beautiful in the world. In its library is one of the four original copies of the Magna Carta, basis of English and, in turn, American law.

In Beaulieu there is a palace, a motor museum and the abbey to see. The famous Royal Pavilion at Brighton is an architectural curiosity; there is a cathedral, a very lovely one, at Chichester, Fishbourne, which is very near, has a Roman palace. Dover, with its white cliffs is not far away, and at Portsmouth, Nelson's world-famous ship, HMS Victory is at anchor. In Winchester the great castle, which used to be home to England's Norman kings, houses a round table considered for centuries to have been King Arthur's property. Today, this is questioned. But generation of English kings treasured it and today, it hangs in a place of prominence in the castle. King William Rufus is buried in Winchester Cathedral, as is Jane Auston, and there are some Roman ruins around town. The town itself has some fine 15th century buildings, and the college at Winchester was built in the 14th century. The cathedral dates from 1093 and replaces an Anglo-Saxon original. Florence Nightingale is buried at Romsey, at East Wellow Church. All through this region are Roman ruins, some restored partially, and in Lymington is an extensive Iron Age earthworks.

South East England is growing faster than any other part of the country, and the long-awaited channel tunnel will go underground just north-east of Folkestone and will be linked by rail to a terminal in the White City area of London. This is Sussex and Kent country, and on the rail line to London is Wimbledon, home of the tennis match. That city is to get some new public improvements in order to entice visitors down more often, said London friends.

But with all that, the British are history-minded. Not long ago, more than 6,000 people signed a petition against closing Guildford's oldest pub.

And that says a lot about the British character

Some other items indicate one reason why it is said that America has its roots deep in British soil. The following says much about America and Americans.

The Bicentennial of the United States is closely linked with her mother country, England, and today, most British are aware of and proud to point out local points of history pertaining to America. During Bicentennial is a good time to make that trip to England. Great Britain, always mindful of a tourist dollar, is especially eager to be of help now. A few years ago the British Tourist Authority put out a nicely colored map showing important historic links with America to England.

The map, which may be ordered from BTA, in England or Los Angeles, has many interesting facts on it. For example, it reports that Pocahontas, the romantic Indian princess who became the wife of John Rolfe is buried in England.

I didn't know that Boston city and environs not only provided most of the Pilgrims (English call them 'separatists.') for America, after having jailed some ringleaders like William Brewster for a time, but also sent five state or national leaders from Boston, England to Boston, Massachusetts.

I didn't know that London's famous Downing Street was named for Sir George Downing, the second man to graduate the Harvard University. James Whistler the American painter is buried in London, as is John Smith, first leader of the Raleigh colony is also buried there.

Elihu Yale founder of Yale University, lived in England, died there and is buried there So is Gov JamesOglethorpe, founder of the colony of Georgia. And so it goes.

WOOD FOR THIS BARN MAY BE FROM MAYFLOWER
Pilgrim Ship Was Dismantled, Timbers Sold

Step Back Into Yesterday; The 'Mayflower' Barn, Too

By BERNARD HUNT

CHALFONT ST. GILES, England — There's something strange about this place. Almost eerie, even.

For as you walk the main and, indeed, the only street in this tiny Georgian village on the outskirts of London for the first time in your life an overwhelming feeling comes over you. You've been here before.

It is awhile before understanding comes. And you remember seeing that shop front, that pub, that police station, innumerable times.

The answer is simple.

Chalfont St. Giles and the neighboring communities, including the picture-postcard village of Denham, are deep in England's filmland, not far from Pinewood Studios.

So it's not surprising that those pubs and shops should be familiar, You've seen them every time you've followed Miss Marple solving a filmic mystery; every time the "Avengers" astounded with their feats of derring-do.

These villages are a must for anyone who's ever watched a film set in a typically English village and mused: "That's lovely. I wonder where it is."

It's here, barely 30 miles from London, the home of some of London's wealthier commuters.

The villages are easily reached from the capital by the excellent suburban train service. Once you are in the area, known as the Chalfonts, a good pair of hiking boots is all the transport you'll need.

One of the must-see sights for Americans is a barn boldly labeled Mayflower Barn.

Local legend has it that the ship we'd all like to say our ancestors traveled on came to rest here when it was broken up in the 1600s.

It is only a legend. No one really knows what became of the Mayflower after it sailed off into history. But it makes a good story.

Barely a hundred yards from the Mayflower Barn is the grave of William Penn, the gentle Quaker who founded Pennsylvania. There is no marker or mound. The actual burial site is lost in history but the graves of later Quakers are scrupulously tended.

Both the Mayflower Barn and Penn's grave are in the village of Jordan Bucks.

Between the villages of Chalfont St. Peter and Chalfont St. Giles is another site of interest to the visiting American.

It is a monument, erected by that infamous George III, to mark the place where he shot his first deer in days of old.

"What place is this?" he is alleged to have asked a courtier.

"It be no place, sire," came the answer. "Down there be St. Peter and down there be St. Giles. But this be no place."

"Well then," thundered George in tones that never made the American Colonists cringe, "let's build something and make it a place."

In St. Giles, itself, besides the natural beauty of English country gardens and the aforementioned deja vu, is the home of the poet, Milton.

It was here that he fled when plague ravaged London. And it was here that much of "Paradise Lost" was written.

The cottage is open daily to visitors.

For the wanderer tired of walking, a bus ride will bring the village of Beaconsfield, astride the London-Oxford road. Here is the home of the earl of Beaconsfield, better known as Benjamin Disraeli, prime minister and novelist.

His house on the fringes of Beaconsfield is the very model of a stately home of England. Elegant lawns sweep down from the house toward fountains at the back of the property.

You'd swear this was in the midst of the Dukeries, that segment of middle England where the dukes of old maintained their semiregal establishments.

But it isn't. The Disraeli house is barely half an hour from London on the suburban train.

Other interesting spots in this part of the world include the grave of Thomas Gray, in Stoke Poges, the churchyard where he wrote his mournful "Elegy;" and Chequers, the country home of Britain's prime minister. — CNS

White Sturgeon Big, Old Fish

North America's largest freshwater fish, reports the National Automobile Club, is the white sturgeon, which can grow to 20 feet long, weigh 1,000 pounds or more, and live to be 100 years old.

Sea World Opens New Bird Center

Sea World's birds are coming home to roost now that a new Avian Propagation Center is open following recent dedication ceremonies.

The $47,000 research and support facility is used for bird breeding, as a rehabilitation facility for injured birds, and as a home for Sea World's cockatoos and macaws.

Large numbers of birds in distress following oil spills or other ecological disruptions can be accommodated at the Center. An osprey whose wing was partially shot off is recuperating nicely there now. Most of the birds treated at the center will be returned to their native environments following treatment. Birds that could not survive in the wild, like the osprey, will continue to be cared for at the marine park.

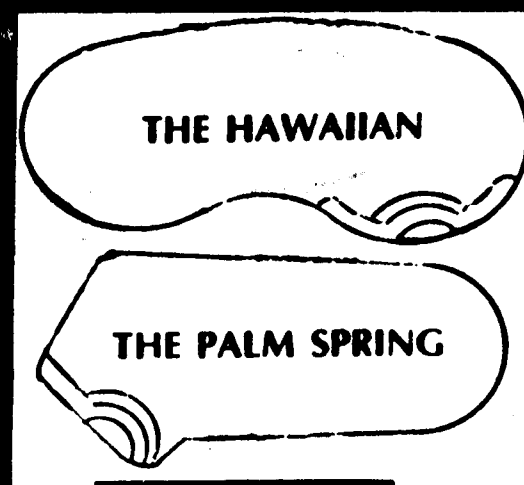

Sea World has the largest collection of exotic waterfowl in North America. Most are young birds about to reach prime breeding age, according to Frank S. Todd, curator of birds.

At the new Avian Propagation Center, eggs will be hatched in an isolated temperature-controlled brooder room, where the young birds will be kept until they are old enough to live in indoor-outdoor bird runs. Several of the runs are specially designed for waterfowl.

RARE CAT —This Japanese Bobtail, Shambu Letu's Pitti-Sing, will be on display during the Pet-Arama cat and dog show coming Oct. 11-12 at Orange County Fairgrounds. More than one thousand pets will be on display. Pitti-Sing's owners are Mr. and Mrs. Edw. O. Skeels of Tucson, Ariz. The Japanese Bobtails are not only rare, but are revered household symbols of good luck in their native land.

SOUTH CAROLINA!

First In Revolution; And Ahead With Self-Government

By ROBERT BETTS

South Carolina had its own mini-revolution long before the big one in 1776.

The "Revolution of 1719" was bloodless, and it was not against the King of England, but against the "Lords Proprietors of Carolina," the eight men who controlled the Colony on a grant from Charles II.

The name, derived from Carolus, Latin for Charles, had originally been given to the country by Charles IX of France at the time of the attempted French settlements in the 1560s. It was retained by the first English settlers of 1670 in honor of their own king. They also called their first settlement Charles Town, later contracted to Charleston. Carolina was eventually divided into North and South, each with its own governor.

While the Lords Proprietors were responsible for the original settlement, they were later accused of being neglectful, disregarding the interests and grievances of the settlers. They lived in England and left the administration to under-officers.

The South Carolinians called a convention, and on the morning of Dec. 21, 1719, the governor found himself facing a defiant militia drawn up in the marketplace. The people replaced him with their own chosen governor. Then they elected their own council, and sent a message to King George I setting out the reasons for their action and asking him to take over South Carolina as a royal colony. This he did officially in 1728.

Through years of struggling first with proprietary, then with royal rule, the South Carolina Assembly became well-experienced in self-government, and thus played a major role in the eventual movement for American independence.

Not that all South Carolinians wanted separation from Britain. Many Tories remained loyal to the king and were prepared to fight for him.

Despite their opposition and the trouble they caused, South Carolina contributed some able leaders to the struggle for independence. From the first opposition to the Stamp Act in 1765 until the end of the Revolutionary War, South Carolinans were in the forefront of the resistance to the British.

Some 150 engagements were fought within South Carolina's borders. Three times the British tried to take Charleston. Twice they were repulsed, but the third time the city fell, and soon much of the state was overrun. South Carolina's future looked dark, but the soliders fought on, eventually turning the tide and clearing most of the territory of British and Tory resistance.

Among those who helped frame the U.S. Constitution was South Carolina's own Charles Pinckney. His state was the eighth of the original 13 Colonies to ratify the Constitution, on May 23, 1788.

With independence won, the state's political and economic troubles continued. Agriculture and trade had been virtually destroyed and the war left bitter feelings between former Whigs and Tories. It took another decade for South Carolina, with a new state constitution, a new capital at Columbia and a thriving cotton crop, to be embarked on the road to security and prosperity.

The first U.S. Cotton shipment to England was exported from Charleston in 1784.

When later the northern states established a protective tarrif against European imports, South Carolina protested, complaining that the heavy duties hurt its own economy. This, together with the fact that the South Carolinians still considered slavery was essential to their economy, was the cause of their state being the first to secede from the Union, Dec. 20, 1860. The bombardment of Charleston's Fort Sumter by Confederates on April 12, 1861, opened the Civil War.

Again, following readmittance to the Union in June, 1868, South Carolina suffered a long period of trying to recover from the physical destruction of war. The abolition of slavery was also a blow to its basic agricultural economy.

Slowly but gradually the state progressed both economically and socially. Industry, largely textile, was established. In agriculture, cotton remained the dominating crop, with tobacco replacing rice as the second staple.

Increasing industrialization helped balance some decline in agricultural output. Today manufacturing is by far the major source of income, textiles being the most important product. South Carolina's mills rank first in the nation in cotton consumption and in output of yard goods. They also are major producers of synthetic and woolen goods. Other important lines include chemicals, apparel, paper, food products, machinery and stone-clay-glass products.

The state ranks second to California in production of peaches and is third in tobacco, with cotton, peanuts, sweet potatoes, pecans, etc., ranking high, along with loblolly pine for pulpwood.

In area, South Carolina ranks 40th with 31,055 square miles, and in population 26th, with a little over 2 1/2 million.

BIRTH OF A NATION

Colonists, British Become Restive

By GEORGE ROCHESTER

OCTOBER 3, 1775 - October 10, 1775

OCTOBER 5, 1775

The Congress being in session and realizing they must cooperate with Washington at Cambridge, Montgomery on his way to Quebeck, via Montreal, and Arnold coming from the east to join Montgomery at Quebeck, decided they must implement these brave men, and their small armies, by some positive action. The Congress heard supplies were on the way from England carrying military stores. To strengthen the morale of the troops, Congress independently organized a flotilla to intercept two British ships and sent couriers to each general to inform them of his cooperation.

OCTOBER 6, 1775

On this day Congress ordered (or suggested) that each colonial government should arrest all royalists who were dangreous to the cause of the loyal Americans.

OCTOBER 7, 1775

The British were becoming restive too, beleaguered as they were in Boston by Washington's army. Gen. Thomas Gage, Commander of the British forces, ordered a small squadron of British ships to bombard Bristol, Rhode Island. So Capt. James Wallace sailed to Bristol and sent word to the town that if a delegation did not come within an hour to Wallace's ship to hear his demands on the town, he would open fire.

The representative of Bristol suggested that Capt. Wallace should come ashore and inform them of his demands. Whereupon Wallace opened fire. The bombardment lasted about two hours, destroyed business buildings and homes with a number of townspeople killed.

Then Bristol sent a messenger to the fleet and asked for time to select a delegation to wait upon Capt. Wallace. When the delegation arrived at Wallace's ship he finally agreed to stop the destruction for forty sheep to feed the British army in Boston.

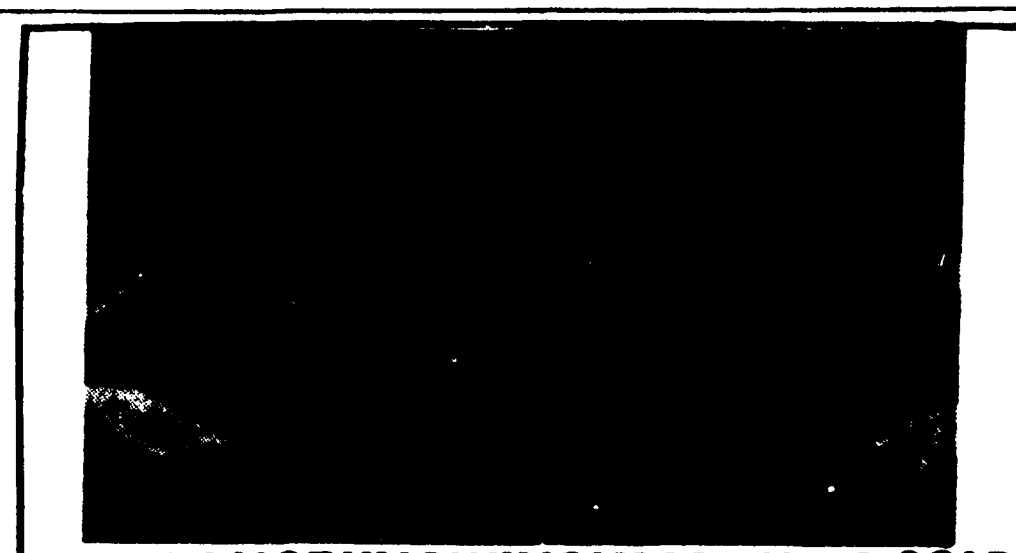

We can imagine the acrimony engendered amongst the Americans by this ruthless destruction for forty sheep. It also impressed Washington with the success of Congress' interception of the supplies intended for the British forces.

OCTOBER 10, 1775

The British discontent was further impressed upon the loyal Americans when it was learned on this day that Gen. Gage, Commander-in-chief of the British army, was succeeded by his second-in-command, General Sir. William Howe.

Gen. Gage was stained by his defeats at Lexington and Concord, and the siege Washington persistently continued of Boston. Gage was a timid and irresolute man. The British home office decided he lacked the initative and vigor for the job at hand. To illustrate one of his imbecilities, his last act was to urge the employment of Indians in the war, at any cost. His parting observation, "The rebels are not the despicable rabble we may have supposed them to be." He dwindled away to England and we shall hear of him no more.

General Howe was a dark complexioned, choleric, indolent high-bred aristocrat, 46 years of age. He was a fearless man and would give Washington trouble until he was relieved of his command in 1778.

RICHARD RODGERS AT 73

A Lifetime Of Beautiful Music

By ELLIE GROSSMAN

"To me, the greatest gratification . . . is to be able to gather a large group of people under one roof, and through words and music, impel them to feel something deeply and strongly. . . . "
— Richard Rodgers, "Musical Stages"

NEW YORK — (NEA) — For 24 years, it was "Rodgers & Hart." For the next 17, "Rodgers & Hammerstein." And then, simply, Richard Rodgers.

It's more than half a century, now, that the gentle, 73-year-old doctor's son has been writing beguiling music for the stage. Forty shows to date, not counting "Rex," the musical he's currently writing with lyricist Sheldon Harnick based on Henry VIII and scheduled for a January opening. ("Half the score is written and it's wonderful working with Sheldon," Rodgers says, smiling.)

Add to that nine film musicals and four TV scores, and his life makes others' seem like time spent waiting for a bus. He recalls it all in his newly published autobiography, "Musical Stages," which he almost didn't write.

"When I told Billy Rose I was considering writing my autobiography, he said: 'Don't do it. You've been successful all your life. You've even been married to the same woman for 45 years! There's no conflict, so there's no interest.'

"I thought a lot about what he said, but I figured if I wrote it properly, it would be of interest." Rodgers says it simply, without cunning. In a profession where egos often promenade like sun-gods breathing fire, he goes about his business quietly. A small, neat, courteous man.

Musically, he's a democrat. Classical, rock — the question is, does it move people? And, though he reports in his book that "Carousel" is his favorite musical ("My score is more satisfying than any I've ever written and Oscar (Hammerstein) never wrote more meaningful or moving lyrics . . . "), he can't come up with a favorite Rodgers & Hart song because, "You don't love one child more than the other."

Billy Rose notwithstanding, he hasn't escaped his share of pain. There have been two cancer operations (his larynx was removed a year ago and he speaks, in a distinct whisper, by means of esophageal speech), one heart attack, and the loss of two long-term partners that hit him very hard. (He broke with Lorenz Hart in '42 and Oscar Hammerstein died in '60. Now, Rodgers works with individual lyricists.)

("People say I've overcome difficulties." He shrugs. "What choice did I have? To give up?" He shakes his head. Unthinkable. People who do that "must lead very dull lives.")

Hart and Hammerstein — both New Yorkers born in 1895, both gifted — were as different as Bette Midler and Julie Andrews. Where Hart was dissipated and unpredictable, Hammerstein, like Rodgers, was a responsible family man. But Rodgers is scrupulously partial to both.

"With Larry, it was always a question of trapping him into work, but once you did, he was a quick writer. Oscar was easier to work with, but I was very close to both of them.

"I'm a fast writer," he continues, "because I have discipline. 'Bali Ha'i,' for example, (from 'South Pacific') was written after thinking about it for months. But it took me no longer to write it than to play it." He leans forward in his chair and ticks off his fingers. "I knew it had to be for a contralto, that it had to be in a certain rhythm, and that it had to have a Siamese flavor.

In short, he says, "I have a job to do and I do it."

His mother's piano in the Rodgers' Manhattan brownstone enticed him from the beginning. He was a toddler when he began playing by ear. By nine, he was making up his own melodies and, at 16, before he finished high school and entered Columbia University (solely because he wanted to write their annual Varsity Show), he teamed with Lorenz Hart, an irrepressible 23-year-old lyricist.

Their first show was produced in 1920, only months after they began collaborating. And then, it was five bleak years when, as they say, they couldn't even get arrested. "I was still living at home and I suffered from insomnia because I worried about sponging off my parents. I even considered going into the babies' underwear business out of desperation. But Larry was always optimistic. It was part of his personality that everything would be all right."

And it was. It still is, though the theater has changed. "There's a movement away from the music that used to be written for the stage," he says, unable offhand to think of a composer today whose work he admires. "These shows are based almost entirely on rhythm, what they call the beat. This is temporarily satisfactory to an audience, but," he concedes, with just a shade of pride, "you can't remember a beat for twenty years."

In 1942, Rodgers & Hart were asked to adapt a successful play, "Green Grow the Lilacs," into a musical and Rodgers was intrigued.

But Hart, who'd been drinking himself to death for years, was finding it impossible to work. Still, Rodgers says, "I didn't want the relationship to break up because Larry was the best lyric writer in the businesss. And I was very fond of him."

"I'll commit myself to a sanitarium with you and we'll work there," he urged Hart. But Hart couldn't do it. "I don't know why you put up with me all these years," he finally told Rodgers, and left for Mexico. And Rodgers sat down and cried.

With Oscar Hammerstein, II, Rodgers transformed the play into "Oklahoma!", their first smash. (Even Larry Hart, back from Mexico, told Rodgers he's never had a better evening in the theater.)

Now, Hammerstein went off to another project and Rodgers initiated the revival of "A Connecticut Yankee," one of the most successful Rodgers & Hart shows of the '20s. He did it because, in all this time, Larry Hart hadn't worked.

Laguna Beach Guitarist Young, But Well Known

By CLINT ERNEY
Register Staff Writer

LAGUNA BEACH — A young Laguna Beach guitarist, who has garnered praise from Andres Segovia, was initially inspired by Elvis Presley and the Beatles.

But Eric Henderson, 17, decided at an early age to get more than just chords and a beat out of his guitar.

"I started getting interested when I saw Elvis on television when I was about 4 or 5 years old; then The Beatles came out when I was about 6 and I started playing the guitar," Henderson recalled the other day.

At the age of 5 he began lessons in jazz guitar but the following year he decided to study seriously and he began his training with Antonia Morales, a Spanish-born guitar teacher who resides in Laguna Beach.

"I was really inspired by them (Presley and The Beatles) but I wanted to do it differently — completely," he asserted.

Young Henderson has been to Europe four times "mostly to Spain for studies." He explained that he enjoys living here but adds that Spain offers the finest training in guitar.

In response to a question he said he speaks Spanish "pretty well."

Henderson got a gentle push from Miss Morales in the right direction. She suggested that he go to a Segovia concert at the Music Center in Los Angeles.

"After I saw him (Segovia) I was really inspired to go on with classical music," said Henderson, "and ever since then (about age 9) I've been working at it."

Four years later Henderson, then 13, got to meet Segovia in Madrid. (Many consider Segovia the greatest or one of the greatest guitarists who ever lived and the man who has done the most to popularize the classical aspect of the instrument.)

"I played for him then and he said I had a strong foundation of technique and he gave me a lot of good advice on what music to study," Henderson said of his meeting with Segovia. "And he told me to expand my mind and take in as much art, in general, as possible and this would help my sic interpretation.

Advice from a master and continued instruction from other masters of the instrument are paying off. Henderson has "arrived" as a concert soloist.

He is due to leave in the next two weeks or so for his fifth trip to Europe and a scheduled Dec. 20 appearance on the prestigious Concertgebouw concert series in Amsterdam, Holland. He is one of the featured guitarists on an "Internationale Gitaarserie" there with his appearance coming between two of the greatest guitarists in the world.

Appearing a month before him will be Julian Bream and he'll be followed 1-1/2 months later by Narcisco Yepes.

Henderson is a serious student of his instrument and he was candid in commenting on his fellow performers.

On Segovia: "There's no guitarist that has the tone and the magical touch and quality that Segovia has. He's just the greatest, the king, the man other guitarists look up to."

On Bream: "Oh, Bream has an incredible amount of vitality; he plays in a very, very exciting way."

On Yepes: "Yepes has the best technique in the world."

Henderson also had high praise for USC instructor and recording artist Christopher Parkening.

"If he (Parkening) doesn't have it (technique) already he will have it and he'll be great because he plays with practically no distortion at all."

On composers for the guitar: "Well, I think one of the greatest composers for the guitar was (Heitor) Villa-Lobos; and I think now it would have to be (Federico) Morena Torroba."

Despite his forthcoming appearance on one of the premiere concert stages in Europe, Henderson is taking a low-profile, level-headed approach to the arty world of concertizing. He says he is content to live modestly on the income of a part-time concert performer.

"In Europe I can get by," he says matter-of-factly. He plans to continue his studies for the next two years.

"I probably will be going first to Amsterdam and then on to Spain where I want to look into different harmony and composition teachers and then I'll go on to Madrid and study at the conservatory there."

Will he compose?

"No," he quickly replied, "but I think it's very important to have the study of both (harmony and composition) because that way you really get to understand the literature you play.

"By studying composition you actually get the real feelings, formulas and assistance of the composer."

Orange County's "Segovia" was born Eric Jon Henderson 17 years ago in Pasadena, the second of three sons of Mr. and Mrs. James E. Henderson. (Dad is an instructor in the Theater Arts Department at Fullerton College.)

Young Henderson said his family has encouraged his interest in the guitar. He said his mother studied piano for about 12 years and taught him his first chords on the guitar. "She took folk guitar."

He also praised his American guitar teacher, Antonia Morales as "an all around great teacher."

While most of his contemporaries were surfing in Laguna Beach and elsewhere along the coast, Henderson was at age 15 winning critical acclaim in Spain for his performances of Spanish guitar works. He incidentally lists as hobbies surfing and reading.

"I plan to stay nine months to a year this time, maybe; it's hard to say, really," he says of his forthcoming fifth trip to Europe.

"For the next two years, at least, I would like to continue the study of music, in general, because I'm too young to start on a full scale concert career."

If anything, Henderson may be unduly modest. According to his teacher, he performed several concerts last season in the south of Spain and in Madrid and she said of his second performance in Jaen the "Ideal" newspaper summed it up:

"Eric Henderson was greeted with warmth and excitement on his return to Jaen for his second concert. His performance proved again that he is certainly following in the footsteps of the great guitar master, Andre Segovea."

Richard Rodgers

Together they wrote some new songs for the show and Hart struggled to control his drinking. "No," Rodgers says, "he never knew what I was trying to do for him. He just took it for granted it was a good show to revive."

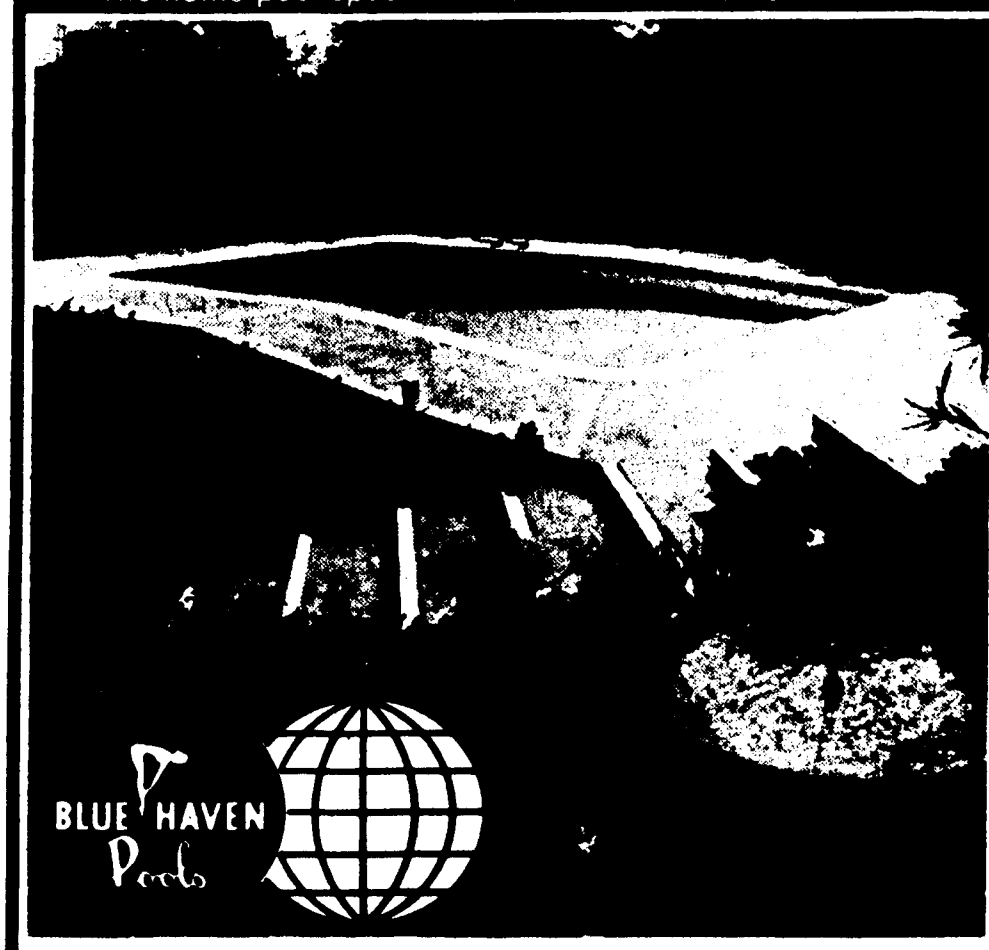

The show opened on a Wednesday, Rodgers recalls, "and that was the last time I saw Larry. He disappeared and they found him a few days later, drunk, at Delmonico's. He was taken to Doctors Hospital and," he remembers clearly and still with some astonishment, "he died on Monday." Less than a week since opening night. — E.G.

Santa Ana Firm Presents LA Exhibit

A major display of recycled TreeSweet metal and paper cylindrical juice cans will be exhibited at the Hobby Exposition at the Los Angeles County Museum throughout the month of October. The Hobby Expo is the museum's salute to National Hobby Month.

The emptied juice cans in 6, 12, 16 and 46 ounce sizes, rather than resembling juice cans, will take the shape of floral bouquets, furniture, moving vehicles, and caricatures such as snowmen, Santa Claus, policemen, and soldiers.

TreeSweet Products Co. based in Santa Ana, in conjunction with the Hobby Industry of America, has created the exhibit as part of its overall campaign to promote the can craft hobby craze, and the Great American Can Crafts Contest co-sponsored by TreeSweet and Creative Crafts Magazine in cooperation with the non-profit Hobby Industry of America. The contest is current-Nov. 30. Entrants can compete for prizes in three separate age classifications: under 12, 13 to 17, and 18 and older. Grand prize is a $1000 U.S. Savings Bond.

Entries will be judged by the editors of "Creative Crafts," who will award prizes to the can crafts judged most decorative, humorous, functional and in keeping with the American bicentennial. Entry blanks are available at hobby stores and supermarkets in the 32 states which carry TreeSweet products.

TreeSweet, a subsidiary of the DiGiorgio Corp., is one of the two largest citrus juice processors in the United States, marketing a line of more than 30 citrus juices and other drink products.

TORANA's 14th Annual Painting and Graphics Show will open the new Chapman College Art Gallery, 333 North Glassell Ave., Orange, with an evening reception and presentation of awards, Monday, Oct. 13, from seven until nine o'clock. Members and friends of Torana are invited to attend.

This exhibit will be judged by Victoria Kaufman, professor of Art at U.C. Irvine and Los Angeles County Museum of Art board member. The awards total $400 and the show is open to Torana members. New members may join the organization at the time of entering their work, which will be Wednesday, Oct. 8, from 10 a.m. until 4 p.m.

This gallery, donated by the Guggenheim Foundation and called Chapman College Guggenheim Art Gallery, will be open Mondays through Friday from one o'clock to five. The public is urged to visit and the admission is free.

An Endowment Fund Drive in memory of artist Roger Kuntz has been launched at the Laguna Beach Museum of Art with an initial donation from Mr. and Mrs. Donald Clarke.

When the fund reaches a sufficient amount, interest will be used for a perpetual award in the name of Kuntz at a selected competitive art exhibition to be held in the museum galleries.

Kuntz, a member of the museum board from 1967 to 1970 also served on the exhibition committee and was juror for numerous art shows. He was born in San Antonio, Texas in 1926 and passed away at his Laguna Beach home last month following a long illness.

Self-described as "striving for quality of strong abstract design concomittant with realistic treatment of motifs," Kuntz established a reputation as painter, sculptor and teacher. He was graduated from Pomona College and received his masters at Claremont Graduate School. He worked under a Guggenheim Fellowship in the mid 50s, was holder of various scholarships and numerous awards and taught at several institutions including Claremont, Los Angeles Art Institute, Scripps College and the Laguna Beach School of Art.

Donations to the Roger Kuntz Memorial Fund may be sent to the Laguna Beach Museum of Art, 307 Cliff Drive, Laguna Beach 92651. Contributions are tax deductible.

CHALLIS GALLERIES — Current show presents works of B. Sanford Day and Lenore Sherman. The exhibit will run through October. Gallery, 1390 S. coast Highway, Laguna Beach.

LA HABRA ART GALLERY — 215 N. Orange, hours, 2-4 p.m. Tuesday-Saturday. Membership show through Oct. 30.

NEWPORT BEACH CIVIC GALLERY — City Hall, 3300 Newport Blvd., hours 8-5, Monday-Friday. City employes art show through Oct. 31. Also works by Alma Cunningham.

THE ORANGERIE — 1492 S. Coast Highway, Laguna Beach. Hours 10-5:30, daily. Recent works by Irene Spencer and Alvar.

ORANGE COUNTY ART ASSOCIATION — Recent painting by Larry Davis. Exhibit at Fullerton Library, 333 W. Commonwealth, Fullerton, through Oct. 30.

BOWERS MUSEUM — 2002 N. Main St., Santa Ana, hours daily except Monday. Works of Jane Ullman, sculptress, Oct. 11-Nov. 30. Show contains about 90 pieces of art plus related sketches. A reception for Mrs. Ullman will be held for museum members and guests Oct. 10 at 7 p.m.

VORPAL GALLERY — 326 Glenneyre, Laguna Beach. Works by Jesse Allen, M.C. Escher, Micheal Bowen and Gary Smith. Hours: 11-6 Tues-Thurs, 11-8 Fri-Sun. Gallery closed Monday.

The Hirschhorn Museum and Sculpture Garden announces plans for a Bicentennial exhibition which will focus on the significant contributions to American art of the artist-immigrants who came to this land during the past 100 years.

Tentatively titled "Artist-Immigrants of America: 1876-1976" the exhibition's two-fold purpose is to assess both the impact of the foreign-born artist on American art and the influence of American culture on his or her work.

Organized by Cynthia Jaffee McCabe, Curator, assisted by members of the Museum's Department of Painting and Sculpture, the exhibition will open May 20, 1976 and continue through Oct. 20, 1976.

The first exhibition of paintings by Los Angeles area artist Connor Everts in more than a decade is currently on display in the University of Southern California Art Galleries, 823 Exposition Blvd., Los Angeles.

The Everts paintings will be on view and open to the public through Oct. 12. Gallery hours are 12 noon to 5 p.m. weekdays.

"Everts' return to painting from the less sensuous and less physically demanding media of printmaking, drawing, and collage was a personal celebration," according to USC Galleries Director Donald Brewer. "Accordingly, he has entitled this new group of paintmaking the 'Sursum Corda Series,' derived from the initial passage of the mass and which literally means 'Lift up your hearts'."

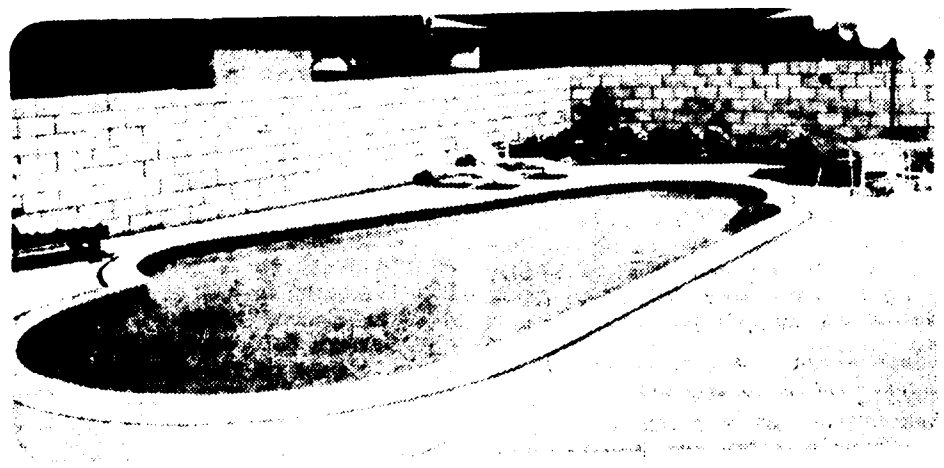

The American Art Council of the Los Angeles County Museum of Art will sponsor a seminar on "Western Scene: Nineteenth Century Art West of the Mississippi" from Oct. 17 to 19 in the museum's Leo S. Bing Theater.

Sessions will deal with the development and general significance of Western art as well as the problems of conservation and collecting. Such specialized topics as copyrights and protection against forgeries will be examined in a series of panel discussions.

The American Art Council has organized the seminar in recognition of the increased interest during the past few years in paintings of Western subject matter and the potential benefits of assembling scholars, serious students, collectors and dealers to share their knowledge in the field.

Among the scholars who will head the sessions are Dr. E. Maurice Bloch, director and curator of the Grunwald Center for Graphic Arts and professor of Art History at the University of California, Los Angeles, who will speak on the "Significance of Western Art," and Dr. Carl Dentzel, director of the Southwest Museum in Highland Park, who will lecture on early artists in the West.

This heated pool cost less than $5250!

No wonder Anthony is "Number One"!

Can the Number One pool company give you more for your money?

What does it take to build a quality pool, to offer warranties and future service – and to build at a lower price?

It takes a volume builder; it takes financial resources; it takes a company that will be around for the life of your pool!

Take a look at Anthony's record.

Over the last 29 years more homeowners – when they compared quality, pool design, equipment, future service – and price – have chosen Anthony Pools. Here's an example:

Heated pool in less than 30 days for less than $5250!

This pool was built for a family in San Gabriel this summer.* It is 16' x 31', 3' to 8' deep with 360 sq. ft. of water area. Pool is on a level lot with adequate access and includes an Anthony Citadel, 270,000 BTU heater, tile, coping, white plaster, underwater light, steps in shallow end, love seat, 32 sq. ft. stainless steel filter, 1 h.p. pump and two-circuit time clock.

The homeowners arranged for the gas and electrical hookup and the decking – which are excluded in the above price.

Would your pool cost the same?

It depends on your yard and the features you select. But you should not build a pool without seeing what the world's largest pool builder offers. Anthony could give you a better pool, assurance of future service, and save you money! Financing is available.

The $500 Answer.

Right now we are giving discounts on pools and pool accessories that could save you as much as $500. But you must call at once.

ON THE GO
---With Doris Crandall

By DORIS CRANDALL

Dinner and dancing at the HOLIDAY INN - BUENA PARK was a delight. The location is Beach Boulevard (Hwy. 39) at the Riverside Freeway.

The two level Lion Supper Club is low keyed and decorously country Mediterranean with warm colors, lots of greenery, large booths. . .The ambiance is friendly elegance.

Dinner began with delicious and unusual appetizers, avocado Romanoff (tender, firm but ripe avocado filled with chive blended sour cream and topped with caviar); crab maxium, (served on a plank, topped with a cheese-wine sauce, and garnished with carrot curls and Duchess potatoes.) Both were delicious. Next came a large crisp salad mixed with an excellent green Goddess honey dressing accompanied by a loaf of hot bread and a carafe of Mondavi rose.

My entree was pepper steak au chutney; Two choice medallions of beef filet were prepared East Indian style crusted with crushed peppercorns , chutney and wine creating a robust yet slightly sweet taste. I liked it! My escort greatly enjoyed his prime rib, tender, succulent and full of flavor, accompanied by a freshly baked potato and stuffed tomato.

The menu, though not large (11 entrees) offers a varied selection appealing to most appetites. The prime rib is served two styles. There is also rack of lamb, a mixed grill combines petite filet, calves liver and New Zealand lamb chops prepared European style.

Chef Fred Wheeland also prepares a special daily. Each day is something different, such as teriyaki, stuffed Rocky Mountain trout, shrimp creole, seafood curry on rice, and stuffed pork chops.

The desserts are also very enticing, eclairs, delectible pastries, fruit tarts all baked fresh daily.

Dinner is served nightly from 5 until 10 p.m. week days and until 11 p.m. on Friday and Saturdays. Prices run from $4.95. All dinners include potage of the day or a house salad with the Green Goddess honey dressing, fresh vegetables, a choice of baked potato, rice pilaff or country style potatoes.

After dinner we moved into the attractive little Eagle Lounge for dancing and entertainment by a refreshing young trio. Charming to look at as well as to listen to "Encore" appears nightly Tuesday through Saturday. Doreen on the organ, Nancy on the guitar and lead vocal, Danny Wilson on the drums. They all sing and have a friendly appeal — everything from the contemporary, the top 40's, country folk and even a few oldies from the 40's and 50's including a

Earl Scruggs Branches Out With Music Revue

By JAMES CARRIER

WILLIMANTIC, Conn. — Thirty years after his rolling, syncopated banjo established the standard against which all future banjo players would be measured, and defined a form of music that didn't yet have a name, Earl Scruggs is no longer "into" blue grass music.

At 52, Scruggs is the Godfather of the Scruggs Revue, a six-piece boogie-blues blue grass group seen more often in rock clubs and on college campuses than at blue grass festivals.

At its center stands Earl, his black hair still slicked back, but now tickling his shoulders. White doves and peace symbols climb his bright blue banjo strap.

Below the tailpiece of his banjo, a small wire emerges and falls to the floor, trailing off to a bank of amplifiers behind him. It is this connection, the electric plug, that symbolizes the new Scruggs sound and the sparks it has set among many of his old fans.

In the 1940s, Scruggs refined and made popular a three-finger style of picking that now bears his name. When he joined Bill Monroe's band, the Blue Grass Boys, the new banjo style became the key element in the sound later known as blue grass.

Most blue grass bands still use the instruments Monroe assembled: acoustic guitar, mandolin, fiddle, banjo and string bass. And traditionalists think it should stay that way.

But following the 1969 breakup with Lester Flatt, Scruggs formed a band with his three sons, using electric guitars, drums and piano. The idea originated nine years earlier, during rehearsals for a TV concert when Scruggs jammed with a fellow guest King Curtis, the late blues saxophonist.

"I saw where the banjo was more versatile than just straight blue grass, and it sounded so good to me until I just

Oscar Has Permanent Home

By BOB THOMAS

LOS ANGELES — Oscar, the 48-year-old golden boy, now has a home befitting his celebrated glamor.

It is a glistening seven-story glass tower on Wilshire Boulevard in Beverly Hills. The fifth location of the Academy of Motion Picture Arts and Sciences, the $4.2-million building at last brings all the academy's operations under one roof.

This month the academy staff completed the move from the old headquarters in West Hollywood. A one-time neighborhood movie house, it had been Oscar's home since 1946 (from 1927 to 1946 the academy had occupied three different locations in buildings on Hollywood Blvd.).

The Melrose diggings were cramped and musty, and the staff was delighted to escape.

The formal dedication is due next month, when workmen complete the final touches.

On a recent day Walter Mirisch, recently re-elected president of the academy, gave a newsman a preview tour of the new building.

Mirisch, the sunny, ebullient producer of "In The Heat of The Night," "Hawaii" and "Midway," was as proud as a boy with his first hot rod. Indeed, the building is the realization of a longtime dream for him and other leaders of the academy.

"We started thinking about a new place for the academy 10 or 12 years ago," he explained. "A lot of surveys were made as to the needs of such a building and its location. Also financing.

"Finally we reached the point a couple of years ago when we had $2-1/2 million built up, largely from income for the awards ceremony. Then we were ready to make our move."

The location was a major problem. A site was offered in the huge new project of Century City.

"We finally turned that down because we didn't want the academy to be swallowed up in a large complex," said Mirisch.

"We were also offered a location at Universal Studios, at the far end of the lot. But the governors wanted the Academy to have a place of its own, to be a single component."

Finally a lot was located at the corner of Wilshire and Almont in Beverly Hills. Architect Maxwell Starkman designed a building of bronze-tinted glass and masonry walls.

Mirisch began his tour on the main floor, where the large, thickly carpeted entrance will be converted for cocktail and dinner parties to accompany previews.

Bar facilities are ample, a boon to previewers attending the newest bomb.

Guests will proceed up a wide staircase to the Samuel Goldwyn theater.

"The theater holds 1,111 people and is equipped for everything — quadraphonic sound, 70mm films, Sensurround — as well as any new development that is likely to come along," said Mirisch.

"Those sails and baffles on the ceiling and walls will give us the best possible acoustics." They were designed by Paul Veneklasen, who helped cure the wretched sound of Lincoln Center in New York and has devised acoustics for the Los Angeles Music Center and the Saratoga (N.Y.) Performing Arts Center.

Mirisch continued the tour through the seventh-floor executive offices, where the governors will have their own board room; they met around the library table in the old building.

The Players Director occupies another floor. It is a money-making enterprise that provides casting offices with actors' photos and agents.

The academy's library, the world's best collection of film lore, finally has adequate facilities. The library offers free service to scholars and authors.

Oscar's new home will have its formal dedication in October, with tours for VIP's and a preview of the academy's forthcoming ABC TV special, "Oscar's Greatest Musical Moments."

Train Rentals Available In West Germany

By NOEL ANTHONY

PARIS — Sixty-five-year-old West German Helmut Berling of Bonn, a hemophiliac—a man who can bleed to death from a cut - found suddenly he had to face up to a shock: He had never lost a tooth in his life and then was told he had to have them all out.

Quite a job when you're a hemophiliac. During over a month in the hospital, specialists extracted one tooth a day to minimize danger. Even so, he had 458 blood transfusions.

Now Helmut is out and about again - with a sparkling set of dentures. And the bill of course: about $60,000.

Train For Hire

Time was when the well-heeled American could summon his private train as easily as an automobile at least that's what we Europeans have learned from the movies.

Well, in West Germany vacationers can now use the "Royal" train if they wish. In other words, the special railway carriage made for Chancellor Helmut Schmidt, who prefers planes. The train is for rent.

There's a basic charge of $100 to take the carriage from its Cologne base to the start of the journey, then all you add is the cost of 20 first-class tickets, even if you travel alone - alone except for two butlers, in a carriage which has two saloons, four beds, a shower, kitchen and TV.

Looking For A Plot

Despite the gun battles raging in Portugal, there have been a few tourists at the coast resort of Estoril, long the haunt of ex-kings. Including one who has made a knack of vacationing in trouble spots and then turning the experience into a good story: Graham Greene.

Remember Green's novels about Vietnam and the Congo? Well, he went to them on vacation, too. At just the right time. Now he's spending weeks searching for a plot for a new novel.

The ingredients are there. The all-but war in Portugal is right up Greene's street with generals, Communists, Catholics all fighting for supremacy.

INCIDENTAL INTELLIGENCE

— The high price of Swiss francs has ruined this year's tourist trade, says the Zurich magazine "Blick" which quotes a local waiter as moaning, "It's such a terrible situation we can't afford to keep customers waiting. Why we can't even be rude to them anymore."

— More than a million crimes out of 1.7 million remained unsolved in Italy last year, according to official statistics.

— Half-French, half-English whiz-kid Jimmy Goldsmith of Paris, who owns a quarter of the Eiffel Tower and is worth $70 million at 46 wants to buy a daily newspaper. And lose everything?

— West German motorist Johannes Reeder smashed his Mercedes automobile beyond repair while vacationing in Yugoslavia, is claiming $180,000 its value, from his insurance company. Too much? Well, it once belonged to Dr. Geobbels, Nazi propaganda minister.

QUOTES OF THE WEEK

— "I never walked out of the room when Jack Benny played the violin. He never walked out of the room when I sang. That's real friendship." — GEORGE BURNS, during his European tour.

—"I'm in love. Ursula Andress is not a butterfly. She is a full, rounded, intelligent person. — MARCELLO MASTROIANNI who said roughly the same about Catherine Deneuve and Faye Dunnaway.

couldn't get it off my mind," Scruggs said in an interview.

Jamming his Nashville home with combos put together by his three boys, Randy, Gary and Steve, the youngest at 17, Scruggs said even the old tunes sounded better to him with a heavy beat behind them.

"I remember back in the old days, when groups didn't even carry a bass fiddle. But the guitar player would take the deepest guitar and put out the fullest, deepest, bassiest sound for his vocal. And also they would stomp their feet quite a lot to add a beat to the group. So I thought that a good drummer and a set of drums would make a much better sound than a group of people pickin' and stompin' their feet against the floor," he said.

"I didn't know how it would work, but it sounded too good not to try it. I just needed something to stimulate my feelings," said Scruggs who felt bored and unhappy after 20 years of playing the same music with Flatt.

"I feel I'm pickin' a better banjo now than I ever did," said Scruggs. "I feel I'm doing a better job than I would be if I was playing back with Flatt because I wasn't mentally into it. Therefore I just got to where I was not playing as good. . .I just got tired of playing the same routine.

"I just don't think you can stay with the same songs all your life without going along with the times. You've got to keep working on your material, doing them different ways or you just get out of the ball game, that's all."

The Scruggs Revue plays tunes as varied as the fiddle tune "Old Hen She Cackled" or the blues "Be my Woman Tonight." And while many of his numbers are old blue grass standards, his contracts with promoters specifically forbid them from using the term "blue grass" in advertising.

"It got to the point where a lot of buyers thought blue grass was what was making the group so hot," said Scruggs. "And we're not playing blue grass, full blue grass music. . .We were drawing some people who thought that we were still playing the same stuff that they heard me do 15 years ago."

If Scruggs has lost fans he has gained thousands more, esepcially among the young. Last year Scruggs grossed more than any year in his show business career.

SEASON UPON AVON — Alan Howard, right, plays Prince Hal in this scene with Emrys James as Henry IV in Royal Shakespeare Company's production of "Henry IV" at Stratford-upon-Avon.

All's Well With Bard; Money Trouble Lurks

By WILLIAM GLOVER

STRATFORD-UPON-AVON, England — All's well at this drama shrine, perhaps.

"We are having a very healthy response this season from an audience point of view," says William Wilkinson, financial controller of the Royal Shakespeare Company.

"But we are continually apprrehensive because of the economic situation," he adds, stressing the delicate balance between culture and costs.

For tourist hordes, arriving in virtually undiminished numbers despite fall-off elsewhere, there are some signs in the playbill of wary budgeting.

Four of the bard's works are being performed, instead of the five or six of recent years. Costuming remains elaborate, but a utility set serves in place of ornate decor.

For the first time in recall, staging of the entire repertory has been assigned to one man. He is slim, dark, intense Terry Hands, who gave up prize-winning prospects as an actor to tell others how best to perform. His unifying stamp is clearly evident.

Hands obviously has orchestrated his array of plays to offer surefire appeal to sundry tastes - regal pageantry, acrobatic dexterity and vaudeville slapstick, together, a provocative exhibit of company versatility.

The plays are not uniformly successful. Most evident is avoidance of celebrity performers, though several actors seem sure candidates for stardom.

Among them are Alan Howard, ranging from dissolute princeling to warrior king through the two parts of "Henry IV" and into "Henry V." Stuart Wilson, a rambunctiously virile Hotspur, and, though less consistent, mountainous Brewster Mason, Hal's rougish companion knight through the saga of "Henry IV' and "The Merry Wives of Windsor," which rounds out the repertory.

The most memorable productions are the initial "Henry IV", which portrays the bloodier aspects of medieval power politics, and "Henry V," distinguished by spectacular battle scenes in which gymnastic thespians incredibly run up a perpendicular, 15-foot-high barricade - the liveliest, Royal Shakespeare Company athletics since Peter Brook's "Midsummer Night's Dream."

The nine-month Stratford season runs until Dec. 20, and until then controller Wilkinson will be keeping a wary eye on his computer.

Summer attendance remained at about 92 per cent, up from last year. The fall and winter average must remain at about 85 per cent, with English buffs hopefully replacing the diminishing ranks of foreign visitors.

The inflation - recession cycle has intensified problems for the Royal Shakespeare Company, which has an annual operating budget of $4.4 million covering both Stratford and the company's London installation at the Aldwych Theater. Of this, the National Arts Council contributes $1.4 million, and virtually all the balance must come from box-office.

This centenary season - an anniversary pegged to the fact that regular annual presentations began here in 1875 - has actually beeen possible only through the somewhat reluctant cooperation of the civic councils of the borough and district, which incidentally provide not a penny toward the community's chief industry.

Municipal authority decided in 1973 that the memorial theater needed new heating and ventilation equipment, and gave the Royal Shakespeare Company one year to comply or close. A centenary appeal fund to raise $2.2 million for structural maintenance was launched. Enough was raised to obtain a one-year extension on operations.

The theater probably will close for five weeks next March for repairs. But the campaign for the rest of the fund will continue on an international scale.

"That money is to be kept in a legally separate trust corporation, so that future building improvements can be carried through without another crisis," a Royal Shakespeare aide explains.

To save money, a workshop adjunct of the Aulwych has been discontinued. A similar test center continues here in Stratford. Instead of rotating repertory in the London showcase, plays are now simply being put on for four-week runs in sequence.

Up ahead, Royal Shakespeare is contemplating another visit to the United States; a follow up to last year's visit.

Peter Brook, Royal Shakespeare's most noted director, reportedly is ready to return from several years of creative contemplation in Paris with a production which probably will be booked into the lucrative West End theatrical environs.

The collaborative piece, entitled "The Ik" pronounced "eek" concerns the survival effort of an African tribe.

Evelyn Keyes Reminisces; To Publish Autobiography

By NANCY ANDERSON

HOLLYWOOD—It was sheerest coincidence that Evelyn Keyes, the singing-dancing actress who so beautifully portrayed Al Jolson's wife in "The Jolson Story," was in Los Angeles when Columbia Pictures re-released the film with a slambang opening in Beverly Hills.

Miss Keyes left Hollywood with every intention of staying away about 20 years ago, but a couple of months prior to the re-release of the Jolson biopic she'd returned to research a book she's writing.

"It's an autobiography," she explains, "and I had to come back to Hollywood to do research because I'd forgotten the street names.

"I drove out from Connecticut by myself, and the trip was so easy, I can't tell you! It was like driving from here to Pomona (a nearby suburb).

"This will be my third book. The first two were fiction, 'I Am A Billboard' and 'The Movie Fan.'

"But this time my publisher talked me into doing an autobiography in which I'm going to be as truthful as I can. I'm writing it like a novel, really, but it will be fact.

"Anyway, when I said I'd like to come back out here, because I'd forgotten what the place looked like, my publisher rented my house for me, kicked me out as it were, and I was on my way."

Miss Keyes' autobiography may be more exciting reading than her novels because her life has been replete with color and drama.

She'd had four husbands, among them Charles Vidor, John Huston and Artie Shaw, to whom she's still married though they've scarcely acknowledged the relationship for the last 10 years.

All these associations will be covered in her book, she promises, as well as her contacts with Errol Flynn, etc.

It's a wonder someone hasn't offered to pay Miss Keyes not to publish her memoirs, but she's surprised that anyone would even think of such a thing.

"Why should anybody want to do a thing like that?" she wonders. "In the first place, I am very fond of my ex-husbands; though that doesn't mean I'm blind where they're concerned.

"God knows they have faults, as do I. But I like them. I feel kindly toward them.

JOSE LOOKS TO THE LONG TERM
Feliciano Stresses Talent, Not Blindness

Multi-Talented Feliciano Turns To Films, Ballads

By MARY CAMPBELL

Jose Feliciano, blind since birth, has an idea that would make life easier for blind persons and he has proposed it to the U.S. Mint. Why not make paper money with Braille-like bumps, different numbers of bumps for different denominations, no bumps for $1 bills. Coins are easily handled by a blind person now, he says, since sizes are different.

But other than mentioning that he tries to let blind persons know that they can learn to ski, Feliciano doesn't stress blindness. Neither does he stress being born in Puerto Rico in this time when it's fashionable to be ethnic. "I'm very proud being Puerto Rican," he says. "I'm American. That is what America is made of — people from different lands."

Feliciano was born in the rural town of Lorez, Puerto Rico, second child in the family of 10 boys. His father moved the family to Spanish Harlem in New York when Jose was 5. Spanish was his first language, English his second and he makes records in both. He also "dabbles" in Italian, doing well enough to sing at the San Remo Festival in 1971; the song he sang placed second.

He's the only musical one, starting with ukulele at 8 and moving to guitar at 9. "I played it at home and in the hallway because it had good acoustics and in assemblies at school. One teacher used to say she liked listening to me because I sounded like a man.

"At 15 I found I could sing controlled. I never knew whether I'd make it as a star but I always wanted to be a celebrity. To be on TV like Bob Hope was.

"I've accomplished a lot of my goals but there is still a lot to go. I want an Oscar for music and an Emmy for TV music. I wrote the theme for 'Chico and the Man' on TV. It was really nice to get nominated for an Emmy for it. Next time I write something for TV I'd like to win."

Feliciano says that he thought of the circumstances of a Latin in a strange country when he wrote the "Chico" theme. He currently is scoring the movie, "Aaron Loves Angela."

"I want to have a reputation of a Sinatra musically — that's what I'd like to have — in terms of longevity and versatility. He made it big in 1943. I'd like to see three decades go by and people will remember what I did and I'd still be good."

Three of Feliciano's LPs have gone gold, "Feliciano!", "Feliciano 10 to 23" and "Alive Alive-o." He has two Grammy Awards, as best new recording artist of 1968 and for best male contemporary vocal performance, with "Light My Fire," the same year. Asked whether he concentrates on guitar playing — he plays classical as well as pop — or singing, Feliciano says, "I concentrate on both."

He was signed by RCA in 1964 and his albums have been on that label, from "The Voice and Guitar of Jose Feliciano" to the newest one, "Just Wanna Rock 'n' Roll," and including "Feliciano!" in 1968, which included "Light My Fire" and "California Dreamin'." Eight of the albums are in Spanish.

Feliciano travels a great deal, performing. He spent his 30th birthday, Sept. 10, in Australia. "Two years ago we went to 23 different countries in one year. In Czechoslovakia they didn't let us off the stage for half an hour, with their clapping. They knew the songs. That's what separates me from hot rock artists making it in America right now. They're not international."

He used to travel with a guide dog, Feliciano says, but he traveled so much it wasn't healthy for the dog so the dog stays at his home now, in Orange County in Southern California. He also has three horses there and enjoys riding.

Feliciano is married and so are three of his brothers. The other brothers are still available for "girls that couldn't get me." Feliciano is much given to little jokes and quick puns, sometimes drawing groans from friends whose conversation is interrupted by a play on words.

His father died three years ago and his mother lives again in Puerto Rico.

Thinking over the albums he has made, Feliciano mentions "For My Love...Mother Music," "Memphis Menu" and "Fantastic Feliciano," which has a

BOOK REVIEWS

By ROBERT BETTS

THE UNHOLY ALLIANCE; by C. Gregg Singer; Arlington House; N.Y.; 304 pages; $11.95.

Increasingly the National Council of Churches has had to defend itself against charges that it is more interested in promoting liberalism than in saving souls.

In this latest attack, historian C. Gregg Singer marshals the most formidable body of evidence yet assembled to show the council's growing intrusion into the political life of the nation and its espousal of leftist causes.

He traces the ecumenical movement in America from its 19th Century roots and details the development of the Federal Council of Churches, the NCC's predecessor, into "an ecclesiastical pressure group in national political, social and economic affairs."
affairs."

When the FCC crumbled under a barrage of criticism that it had become a platform for the programs of secular humanists and leftists, the NCC picked up the same torch, Dr. Singer says.

The NCC was constituted on Nov. 29, 1950. Its initial statements, "however biblical they may seem at first glance," Dr. Singer states, "we're actually revolutionary in character; without question, the council was prepared to enter into the economic, political and social conflicts of the day with an organized power and influence not possible under the old federal council.

"And it would do so under the impetus of a theology more liberal than that to which its predecessor had occasionally pledged allegiance. The national council thus assumed a position generally in harmony with that held by the political parties in this country that represented the Socialist and the Communist positions."

He documents radical causes that the NCC has supported, charging that "in many official pronouncements in regard to war, subversion, race, industry, labor and related issues, its positions all too frequently parallel the official platforms of the Communist Party in this country."

To a layman, the NCC's policies and actions may seem well-intentioned. A Christian, for instance, might not find anything wrong with this statement from its inaugural address:

"The council stands for liberty with the richest content.

"It stands for the freedom of men to be as the Lord God meant them to be. It stands for Christian freedom — including the freedom to pursue happiness with justice and to create conditions of happiness for others."

Dr. Singer, however, believes that the council gravely distorts the biblical doctrine of freedom and attempts to interpret the Scriptures in the light and in support of the humanistic doctrine of freedom. e writes of "a subtle shift of thinking from a biblical frame of reference to a democratic concept of God, man and society, a concept that transferred the sovereignty of God to man himself or to such agencies as he might erect to exercise it for him."

He describes the council's declaration of all-out war against poverty in America as "a thoroughly Marxian approach to the interpretation of history and an invitation to revolution by the poverty-stricken, whose plight was society's fault anyway. Thus society must be reconstructed to abolish poverty and the church must take part. Nowhere did this document leave any room for individual responsibility for the conditions of poverty and disease. Human sin was brushed aside as being unworthy of serious consideration."

Despite his accusation that there is a close relationship between communism and the national council — naming Communist Party members and leaders with Communist-front affiliations — Dr. Singer does not claim to find a sinister conspiracy.

Rather, he quotes a former Communist Party member, Bella Dodd, who told the subcommittee of the Senate Committee on the Judiciary:

"It is this desire to do the right thing that has entangled more people into the Communist movement — this desire to serve mankind, this desire to help make a better world. Those are the slogans which they (the Communists) preach, and it is only after you are in it up to your neck that you discover that this isn't what it is." CNS

OC Society Publishes New Record

FOR KING OR COUNTRY, by Orange County California Genealogical Society, 344 pages, $12.50.

For a genealogical society what could be more appropriate in a bicentennial year than a publication of ancestry related to the War for American Independence.

That is the precise accomplishment of the Orange County Genealogical Society. Primarily, it is a typical listing of "begats" under family-connected names of present-day Orange County residents. The mentions are thoroughly indexed.

No narrative contrives to string the several accounts together. Instead they are merely recorded for the sake of a record. And yet a kind of synthesis evolves that engages the reader's imagination — the forging of a nation from many nationalities, the Americanization of names, the large families, the frequent moves, in some instances the early deaths that left a widow and a household of progeny to struggle on.

The book will be of interest not only to the casual reader, but to any with a genealogical yen. In it, by the odds, he will discover familiar names. Moreover, he will find references to obscure records that will prove helpful in his own searches.

Volume I is available from Orange County California Genealogical Society, P.O. Box 1587, Orange, Calif. 92668. A second volume is being prepared.

Bailey Writes

FOR THE DEFENSE; by F. Lee Bailey, with John Grenya; Atheneum; 367 pages, $10.95. The author, as most people know, is a famous criminal lawyer; the ghost-writer is a newsman-author. This book actually is a continuation of Bailey's first effort, "The Defense Never Rests." The new volume seems to say that the lawyer has a highly favorable opinion of himself and that one of his favorite cases was that of Capt. Ernest Medina, acquitted of any illegal role in the My Lai massacre that found Lt. William Calley the lone military man convicted. Bailey also covers the many trials in which he did yeoman work for all kinds of criminals.

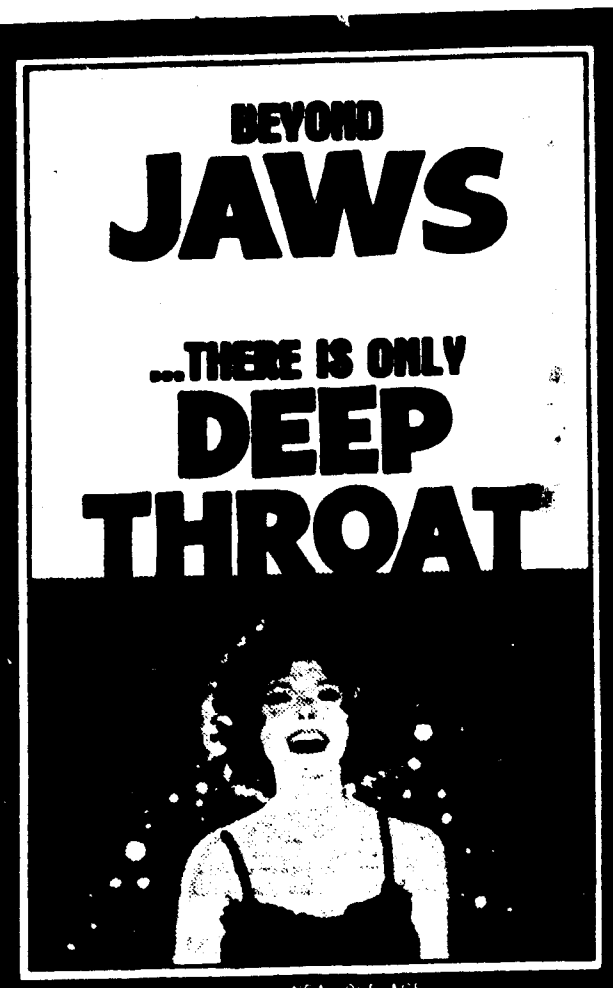

And, he admits that many observers have often thought — "As lawyers we knew all too well that the sides in any trial do not always conduct themselves in a manner that the man on the street would call fair." (JP)

ALL ABOUT AUCTIONS; by Linda Hewitt; Chilton Book Co.; 208 pages; $7.95 (hard-cover), $3.95 (paperback). This is a guide for auction-goers, with a barrelful of tips on how to get what you auction. It's not for the wealthy buff who must push on no matter how high the bids go, but for everyday folks who go to auctions of the common garden variety. You might save some money — and some disappointments — if you take heed of what Mrs. Hewitt writes. (FM)

Evelyn Keyes

"So even when I report dastardly deeds I try to do it. . .well, I've been in analysis and I try to tell the story as though I were in a doctor's office, with as much freedom and openness as though I were talking there."

Does she have an advance for her book?

"You bet," Miss Keyes says with enthusiasm.

Miss Keyes, a native of Texas, reared in Atlanta, came to Hollywood as scarcely more than a child and was put under contract by Cecil B. DeMille.

"I was a teen-age child right out of Atlanta, and God signed me to a contract," she recalls.

"I thought DeMille was God.

"I realized later that he was a tyrant, but that was after I got away and realized what I'd seen.

"His son-in-law used to carry a tall stool like a barstool around right behind DeMille.

"He'd carry that stool all day so that DeMille could sit down without even looking.

"I thought he was God and he thought he was, too.

"But when I came to Hollywood, his was the only name I knew."

Later Miss Keyes was under contract to Harry Cohn at Columbia, an experience she says she was able to survive only "because I'm a survivor. I can survive anybody."

It was under his aegis that she appeared in "The Jolson Story," much to the real Jolson's delight.

Miss Keyes left Hollywood for Europe in 1952 or '53. The exact date escapes her.

She lived in Paris and London and made pictures on the continent.

"But," she speculates, "I don't think there's any great place where I'd like to live forever after. London, I suppose, comes closest.

"Artie and I built a house in Spain and lived there five years, but he always wanted to get out.

"He kept saying, 'This government can change at any minute and the laws can change and they can take this house.'

"And he was right. When Franco dies I don't know what will happen."

Miss Keyes recently starred in "No, No, Nanette" and says she'd enjoy acting from time to time.

"I like to act. I'd like to do a televison series, but what I want to do most is write the rest of my life.

"I wish I'd started writing much sooner."

Feliciano's Career Turns Up, Onward

lot of romantic ballads, as ones he especially likes.

"I really like ballads. I think the women need a balladeer right now. I think I could fill that role. A lot of times ballads will not get you too much radio play because they're too light. A company is apt to push an up-tempo record more than a ballad.

ASK DICK KLEINER

Super Shark

By DICK KLEINER

DEAR DICK: In the movie, "Jaws," how big is the mechanical shark (size, weight)? ERIC CRAGIN, Oneida, N.Y.

Bruce, as the "Jaws" folks called their mechanical contraption, was a one-ton, 25-foot long gizmo. It required a 12-ton platform, sunk some 12 feet beneath the surface of the ocean, and a crew of 15 to make it work.

DEAR DICK: My mom, sister and I have been puzzled about what the initials S.W.A.T. stand for. M. GLASIER, Lethbridge, Alta., Can.

Puzzle no more. S.W.A.T. are the initials and have become the acronym, for Special Weapons And Tactics, a police department section in Los Angeles and some other large cities charged with control of hostage stuations.

DEAR DICK: Could you please tell me who was the man on The $64,000 Question? I believe you'd call him the "host." He was the man that asked the questions. Also, did Mogen David wine sponsor the show? MRS. J.H., Pittsville, Wis.

The late Hal March was the master of ceremonies, or host, or whatever, on that newsmaking quiz show. For most of its run, Revlon was the sponsor.

DEAR DICK: I was just wondering if that lady of the Folger's coffee commercial, Mrs. Olsen, is Susan Olsen's mom because they both have the same last name. DENNIS CAPOBIANCO, Jeffersonville, Pa.

Mrs. Olsen isn't really Mrs. Olsen. That's just the name of the part she's playing. Her real name is Virginia Christine, so it's obvious she can't be Susan Olsen's mom, unless Susan Olsen is playing a part, too.

DEAR DICK: I see that there is going to be a TV movie on soon called "Gable and Lombard." What I want to know is this: do they dare keep Miss Lombard's spicy language in or are they going to leave it out? CARLA ZIMMERMAN, Kinston, N.C.

In the first place, the "Gable and Lombard" movie isn't a TV movie, it's a regular movie for theaters. So what you call Carole Lombard's "spicy" language will probably be retained. In the second place, what was considered "spicy" in Carole's day would probably be pretty mild today.

DEAR DICK: Could you tell me if Robert York, the star of the 1975 TV movie, "The Specialists," and Robert Urich of S.W.A.T. are the same person. They look like twins. Also, could you please tell me how old Dick Powell and Debbie Reynolds were when they made the '54 movie, "Susan Slept Here." MRS. A.A. ANDERSON, Steubenville, O.

Yes, Robert Urich changed his name for that one film, then changed it back again. As to your second question, Debbie was a slip of a girl, just 22, and Dick was 50 when they made "Susan Slept Here."

DEAR DICK: Will you please tell me if Gail Russell was the girl in the movie, "Wake of the Red Witch." ROSE BUSH, Mobile, Ala.

Yes, she was the leading lady of that '49 rouser.

DEAR DICK: I was wondering how come they took the series, Movin' On, off TV? Also how come they don't have any more western shows, like Big Valley and The Virginian? EILEEN JO JUHASZ, Del Bonita, Alta., Can.

Movin' On isn't off network TV, but it's possible it has been dropped by your local station. About westerns, TV fare runs in cycles. For a while, westerns were hot. Just now, they're cold.

As an adjunct to OCTA, an advisory council, including George MacCall, Lambert and Ken Smith (Stan Smith's father), was appointed to use its vast and varied tennis experience toward providing ideas for the new organization.

World Team Tennis President Larry King and International Track Assn. star Henry Hines topped the list of speakers at the United States Tennis Academy held at Vic Braden's complex last week. The academy is a 5-day credentialing program designed specifically for tennis teaching professionals.

Hines, who competed as a long jumper, high hurdler triple jumper for USC before becoming a top money winner on the ITA circuit, has been working with top touring professionals such as Arthur Ashe, Roscoe Tanner, Valerie Ziegenfuss and others. He has helped them learn better control of feet and leg muscles which improved their lateral movement and overall quickness on the court.

Sunday Brunch in the Lion Supper Club is one of the finest in the area. You won't believe the fantastic display, truly Las Vegas, beautifully displayed. There is a bountiful selection of fresh fruits. There is also a marvelous selection of salads lovely to look at as well as to eat. The main entrees include an old fashioned (with the bone in) baked ham; rare flavorsome round of beef (well done if you wish); barbecued ribs, country link sausage, chicken livers, scrambled eggs and country fried potatoes. . .There are two kinds of homebaked muffins as well as pastries and tarts filled with fruit. There are also desserts, puddings, custards. . .champagne and hot coffee — all you want for $4.25. It is served every Sunday from 10 a.m. until 3 p.m. The brunch is under the able direction of Chef Mike Ammatta.

The Buena Park Holiday Inn is truly not the typical — it is very beautiful, warm and friendly with young concerned management. Dennis Saylor is the General Manager assisted by Food and Beverage Manager Rick Miller.

HANDWRITING

Her Family's Gone; She Has Regrets

By DOROTHY ST. JOHN JACKSON
Certified Master Gráphoanalyst

Dear Dorothy:

I'm a 40-year old divorced woman. I feel so lost. My daughter says she is going to join the hippie movement. My two teen-age boys have already left home and I don't know where they are. I know it's all my fault, but can you tell me why? I have so many regrets.

W.L.

Dear W.L.:

Regrets are mental termites. They can eat away your mind.

Your too-conservative nature, seen in your retraced and closely spaced letters, is your heritage. Growing up, you were taught to resist changes, to hold onto tradition. This is the pattern by which you live and by which you expect your children to live. Thus, you deprive them of their individuality. Forbid the miniskirt — expect the hippie garb.

Naturally your heart is weary, but succumbing to a chronic state of dejection, seen especially in ending of l, is something you'll have to crawl up and over. You have many needs to be fulfilled. Chief of these is your desire for some variety and change in your life, seen in the long narrow lower loops. Yet, in living a life of strict adherence, you tend to feel guilty if you move out of your already-established mode. This is indicated in the t crossed back to the left.

You must learn to balance your life a little.

Continue to appreciate the old, but take an objective look at the new. Try to strike a happy medium. Begin to untie the strings of restraint which have bound you so rigidly.

But remember that you are basically impulsive, seen in your forward slant, so loosen them slowly and carefully. Your emotions are strongly controlled so don't let these controls slip out from under you too fast, lest you barge through the barriers of change without thought and without a plan — and with more regrets.

Past mistakes are never so great that they can't be rectified, and they make wonderful steps to help you climb toward a wiser and richer tomorrow.

Moving to the suburbs is not unusual, Service goes a bit far, and we do mean far. The USPS says it will open a new branch post office for New York City — at the South Pole, Antarctica!

Mail service will be provided to the earth's most remote spot, the geographic South Pole, which is 800 nautical miles from the main U.S. station at McMurdo Sound in the Antarctic. The postmark applied will be: "S. Pole Br. New York, N.Y. 10090."

If collectors would like to obtain covers from this outpost, a dog sled drive away from Broadway and 42nd Street, they should address their envelopes to "Postmaster, New York, N.Y. 10001." The request should include an endorsement in the lower left corner "South Pole Postmark." The self-addressed and stamped envelopes which must accompany orders should carry U.S. postage of the appropriate basic first-class denomination.

Papua New Guinea has issued two new stamps to mark its casting off of colonial ties with Australia and its establishment as a free and independent nation. The lower value stamp with red background features Papua New Guinea in a map of the Southeast Asia area of countries plus the national flag. The higher value with blue background shows the official emblem and crest. The word "independence" appears at the bottom of each stamp. Prior to 1972, this country was known as Papua and New Guinea. A miniature sheet also has been issued for the occasion.

To honor the 62nd Inter Parliamentary Conference, Great Britain has issued a special 12-pence stamp. The gray, blue, black and gold adhesive depicts an aerial view of the House of Commons. A vignette of Queen Elizabeth appears in the upper right corner. Founded in 1889, the Inter Parliamentary Union is dedicated to the promotion of communication between members of Parliaments of all countries and to working for peace through international cooperation.

The British, proving they're good losers, have announced that they will issue a stamp next June to mark the Bicentennial of the U.S. Also on the stamp agenda for 1976 is a commemorative for the 100th anniversary of the telephone, invented by Edinburgh-born Alexander Graham Bell.

Individuals and groups in the U.S. are constantly requesting the Postal Service to issue stamps for their particular cause. Most of the requests have merit, but the U.S. has a limited list each year and thus, unfortunately, many stamp ideas are eliminated.

With the recent announcements that the U.S. will release a sheet of 50 state flags next year as part of the Bicentennial celebration, Cmdr. Robert W. Collins of Yazoo City, Miss., is pushing for a series of U.S. stamps portraying the 27 authorized U.S. flags.

The American Dance Guild is looking for postal recognition of its organization and is asking for a 1978 stamp to commemorate the 100th anniversary of Isadora Duncan's birth.

Your Pet's Health

By H.P. JANS, DVM

Q. I have a 6-year-old male, wirehaired fox terrier. For the last year he has had a condition involving both eyes. His eyes have a yellowish, watery drainage, the conjunctiva is red and swollen and there is a bluish-white haze covering the colored part of his eye. This haze appears more prominent after sleeping or at night. My veterinarian treated this condition with antibiotic ophthalmic drops and steroid injections. The condition returned so lately I've tried a weak solution of boric acid as an eye bath which helped some. I've read about a condition affecting dogs' eyes called "keratitis."

Is this my dog's problem? Any information will be appreciated. — S.D.L., Columbus, Ohio

A. First I would strongly recommend that you have your dog examined by a veterinary ophthalmologist or a veterinarian who does considerable work with eyes. Since you are not getting a complete lasting remission of symptoms, this may not be just a simple conjunctivitis or keratitis or combination of both. Keratitis is an inflammation of the cornea of the eye and is very serious. If left unattended it can lead to complete, irreversible blindness. Conjunctivitis, on the other hand, is not too serious. It is a reddening and inflammation of the conjunctiva and responds well to treatments such as those you mentioned. From your description, I would suspect keratitis sicca.

This is a condition where tear formation is impaired and the cornea dries out. Dogs with this problem have a pus-like ocular discharge and ground glass appearance to the cornea. In advanced cases, ulceration of the cornea does occur. Surgery is the treatment of choice with a transposition of the parotid salivary duct. The eye is then bathed by the salivary gland secretions and may function normally for some time. There are several other possible conditions that might be causing this problem and again the best way to establish a diagnosis would be via a veterinary ophthalmologist. I might suggest an excellent facility at the Veterinary College in Columbus, Ohio.

Q. Could you please tell me why my dog, a 3-year-old Lhasa Apso, keeps shedding all the time? I feed her a brand-name dog food and give her coat-toner food supplement.

Her skin is pink and she doesn't scratch or flake. Her hair is pretty and she has a shiny coat. I brush her daily. She spends time both in and outdoors. — L.Z., Grove City, Ohio

A. There are many reasons for shedding. Some dogs in certain climates and housing situations shed the year-round normally. If you feel that this is excessive and you groom her daily then you should consult a veterinarian and have tests made if it is indicated.

Do you have a particular question about your pet? Please write to Points On Pets, Copley News Service, in care of this newspaper.

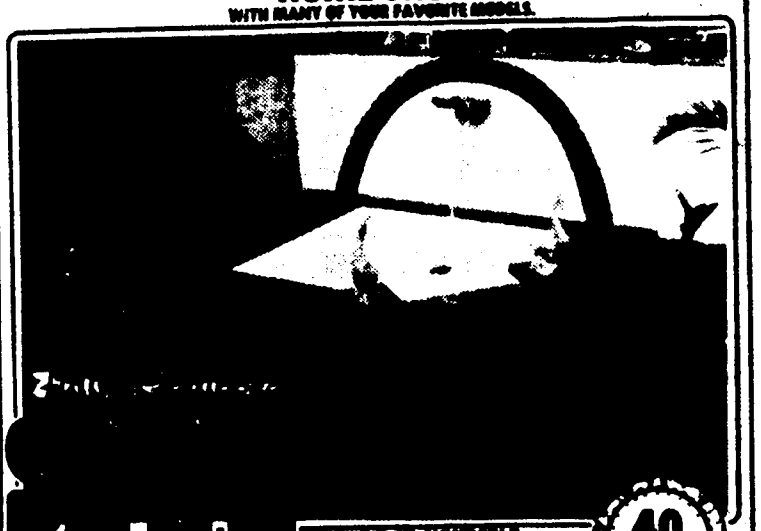

Scare Specialist Signs Picture Pact

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Veteran scare artist William Castle has signed a multiple picture contract with 20th Century-Fox, his first production to be "Noise."

Castle, producer of "Rosemary's Baby" and producer-director of "The Tingler," "Macabre," "Homocidal" and "Let's Kill Uncle," will make a series of films for Fox release.

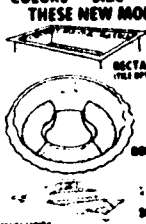

"Noise," based on the novel "The Dark Descends" by Diana Ramsay, is described as a "chilling urban horror story" that climaxes in "a bloody tale of terror."

Check Your Coins

By LEE MARTIN, NLG

Do you have any coins, paper money, medals or tokens that you would like to know the value of, and possibly, some information about the material? On Sunday, Oct. 12, a crew of experts, including some specialists in specific fields, will be manning a table at the Numismatic Council of Orange County's 8th annual coin show. There is no charge for this service, and I will also be there with an assortment of books, scales, counterfeit detector, etc. It's an annual service of the council and has proven to be popular in the past.

We do request that visitors to the show at the Quality Inn on Harbor Boulevard and Convention Way, Anaheim, try to limit the number of coins to less than a dozen. However, if time allows, we will probably be happy to price whatever is offered. Prices will be retail as indicated by pricing books. No grading of coins will be undertaken simply because this factor allows too much room for disagreement.

At the coin show there will be a large number of coin dealers willing to buy and sell material. In addition, you can count on some very special exhibits. The price of admission is only 50c., and you will receive a special stretched Roosevelt dime that you can retain as a souvenir. In the past, these coins have risen in value every year so that it literally pays everyone to attend because their admission ticket has become a good investment. The 1968 "ticket" now sells for $7.50.

Incidentally, you can order your tickets in advance (minimum of two please). Send a dollar, plus a stamped, self-addressed envelope to Claude Thomas, 919 West Pomona, Santa Ana, California 92707.

The annual show combines the abilities and involvement of all Orange County coin clubs, and proceeds are divided to benefit members. Information concerning most clubs will be available at the show. You may want to join a local one. The benefits are extensive.

Two local residents, Jim O'Connel and George Gaudino, are involved in producing philatelic numismatic covers. . .that's a special envelope with a stamp and coin or at least a design on the envelope and the numismatic material coinciding to honor specific event. Most covers have become expensive, but this duo now introduces budget covers with limited mintages.

Their first set includes three covers, each dedicated to a new Bicentennial coin. The half-dollar cover has a limited mintage of 100, was postmarked on July 7 and has the Independence Hall stamp. Its price is $3.50. The quarter cover, mintage 100, is postmarked August 18 (first day of issue of the coin) and has a drummer stamp. Two dollars per envelope represents a bargain. The third cover is dedicated to the new dollar. It's not available yet but when the dollar enters circulation, you will be able to buy this cover for $4.50. Finally, the first issue commemorates Mariner 10, the Unmanned Flight, and retails for $4.50. It carries a bronze medal with the same theme and has a limited mintage of 50.

Although I haven't seen any of the covers, I am certain the talented sponsors have produced exceptional items and the bargain prices herald a new involvement in PNC covers by the general public. It's old hat to say. . .Try it, you'll like it. . .but the truth is always current.

The material may be ordered from: Budget PNC's, P.O. Box 144, Midway City, California 92655.

Orange County continues to expand its image as the coin capitol of this country, and our 8th annual coin show will have many surprises — all pleasant for those who attend. The show is open October 11 and 12. Lots of free parking. Let's say hello!

Boston Pops Draws Well

LOS ANGELES — The first West Coast visit of Arthur Fiedler and the Boston Pops Orchestra has netted $350,000 for public television channel KCET.

The 80-year-old conductor led the famed orchestra in a concert recently and 2,000 paid $100 a ticket for the evening, which included a gala outdoor dinner at the foot of the new 42-story Theme Buildings of Century City. The Ford Foundation matched the event's net profits with equal funds.

The concert was taped under a $225,000 grant from Gulf Oil, and the program will be used by public channels across the country during their own fund drives in March 1976. — AP

Blacklist Cast Set

LOS ANGELES — Zero Mostel, whose own career suffered during the blacklist era of the 1950s, will portray a blacklisted comic in "The Front."

Mostel joins Woody Allen in the cast of the Columbia Pictures movie about Red-hunting in the entertainment industry. Martin Ritt, another blacklist victim, will produce and direct.

Camera Corner

By GILBERT HILL

Understanding what creates contrast in the photographic image, and the possible controls, is a major step toward making consistent, quality prints easy — and fun — to do.

Every photographer must, however, work out his own system of film selection, exposure and development techniques to fit a particular darkroom, and his own idea of what he wants to produce may be quite difficult to print in another because of such a simple thing as a difference in type of enlarger.

With the adoption of smaller cameras, with virtually every negative enlarged, the goal has been to produce as "thin" a negative as possible that will still have the snap and detail required for sometimes huge enlargements, without extremely long exposures with projected light.

These minimum exposure negatives with full development were generally used in "condenser-type" enlargers — designed with huge "condenser lenses" in the light path to make the light strike at right angles to the film. This is another source of additional contrast.

A diffusion enlarger, on the other hand, designed to produce a very soft, over-all type of light for exposing the negative in an enlarger to produce a print, works to reduce both grain and tiny imperfections, and, in recent years, has made a strong comeback for printing color negatives.

The photographer who happens to have a negative which is "too hard," or "too soft" — which means too much, or too little contrast — for his particular enlarger still isn't out of the game, however, because he can turn to "poly contrast" papers, which, with the use of filters in the enlarger can be made to produce a print of the right quality.

But there are papers on the market, particularly the kinds used for portraiture and many fine exhibition prints, which are made in only one or two different "contrasts." So, the photographer who has learned how to control contrast simply develops his film a little more, or a little less, than the recommended times to come out with the "ideal negative" for his own darkroom.

Color is much more difficult because the negative must be developed to an exact standard so that all three layers of sensitive material come out to a "color balance."

But even here there are systems for "masking" out certain areas to reduce contrast — a process usually attempted only by the most advanced worker or laboratory with far more equipment than usually available. But it is nice to know that it can be done if the occasion arises — and that technical publications are available at good camera stores for those interested.

Coffee Break In Hawaii

The nation's most celebrated coffee break is about to perk to life in Hawaii. It's the annual Kona Coffee Festival, which will take place Nov. 13-15 in Kailua-Kona on the island of Hawaii, the only place in the U.S. that raises coffee commercially.

The Kona Coffee Festival has become one of Hawaii's leading tourist attractions over the years. It's a time when the coffee-producing interests of Kailua-Kona stage three successive days of festivities to celebrate the harvest season.

Currently in its fifth year, the event is sponsored by the Kona Chamber of Commerce, the Hawaii Visitors Bureau, and Superior Tea & Coffee which distributes Kona coffee on the retail market.

— United Airlines' discount round trip excursion fare featuring reductions up to 30 per cent has been approved by the civil aeronautics board.

The single most distinguishing provision is a seat inventory system that will enable United to offer thousands of traditionally empty seats at a discount. The fare, effective for travel Feb. 1, offers a 30 per cent discount for off-peak travel and a 20 per cent discount during peak summer months.

Seat capacity available for passengers traveling at the new fares will be limited to a maximum of 35 per cent of the seats for only one flight.

"Our computer system will be geared up for Jan. 5, the date when the new fare will go on sale," said Mechlin D, Moore, group vice president-marketing.

The newly restored 119-year-old City Hotel in Columbia is again taking room reservations.

The historic hotel, in the middle of Columbia State Historic Park, is scheduled to open Oct. 1 with meals, beverages, and overnight accommodations. Room reservations may be made now for any period after Oct. 1.

Columbia, a historic gold mining town, never died, even though the gold petered out. The reopening of the City Hotel will give visitors an opportunity to stay overnight in an authentic gold rush town. Many of the buildings have been restored to their 1870 appearance.

The park is on State Highway 49, four miles north of Sonora in Tuolumne County.

Originally built as a luxury hotel in 1856, the City Hotel has been reconstructed to appear as it did when the great gold discoveries lured seekers of wealth to the Seirra foothills from all over the world. The hotel will operate as a living example of the history of the gold rush era.

To obtain reservations, write to Columbia City Hotel, P.O. Box 1870, Columbia, California 95310.

College students will lead tours of the hotel every day from 1 to 4 p.m.

TRIP OF THE WEEK

Historic Tourist Attraction Calico Cooling Off For Its Annual Festival Days

At one time the small hillside mining town of Calico was an important center for silver. Then the richest veins petered out.

About this time a young desert homesteader named Walter Knott came upon the town and for a time worked its mines during their last hours of importance. The small wages he earned made the difference between eating and starving to death.

Years passed and Calico fell into ruins. Knott by this time had taken his family to Buena Park to establish a farm. He had some troubles there, too, but his wife Cordelia decided to begin serving coffee and selling jams and canned fruits, to help bring in money. The preserves she sold were made from produce the Knotts had failed to sell fresh at their roadside stand on Highway 39. From there, it was a small step from coffee stand to chicken dinners served in the farm living room. Then the family built its first restaurant.

Lines formed, and Walter Knott decided to plant trees and put up benches, and "provide atmosphere" for people to enjoy while waiting for dinner — sometimes an hour or more's wait at a time.

Then he remembered Calico, and began assembling Ghost Town, the real start of what is today Knott's Berry Farm. the nation's third largest tourist attraction. Ghost Town was patterned on Calico, of course. Then the chance came to buy Calico, which the family did. The historic settlement proved impractical to handle, and finally, the Knotts sold Calico to the county of San Bernardino, after doing extensive renovation.

Today, Calico is not only a tourist attraction, but an historic and anthropologically important site.

The site, in which prehistoric man was found to have lived some 40,000 years ago (by the estimate of noted anthropologist Dr. Louis Leakey) attracted Dr. Leakey to the town to personally head the excavations at one point.

Nowadays, a general festival is held at the town each fall, when the desert heat cools off. This year's Calico Days festival is scheduled for Oct. 10-12.

An Old Prospectors' Burro Run at 11 a.m. Sunday, Oct. 12, will be one of many highlights.

The skills and abilities of 10 participants seeking to exchange their silver ore for cash prizes will be judged by Tumbleweed Harris, a famous desert prospector who has become a tradition in many of the old towns throughout the west.

Success will be determined by the ability to pack a burro, and then lead him to Calico's silver fields, stake a claim, register it, and still be the first one to cross the finish line. In case of a tie, the winner will be determined by which prospector brings back the closest to five pounds of silver ore.

Cash prizes and trophies will be awarded for first through third place, and ribbons will be given to all participants.

Claim jumping is outlawed in the silver fields surrounding Calico, but regional park spokesmen report that a roving band of desperadoes has recently been sighted in the area.

Sunday's remaining activities will include a variety of old western contests, musical performances, and melodramatic presentations.

A restored silver mining boom town of the 1880's, Calico is located 10 miles northeast of Barstow, just north of Interstate Route 15.

Registration for the Burro Run will take place during the celebration only, and applications may be picked up at the Ghost Town's Office. For further information, contact San Bernardino County's Regional Parks Department at 825 East Third Street, San Bernardino, California 92415. Campground reservations can be made through Calico Ghost Town.

The new plan has all the basic features of Greyhound's other Ameripasses, but offers a great opportunity for unlimited travel at even lower cost than ever before.

Greyhound's other Ameripasses include a new 15-day Ameripass for $125 which went into effect Sept. 15, a one-month Ameripass costing $175 and a 2-month Ameripass for $250.

Low-cost excursion fares within Canada, with discounts of up to 35 per cent, have been approved by the Canadian government and are effective immediately.

The airline said the new fares cover both long and short routes and are available to all travelers through the end of May 1976.

In addition to the excursion fares, AAIR Canada has also introduced a revived youth standby fare, offering a 50 per cent discount. The previous discount was 20 per cent.

Larger than expected crowds in the National Parks this year have resulted in a new estimate of 240 million visits — about 23 million more than last year, reports National Park Service Director Gary Everhardt.

"In January we were estimating that there would be 227 million visits this year," Everhardt said. "Because of tremendous increases in park use all across the nation, we have revised that figure upward by 13 million to a new all-time high which will exceed the total of 1974 visitation of 217 million by 23 million."

Park areas designated as Bicentennial sites have reflected an anticipated surve in visitation as 1976 approaches, Everhardt noted. Among the Bicentennial areas, dramatic increases already have been recorded over 1974 levels at Minute Man National Historical Park near Boston — up 90 percent — Philadelphia's Independence National Historical Park — up 52 percent — rural Kings Mountain National Military Park, S.C., which increased 59 percent, and Baltimore's Fort McHenry National Monument, rising 48 percent.

More people visited Hearst Castle this July and August than in any two month period since the state took over operation of the popular monument in 1958, reports California Department of Parks and Recreation.

Herbert Rhodes, Director of State Parks and Recreation, said attendance from July 1 to Sept. 1 was 258,000 or 6,000 more than for the same period a year ago, which was the previous two month high.

He added that 151 tours daily were conducted through the castle, and attendance exceeded 4,000 persons daily.

Reservations may be made up to 60 days in advance in person at more than 100 Ticketron offices located throughout California or by mail at Department headquarters, P.O. Box 2390, Sacramento, California 95811.

WALTER SCOTT'S

Q. Is there anything Nelson Rockefeller will not do or say to maintain a Ford-Rockefeller ticket?—N. N., Albany, N.Y.
A. There must be something.

Q. Is it true that the FBI lists 85-year-old Groucho Marx as a security risk? If so, why?—M. L., Santa Monica, Calif.
A. At this year's meeting in Montreal of the American Bar Association, journalist Jack Anderson revealed that the FBI had started a file on Groucho after an underground newspaper had quoted him as saying he would welcome Richard Nixon's death. When questioned about the alleged remark, Groucho reportedly explained: "I deny everything, because I lie about everything, and everything I deny is a lie."

Q. It has been said that Sen. Hubert Humphrey has a weakness for movie starlets and beautiful women in general. Was there anything between him and actress Carol Lynley?—D.E., St. Paul, Minn.
A. Nothing.

PRISCILLA PRESLEY

Q. Does Priscilla Presley, 31, Elvis'-ex, plan to marry actor Peter Lawford? I thought she was going with karate instructor Mike Stone. — Anne Howard, Long Beach, Cal.
A. Priscilla Presley has dropped Stone for the time being, dates Peter Lawford, 54, once married to President John F. Kennedy's sister, Pat. Nothing serious.

Q. Why is it that the CIA has so many connections with Spanish and Latin American corporations? Everytime I see a label on a wine bottle, it says something like "bottled and shipped by Pedro Montez, CIA."—H.R.M., Houston, Tex.
A. CIA is the abbreviation for the Spanish word compania which means company.

Q. Irving Lazar, Richard Nixon's literary agent—Republican or Democrat?—Jerry La Palma, Detroit.
A. Lifelong Democrat.

Q. How can a woman like Isabel Peron, who was trained as a dancer, preside over a country like Argentina? Isn't it incredible?—Helen Genn, New York City.
A. It is an accident of marriage. If Isabel hadn't married Juan Peron, she'd probably still be a dancer in Panama. It is just a question of time, however, before the army removes her from office. Mrs. Peron is head of the Peronist movement at this writing simply because there is no acceptable replacement. Eventually in Argentina the army and the trade unions will clash, and Isabel Martinez de Peron will go.

LIZ AND DICK TOGETHER AGAIN

Q. What compelled Elizabeth Taylor to go back to Richard Burton?—Lois Cowan, Ft. Lauderdale, Fla.
A. His promise to give up alcohol.

Q. The J. Edgar Hoover gang in the FBI who "took care" of Pat Gray—will they do the same thing to current FBI Director Clarence Kelley?—P. P., Arlington, Va.
A. Gray not only burned Watergate papers, but he made the tactical error of trying to reform FBI field offices before cleaning up FBI headquarters in Washington, D.C. Clarence Kelley is not making that same error. He is minding the headquarters store.

Q. People who have visited China tell me they see no birds, cats, or dogs there. Why is that?—Evelyn Rich, Ithaca, N.Y.
A. At one time a few years ago birds, cats, and dogs competed for food, and there wasn't enough food to go around. Birds have been allowed to return and multiply because of a caterpillar infestation.

Q. I understand that President Ford has banned his wife from all interviews after she spoke out about sex on that CBS interview. Is it true that Mrs. Ford is now under orders to say nothing?—Charlotte Harper, Denver, Col.
A. Mrs. Ford is under no such orders but having aroused controversy, she no doubt will be less outspoken in the future.

Q. Does anyone know why James Hoffa was eliminated from life?—James Tinker, Seattle, Wash.
A. Hoffa's disappearance at this writing is still a mystery. Underworld sources say the mob got rid of him so as to consolidate their hold on the Teamsters Union, particularly certain Teamster locals, and Teamster Union pension funds.

Q. If William Colby resigns as head of the CIA or is forced out, will his successor come from in-house or the outside? Who might he be?—J.R., Albany, N.Y.
A. Should Colby retire or be nudged out during the Ford Administration, his job will probably be offered to William Ruckelshaus, who resigned along with his boss Elliot Richardson, U.S. Attorney General under Nixon. Whether Ruckelshaus, a lawyer now in private practice, would accept the position is problematical. At this time an in-house promotion to director of the CIA seems out of the question.

ANDY WILLIAMS AND ETHEL KENNEDY

Q. How goes the Ethel Kennedy-Andy Williams friendship these days?—B. K., Salem, Mass.
A. It warmed up this past summer, now shows much promise.

PARADE'S SPECIAL

INTELLIGENCE REPORT

by LLOYD SHEARER

BECAUSE OF VOLUME OF MAIL RECEIVED, PARADE REGRETS IT CANNOT ANSWER QUERIES ABOUT THIS COLUMN.

SIRHAN SIRHAN (C), HIS ATTORNEY AND GUARDS AFTER A HEARING

WHO KILLED BOBBY KENNEDY? The gun which killed Sen. Robert F. Kennedy on June 5, 1968, was not fired by Sirhan B. Sirhan.

So claim Herbert L. MacDonnell, a criminologist of Corning, N.Y., and Dr. John E. Holloway, a ballistics expert from Davis, Cal.

At a recent seminar in forensic medicine at Colby College, Waterville, Me., both authorities declared that the bullet which killed Kennedy did not originate in Sirhan's gun, a claim made by many other students of the crime, which has led to a fresh investigation of the assassination in Los Angeles.

The American Academy of Forensic Sciences points to the "gross difference" in the bullets which were taken from Senator Kennedy who was shot in the head at almost the same time William Weisel was shot in the stomach.

MacDonnell compared the two bullets through a Balliscan camera and reports a marked difference in the grooves of the bullets. These grooves are known technically as cannelures.

The bullet taken from Kennedy, according to MacDonnell, bears one cannelure; the bullet taken from Weisel bears two. The bullets in Sirhan's Iver Johnson .22-caliber pistol carried two cannelures.

Moreover, Dr. Thomas Noguchi, Los Angeles County coroner, testified at Sirhan's trial that the bullet which killed Kennedy was fired from a weapon held about three inches from the victim's head, the bullet entering behind the right ear and fragmenting the brain. Sirhan, according to witnesses, was never closer than two or three feet from the Senator.

There is no doubt but what Sirhan Sirhan was involved in the assassination of Robert Kennedy in the kitchen of the Hotel Ambassador in Los Angeles. There is some doubt, however, that he was the only one. A security guard may also have been accidentally involved.

A new investigation may reveal the whole story.

SNAKE SMUGGLERS Latest gimmick in the drug smuggling racket is the snake. Smugglers get live snakes to swallow plastic bags filled with heroin or cocaine. The snakes are cleared through U.S. customs.

It takes a relatively long time for the digestive juices of reptiles to start working. Once the snakes are passed through, the smugglers slaughter them and remove the plastic bags of dope.

U.S. customs agents, however, are now wise to the game, order all snakes with suspicious bulges to be X-rayed.

CANCER INSURANCE Last fall, the American Family Life Assurance Co. of Columbus, Ga., introduced cancer insurance into Japan. It has become so popular that the company has sold 200,000 policies in eight months.

"At first," explains Tokihiko Ema, vice president based in Tokyo, "we expected to sell maybe 30,000 policies a year, but we've got a windfall on our hands."

American Family which obtained permission from the Japanese government to open in Tokyo last December, is the second foreign life insurance company to do so. The first was American Life Insurance Co. which was okayed in December, 1972.

In Japan, strokes rank first as the cause of death, followed by cancer.

HOW GEORGE WALLACE TESTS In 1968 George Wallace won 13.5% of the popular vote in the Presidential campaign. Nixon won 43.4% and Hubert Humphrey 42.7%.

A recent Gallup poll indicates that about one Democrat in eight, 13 per cent, constitutes the "hard core" Wallace vote.

What the Gallup people did was to pair Wallace against each of five leading Democrats in pre-convention tests.

"Suppose the choice for President in the Democratic Convention in 1976 narrows down to (name of Democratic opponent) and George Wallace, which one would you prefer to have the Democratic Convention select?"

Herewith the choices of 712 persons polled who listed themselves as Democrats.

(1)
Kennedy	72%
Wallace	20%
Undecided	8%
(2)
Humphrey	58%
Wallace	33%
Undecided	9%
(3)
Muskie	51%
Wallace	36%
Undecided	13%
(4)
McGovern	47%
Wallace	40%
Undecided	13%
(5)
Jackson	44%
Wallace	36%
Undecided	20%

Analysis of the findings shows that the vote for Wallace is 13% in all five tests and 50% against him.

WHEN THE U.S. WAS CONFIDENT In 1948, probably for the last time in modern history, this country was supremely confident of defeating the Soviet Union in war.

In 1948 we had the atomic bomb all to ourselves.

A top secret cable, declassified several weeks ago, reveals that 27 years ago both the U.S. State and Defense Departments were completely confident of U.S. victory in any future conflict with the Soviets, who did not explode their first atomic bomb until 1949.

The cable was sent by acting Secretary of State Robert Lovett to the U.S. Embassy in Teheran.

In 1948 the Soviet Union was afraid of war. They suspected the U.S. of infiltrating troops into the Iranian armed forces. Stalin thought we had designs on the Soviet oil fields at Baku.

The Shah of Iran, fearful of possible Soviet aggression, sought military aid and a defense alliance with the U.S.

We were reluctant, but on Oct. 1, 1948, Lovett cabled the U.S. embassy in Teheran to tell the Shah "that if worse comes to worse in the international sphere, we are not worried over the eventual outcome."

On Nov. 19, 1948, Lovett again notified the embassy to reassure Iran's officials that should war break out between the U.S.A. and the U.S.S.R. "It must be clear from recent history that the United States devotes its full and unrelenting power, in cooperation with its loyal allies, to achieve total victory over those who bring war to the world.

"On our part we have complete confidence as to the favorable outcome of any future conflict in which the U.S. may be involved."

Once the Soviet Union detonated its first atomic bomb, the U.S. altered its view from expecting a total victory in war to the view that no country can win a nuclear war.

BANK TELLERS Are you more likely to receive faster service from a bank teller of the same or opposite sex?

Writing in the "Journal of Applied Social Psychology," a Tulane University social psychologist reports that his bank survey found women tellers spent, on the average, 51.4 seconds with female customers, male tellers spent 50 seconds with male customers. Male tellers, however, lengthened their business transaction when dealing with women to an average of 79.6 seconds. When women tellers served male customers, their transaction time shortened to 27.2 seconds.

Male bank tellers deliberately fussed with female customers, asking them for more identification in order to prolong contact. Female tellers, on the other hand, admit they put more effort into doing their job well when serving a male customer.

On your next bank trip, you should frequent female tellers for faster service.

TANKERS LYING IDLE An increasing number of large tankers are tied up at ports throughout the world, reflecting a decline in oil demand. Yet the price of oil and gasoline rises.

The global surplus of oil tankers is so large that some shipowners are selling their tankers for scrap. The Ueno Tanker Co. of Tokyo, for example, recently sold its 49,408-ton Ryowa Maru.

The Ryowa Maru used to carry oil from the Persian Gulf to Japan, but no shippers wanted it for that purpose any longer so the company was forced to sell it rather than keep the tanker tied up indefinitely.

Shipping executives expect the tanker service business to remain depressed for at least three years.

The Nissei Maru, the world's largest oil carrier (484,337 dwt), was delivered to the Tokyo tanker company in June and has remained idle ever since, with the company having to pay ever-mounting interest charges.

THE PRICE OF UNEMPLOYMENT Curt Donig, 61, head of a Berlin psychiatric clinic, says one year of unemployment can reduce the life expectancy of the job-loser by five.

"We have observed over 3000 men and women," explains Donig, "with nervous disorders. These people have been out of work for lengthy periods of time. The processed data on these people leads to the conclusion that unemployment and its attendant anxieties can reduce a person's life expectancy by as much as five years, especially if they have been job-seeking for more than a year."

After a year of looking for work or living on unemployment insurance, many job-seekers let themselves go. "Some," Donig points out, "succumb to alcohol, others to drugs. In many cases sex interest lags and marriages come apart."

Donig advises a wife with an unemployed husband to encourage him steadily, to share his leisure-time interests, to make him feel wanted and needed.

KATHARINE GRAHAM BARBARA JORDAN GLORIA STEINEM

INFLUENTIAL WOMEN Which women have the most impact on American Society? A 29-member panel of men and women asked by the Newspaper Enterprise Association to compile a list of 50 such females selected Mrs. Gerald Ford, Jacqueline Kennedy Onassis, Mrs. Joseph Kennedy and 14 current or former U.S. government officials.

It was a group of media personalities, however, which topped the list--some 21 journalists, authors, commentators, TV and film personalities--all highly visible and mostly well-known.

Some of the most influential are Katharine Graham, publisher of "The Washington Post" and a special target of the Nixon Administration; Carla Hills, Secretary of Housing and Urban Development in the Ford Cabinet; anthropologist and lecturer Margaret Mead; Ella Grasso, Governor of Connecticut; TV personality Barbara Walters, and Congresswomen Shirley Chisholm, Bella Abzug, Elizabeth Holtzman, and Barbara Jordan.

Also Dorothy Schiff, publisher of the "New York Post"; actress Jane Fonda; sex educator Mary Calderone; tennis star Billie Jean King, and journalist Gloria Steinem.

The Story Behind Fanne Foxe and Wilbur Mills

by Lloyd Shearer

Congressman Wilbur Mills of Arkansas was a straight arrow until he met Anna Battistella, an Argentine dancer also known as Fanne Foxe. Then, the straight arrow went off his course and landed in Washington's Tidal Basin with Fanne.

LOS ANGELES.

One year ago this week, Mrs. Anna Battistella, also known as Fanne Foxe, a stripper with a siliconized bust, a re-bobbed nose, and surgically tightened stomach skin, flung herself into the Potomac River Tidal Basin off Washington, D.C.

She was drunk.

So, too, was her lover, Democratic Congressman Wilbur Daigh Mills, then 65 and one of the most powerful, influential, and respected legislators in the House of Representatives. At the time Mills was chairman of the House Ways and Means Committee, a seemingly indefatigable workaholic from Kensett, Ark., the fourth senior ranking member of the House, and a stocky, bifocaled, gravel-voiced lawyer of middling height and iron-gray hair who had energetically represented his Congressional district since 1939.

Today at 39, Fanne Foxe, divorced mother of three children ranging from 16 to 18, is on her way up, and Wilbur Mills is on his way down, the quintessential American tragedy.

In Mills' tragedy lies Fanne's notoriety, a notoriety which is bringing her more money, more nightclub bookings, more creature comforts, and more show business success than she has ever known since she began dancing in Argentina in the late 1950's.

New house, new movie

In recent weeks Fanne Foxe has purchased a 17-room house with tennis court in Westport, Conn. She has signed to appear in Las Vegas over the Christmas holidays. She has traveled the width of the country publicizing her tell-it-all autobiography, which she wrote with the help of Yvonne Dunleavy, ghostwriter of the best-selling The Happy Hooker. She is starring in a "restricted" film, Posse From Heaven.

She has signed to make additional motion pictures with Matt Cinber, the late Jayne Mansfield's third husband, and according to her business manager, Dan Montgomery, "I've got Fanne fixed up with at least $250,000 worth of contracts over the next year. She also has her own corporate setup, the A.E.B. Entertainment Corporation."

In her soft Spanish accent, olive-skinned Fanne, 5 feet 8, 118 well-turned pounds, brown eyes and brown hair, explains happily, "I am no longer a stripper. I am now an actress and a dancer. That pleases me very much.

"What I am sad about is Mr. Mills. He has been stripped of his power. I know much of it is my fault, and I am worried about his future. I still love him very much, and even though we have gone our separate ways, if he were to ask me to drop everything and marry him, I would do it at once. He is the one man in my life who brought out the best in me. The difference in our ages—he is 66, I am 39—that does not mean very much to me.

Remembering a promise

"There is a whole new career in films opening up for me. But I am worried about Mr. Mills and his future. He wanted to retire in 1974, but then when our scandal broke, he said he would not run away from a fight. He told me that only three times before in his Congressional career—I believe in 1942, 1944, and 1966—he had to face an election opponent. In 1974 it was a woman, Judy Petty, and he said to me, 'Anna, I am not going to run away from a fight. I am going back to Arkansas and win, and then I am going to divorce Polly [the former Clarine "Polly" Billingsley, his wife of 41 years] and you are going to become the wife of a Congressman.'

"Now that I have been away from Mr. Mills for some time," she runs on, "I can look back and see things more clearly. He was always promising to divorce his wife and marry me. And he said that over and over again, not only when he had something to drink but when he was cold sober. And I believed him because I wanted to believe him. Even when his wife told me it would never, never happen—her giving him a divorce—I had such faith in his power, his ability to get things his own way—that I was sure he would work things out.

Too old for her?

"I remember one time talking to Polly—she is four or five years older than Mr. Mills—and the three of us were really very good friends. She said to me, 'Why do you want to fool around with my husband? You are a young, married woman. Wilbur is too old for you. We have two married daughters, Becky and Martha. We have six grandchildren. When he drinks, Wilbur is irresponsible. He will say anything. I am telling you now. I will never give him a divorce. You are wasting your time.' "

In October, 1974, 16 months after meeting Wilbur Mills in the Silver Slipper, a strip joint on 13th Street NW in Washington, D.C., Fanne, then earning $500 a week, was divorced from Eduardo Battistella, a pianist, an artist, a jack-of-all trades to whom she had been married for 19 years. The divorce left her free to marry Mills if only the Congressman could obtain a divorce from his wife.

"One of the reasons he drank so much," declares Fanne Foxe, "is that he couldn't get himself free. He would point to me and plead with Polly. 'Please,' he would plead, 'Please, give me a divorce so I can marry Anna.' Mr. Mills always called me Anna, which is my real name."

According to Anna, she felt "'very much married" to Wilbur Mills. He flew her to Antigua in the Caribbean in July, 1973, spent three weeks with her in "a blissful honeymoon," and then one night engaged in a mock wedding ceremony using his Masonic ring as a marriage band. "Anna," she recalls his saying, "you have no idea what you've done for me. I haven't felt this satisfaction in many, many years."

What to do?

Mills also took Anna, she says, to his home state, where in Hot Springs she conceived his child. "I told him," she says, "not to mention a word to anyone. But he told his wife, Polly, right away, and she advised us not to go through with it. Wilbur said I should have the child, but I had an abortion instead. Now, I very much regret it."

In her paperback autobiography, for which she was paid a $10,000 advance and a 15 per cent royalty, Fanne Foxe reveals many of the most intimate aspects of her relationships, not only with Wilbur Mills and his wife, but with other men as well. Under the circumstances it is surprising that Mills "encouraged me," as she says, "to write a book. Of course," she adds, "he didn't know about the content. But he said to do whatever I wanted. First, he said not to write the book. 'Why don't you just stay at home?' he said. 'The children need you. Why don't you forget about dancing again and writing the book? I'll look after things, and everything will be all right.' He was in the Bethesda Naval Hospital early this year when we discussed the project, so I told him I wasn't going to write it. That made him very happy.

Makes a decision

"But I was under a misunderstanding. I thought his wife was going to give him a divorce. At one point she said that if he went into the hospital for treatment and proved his responsibility by his acts, she would give him a divorce. That's what he told me. I could never find out if he asked her again and she said no, or if he didn't ask her. But I realized I had to do something about my future. So I talked to him again, and I said I was going to do the book.

"He said OK and even suggested an agent in New York, a man named Pine. I went to see Mr. Pine. I thought he was going to handle Mr. Mills' book, too. But Mr. Mills hasn't written one yet. Anyway, on Feb. 14th, this year—I remember it because that's my birthday—I discussed the book with Mr. Mills in Bethesda, and Mr. Mills said it was my decision to make.

"He was very proud of me," Fanne declares, "when I told him I was going ahead with it. He said it would prove to people that I was more than a stripper, that I was a woman of intelligence and learning. He said it would prove that he wasn't running around with a low-type person."

Fanne Foxe is starring in a movie, "Posse From Heaven." Here she is on the set with her co-star, Todd Compton. Her autobiography has just been published in paperback.

Fanne fears that a portion of the American public believes her to be a grasping, unconscionable "gold-digger," that much of the money Wilbur Mills received in illegal campaign contributions ($50,000 from Ashland Oil) found its way into her pocket.

"The truth," she asserts, "is that he gave me his old Lincoln Continental, took me on a few trips, bought me some meals. But there were no diamonds, no furs, no expensive gifts. It was a deep, serious love affair."

The champagne bill

This young woman, originally from Nueve de Julio, an Argentine city 200 miles south of Buenos Aires, met Mills in June, 1973, in the Silver Slipper. That night the Congressman was flying high, feeling no pain. He spent $1100 on champagne. He was introduced to Fanne by a mutual friend, promptly lied about his age, telling her he was 55 and separated from his wife. Fanne accompanied him home to his apartment on Connecticut Avenue where, between shots of vodka followed by chasers of water, he confessed his age and other truths.

"I had no idea," Fanne admits, "how powerful and influential he was. I only knew that he was Wilbur Mills, a politician. I liked him for himself, and gradually over a period of eight months, it grew into love. He drank, but it did not seem to me that he was alcoholic. What confused me were all the stories he told about his wife. I couldn't find out about the divorce situation. Later I discovered that what Wilbur Mills told me was half fact and half fiction.

"I still love him, but I have to make a new life for myself and my children. And I am doing that by leaving burlesque for dancing and acting and other things."

When asked what she thinks will happen to Wilbur Mills, Fanne Foxe says, "I think he will retire when his term is up. But it will be very difficult for him to stay at home. He mentioned to me one time that if he retired, he would stay in Washington and work with some law firm, give advice and make a little extra money.

"I hope the people of Arkansas will forgive him. After all he has spent his whole life working for them."

Wilbur Mills was born in Kensett, a sleepy little village, about 50 miles northeast of Little Rock, Ark., on May 24, 1909. His father owned the general store, taught him double-entry bookkeeping at age 11, later sent him to Hendrix, a small Methodist college in Conway, and then on to the Harvard Law School.

Mills was graduated in 1933, worked as a cashier in his father's bank, and a year later, "without the blessings of their parents," married Clarine "Polly" Billingsley, who was then postmistress of the Kensett Post Office. They spent a one-night honeymoon in Little Rock's Albert Pike Hotel, then returned to their jobs.

The Story Behind Fanne Foxe and Wilbur Mills

by Lloyd Shearer

Congressman Wilbur Mills of Arkansas was a straight arrow until he met Anna Battistella, an Argentine dancer also known as Fanne Foxe. Then, the straight arrow went off his course and landed in Washington's Tidal Basin with Fanne.

LOS ANGELES.

One year ago this week, Mrs. Anna Battistella, also known as Fanne Foxe, a stripper with a siliconized bust, a re-bobbed nose, and surgically tightened stomach skin, flung herself into the Potomac River Tidal Basin off Washington, D.C.

She was drunk.

So, too, was her lover, Democratic Congressman Wilbur Daigh Mills, then 65 and one of the most powerful, influential, and respected legislators in the House of Representatives. At the time Mills was chairman of the House Ways and Means Committee, a seemingly indefatigable workaholic from Kensett, Ark., the fourth senior ranking member of the House, and a stocky, bifocaled, gravel-voiced lawyer of middling height and iron-gray hair who had energetically represented his Congressional district since 1939.

Today at 39, Fanne Foxe, divorced mother of three children ranging from 16 to 18, is on her way up, and Wilbur Mills is on his way down, the quintessential American tragedy.

In Mills' tragedy lies Fanne's notoriety, a notoriety which is bringing her more money, more nightclub bookings, more creature comforts, and more show business success than she has ever known since she began dancing in Argentina in the late 1950's.

New house, new movie

In recent weeks Fanne Foxe has purchased a 17-room house with tennis court in Westport, Conn. She has signed to appear in Las Vegas over the Christmas holidays. She has traveled the width of the country publicizing her tell-it-all autobiography, which she wrote with the help of Yvonne Dunleavy, ghostwriter of the best-selling The Happy Hooker. She is starring in a "restricted" film, Posse From Heaven.

She has signed to make additional motion pictures with Matt Cinber, the late Jayne Mansfield's third husband, and according to her business manager, Dan Montgomery, "I've got Fanne fixed up with at least $250,000 worth of contracts over the next year. She also has her own corporate setup, the A.E.B. Entertainment Corporation."

In her soft Spanish accent, olive-skinned Fanne, 5 feet 8, 118 well-turned pounds, brown eyes and brown hair, explains happily, "I am no longer a stripper. I am now an actress and a dancer. That pleases me very much.

"What I am sad about is Mr. Mills. He has been stripped of his power. I know much of it is my fault, and I am worried about his future. I still love him very much, and even though we have gone our separate ways, if he were to ask me to drop everything and marry him, I would do it at once. He is the one man in my life who brought out the best in me. The difference in our ages—he is 66, I am 39—that does not mean very much to me.

Remembering a promise

"There is a whole new career in films opening up for me. But I am worried about Mr. Mills and his future. He wanted to retire in 1974, but then when our scandal broke, he said he would not run away from a fight. He told me that only three times before in his Congressional career—I believe in 1942, 1944, and 1966—he had to face an election opponent. In 1974 it was a woman, Judy Petty, and he said to me, 'Anna, I am not going to run away from a fight. I am going back to Arkansas and win, and then I am going to divorce Polly [the former Clarine "Polly" Billingsley, his wife of 41 years] and you are going to become the wife of a Congressman.'

"Now that I have been away from Mr. Mills for some time," she runs on, "I can look back and see things more clearly. He was always promising to divorce his wife and marry me. And he said that over and over again, not only when he had something to drink but when he was cold sober. And I believed him because I wanted to believe him. Even when his wife told me it would never, never happen—her giving him a divorce—I had such faith in his power, his ability to get things his own way—that I was sure he would work things out.

Too old for her?

"I remember one time talking to Polly—she is four or five years older than Mr. Mills—and the three of us were really very good friends. She said to me, 'Why do you want to fool around with my husband? You are a young, married woman. Wilbur is too old for you. We have two married daughters, Becky and Martha. We have six grandchildren. When he drinks, Wilbur is irresponsible. He will say anything. I am telling you now. I will never give him a divorce. You are wasting your time.' "

When Mills was 25 he ran for county judge and won. Four years later, at 29, he was elected to Congress, the second youngest man in that body. Speaker Sam Rayburn appointed him to the Ways and Means Committee in 1942. For the next 16 years Mills dutifully served a long apprenticeship, worked hard, behaved discreetly, studied carefully the methods of Jere Cooper of Tennessee, then committee chairman. When Cooper died in 1957, Wilbur Mills succeeded him. He became one of the foremost powers in Congress, presiding over legislation dealing with taxes, tariffs, Social Security, interest rates, foreign trade, and the means of raising revenue to run the country. Many people said he was the second most powerful man in the federal government.

Married 41 years, Mills and his wife Polly are more together now than they have been for the past three years

Until his scandalous, widely publicized, drunken Tidal Basin affair with Fanne Foxe last year, Wilbur Mills was regarded as one of the most industrious, dedicated, conscientious, serious, high-minded, intelligent, firmly entrenched men in the history of Congress. He lived quietly in a modest Connecticut Avenue apartment. He was never seen at cocktail parties. He lived in a closed world surrounded, driven and obsessed by work.

In 1971 when he thought of running for the Presidency on a Mills-Kennedy ticket, he told me, "Work is the only real amusement I have. I'm not one of those Congressmen who go off on junkets or live it up on the social circle. I don't golf. I don't tennis. Sometimes my wife and I watch television. But mostly I just work."

Where and why and how did Wilbur Mills break from his Bible Belt mode of living? Why did he turn to alcohol? What made him risk all for the likes of Fanne Foxe?

All work, no play

I've talked to a dozen colleagues, friends, and staffers of Mills. They all agree that his is a classic case of all work and no play leading to a physical and nervous breakdown.

"He overloaded himself with work," explains one woman who has known him for years. "He never knew when to let up. Where work was concerned he considered himself Superman. Where women were concerned he was as naive as a 2-year-old. He drank because the pressure of work became too great, and he thought the vodka would relieve the pressure.

"For more than 35 years he watched over the 15 counties of his Congressional district like a mother-hen. Usually he ended most of his speeches in Arkansas with, 'I hired out to work for you. I want you to call on me.' And the people of his district certainly did."

Says an old Wilbur Mills admirer from Fayetteville, Ark. "The Congressman had a miserable home life. He drowned himself in work 20 hours a day. A man can repress himself and remain a Spartan only so long. When ole Wilbur finally broke, he broke big."

quick, EASY AND HEARTY

by BETH MERRIMAN
PARADE FOOD EDITOR

Sometimes planning a menu for a Saturday night dinner can be a problem if you're going out. For those evenings when cooking time is limited try this Saturday Night Stew. Preparation time is a matter of minutes. The dry ingredients for the dumplings can be prepared in the morning, and finished while the stew is coming to a boil. Then, in 20 minutes, all is ready, a meal in a dish, a meal that is satisfying, good to eat and hearty.

SATURDAY NIGHT STEW

3 cans (19 oz. each) chunky beef soup
¾ cup quick or old-fashioned oats, uncooked
2 tablespoons Worcestershire sauce
Few drops Tabasco
1 can (1 lb.) tomatoes
2 cups mixed cooked vegetables, canned, frozen or leftover
2 tablespoons instant minced onion
½ cup dry red wine
Herb Dumplings

Combine all ingredients; bring slowly to boil. Drop dumplings by slightly rounded tablespoons onto boiling mixture. Reduce heat; simmer uncovered 10 minutes. Cover; simmer 10 minutes longer. Makes six servings.

HERB DUMPLINGS

1½ cups sifted all purpose flour
1½ teaspoons baking powder
¾ teaspoon salt
⅛ cup quick or old-fashioned oats, uncooked
1 tablespoon parsley flakes
¼ teaspoon savory
⅛ teaspoon thyme
1 cup milk
4 teaspoons vegetable oil

Mix and sift flour, baking powder and salt; stir in oats, parsley, savory and thyme. Add milk and oil. Stir just until dry ingredients are moistened.

PARADE FOOD EDITOR

WHAT ELSE IS COOKING

GETTING THE MOST FROM HERBS

Remember dried herbs are more compact than fresh herbs. One teaspoon of dried herbs is equivalent to about three teaspoons of fresh herbs. Chop fresh herbs fine to let flavoring oils escape. Heat chopped herbs in melted butter and add to vegetables after they have been cooked.

A QUESTION OF GRAIN

In 1974 we had the worst weather in 40 years—a wet spring, summer drought and early fall freezes. Result? Severe losses in U.S. feed grain crops, especially corn.

Meat and poultry feed supplies have diminished, forcing big cutbacks in livestock feeding and therefore less meat. Chicken production is down 5 per cent, turkey 21 per cent. The combined production of red meats and poultry is 3 per cent less this year than in 1974. The forecasts for the 1975 grain crop are optimistic, but consumers will probably have to wait until 1976 before any increase in meat and poultry supplies are noticed.

CROUTON SUBSTITUTES

If you're having soup and find no croutons in the house try puffed corn, puffed wheat, or bite-size shredded wheat or rice as substitutes.

THAWING FRUITS

For better flavor and color in frozen fruits let the fruit thaw in its sealed container and serve as soon as barely thawed. A few ice crystals actually improve the texture. Frozen fruit packed with dry sugar thaws faster than fruit packed in syrup. Both types thaw faster than unsweetened packs.

CHOOSING THE BEST COCONUTS

When buying a coconut be sure to shake it. If you don't hear liquid sloshing inside, then the coconut is spoiled. Also choose one that is heavy for its size and avoid one that is cracked or has a wet, moldy eye. Refrigerate coconuts and use them as soon as possible.

MAKING THEIR MARK

Have you ever wondered how some of the vegetables and fruits we eat got their start in the United States? Here are a few success stories:

● Celery, long a decorative garden plant in Europe, was introduced to the United States in the early 1800's primarily for ornamental or medicinal purposes. It wasn't until 1856 that Dutch or Scottish immigrants in Kalamazoo, Mich., began cultivating celery as a food. Some of these enterprising people began to sell celery at railroad stations, and before long word spread on the crunchy appeal of the vegetable. Orders skyrocketed and a market for celery was established.

● The banana made its official debut in 1876 at the Centennial Exhibition in Philadelphia. Bananas were wrapped in foil and sold for 10¢ apiece, rivaling the telephone as a main attraction. By the end of the 19th century regular shipments of bananas were arriving in the United States from Costa Rica.

● Lemons were primarily produced in Florida during the early 1800's. But a freeze in 1835 and following years proved so devastating that California took over as the leading producer, a title it still holds. During the Gold Rush of 1849 the population increased so rapidly that a lemon shortage occurred, because lemons were in demand to prevent scurvy; in many parts of California they sold for $1 apiece.

THE LINCOLN MINT PROUDLY ANNOUNCES

BUILDERS OF AMERICA

LIMITED EDITION SCULPTURE IN SOLID FINE PEWTER

THE NAVIGATOR

A collection of 12 original sculptures portraying the men and women who forged the Spirit of America

Available by advance subscription only. Limit: one collection per subscriber.

BUILDERS OF AMERICA is a singular artistic tribute to those people who embody the great spirit of our country. In twelve meticulously detailed pewter sculptures, we salute contributors to our nation's growth and strength.

Exquisitely sculptured, extraordinarily authentic, superbly detailed . . . each piece will be hand-crafted and hand-finished in solid Fine Pewter. Each is an original work of art and will bear the owner's permanent registration number. Each carries the sculptor's signature and the proud hallmark of The Lincoln Mint, for over 60 years among the world's leaders in fine medallic art.

The Spirit of America Beautifully Captured

The collection begins with The Patriot, who sets aside the task of clearing his land to fight for it with valor. The sculpted detail is so fine, you can sense the quickly forgotten plow as he grasps his rifle to run to the call for arms.

Second in the collection is The Navigator, capturing the spirit of the gallant Americans who went down to the sea in ships and conquered the farthest reaches of the ocean. Sextant in hand, he plots a course for other seamen to follow, launching the great tradition of American seamanship.

Every bit as romantic in his tradition is The Railroad Man. He connected the East to the Middle West and, then through the historic driving of the Golden Spike linked America together, in fact as well as spirit.

As the collection unfolds, it pays artistic tribute to The Newspaper Man who closed the communications gap across America . . . The Plainswoman without whom the land would never have been settled . . . The Blacksmith, hailed in poetry and song as he forged the tools and shod the animals . . . The Schoolmarm, bringing the touch of learning to the youngsters who then labored after school with their elders to forge a new nation.

Extraordinary and Authentic Detail

From conception to creation to the actual casting, no effort has been spared to assure complete and total accuracy. Researchers, artists and sculptors pored through galleries and archives, searching out the most minute details. The navigator's sextant and his unusual shirt . . . the odd hat and boots of the Railroad Man . . . the crude handmade plow or the carefully coiled rope . . . all speak eloquently to the extraordinary detail. This unsurpassed historical accuracy is a source of unending fascination to the beholder!

Crafted in Fine Pewter

Since colonial days, pewter has been one of the most favored materials of metal workers and artisans. Its intrinsic beauty, fine patina and remarkable durability make it ideal for these intricately sculptured pieces.

But as with any metal, there are many grades. Only the premium quality—"Fine Pewter"—will be used for these figures. With this Fine Pewter, each piece will be individually hand-cast using the "lost wax" techniques. Each will stand approximately five inches high on its integrally sculpted base.

Strictly Limited Edition

The BUILDERS OF AMERICA collection will be issued in a strictly limited edition. The collection of twelve individual sculptures will be limited to a total of 5,000 in Fine Pewter. Registration numbers will be assigned in order of receipt of reservation. All reservations received after the edition has been fully subscribed will be regretfully returned.

The limit has been set to ensure that your collection will be a treasured and unique heirloom for generations to come. Each subscriber will receive a Certificate of Registration attesting to the Limited Edition of his individual collection. After the final sculptures have been cast, the molds will be broken to guarantee that this limited edition work of art will never again be produced.

Two-Year Acquisition Plan

BUILDERS OF AMERICA sculptures will be individually cast and issued to subscribers at the rate of one every other month. The original issue price is $55 per sculpture; payments may be conveniently made at the rate of $27.50 per month. In this way, the entire collection of twelve fine art sculptures can be acquired over a two year period.

Solid Sterling Silver Available

For the discriminating collector, 500 unique sets of the BUILDERS OF AMERICA collection will be custom-crafted in Solid Sterling Silver. These heirloom treasures in precious metal—a triumph of the craftsman's art—will be especially appropriate for those who cherish the work of the great colonial silverworkers.

In Sterling Silver each sculpture can be acquired for $250. The convenient acquisition plan allows for a monthly payment of only $125.

Rare Collectors' Opportunity

BUILDERS OF AMERICA, because of its Limited Edition Fine Art rarity—as well as the concurrent awareness of our nation's Bicentennial—is destined to become a valued heirloom that you and your family—as well as other discriminating collectors—will treasure.

Because of the extremely Limited Edition, the subscription rolls are expected to be filled very quickly. To ensure acceptance of your reservation, prompt action on your part is essential.

Losing 37 pounds doesn't sound like much, but look at the difference it made in me.

By Judie Whittaker—
as told to Ruth L. McCarthy

I look pregnant here, but I'm not. It's just me at 140 pounds in a fat dress.

Now that I'm at 103 pounds, I'll even show off my legs in front of a camera.

About three years ago, when I went for a check-up, I was irritable, miserable and as unhappy as I could be. You see, I weighed 140 pounds and I'm just over 5′ tall. Yet I had too little willpower to do anything about the shape I was in, so I asked my doctor for diet pills.

He didn't even look up from his desk as he scribbled the prescription. "I'll give you one month's supply and that's all. But remember, no one put that fork to your mouth and made you eat but you! So only you can take the weight off."

I walked out of his office stunned. No one had ever spoken to me like that before. Instead, they'd said: "You've got such a pretty face, you don't need to lose weight." Frankly, I think that's the worst thing you can do to fat people, because it only helps them deceive themselves more. I know. I did it to myself for years.

Of course, on my way up the scale I tried all sorts of things to lose weight. "Quickie" reducing pills, my own homestyle diets, even visits to figure salons. But the pills either didn't work or made me nervous; the salons cost too much; and my own diets failed. So when my doctor suggested I'd better come to grips with my weight problem, I decided it was time I gave up reducing pills and drugs and looked for a more natural way to satisfy my appetite.

I'd seen stories of people who'd lost 70 pounds, even 100 pounds on the Ayds plan, so I figured if it could help folks get rid of that much fat, it would help me get rid of 35 to 40 pounds. As a result I went to my drugstore in Greensboro, N.C. and bought a box of chocolate mint Ayds® Reducing Plan Candy. I'd read two things about Ayds. One, they contain no drugs, so I knew they wouldn't make me jumpy. And two, they contain vitamins and minerals which I found I couldn't taste at all. They were simply delicious.

On the plan, I took Ayds like the directions say: one or two before meals with a hot drink. Then for breakfast, I'd have grapefruit juice, and sometimes a boiled egg. At lunch, Ayds, tea and a tossed salad. And for dinner, Ayds, coffee, broiled meat and a vegetable.

I also discovered I could use Ayds as snacks without worrying, because each one contains only 26 calories. (I was used to 300 calories at a time.) Yet they satisfied my craving to eat, especially sweets. So I put a couple of Ayds in key spots around the house, like near the telephone, beside the TV set and on the night stand in case I woke up hungry.

Well, on the Ayds plan, the weight began to come off slowly but surely —one or two pounds a week until I went from a size 16 to a size 7.

That was over two years ago and I haven't gained the weight back since. As a matter of fact, my children can hardly remember me fat, but my husband says he'll never forget how good he felt when I became slim. And neither will I, because it changed my whole life. Now that I'm 103 pounds, I play tennis, my husband takes me dining, I have more friends. Why, I've even gone back to school to become a beautician. And I can truly say I owe it all to losing 37 pounds on the Ayds plan.

SHEMYA, ALEUTIAN ISLANDS.

The United States will soon begin monitoring Soviet ballistic missile development flights in the North Pacific with a newly developed super-electronic spying system installed near the western tip of the Aleutian Island chain off Alaska.

The giant radar system, one of the world's largest and most sophisticated, stands on the highest point on Shemya, a small volcanic island not too far from the islands of Attu and Kiska which were invaded by the Japanese in World War II. The system should be operational in 1976.

PARADE has learned that the radar system will be operated by the Air Force's Aerospace Defense Command. The Air Force Systems Command's Foreign Technology Division and the Aerospace Defense Command will be the prime user agencies.

Bleak and windswept Shemya is now the Shemya Air Force Station and during World War II it was an important air base.

Track missile flights

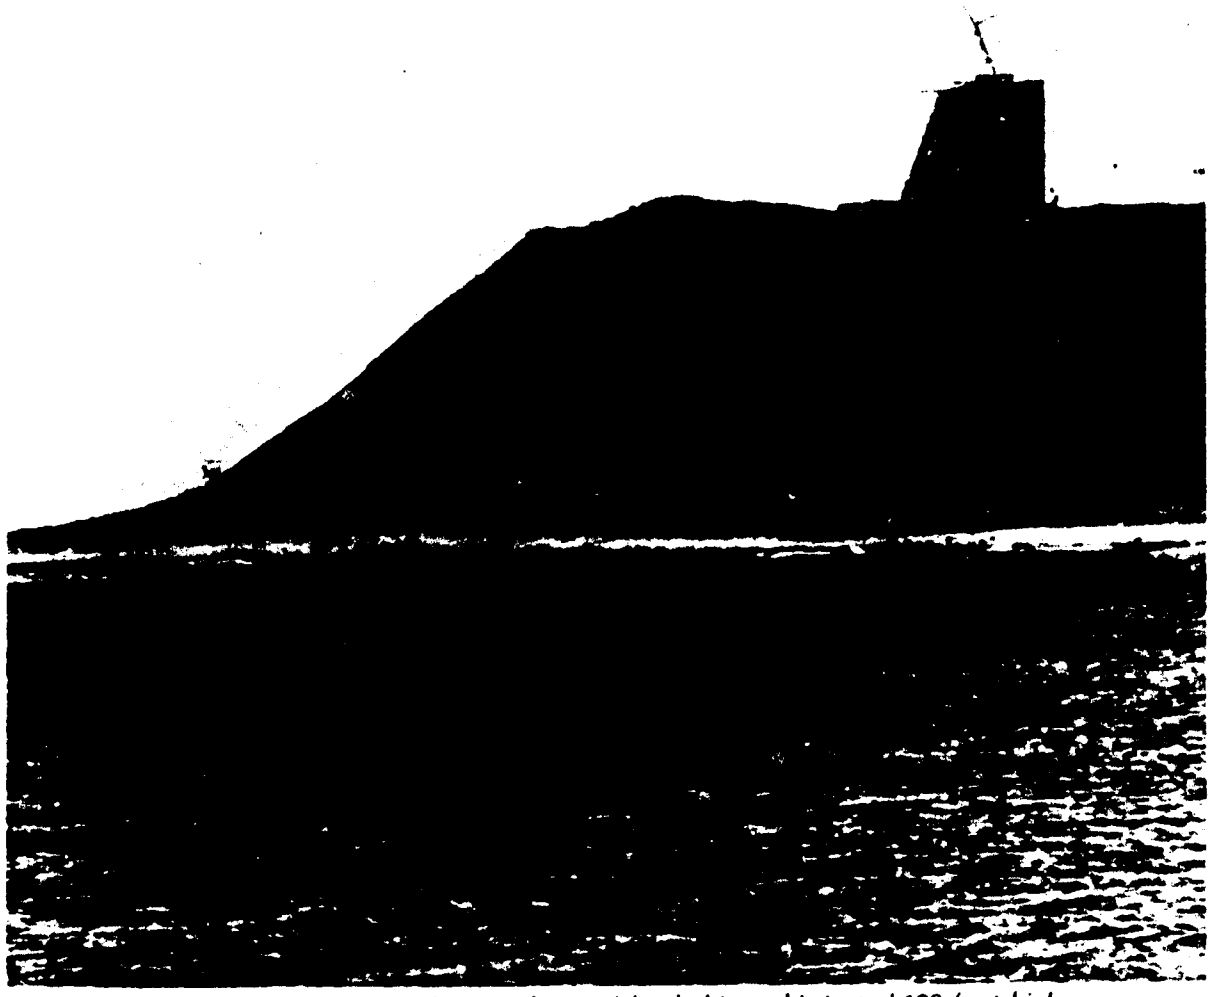

The new radar, known as Cobra Dane, will replace the Shemya detection and tracking radars. It is capable of multiple-object tracking and will be used for monitoring Soviet ballistic missile development flights to the Kamchatka Peninsula and the Pacific.

The radar will be housed in a 57,000-square-foot building, a dramatic contrast with the weather-beaten Quonset huts and other prefabricated buildings of World War II. The antenna array is 94 feet in diameter and faces northwest with more than 15,000 elements.

Operating in a section which has been sensitive for many years because of the length of the Aleutian Island chain and the not-too-far-away Siberian peninsula of Kamchatka in Asia, the spy system will give the United States a 24-hour-a-day check on all Soviet ballistic missile flights in the area.

New Superspy

by Joseph A. Ferris

On Alaska's desolate, weather-beaten Shemya Island, this sophisticated 100-foot-high radar antenna, when it is completed next year, will track Soviet missile flights.

Phased array radars scan electronically from stationary platforms; conventional systems use mechanical structures that rotate, a type used at many large airports. The giant radar resembles an ancient pyramid as it stands overlooking the ocean.

Shortly after the Japanese surrendered, only a skeleton force remained on Shemya to handle maintenance. Then the base was used as a refueling stop by Northwest Orient Airlines for its survey flights to the Far East and later a commercial service for passengers and freight.

It always has been considered a strategic base in the Aleutians and a few years ago the decision was made to update the radar system and install one with capabilities and a range never before equaled. Work on the design and installation of Cobra Dane was begun in the fall of 1973 by the Raytheon Company's equipment division under an Air Force contract. Cost of the project is expected to exceed $40 million.

Last November the task of mobilizing civilian engineers and specialists was begun, and initial assignments were at the Raytheon plant in Wayland, Mass. There were minimum assignments of one year in Shemya and all were on a non-family status.

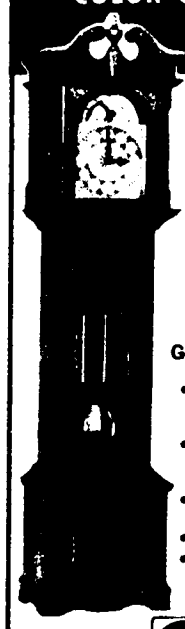

The Shemya radar project has been carried on quietly and without fanfare. In fact, most people had never heard of the place.

Smoke, fire and lava

Shemya is one of more than 150 small, rugged islands in the four groups of the Aleutians once known as the Catherine Archipelago. They extend about 1200 miles west from Alaska, of which they constitute a district and help provide an air corridor through the area. There are numerous volcanic peaks, some of them moderately active, belching smoke, fire and lava.

Shemya, with its modern weather instruments and equipment for meteorologists, and the new, giant, sophisticated radar system, should soon be ready for anything, even on a second-to-second basis. That is intelligence and defense at its best.

Crockery Cooking

There's a new kind of cooking catching on around the land—or rather, it's an old kind of cooking made new again. Called "Crockery Cooking" or "Slow Pot Cooking," it goes from soup to dessert, adding variety and nourishment to your family menu—and saving you lots of money at the same time.

This method of preparing food is described in succulent detail by Jacqueline Hériteau in a book called Clear and Simple Crockery Cooking, which is being made available to PARADE readers at the bargain price of $1.50 plus 25 cents postage and handling. You'll find in it not only an easy-to-follow description of crockery cooking, but page after page of simple-to-prepare recipes for every course of a meal.

Slow-pot cooking enables you to widen your culinary style tremendously. Because it works without constant supervision or attention, it can cut in half the amount of time you spend in the kitchen.

A modern electric crockery cooker is the closest thing in existence to the old-fashioned Dutch oven—that time-honored device that has never been beaten for sheer excellence of the dishes it produces. Crockery cooking can give you perfect pot roasts, great casseroles, rich and nourishing stews, fine breakfast cereal dishes, a tempting array of desserts, and even some unusual homemade breads.

It can also cut down substantially on the costs of feeding a family, because it makes use of low heat and because it works so well with thrift cuts of meat and even leftovers. The secret is the slow and thorough cooking that goes on even when you're not around. It's the way your grandmother used to cook—but with all the ease and economy of modern methods.

Clear and Simple Crockery Cooking can change your whole approach to the culinary art. At its bargain price, it's an investment that will pay off many times in less work for you and better living for your family.

TO ORDER. Send your name, address, zip code and $1.50 (plus 25¢ postage and handling) in cash, check or money order for each copy of "Clear and Simple Crockery Cooking" to PARADE, Box 4, Dept. GG, Kensington Station, Brooklyn, N.Y. 11218. Please allow three weeks for delivery.

Back to Nature Is More Than Fun & Games

by Edward D. Fales Jr.

A regular center of Maine homesteading activity for Eugene and Carol Trudeau is their well-stocked kitchen, aglow with the light of a kerosene lamp and full of the smell of freshly baked bread from the big wood and gas stove.

NEW SHARON, MAINE.

In a population switch that has surprised the experts, inflation-conscious young Americans—and some older ones—have begun going "back to the land" in many states.

Some are deserting cities and towns and buying farms (often a risky venture). Many are swapping good jobs for lower-pay rural work. Others are transferring their offices to farmhouses—and even converted barns.

But a larger number are going even more primitive. The reason isn't only inflation. They aim to do what pioneer Americans did—carve a living (and a house) from the land itself. And some have simply discovered the charm—and freedom—of rural life.

They tackle the job with vigor, grow food, build huts or houses from their own trees (or stone walls). They call themselves "homesteaders." The main difference is that pioneer homesteaders were given free public land. These rent or buy fields and forests.

Gaining momentum, the movement has spread coast to coast, though hampered in some areas by high prices and zoning laws. Unhappily, some refugees from cities are merely temporary escapists and squatters, and their unsightly shacks are unwelcome.

But many are responsible individuals, or couples with children—often people who have made a substantial living. (A surprising number are heirs to sizable fortunes—who find they enjoy the simpler life.) The wisest often locate "within shooting distance" of rural hamlets—for loneliness can destroy those too far from social contact.

They usually buy a cow, or goats, chickens—and a horse. And the first room in their new homes is often a root cellar—soon packed with "free" food.

Within an hour of this tiny Maine village are a score of homesteading couples: former teachers, an industrial designer, a photographer, and others.

In fact, interest is so great that the University of Maine has begun teaching homesteading in evening classes. Lectures at the Farmington campus last spring enrolled 20, with a waiting list of 50. Couples learn how to fell trees (without getting killed), keep bees (without getting stung), own goats (without being butted) and shoe horses (without getting kicked). Most important, they learn how to homestead—and stay out of debt.

Lean as Lincoln

The lecturer is Eugene Trudeau, 30, four years a homesteader. He has an Abe Lincoln leanness. Homesteading, he tells classes, is not for escapists or dreamers. "They usually fail," he warns. It's a business that demands 12 hours work a day from husband and wife. Children learn to pitch in and work, too. "A dozen jobs always need doing," Trudeau says.

Surprisingly, homesteading is proving a way to live without debt. It's also a way to acquire a house—dirt cheap—in an era when U. S. Housing Secretary Carla A. Hills warns that homes have become too expensive to buy (A recent study finds no one can afford a new house who earns less than $23,000).

Yet homesteader Trudeau and wife Carol—who learned by doing—are completing an eight-room tree-shaded house, and their cost to date—with some finishing to do—has been only $3000.

What's it like when you sell your house (or quit an apartment) and take the leap?

To find out, photographer Arthur Rothstein and I drove into the dark Maine woods to see the Trudeaus and the house they've built.

We tunneled in at crawl speed, bouncing our car over an old-fashioned corduroy road. First, we came to a clearing, a big garden, a barn under construction, and piles of new yellow boards, freshly cut and drying. In a pasture goats grazed. A rooster crowed. Then a little boy and girl came running.

Next came tall Gene Trudeau guiding a pony pulling a log. Then his slender, pretty wife Carol appeared. At last we saw the house. No shack, it towered among trees, 2½ stories tall. It looked solid as a rock. Inside, it had real style.

When Trudeau, a promising young photographer, quit his job to homestead, he sold his Connecticut house for $10,000 over mortgage. The Trudeaus packed a few things on a small truck, took along Michele, 9, and James, 8, their adopted son.

The Trudeaus' daughter, 9-year-old Michele, has mastered the technique of milking goats; their herd of six often frisks along on family walks.

Study manuals first

The decision to homestead had come after two years of study. Many manuals now are available—a must, Trudeau says, for homesteading is full of pitfalls for the unprepared.

"Some of our friends thought it was a wonderful idea," Trudeau says. "Some thought we were crazy. Our parents leaned toward the 'you're crazy' side. We knew we'd make some bad mistakes."

They did—right off the bat. They tried to fix up an abandoned family farm near Syracuse, N.Y. It didn't work.

"We didn't own it. Our heart wasn't in it," Trudeau says. "We learned our first lesson: your heart must be in your land."

Why do you smoke?

With what you've been hearing about smoking these days, you probably wonder sometimes why you smoke at all.

Yet you enjoy it.

Because smoking a cigarette can be one of those rare and pleasurable private moments.

And the chances are you don't want to give up any of that.

Which brings us to Vantage.

Vantage is the cigarette for people who don't entertain the idea of giving up cigarettes because they find cigarettes too entertaining.

Vantage is the cigarette for people who have come to realize that most cigarettes that give them the flavor they want also give them a lot of the 'tar' and the nicotine that they may not want.

Vantage is the cigarette for people who've found that most low 'tar' cigarettes don't give them anything at all.

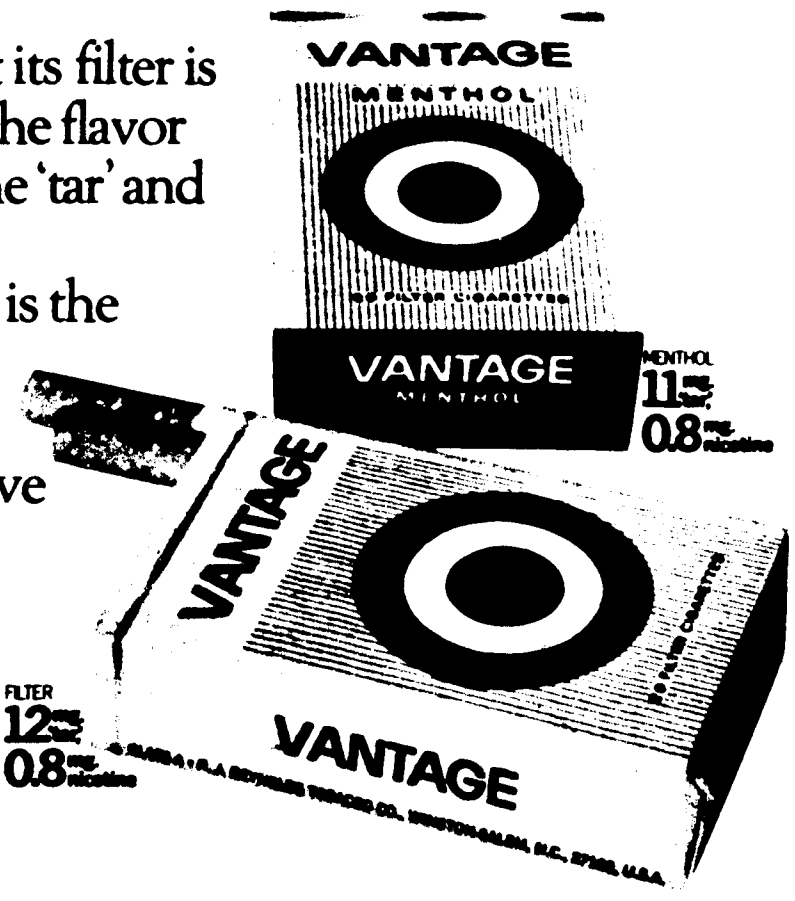

The thing that makes Vantage special is that its filter is based on a new design concept that gives smokers the flavor of a full-flavor cigarette without anywhere near the 'tar' and nicotine.

Now we don't want to suggest that Vantage is the lowest 'tar' and nicotine cigarette you'll find.

It isn't.

But it probably is the lowest one that will give you enjoyment.

And that's why you smoke. Right?

Warning: The Surgeon General Has Determined That Cigarette Smoking Is Dangerous to Your Health.

FILTER: 12 mg. "tar", 0.8 mg. nicotine, MENTHOL: 11 mg. "tar", 0.8 mg. nicotine, av. per cigarette, FTC Report MAR. '75.

Outside their finished 8-room house, the Trudeaus can tell the world they're debt free, living well at $2500 a year

So in a quick switch they drove 500 miles to Maine. For $125 an acre they found a forest they could buy with money from the sale of their house. The path in was overgrown. Mud sucked hip-boots off their feet. But at its end they found a sandy rise. Here, facing south, they would build their house and cut trees to let sunlight in.

They plunked down $5000 for "40 acres more or less." It proved to be less. "But it was the biggest day of our lives," Trudeau says. The next biggest day, weeks later, was when they moved into their new basement. The third was when they sold their excellent —but noisy—tractor and discovered the quiet strength of a horse. In an era when repair costs are skyrocketing, the horse was repair-free.

The lonely fire

Right after the land deal, Carol went back to live with her parents 400 miles away. Trudeau stayed to chop open a road and dig a foundation. It was a lonely time. He wrote Carol: "I've learned to lie here in my tent and shine my light on the ceiling. The mosquitoes go there. Then I kill them and get some sleep."

But rains came. It was weeks before he was ready to build. Carol and the children came and there were worries—rabid foxes were in the woods. The children had to be kept safe—a job for Carol and "Ty-ty" the dog. Someone nearby saw a bear. Twice Trudeau met huge moose.

For days Carol helped haul heavy cement blocks and mix mortar. Then she grabbed a shovel and helped Gene dig out the cellar —where the tractor had left off. She built sandpiles for the kids. She strung a line to four trees and hung out clothes.

Felled trees had to be twitched (dragged) uphill. Gene cut them to eight-foot logs. Carol would help him balance one on his back and he would struggle uphill.

No man can do this very long. He still had the tractor but it kept breaking down. He bought a team of horses, but buying horses is risky. These simply refused to work. That's when he swapped them—and the tractor—for a huge horse named Sugar Plum. Sugar Plum worked fine. Now Trudeau could also haul pulp wood for a mill. The income helped.

Big horses are expensive to feed. When the market for pulp wood collapsed, Trudeau left the children behind and drove Sugar Plum to town: another swap. He came back with a mighty little Shetland, Tony the Pony. Tony was a beautiful twitcher, cheap to feed, and the children loved him.

But he, like all working horses, lost horseshoes, and shoeing is costly. So Trudeau bought an anvil and hammer, got some advice, and learned to be a blacksmith.

Peeling trees proved one of their toughest tasks. Trudeau had an ancient peeling tool—a carpenter's drawknife. Sitting astride the first log, Carol tugged the wicked two-handled knife until the good yellow wood shone like sunlight. It would brighten their rooms.

Tony dragged logs to the new house. Gene and Carol stood them on end, fortress style. Then came hammering and chinking. The palisade walls began to rise.

Before she was through, Carol peeled and gave him a whole forest of 200 shining logs. Between times, she and the children harvested. She canned 200 jars of vegetables for winter. The root cellar was half full.

Then one night came sudden crisis. The roof was only partly on and Gene was high up on the boards rushing to finish the chimney. Carol had been helping him steady 50-pound cement blocks while he hoisted them and mortared them in place. As he put the last block in place he felt something wet touch his face. Suddenly, it was starting to snow. Winter had caught them too soon.

One problem in homesteading begets another. The unfinished house would be cold. If the new mortar froze, it would crumble. The chimney would have to come down. Without a chimney the new wood stove would not work. Trudeau smoothed the last mortar, then came scrambling down the ladder to start a fire to keep the chimney warm. The mortar didn't freeze. By luck, he'd finished the chimney just in time to start the fire.

Basement bivouac

To sleep at night, the Trudeaus now holed-up in the basement, dragging in a rug to cover the sand, then sleeping bags, and a bright oil lamp with a tall glass chimney.

For meals, they came up to the unfinished first floor where Carol had an old-fashioned kitchen wood stove. They put windows in, worked for days to fill up cracks with ship's caulking. By Thanksgiving they had one huge room—but no roof. They nailed tarpaper over the rough second-floor boards—and this kept out rain and snow. On wild nights the kitchen stove roared and glowed. (They had decided, for economy, that their house would have no electricity or oil furnace.)

That winter, Trudeau says, "other people worried about the economy. But we could see our piles of potatoes and carrots. Cabbages hung from the cellar ceiling. And all that canned food was like a fortune in gold. We were starting to feel an independence few people ever know."

At last, one spring day, they shook sand out of their sleeping bags and moved from the basement—into a book-lined living room with easy chairs and a huge picture window.

Roof on, money ran low. Now and then car repair bills hurt. "In the woods, $50 is a fortune," Trudeau says. He took a succession of small temporary jobs. Once or twice they borrowed $300, paid it back quickly. He ran a newspaper—but found it took too much time from homebuilding. So last winter he worked on the house all day then worked until dawn in a hatchery 30 miles away. He earned money shoeing other people's horses (to learn, he apprenticed for three months).

Leaving a family in the woods would worry some men, even with a dog and gun for protection. But Gene felt they were actually safer there. "They're used to the woods now," he says. The children, racing through forest and meadows, keep bringing in plants and flowers. They're growing strong—with frontier strength, laughter and the look of "inner harmony" that psychiatrists say is mental health. They feed chickens, know the thrill of finding two dozen eggs a day. They milk the goats—with ancient pranks such as squirting their father while milking.

"After three years we're finding a new kind of peace," Trudeau says. "We keep strong. We walk on soft ground—not concrete. The air smells good at night. Even the animals add something to our world. We think this is how men were meant to live."

Goats as puppies

Sometimes you can see six goats come trotting down the road with the Trudeaus, like so many happy children.

When the Trudeaus stroll back to the house, the big kitchen smells of hot bread. The rooms shine with dazzling oil lamps and are warm from a huge wood stove now in the basement. There's a den, dining bay with big picture window (salvaged from an old house), and the living-room-library. Upstairs are three bedrooms and an attic.

"So we've found a prosperous life—and it's brought us all closer together," Trudeau says. "We've been through so much."

But there's a dividend. Thanks to their "no-debt" policy they suddenly find themselves in danger of becoming wealthy. Thanks to the food they grow, Trudeau figures, it costs only $16 a week at the store to live and that includes feed for the animals. "But we sell $10 worth of milk and eggs," Trudeau adds. "So food really costs only $6 a week—for all of us." He figures the total family expense (including purchase of livestock) at $2500 a year.

The good news

Counting up money they haven't spent (in four years), Gene lists:

Item	Savings
Clothes	$ 800.00
Food	5600.00
Fuel oil	3000.00
Electricity	1500.00
Gasoline	600.00
Taxes (of all sorts)	4000.00
Hired help & repairmen	1200.00
Cars (by using old ones, with home-repairs)	3500.00
Lower insurance	1400.00
Total:	$21,600.00

But aren't the savings "in theory" only? Not at all, say the Trudeaus, for they were able to (1) buy land, (2) build, and (3) stay debt-free.

With a few more trimmings the house will be worth easily $30-35,000, even in Maine where prices are low.

They now own everything they use. Their house is all theirs. And other than small current items "we still don't owe anybody a nickel," says Gene.

TRUDEAU'S RULES

The University of Maine has engaged Eugene Trudeau to teach a special course in Homesteading—to young people and older couples, too. Here are his main rules for getting along:

1. "Take it slow and easy." Rushing from desk job or sedentary life into physical labor—under pressure—can kill enthusiasm (and you, too).

2. "Stay out of debt!" This, he says, is the most critical rule of all. "If necessary, live in a shack the first year—or a basement, as we did."

3. "Take some time off every week. It's absolutely vital," Trudeau says, "or you can run out of enthusiasm—and strength."

4. "Guard your health." Staying well is absolutely vital. One ill partner can derail the whole venture.

5. "When you buy land," be sure it has trees (or stone walls) so you will have 'free' building material.

Neighbors who come calling gather at the dining room table; Trudeaus say children James, 8, and Michele (both left) are building frontier strength.

SAVE THE WHALES!

THEY ARE BEING SLAUGHTERED TO EXTINCTION BY JAPANESE AND SOVIET WHALERS

BOYCOTT JAPANESE PRODUCTS

SUCH AS CARS, MOTORCYCLES, TELEVISIONS, STEREOS, CAMERAS

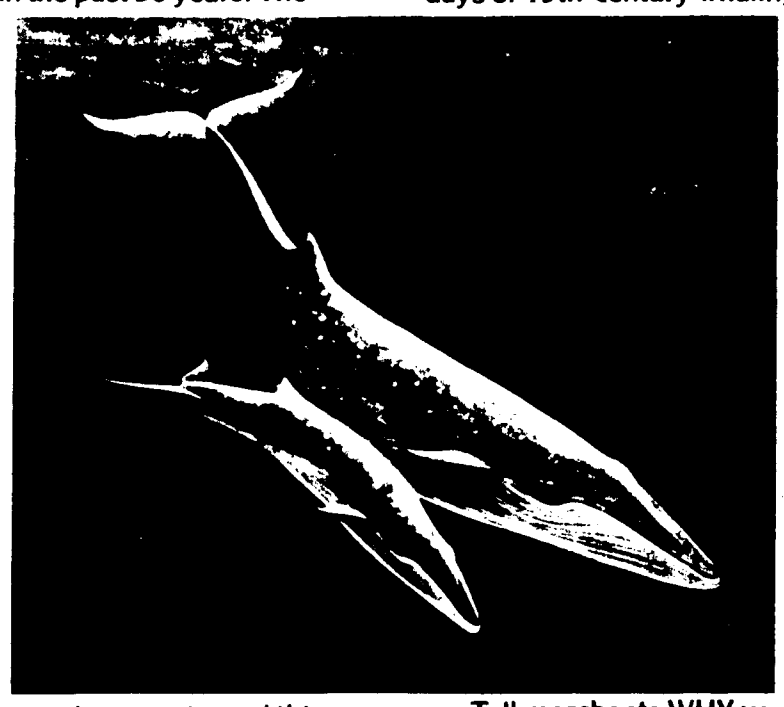

DON'T FLY JAPANESE AIR LINES
DON'T BUY RUSSIAN WINE AND VODKA

The great whales are being ruthlessly hunted to extinction by Japanese and Soviet whalers. Their vast whaling fleets use airplanes, helicopters, sonar and high-speed boats to chase down the terror-striken whales, then grenade-tipped harpoons blow up the whales in agonizing death. Every 14 minutes another of these gentle, intelligent animals dies.

The Japanese whaling companies are owned and controlled by the great manufacturing and trading companies that produce and market the vast array of Japanese products sold in America. For example, Nissan Motor Co., the maker of Datsun cars and trucks, has major whaling interests. Nissan's insurance affiliate, Nissan Fire and Marine Insurance, is the largest stockholder in Nippon Suisan, Japan's biggest whaling company. Nissan and the rest of the Japanese business community have done nothing to halt the whale slaughter. The Japanese and Soviet whalers account for 85% of the annual 40,000 whale kill. YOU CAN HELP SAVE THE WHALES BY REFUSING TO PURCHASE ANY JAPANESE AND RUSSIAN PRODUCTS UNTIL JAPAN AND THE SOVIET UNION AGREE TO STOP WHALING.

The whales are being killed to make mink food, fertilizer, cosmetics and lubricating oil. There are cheap substitutes for all these products.

More than 2,000,000 whales have been killed in the past 50 years. The economics of whaling are the economics of extinction. Species after species of whales has been driven to commercial extinction, one step from biological extinction. The blue whale, the greatest creature ever to live on Earth, was so overhunted that scientists now believe it cannot be saved.

NEXT: THE GRAY WHALES?

The whalers may soon aim their deadly harpoons at the California gray whales, the only species protected by special international treaty. New classifications by the International Whaling Commission would allow renewed killing of the gray whales. The Japanese IWC delegation has already been claiming the right to "harvest" the gray whales. And a representative of the Taiyo Fishery Co., one of the major Japanese whalers, recently made inquiries in California and Mexico about setting up whaling stations in the lagoons of Baja California. The magnificent spectacle of the annual gray whale migration, enjoyed by millions, could become another ghastly slaughter.

Japan and the Soviet Union have defied unanimous appeals by the United Nations, in 1972, 1973 and 1974, for a ten-year moratorium on whaling. The U.N. Food and Agriculture Organization last year issued this pessimistic report: "It is not realistic to presume (the whalers) will ensure either the maintenance or even the continued existence of a whale stock. It pays to exploit a resource excessively heavily, even to extinction, and not on a sustainable basis."

Japan and the Soviet Union have bitterly opposed all whale conservation measures recommended by independent scientists of the International Whaling Commission. The IWC, an industry-dominated organization, recently set new quotas that merely perpetuate the needless whale slaughter.

EMPEROR HIROHITO OF JAPAN IS NOW VISITING THE UNITED STATES. WRITE TO HIROHITO, WHO IS A DISTINGUISHED MARINE BIOLOGIST, AND URGE HIM TO USE HIS LEADERSHIP TO END WHALING IN JAPAN. HIS ADDRESS IS: EMBASSY OF JAPAN, 2520 MASSACHUSETTS AVE. N.W., WASHINGTON, D.C. 20008.

Congress is now considering legislation to bring economic pressure to bear against the whalers. Rep. Alphonzo Bell of California has introduced a bill (H.J. Res. 448) in the House calling for the immediate embargo of the products of all foreign enterprises engaged in commercial whaling. The embargo threat is aimed at the Japanese and Soviet fishing/whaling enterprises that each year export to the U.S. huge quantities of tuna, halibut, crab and caviar.

Sen. Warren Magnuson of Washington has introduced similar embargo legislation (S.J. Res. 81) in the Senate.

In response to the whalers' defiance, every major American conservation, environmental and humane group has joined to call for a boycott of Japanese and Soviet products. Until the whale slaughter is stopped, the boycott campaign will be pursued and publicized in all Japanese and Soviet markets.

SAYONARA WHALES

The fate of the great whales was foreseen more than a century ago by Herman Melville. The author of the whaling classic "Moby Dick" wrote: "The moot point is, whether Leviathan can long endure so wide a chase, and so remorseless a havoc; whether he must not at last be exterminated from the waters, and the last whale, like the last man, smoke his last pipe, and then himself evaporate in the final puff."

Jacques Cousteau, the famed French oceanographer, writes: "The only creatures on earth that have bigger—and maybe better—brains than humans are the Cetacea, the whales and dolphins. Perhaps they could one day tell us something important, but it is unlikely that we will hear it. Because we are coldly, efficiently and economically killing them off."

Modern whaling is a savage, ruthless exercise, nothing like the romantic days of 19th-century whaling. Here is an eyewitness description of modern whaling by Dr. Harry Lillie, who sailed as a ship's surgeon: "The present-day hunting harpoon is a horrible 150-pound weapon carrying an explosive head which bursts generally in the whale's intestines, and the sight of one of these creatures pouring blood and gasping along on the surface, towing a 400-ton catching vessel by a heavy harpoon rope, is pitiful. So often an hour or more of torture is inflicted before the agony ends in death. I have experienced a case of five hours and nine harpoons needed to kill one mother Blue Whale.

"If we could imagine a horse having two or three explosive spears driven into it, and then made to drag a heavy butcher's truck, while blood poured over the roadway until the animal collapsed an hour or more later, we should have some idea of what a whale goes through."

THE WHALES NEED YOUR HELP

Please support the boycott. If a product says MADE IN JAPAN or MADE IN U.S.S.R., don't buy it. Purchase goods made elsewhere.

Tell merchants WHY you are boycotting Japanese and Russian products and urge them to stock goods made in other countries.

Tell your friends about the plight of the whales and how they can help. The more people who act NOW, the sooner we can halt the slaughter that is driving the great whales to extinction. The fate of the great whales must be decided by mankind, not by a greedy few. Extinction is the ultimate crime against Nature.

You can help save the whales and publicize the boycott campaign by making a TAX-DEDUCTIBLE CONTRIBUTION to the Save The Whales Campaign. If you believe in this effort, please give generously.

For a donation of $10 or more, you will receive a beautiful four-color lithographed print (11" x 14"), suitable for framing, of the Sei Whales above from the original painted by renowned marine life artist Richard Ellis.

TAKE A LOOK AT THESE NEW IDEAS FOR YOUR HOME AND FAMILY ■ BY PETER DRYDEN

WATER-BASED VARNISH: Claimed to be as easy to apply with brush or roller as any latex paint, a new clear varnish satin finish has water as its primary solvent. It's milky in appearance while being applied, helping to avoid skips and misses, dries to a clear finish in an hour, can be custom-tinted. You can use it to seal in stain colors, create mellow patinas and durable wearing surfaces for wood furniture, doors, paneling and woodwork. $2.87 a pint; $4.49 a qt. in stores. PPG Industries, Dept. PP, 1 Gateway Center, Pittsburgh, Pa. 15222.

CORD HIDER: One way to keep extra lengths of electrical cord off the floor and out of sight is with this plastic device that also has a snap lock on its cover to protect children from outlets. To install, loosen screw in present wall socket, slide base behind plate, tighten, then wind excess cord around base and replace cover. $2 ppd. Bell Co., Dept. PP, 2453-D Montrose Ave., Montrose, Calif. 91020. (above)

WIRELESS SECURITY: A new home and office system for detecting intruders and sounding an alarm needs no wires and comes assembled, ready for use, so you can install it without tools. The system consists of sensors —tiny, self-contained radio transmitters— that send a coded signal to a master control unit—a radio receiver with built-in siren alarm and on/off controls. Starter set, with master control, 3 sensors, and a Personal Emergency Transmitter you can carry with you: $189.50. Extra sensors: $12.50 each Phone-Mate, Inc., Dept. PP, 325 Maple Ave., Torrance, Calif. 90503.

A MAGNIFIER FOR YOUR GLASSES: You may find a new 2X magnifying lens for your regular eyeglasses useful for needlework, fine print, fly fishing, hobby work. A suction cup mount makes it easy to put on and take off, and it swivels in and out of the sight path. $1.49 or 2 for $2.75 ppd. Treasure House, Dept. PP, Box 53, Cedar Grove, N. J. 07009.

NEW KIND OF FLOORING: Here's a cushioned vinyl sheet flooring you should find unusually easy to install yourself. You can fasten it around the edges of a room with a staple gun—and cement the edges where a gun can't reach (such as under kitchen cabinet overhang) or where there is no molding to hide staples. The material is so flexible it folds like a blanket and can be transported in the back seat of a car. It's also elastic so any slack or wrinkles caused by too loose a trim when it's cut to room size disappear over a few hours and if it's undercut, it can be stretched. In 6 and 12-ft. widths in two patterns, each in four colors. Details: Armstrong Cork Co., Dept. PP, Lancaster, Pa. 17604. (above)

Keeping Up... With Youth

by Pamela Swift

Call to Action

With no war, no draft, no civil rights movement, no black power demonstrations, today's college students are left with the feeling that there are no issues.

One UCLA sophomore recently complained to this column that "the only hot issue on campus these days is who can do the most titillating bump."

Former Sen. Eugene McCarthy, who epitomized youth's opposition to the Vietnam war, disagrees. McCarthy says that today's students have an even greater responsibility than the students of 1968 to act on political issues that face the country. Those issues, he declared at the 28th National Student Congress in Washington, D.C., "are less emotional than the issues of the 1960's. Yet they are just as important—perhaps even more important."

What are those issues? According to McCarthy: "The stagnation of the two-party system" and "the militarism which continues even though the Vietnam war has ended."

Frenchwomen Shortchanged

Young women in France spend considerably more years in school than French men but their superior academic qualifications do not reward them with substantial pay or responsible jobs, according to a statistical study published in the monthly Le Monde de l'Education.

France's social customs deny women job equality, says the report. For example, there are no women university presidents among France's 75 institutions of higher education.

OLIVIA HUSSEY AND DINO MARTIN BEFORE THEY SPLIT

Another Chance for Olivia

Eight years ago Italian film director Franco Zeffirelli signed an unknown 16-year-old English girl from Wimbledon to star in his screen version of "Romeo and Juliet."

The film was a hit, and Olivia Hussey moved to Hollywood where she met Dino Martin, young tennis-playing son of comic Dean Martin.

Dino and Olivia, despite warnings that they were too young, got married. Dino, not the most brilliant student in the world, transferred from Santa Monica City College to UCLA to the University of Southern California. He was arrested for illegally purchasing firearms without a federal license but his father's lawyers got him out of that scrape.

Soon Olivia became pregnant, gave birth to their son, Alexander, now 2. The young couple became estranged after a series of differences, and Olivia returned to England.

Last month, still convinced of Olivia's acting talent, Franco Zeffirelli signed her to play the role of the Virgin Mary in a religious TV spectacular on the life of Jesus Christ. It will be aired next year.

MY FAVORITE jokes

by FRANK DARLING

EDITOR'S NOTE: When Frank Darling comes out on stage he sometimes does zany bits. He might, for instance, suddenly grab a tablecloth, wrap it around his head, and pretend he's Lawrence of Arabia.

Darling does impressions in his monologues and also likes to recreate in comedy some of the more nostalgic moments of domestic life.

He's entertained at the Fontainebleau in Miami Beach, Fla.; The Friar Tuck and Villagio Italia, in the Catskill Mountains, and on the Griffin and Tonight shows on television.

Here are some of his jokes and stories:

The guy gives him a shot of booze—he spits it out and says: "That's godawful," goes outside to get on his horse and sees that someone's painted his horse lavender. He's steaming, so he goes into the saloon and says: "Okay, who's the wise guy who painted my horse lavender?" A fella 7 foot tall steps up and says: "I did." The horseman says: "Oh, I just wanted to tell you the first coat's dry!"

At school for chauffeurs: a quick 180-degree turn, executed by car in foreground, throws off pursuers. The maneuver could protect an executive from a kidnapping that might cost millions in ransom money—or even his life.

Training Chauffeurs to Foil Kidnappers

by George Hower

SONOMA, CAL.

A hilly, winding country road. No traffic, no witnesses. Suddenly, a Mercedes speeds over the crown of the hill. A second later a pursuing car crests the hill.

The Mercedes hurtles down toward a hairpin turn and the driver cramps the steering wheel to the right.

But the Mercedes—instead of spinning into the turn and then off the road—goes only halfway around and then speeds off in the direction from which it came.

The chase car brakes to a halt; its driver has gone too far into the turn to reverse his field.

If this had been a kidnap attempt—either here, or in one of several foreign countries where corporate kidnapping has increased in the last few years—you could have scored the attempt this way:

Chauffeur 1, Kidnappers 0

The chauffeur in this case was Bob Bondurant, internationally known sportscar driver who teaches an anti-kidnap course for corporate chauffeurs at the Sears Point International Raceway, 30 miles north of San Francisco.

Bondurant wasn't alone in the Mercedes when he executed the evasive maneuver. A corporate chauffeur, playing the role of endangered executive and getting the chance to see how a pro would work his way out of a trap, sat in the back seat in the second day of a course that covers three days. The course actually covers 2½ day sessions and one night session.

The next night, Bondurant's student was behind the wheel alone. It was his final exam. All he knew was at some point one of Bondurant's instructors would give chase in another car in a simulated kidnap chase.

Then the other car emerged from the darkness. A wild chase followed at speeds up to 90 miles per hour.

Bondurant's student saw the opportunity to do a 180-degree turn. He locked the rear wheels by applying the handbrake, released it when the car stopped, and raced off in the same direction he'd come.

By the time the pursuer reacted, the chauffeur had found a spot to pull off, turned off the lights, and waited. Minutes later, the pursuer sped by without noticing the parked car.

The chauffeur had passed the test, and the 23 corporations that have sent more than 40 drivers to Bondurant's anti-kidnap driving school hope their drivers do as well.

The driving course was born in the wake of a number of kidnappings of industrial executives the world over.

Argentine guerrillas, for instance, have seized executives of foreign firms and ransomed them for huge sums. As early as 1973, there were 170 kidnappings in Argentina.

Executive kidnapping has spread to Mexico, Venezuela, Colombia, and Italy. Multinational corporations are increasingly concerned and want to be prepared, too, if the kidnapping spreads to the United States.

Companies are reluctant to say how many times they've been terrorized or what they're doing to prevent it, but it has been reported that Ford, Kodak, Coca-Cola, ITT, Otis Elevator Company, Esso, Fiat, Philips Lamp, and Firestone Tire and Rubber Co. have had people seized.

"Just over a year ago," Bondurant says, "a major oil company came to me and asked if I could put together a program to teach their drivers to drive more aggressively, learn skids, learn emergency and evasive maneuvers, and set up something that would teach them to outrun someone if a kidnap attempt occurred."

Bondurant borrowed techniques from the five-day program he gives to professional and amateur auto racers, from his stunt-driving course for movie and television drivers, and from his pursuit course for police.

Bondurant's students do not want to give their names, tell whom they drive for, or want their pictures taken.

On the day PARADE watched Bondurant perform evasive maneuvers the chauffeur in the back seat was identified only as "Dave."

"I work for a major company," was all Dave would say.

But Dave—who has been a corporate chauffeur for seven years—did admit he is a former motorcycle policeman, and that tells you something about the changing job requirements for some corporate chauffeurs.

'All the skids'

Corporate chauffeurs begin with what Bondurant describes as "a lot of basic training—weight transfer, cornering techniques, trailering brake, how to set the car up for the corner. We also teach them all the skids."

Doing skids that make the tires smoke and screen is part of the escape technique.

"Say you're following me and I go around a corner, go down the road, and you follow," Bondurant says. "I'll lock the rear brakes with the hand brake, do a 180 degree spin, and go right by you.

"By the time you finally realize what's happening, tenths of seconds are ticking off and—if you're capable—you might be able to get around.

"More than likely, you're going to go wide and into the turn and go over the curb or into the oncoming traffic."

Another trick is used when you try to force a Bondurant-trained driver off the road.

Reverse and accelerate

"As I'm coming to a stop, I'm going to put the car into reverse, accelerate, do a reverse 180, and take off down the road in the opposite direction.

"That's an extremely good one because if you time things, you wait for the guy to open his car door. It's going to take him much longer to get back onto his car and get reoriented. Too, he may have killed the engine. Anything might have happened."

Bondurant also teaches chauffeurs to twist the steering wheel in a way that will slam the backend of the car into the pursuer and knock him off the road or into oncoming traffic.

After designing the course and teaching the first few classes, Bondurant turned the instruction over to Ron Southern, 27, a sports car racer.

Corporate chauffeurs, the two agree, come to the class as basically conservative drivers.

Because of their backgrounds—limousine drivers, corporate chauffeurs, or chauffeurs for the wealthy or prominent—they've been taught "to take it easy, drive smoothly, don't spill the coffee in the back seat," Bondurant says. "We teach them to be just the opposite, to be aggressive, but with control."

Says Southern: "We have a great number of corporation drivers who came from New York or Chicago who were cab drivers. And they're fearless."

Not all do well

Chauffeurs in Bondurant's executive driving school are graded; some do so poorly they've lost their jobs.

Safe driving, predictably enough, is stressed as much as the cops and robbers aspect of the training.

Drivers learn about skid techniques on a tarmac strip covered with oil and water. Skid pad training, Southern claims, also prepares chauffeurs for emergencies on icy roads.

"Most chauffeurs, and they share this with most drivers on the road today, wouldn't know what to do if their car started to slide at 40 to 50 miles an hour in the middle of the freeway. These guys do, because they've done it."

And, like Dave the former motorcycle cop turned corporate chauffeur, they've also taken the final exam—ditching a pursuer at speeds up to 90 miles per hour in the dark.

Argentine Juan Born, 41, kidnapped and held with his brother nine months. The price of their freedom—$60 million.

Cover: Meara-McShane

Anne Meara is best known in the entertainment world as the wife half of the husband-wife comedy team, Stiller and Meara.

Even when each member of the team has done individual work it usually has been in the comedy field, with a few exceptions.

Both, however actually began their careers as dramatic performers, and played principal roles in the Shakespeare in the Park company in New York and off-Broadway.

So perhaps it was not unexpected that Anne would return to the dramatic, and this season she is the star of her own dramatic series, "Kate McShane," on CBS in the catch-all hour of 10 p.m., Wednesdays.

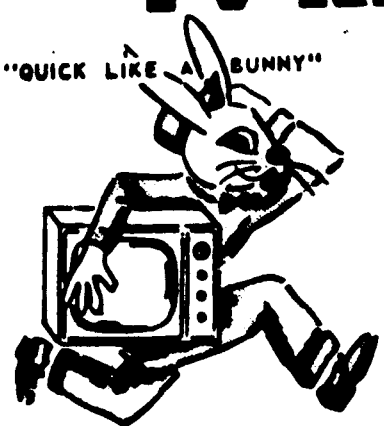

She, of course, plays an attorney with her own form of bite. Strangely enough she comes right up against another unusual attorney who had a hard TV row to hoe last season as "Petrocelli" on NBC.

While "Kate McShane" is the darling of a good many critics so far the audience vote seems to be pretty evenly split between the two legal beagles, unfortunately behind the new abc entry, "Starsky and Hutch," which is topping ratings in the hour.

Pot Shots

By LARRY DISTEL
TV MAGAZINE EDITOR

First off, at Channel 7.

It's very difficult to understand how come this channel owned and operated by ABC, could schedule a movie such as "Panic in Needle Park" at 3:30 p.m. as it recently did.

That is the very hour in which the ABC network usually spots its afterschool specials, presumably with full realization that the young folks are home from school and might just be watching television.

And this fall has marked the debut of the so-called "family hour" during the early evening hours of 7 to 9 p.m., not only on the TV networks, but also for individual stations supporting the broadcaster-initiated policy.

Seems that if 7 to 9 should be reserved for family viewing, it would be much more logical that 3:30 should also be so limited.

"Panic in Needle Park" it would seem ought to be on any list of movies not to be shown during the family hour. Following through, it certainly was poor judgment to air it at mid-afternoon.

Incidentally, I am often asked why TV logs do not warn against movies perhaps not suitable for family viewing, the youngsters, etc.

I guess I have said before that it is difficult, if not unseemly, for anyone to serve as judge and jury in such a way. Also there is the difficulty that few would be qualified to judge on all movies available to TV.

But the biggest problem of all is that even if one might be familiar with the movies as shown in theaters, one can not be sure what trimming may have been done for TV — either for subject matter, or to fit time allocations.

It's obvious to any steady movie watcher on TV that a great movie in the theater can be converted into a poor one by cuts for TV, or at best a jerky one to permit insertion of commercials.

This is beside the point of cutting out possible objectionable scenes, but even that can be done in some cases without hurting the movie. As for "Panic in Needle Park," it wouldn't seem possible to accomplish that because of the basic theme of the whole thing.

Pot shots, too, at TV in general (and no one on particular) for the handling of its news programs.

The TV industry, or some facets of it, often cite the need for more time on their news programs to cover all the news available — and we all know that news programs have grown steadily from the old 15

THE BIG DIFFERENCE IN SECOND TRUST DEED LOANS:

13.68% RELIABLE'S TYPICAL ANNUAL PERCENTAGE RATE

18% OTHER'S TYPICAL ANNUAL PERCENTAGE RATE

Not all second trust deed loans cost the same. That's why the Federal Government has given you a foolproof way of comparing the cost of any loan... the Annual Percentage Rate... the only rate that gives you your overall cost. The lower the rate, the lower the cost.

Most other companies ask you to pay an Annual Percentage Rate up around 18%. That's because they charge you 10% interest, a maximum commission and give you a short time to repay. Not us. Our interest rate is lower (9¾%), our commission is lower, and we give you more time – 8 years – to fully repay your loan, including principal and interest. We offer you an Annual Percentage Rate of 13.68%.

The figures look like this. For every $1,000 you borrow you pay only $15.05 a month. The total of payments is $1,444.80. You can choose a shorter term loan at a proportionately higher Annual Percentage rate. Naturally, you can pay off your loan at any time by paying interest on the balance in accordance with state law.

You may borrow from $1,000 to $50,000 on a first or second trust deed loan – on any real estate anywhere in California. On the average, you'll have your loan in 10 days.

No gimmicks. No double-talk. We just think it's good business to give you the facts... and more money for your money.

LOSE WEIGHT WITHOUT DIETING

When you are on a diet, whether with a clinic or by yourself, you are always looking forward to the day you can eat normally again. When normal eating is resumed, the weight that was lost frequently returns and usually more.

The De Romaine clinic, however, uses a plan to achieve weight loss without going on a diet, thus when you lose the weight it is permanent, as you have lost the weight while eating normally.

Instead of being frustrated with the worry of staying on a diet, lose weight by following this unique method. The De Romaine plan allows you to eat as frequently as you wish, as long as you follow certain basic principles of the plan.

This scientific medical plan is unique. Enjoy the pleasures of eating the food you enjoy most, yet become thin.

I deplore the various writers and entertainers who insert their political opinions in supposedly non-political shows. I really resent at my age having the Smothers brothers, Cher and still "wet-behind-the-ears" writers inserting their political gigs into everything from "Ironside," "The Waltons," comedies, specials and cartoons. Wish we could be warned in advance about such things in shows so I could turn them out. So far, I like "Barney Miller" because it has none of that. — J.C., Huntington Beach

In Southern California alone there are an estimated 50,000 alcoholics under the age of 18
Not just drinkers but full fledged alcoholics
Compounding this tragic statistic is the attitude of many parents who'd rather see their kids drink than take drugs
Tonight at 7pm we'll take a closer look at teenage alcoholism
There will be no speeches No preaching No scare tactics
Just an honest search for a way to prevent alcoholism before it starts

Saturday Highlights

Daytime schedules on NBC and ABC will depend today on time and site of the opening game of the World Series. If the baseball game is played on the East Coast it will be on the NBC schedule in the morning, if on the West Coast in early afternoon. ABC, to avoid conflict, will schedule telecast of the Michigan-Michigan State football game accordingly. A morning baseball game on NBC will be followed by football at 12:30 p.m. on ABC. If baseball is played in the afternoon on NBC, the football game will be played on ABC at 9:30 a.m. Other programming on both networks also will be affected.

minutes up to two and a half hour segments in some cases today.

Yet we continue to see banter that takes up time, and seemingly more and more, we see time spent on telling us what the segment after the commercials will cover.

It would seem to me that if the anchorpersons would stop talking about what's coming next, it would be possible to present more news on a program.

Isn't it unfair for certan newscasts to say "next" or "coming" and perhaps the item cited might be something like 15 minutes away and not in the next segment of news at all?

Final pot shot: First program cancelled was "Fay," and the announcement was not even made public before its star Lee Grant was claiming the program was the victim of the "family hour," which she termed "censorship."

The critics loved "Fay." But it had one inconsistency, I thought. If this Fay girl was so darned smart, how come she spent 24 years married to such a slob as her husband was portrayed?
